K. R. S. Report Hits Control By the Crown

British Distributors in Attack on Moyne

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, March 23.—The annual report of the Kinematograph Renters' Society, just issued, contains an outspoken criticism of the recommendation in the Moyne report on the Films Act for the establishment of an official films commission.

Stressing that the main object of the Moyne Committee was the encouragement of British production but that the suggested powers of the films commission amount to "initiative and control" over a much wider field, the report states that the recommendation under this head, "is important for the whole industry, British and American alike, and, if accepted by the Government, will have far-reaching effects upon the progress of the industry, many of which may be the reverse of beneficial.

"Having regard to the national importance of the industry," the report continued, "it may be that a more intimate contact on the part of the Government with the industry is considered essential, and such contact, properly organized, might be productive of good results, but one does view with grave misgivings for the

Pennsylvania 6-Day Theatre Bill Signed

HARRISBURG, March 31.—A bill requiring theatres to give employes at least one full day a week off, which was sponsored by Representative John Yourishin of Luzerne, was signed by Governor Earle today. Most metropolitan theatres in the state are already on a six-day week for employes but a number of houses in rural districts will be affected.

Paley Is All Smiles as CBS Captures 4 of 6 Air Awards

William S. Paley, president of CBS, arose with monotonous regularity from his seat on the dais at the Women's National Radio Committee luncheon at the St. Regis yesterday afternoon to accept the parchment scrolls of honor awarded to programs on his network. Paley, however, obviously did not mind, for his smile grew increasingly wider with each award.

Of the six programs selected to receive the Women's National Radio Committee's annual awards, four were CBS programs. The remaining two were NBC. In addition to the six scheduled awards, two previously unannounced were presented. One went to WOR-Mutual for its outstanding contribution to serious music through its presentation of the Stadium concerts and operas during the past summer. The other surprise award went to Dr. Walter Damrosch, dean of American musicians, in recognition of his service to music through radio.

The award winners were:

1. Best musical program—The Ford Motor Co. for its "Sunday Evening Hour," broadcast on CBS.
2. Best variety program—Rudy Vallee's "Varieties," sponsored by Standard Brands, and broadcast Thursdays on the NBC-Red network. This program received a similar award last season.
3. Best educational program—NBC's Chicago University "Round Tables," broadcast Sundays as a sustaining program on the Red.
4. Best news program—Philco Radio and Television Corp. for Boake Carter's news presentations broadcast five times each week on CBS.
5. Best children's program—CBS for its sustaining series "Children's Corner," presented by Dorothy Gordon three times weekly.
6. Best drama program—Lever Bros., for the "Lux Radio Theatre," broadcast Mondays on CBS.

Additionally, several programs received honorable mention. They were: General Motors Symphony, winner of a 1935 award, presented on

FHA Modernization Loans Discontinued

WASHINGTON, March 31.—F.H.A. Loans for modernization and repair were discontinued tonight with the expiration of title of the National Housing Act, bringing to a conclusion the emergency activities of the administration.

Under the modernization loan plan, put into effect in August, 1934, more than 1,000 theatre loans totaling approximately $2,500,000 were made for alterations, repairs, decorating, improvements and new equipment.

Because of improved economic conditions, particularly in the construction industry which this portion of the act primarily sought to assist, no consideration was given to continuance of the modernization loan plan.

Brecher Urges Roxy Increase Admission

Prices at the Roxy should be raised to the level maintained at the Capitol and Paramount if the theatre obtains the 20th Century-Fox franchise under consideration, Leo Brecher, local theatre operator, testified yesterday in the hearings on the Roxy reorganization plan before Special Master Addison S. Pratt.

Ontario Orders Ban Upon March of Time

TORONTO, March 31.—The Ontario Board of Censors today banned the March of Time releases because they do not contain the required 35 per cent of British and Canadian news subjects, under the Ontario regulations covering topical films.

The announcement of the ban came from O. J. Silverthorne, chairman of the board today.

Ralph Rolan, March of Time executive in New York, declared yesterday that the ban on the reel was ordered two years ago, in February, 1935, following the release there of the first two issues, which were then handled by First Division here and

New Warner District Head Will Be Named

Report Loew Will Expand Circuit Here

Say Several Sites Are Under Consideration

Loew's is reported in a new move to expand its circuit locally. Several sites are understood to be under consideration, but no negotiations have been started, it is said. The move will be a combination of new building and acquisition of theatres already in operation, it is reported.

Within the past few months, Loew's has acquired the Cameo, New Rochelle, a small theatre formerly operated by an independent. The circuit is now building a 1,100-seat house at Fenton Ave. and Boston Road, which is expected to be completed by next August. Loew's Fenton probably will be the name.

In line with a policy adopted some time ago, the name of Loew's is gradually being added to many of its present properties. The "A" Poli houses in Bridgeport, Hartford, Meriden, New Haven, Springfield, Waterbury, and Worcester, Mass., now have the name of Loew's before the Poli. Other houses in the New England group will add the circuit name from time to time.

Preparations are being made to reopen the Plaza, Worcester, some time this month. Harry Shaw, Loew's division manager in New England, has returned to New Haven after conferring with home office executives on the theatre earlier in the week.

Tri-States-Blank Merger Pact Near

The plaintiffs allege that they are confronted with unfair competition because Loew's first run neighborhood has changed its week split to five and two days instead of four and three days as heretofore.

Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount vice-president, said yesterday on his return to the city from the south.

The new combination would include more than 70 theatres in Iowa, Nebraska and southern Illinois. The agreement would also place Blank's operations in connection with Paramount on a permanent basis through the elimination of the option under which Paramount was privileged to repurchase Blank's half interest in the circuit. This is the last of the theatre operating deals made by Paramount which includes the stock repurchase option.

The terms of the new agreement with Blank may be completed within the next two or three weeks, Freeman said. A 60-day extension of the present agreement, now in force, expires May 6.

Denver Moves Shift First Run Control

Denver, March 31. — With the acquisition of the seven Harry Huffman houses on long-term leases, Intermountain Theatres invades the downtown first run situation for the first time. Policies of the former Huffman houses will be retained. Intermountain now has a total of 60 in this territory, 12 of which are in Denver. Gerald Whitney has been promoted from city manager to manager of the northern district. William Agren will be city booker.

Brecher Urges Roxy Increase Admissions

drew from Brecher the statement that long term franchises are subject to considerable uncertainty. The Roxy plan contemplates a 20-year first run franchise with 20th Century-Fox. Brecher revealed that he may attempt to obtain a first run franchise from 20th Century-Fox if the Roxy deal fails. He expressed the opinion that the proposed plan is perfect and said that he could suggest no improvements.

Brecher declared 20th Century-Fox received a minimum rental of $2,500 with a 50-50 split on grosses over $30,000 for films shown at the Roxy during 1936. He estimated the receipts for the past six months at between $40,000 and $45,000 weekly. The proponents of the plan are expected to finish their case this week, when objecting bondholders will present their evidence.

future the setting up of a control board having bureaucratic powers."

Expressing doubt whether a "cure all" will be found in Government assistance, the report suggests that any legislation should in the first instance deal with producers only. "If," it says, "attempts are made to control or shepherd production along certain lines by legislation, the producers . . . are either safeguarded by monopoly or they are forced to take measures and arrange the methods by which their predominant financial position may be maintained."

The membership on Dec. 31, last was 25, with three resignations and two new members elected during the year.

In the list of council members, not in the report, both Fox Films Co., Ltd., and Gaumont British Distributors are eliminated.

Maxwell Combining Names of Companies

Censor in Australia Asks Quality Clause

By CLIFF HOLT

Sydney, March 11.—The inclusion of a quality clause in the British quota law was urged by Cresswell O'Reilly, Australian censor, in his annual report for 1936. A quality clause, he said, "would appear to be eminently desirable and would help to raise standards of British films."

He declared that pictures have shown marked improvement in entertainment value and technical quality, and that British films varied from a censorship and entertainment standpoint more than the product of other countries.

Only eight films from all countries were rejected during the year out of a total importation of 1,684 films of all classes. Of these 1,084 came from the United States and 489 from the United Kingdom. Nineteen films were rejected in the first instance, 11 of which were subsequently passed either on appeal or after cutting. Comparative figures show that 64.4 per cent of films were imported from the United States and 29 per cent from the United Kingdom, practically the same as in the previous year. The percentage of rejections from the United Kingdom was 2.9 as against 1.4 from the United States.

Police Act on Bingo

Toronto, March 31.—Charity Bingo games, the bane of theatre owners in Ontario, have been officially discouraged by the police of Toronto, Hamilton Windsor.

Second Theatre Bill Now Up in Wisconsin

Madison, Wis., March 31.—A companion bill to the theatre divorcement measure presented in the Senate by Allied has been introduced in the House by Assemblyman Earl Hall of Monroe.

The Senate bill is still in the hands of the Committee on State and Local Government, which has not turned in its recommendation on the measure following a recent hearing. The Senate bill is identical with the Assembly measure.

Abolish Washington Tax

Seattle, March 31.—The state of Washington tax of one cent on all theatre admissions of 10 cents has been abolished. Governor Clarence D. Martin, in signing a Senate bill as passed by the recent session of the legislature, has decreed that the charge shall end on July 1 of this year. The bill does not change in any other regard the present five per cent admission tax on all amusements.

Of 10 bills affecting the industry in the session just ended, only one, requiring fireproof projection booths for the showing of films in any public meeting place, failed to pass despite exhibitor efforts. Action on the

Hold Hartford Petitions

Hartford, March 31.—Thirty thousand petitions asking for Sunday afternoon shows signed by patrons of local theatres two months ago, are still on file in the office of Henry Neeles, Warner district manager. Addressed to the mayor, they probably will not be used until a bill authorizing early openings throughout the state comes up for hearing before a legislative committee. Hearings were first scheduled for March 18, but were postponed because of the M.. P.

Connecticut Bills Up

Hartford, March 31. — Hearings have been scheduled for April 8 by the House Judiciary Committee on several bills affecting the industry. Two would require two men in a booth and two others would permit Sunday vaudeville. The finance committee will hold a hearing April 13 on a proposed 10 per cent tax on theatre tickets to be paid by patrons.

Propose New Maine Taxes

Augusta, Me., March 31.—A tax on billboards has been proposed in the Maine legislature. The proposed levy is 50 cents a square foot on outdoor advertising boards.

Theatre admissions are also threatened by two other bills, one to tax each ticket one cent and another to tax all tickets and passes 10 per cent.

Kill Albany Seating Bill

Albany, March 31.—The Asembly Codes Committee has killed the Rossi bill prohibiting the sale of a seat in public assembly without having one actually available and making the penalty not less than $24 or more than $100. As there is no companion bill in the Senate this means the bill is dead for this year.

Wants Picketing Defined

Boston, March 31.—A bill to define and legalize picketing has been filed by Morris Berson of Boston who claims that, with strikes breaking out all around, picketing is not properly defined on the statute books.

Too Much Delay

Providence, March 31.—There is only one thing wrong with "Maytime," according to Mrs. Isaac N. Eddy, 84, and that is that Nelson Eddy's entrance is delayed a bit.

Mrs. Eddy is Nelson's grandmother and she was given a royal reception when she attended the opening of the film at Loew's State. She posed for pictures, spoke over the radio and had a grand time. She is not a bit hesitant in telling the world that her favorite actor is Nelson Eddy.

Denver Defers Vote Upon Daylight Time

Denver, March 31.—Because of the controversial nature of the issue, the City Council has tabled an ordinance that would legalize daylight saving time in Denver. The council wants to test public sentiment further.

Denver tried daylight time in 1920, and the next spring when it was put to a vote, the daylight time was dropped by a huge majority. Radio stations want it, as it will lessen the confusion of making over schedules to conform with daylight time in the east, where most of the chain programs originate.

Theatres are against it.

Savini to Reissue Films

Robert M. Savini of Atlantic Pictures has closed a deal with the Pickford Corp., whereby Atlantic will reissue "Rain," "Street Scene," "The Locked Door" and "The Bat Whispers," in the U. S., Canada, Hawaii and Alaska. The films will be distributed through Atlantic franchise-holding exchanges at the rate of one a month starting May 1.

Chicago, March 31.—More than 100 friends of James A. Coston joined in paying him tribute at a testimonial dinner in the House On The Roof at the Hotel Sherman.

It was the anniversary of his seventh year with the Warner circuit as zone manager.

NBC; Wallenstein's "Sinfonietta," Mutual; Kraft "Music Hall," presented on NBC; George V. Denny's "American Town Meeting of the Air," an NBC award winner last year; "Metropolitan Opera" broadcasts, NBC; Lowell Thomas, NBC; H. V. Kaltenborn, CBS; Kathryn Craven, CBS; "Wilderness Road," children's program award winner last year, CBS; and "Singing Lady," NBC.

Presentation of the awards and brief speeches from Paley, Alfred J. McCosker, Mutual president; Margaret Cuthbert, director of women's activities, NBC and Mme. Yolanda Mero-Irion, president of the Women's National Radio Committee, were broadcast on NBC, CBS, and Mutual networks.

Mrs. William H. Corwith, Chairman of the Awards Committee, made the presentations. In her talk Mme. Mero-Irion denied the oft-repeated allegation that the organization was a "reform" or "highbrow" group.

"We are in actuality a few million intelligent American women who are conscious of the infinite possibilities of radio for good and bad." She added that the committee had worked quietly for the past three years at improving radio standards, and that there were definite evidences of progress.

Continuing, Mme. Mero-Irion pleaded with the agency and network officials not to underrate the level of intelligence of the radio audience. "We do not want to be fed programs which are concocted from 25 per cent sentimental bosh, 25 per cent loud jazz, 25 per cent low comedy, and 25 per cent pure nonsense," she concluded.

Seated on the dais were Radio Committee officials, Mrs. Francis D. Pollak, Mrs. Ruth Haller Ottaway, Mme. Mero-Irion, Mrs. Corwith, Mrs. Harold Vincent Milligan, Mrs. Edgar B. Meritt, and McCosker, Paley, Miss Cuthbert, Dr. Damrosch, Lucrezia Bori, Grover Whalen, Mrs. Vincent Astor, Vallee and Denny.

The Women's National Radio Committee represents 27 national groups of women's clubs and claims to represent 15,000,000 clubwomen. The Radio Committee was formed in September, 1934, and held its first annual awards luncheon that year.

Representatives of all the networks, as well as advertising agency executives with local offices, attended the luncheon.

Propose Amendment For Copyright Laws

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Amendment of the Copyright Law to provide specifically for infringements by broadcasting is proposed in legislation introduced in Congress by Senator Sheppard of Texas.

The measure would provide for assessment of damages by the courts, but would restrict responsibility and liability for the use of copyrighted material by networks to the originating station.

In the case of transcriptions and other records made exclusively for broadcasting purposes, responsibility would rest solely with the maker and his agents who distributed the discs to the broadcasters.

It is expected that the bill will be considered with other measures on copyright which have been introduced when the Senate Patents Committee holds hearings. No date has yet been set for copyright hearings, however.

"Showboat" May Go to Coast

Maxwell House "Showboat" stands a fifty-fifty chance of changing its point of origin to Hollywood, depending on Hershell Williams' report to the agency and client on his return here from the coast this weekend. Williams planed to the coast early this week to survey Hollywood possibilities for the program. Benton and Bowles is the agency.

To Revamp Ford Program

The NBC Ford Motor Co. "Universal Rhythm" program, which has undergone considerable revision since its network inception some months ago, will again be revamped beginning April 10, when Countess Olga Albani and the "Caroleers" leave the series. They will be replaced by Richard Bonelli and Alec Templeton. Rex Chandler's orchestra and the Landt Trio remain. N. W. Ayer is the agency.

Report Barrymore Program End

A reliable report has it that the Ethel Barrymore program for Sterling Products will fade from the air April 7, to be replaced the following week with a new dramatic script series featuring Helen Menken. The new program will continue to sell Bayer Aspirin. Blackett-Sample-Hummert is the agency.

Court Is Told RKO's 8-week Net $714,000

Information Divulged at Allowances Hearing

RKO had an indicated net profit, after all charges, of $714,000 for the first eight weeks of this year, O. C. Doering, of counsel for the RKO trustees, told Federal Judge William Bondy yesterday during a hearing on petitions of the trustee and its counsel for partial allowances for reorganization services.

Doering said that the eight-week profit compares with a net of $68,351 for the same period last year. The January-February earnings include a net of $179,000 for RKO Radio Pictures and subsidiaries, against a loss of $169,139 for the first eight weeks of 1936; a loss of $5,300 for Pathe News, against a profit of $4,408 last year, and earnings of $65,000 for RKO, the parent company, against $60,534 a year ago. The balance of the indicated net for 1937, or approximately $470,000, was derived from the company's theatre subsidiaries.

Doering said that the recent agreement approved by the Federal court, under which Keith-Albee-Orpheum

KRS, CEA Heed Warning From Government

LONDON, April 1.—The Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors) and the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Assn. today in a joint meeting at the offices of the latter group here, exchanged views relative to the possibility of a single governing body for the industry in England.

The meeting today, which was reported to have resulted in some degree of progress, is seen as strongly indicative of the serious reaction on the part of the trade to the blunt hint recently leveled at the industry by Dr. E. Leslie Burgin, Parliamentary

Tough on the Tigers

Hollywood, April 1.—Darryl F. Zanuck is going to Africa in August for a six-week vacation, if tiger hunting can be called a vacation. With him is going Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., and just to keep their hands in, the pair will tote a load of equipment to make a film of their tiger hunt—if they can find a tiger.

The film is described as "for private circulation" — probably in case they miss.

Spitz Slated for Hays Directorate

Leo Spitz, RKO president, is scheduled to be elected to the board of M. P. P. D. A., succeeding M. H. Aylesworth, former RKO chairman, at the Hays organization's annual meeting today. Indications are that Ned E. Depinet, RKO distribution head, and David Sarnoff, RCA president, will be reelected to the board.

Whether Barney Balaban, Paramount president, and George J. Schaefer, United Artists vice-president, will be added to the board could not be definitely ascertained yesterday. Balaban and Schaefer, like Spitz, assumed their present posts since the last annual meeting of M. P. P. D. A. Ordinarily, eastern heads of the member companies are elected to the board. Adolph Zukor and Harry D. Buckley are the present Paramount and United Artists representatives on the Hays board. The reelection of all other directors and the present slate of officers is expected. CBS Has Plan on World's Biggest Television Unit

CBS apparently has been playing 'possum on the subject of television, for after repeatedly asserting that it had no concrete television plans for the immediate future, the network yesterday applied to the F. C. C. for permission to construct one of the world's most powerful combined television and sound transmitters at the top of the Chrysler Bldg. here.

Additional developments in radio on pages 10 and 11.

When completed the proposed station will operate at a peak strength of 30 kilowatts. This power is equal to that of a television transmitter soon to be constructed on the Eiffel Tower in Paris, which was to have been the most powerful television station in the world.

The transmitter, which is to be located on the 74th floor of the Chrysler Bldg., will incorporate the latest developments in high power wide band design. It will operate on a frequency somewhere between 42 and 56 megacycles. This is a wave band which can be picked up only as far as the distance from the antenna to the horizon, which will provide coverage within a radius of approximately 40 miles over a total area of 4,800 square miles.

The antenna will be built immediately below the steel needle atop the building, a distance of less than 100

Selznick and U. A. Talking New Contract

Proposed Pact to Extend For Period of Years

David O. Selznick is now negotiating a new contract with the United Artists board of directors, it was learned yesterday from official sources. The deal will extend for a period of years to be determined upon and will start as soon as his present pact expires next year. Dr. A. H. Giannini, president and chairman of the board, and a number of other directors are sitting in on the discussions.

Selznick plans to produce eight next season for U.A. release. Included in the group will be "Gone With the Wind," which will be placed in production in the latter part of the summer. George Cukor, who will direct, is now in the south looking for a new personality to play the role of Scarlett O'Hara. He will also make tests of a number of other possibilities for leading roles. Cukor is expected to leave the south for Hollywood next week.

Reports have been current that Selznick has been looking favorably upon a deal to rejoin M-G-M with "Gone With the Wind" as his first with Norma Shearer in the starring role. The idea has been dropped as well as the proposal to cast Miss Shearer for the role of Scarlett O'Hara.

Under the Desert Moon

By RED KANN

GARNET, CAL., April 1.—In England, so goes the legend at any rate, Gracie Fields collects $250,000 a picture. In Hollywood, continues that legend, Darryl F. Zanuck is paying Britain's No. 1 star, $300,000 a picture to be made in seven weeks on a deal calling for two a year over a two-year period. In other words, $600,000 a year for 14 weeks' work and $1,200,000 in two years and four films.

To sing two songs, or maybe three, Miss Fields could have collected $5,000 a broadcast with 10 of them available which sums up into a tidy $50,000. But she is on vacation here, preparatory to starting her first for 20th Century-Fox in July and decided otherwise.

But the full moon that cast its silvery rays over the desert surrounding the B-Bar-H Ranch the other evening began to weave its spell with results unusual and vastly diverting. This is how it came about:

Charlie Bender, the "B" to Lucien Hubbard's "H," planned a night picnic. That means broiled steaks and chops, beans and bacon, ranch-cooked muffins and ranch-concocted salad, coffee and home-made pies and it makes for quite an array. Up past the ranch road and across the desert to Two Bunch, which is a way of describing a double clump of palms thriving mightily and mysteriously in the brush, gathered the group, some film people, some not.

There was Jimmy, the cowpuncher and his guitar, and Tommy, the stableman, plus Starlight, his horse; Jack Kriendler of "21," flamingly arrayed in Levi Strausses, which means denim pants, a shirt in plaid blocks, city-size, accuracy in cowpuncher boots and a Stetson as wide as his brother Mac's smile.

There were others. Si Seadler, in two sweaters, a sweat shirt and Hubbard's hat—the one Lucien wore back in '25 and has refused to foreswear since, was around, doing his favorite rhumba on sand and planked table. Mrs. E. H. Griffith, in a sort of Alpine hat that threatened to disappear with the night air, fringed leather skirt and fancy riding boots; Ernest Gann of Major Prod. in the pancake hat Gary Cooper must have worn in "The Plainsman"; Townsend Netcher, and Max Schuster, the New York publisher and president of the B-Bar-H Pamperers' Club, vaguely wondering what the proletariat was doing on a night like this.

It seems it is customary on outings of this kind for Jimmy to strum his guitar and sing cowboy songs. He did and they were good. Shortly then, the community sing idea gathered hold and the warbling became general. Disregarding Zanuck, the Fox contract and the effect of the cool night zephyrs on the vocal chords, came the inevitable "Sing us a song, Miss Fields."

She did. She sang many songs, as a matter of fact. She did "River, Stay Away from My Door," then swung into "Just a Song at Twilight," which it wasn't at all; that one-time popular number about the isle of Capri, "Ave Maria," "Annie Laurie" and finally into her own type of number for which she is famous in England and Australia. One was called "I Never Cried Before" and related the plaintive tale of the Cockney who went to the movies and hissed at the villain, as she wept over the heroine. Next a Scotch piece of mimicry called "Grandfather's Bagpipes" and a sad, sad love ditty wherein she wondered if her sweetheart would love his lamb when she turned to mutton.

For an hour and well beyond, in this entrancing setting with snow-clad mountain peaks shining eerily in the moonlight and the city cowboys ringed around a roaring fire went the concert while in the rear, Monty Banks, her manager, bemoaned the peculiarities of woman at large and of Miss Fields in particular who had turned down $50,000 in radio money and now was entertaining a bunch of people neither one of them probably would ever see again.

Enthusiasm ran high as you might have anticipated. Jimmy strummed his guitar in appreciation and took a courtly bow from the waist. Starlight, under the urgings of Tommy who loved the horse so much he said he regretted she didn't also cook, bent a leg in gracious acknowledgment and the evening came to a close.

"Seventh Heaven" at $100,000 First Week

"Seventh Heaven" garnered $100,000 for its first week at the Music Hall. The picture is now in its second week and will be followed by "Quality Street."

"Top of the Town" tallied $57,000 for the first seven days at the Roxy. The gross is the third largest for any picture in the four and a half years Howard S. Cullman has been operating under the court's supervision.

The second week of "Maytime" at the Capitol finished up with $52,000. The picture is now in its third stanza. "History Is Made At Night" enters a second week tomorrow. The first week is expected to wind up tonight with about $30,000.

The Paramount this week tipped the opening price for "Waikiki Wedding" from 25 cents to 35 cents.

Demurrer Filed in Action on 20th-Fox suit is not based upon a legitimate cause for action, and that the $250,000 asked is far in excess of damages incurred, if any. The suit was based upon a character's statement in "Thanks a Million" which Meyers contends has ruined his political possibilities and held him up to public ridicule.

Says Majors Seek Control

It would be impossible for any Broadway house to obtain a first run franchise from any major company unless the company maintained control over the theatre, Leo Brecher testified yesterday in his second day as a witness in the hearings on the Roxy reorganization plan before Special Master Addison S. Pratt. He estimated the Roxy could gross $25,000 weekly with a 20th Century-Fox franchise.

Sues 20th-Fox on Song

Charles McCord filed an infringement suit in U.S. District Court yesterday against 20th Century-Fox, Robbins Music Corp., and Mack Gordon and Harry Revel. McCord asks $50,000 damages. He claims his song "I'll Always Remember Ronkonkomo" which he wrote in 1936, was infringed by the song, "Goodnight, My Love" used in the picture, "Stowaway."

Decision Reserved In Brandt's Action

Counsel for major companies yesterday denied before Justice Ernest L. Hammer in N. Y. Supreme Court that there ever was a contract stipulating that Loew's circuit should run pictures on a divided week basis of four and three days instead of five and two days. Decision was reserved on a motion by Harry Brandt and the operators of 33 other New York independent theatres for an order which would enjoin Loew's from continuing the five-two division which the circuit recently instituted in many houses.

Counsel for the plaintiffs told the court that if a theatre did not buy pictures from the eight companies it could not remain in business long because the public had been trained to believe that those companies supplied most of the pictures of "great entertainment value." He declared that by the time a picture had played Broadway and first run neighborhood houses there was only a small public left for the plaintiffs' business, so that a five-day run of a picture in their neighborhood would prove a serious handicap. He also argued the five-two split is a violation of existing contracts.

Seven attorneys denied these allegations in behalf of the defendants and argued that the four-three division in question never was general.

They contended further that there is nothing in existing contracts binding the defendants to any set number of days during which pictures should run in Loew theatres. Justice Hammer reserved decision.

Brunswick Wins Motion

The Brunswick Record Corp. yesterday was granted by default its request that Arthur Tracy, the singer, supply a bill of particulars in his suit for $24,300. The motion was granted by Justice Timothy A. Leary in N. Y. Supreme Court. Tracy alleges that Brunswick failed to pay him royalties for records made by him between 1932 and 1934 in accordance with a contract. The defendant denies the allegations and asserts the singer was paid in full for his services.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Another Dawn"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, April 1.—"Another Dawn" is a sophisticated romance-drama. The film's success will be dependent on the pulling power of Kay Francis and Errol Flynn. Action is held to a minimum save in one battle sequence. Smart dialogue is the main interpretative medium. The picture is basically a triangle drama in which the involved trio—Miss Francis, Flynn and Ian Hunter—go about their work in a serious vein. Meager comedy contrast is provided by subordinate players.

Hunter brings Miss Francis, his bride, to a British army post in the desert. It immediately becomes evident that Flynn and Miss Francis are infatuated with each other. In Hunter's absence, the romance develops in a restrained manner with much dialogue devoted to discussions of ethical and unethical love. As all concerned understand the dangerous situation, Flynn and Hunter decide that the only solution is for one man to eliminate himself. Flynn's application for a transfer is denied. Raiding Arabs offer a way out. The officers toss a coin to decide who will go on a dangerous mission. Flynn wins, but Hunter commandeers an airplane. Radio messages flash the news of his death and Flynn and Miss Francis are left to work out their destiny.

The entire story is carried by the three leads who perform with subdued dignity. Frieda Inescourt's participation in the affair is difficult to understand, as she is eliminated from the plot without explanation. Herbert Mundin supplies comedy which is climaxed by his heroic sacrifice in the "Lost Patrol" atmosphere of a desert battle.

Production Code Seal No. 2,254. Running time, 70 minutes. "A."

"Navy Blues"

(Republic)

HOLLYWOOD, April 1.—"Navy Blues" offers entertainment suitable for neighborhood business. The picture can stand speeding up in places, but performances, direction and story, particularly dialogue, are good.

The story starts with a bet and winds up in an espionage plot tangle. Dick Purcell is a conceited gob who thinks he can win any girl. His pals make a bet that he can't take Mary Brian, a librarian, to a certain dance joint they frequent on shore leave. Through a series of prevarications Purcell wins her over, sees her potentialities without her customary spectacles and ancient wearing apparel, and as a result of his lies suddenly finds himself the center of a naval espionage plot, which gains momentum through the criminal activities of Edward Woods.

In the windup Purcell manages to expose a plot to kill a member of the foreign diplomatic corps and wins the girl and promotion.

Performances of Purcell, Miss Brian, Warren Hymer, Joseph Sawyer, Horace MacMahon, Chester Clute, Lucille Gleason and Woods make the situations believable. Ralph Staub directed with a nice balance of drama and comedy. Gordon Kahn and Eric Taylor penned an amusing original screenplay. Jack Marta's photography was above average.

Production Code Seal No. 3,188. Running time, 55 minutes. "G."

British Units Talk Forming Trade Body

secretary of the Board of Trade, to the effect that if the industry could not establish agreement in its own ranks, the Government would step in and accomplish it for the trade.

The discussion among the representatives of the two leading trade bodies today centered about a governing body along the lines suggested by Dr. Burgin at the C.E.A. banquet at Grosvenor House. A second meeting has been scheduled for next Monday.

A further indication of the willingness of the K.R.S. to cooperate in the development of such an internal body was seen in the recent annual report of the distributor group, in which the suggestion of the Moyne committee for a revision of the Films Act which would include, among other things, a Government film commission, was sharply scored. In part, the report viewed "with grave misgivings for the future the setting up of a control board having bureaucratic powers." An industry body is seen as the only alternative to threatened Government supervision.

Reciprocity Possible

Representing the K.R.S. at today's meeting were: D. E. Griffiths, president; Francis W. Baker, Sam Eckman, John C. Graham and C. M. Woolf, all ex-presidents, and Maurice Silverstone. For the C.E.A. were: Charles P. Metcalf, Ken Nyman, A. J. Gale and Theodore H. Fligelstone.

The possibility is seen of the K.R.S. and the F.B.I. Film Group getting together on a reciprocity arrangement as an alternative to the Moyne suggestions. The Board of Trade is believed to be receptive to any plan genuinely supported by American film interests, by which British product would be assured of playing time in the United States.

completes the transfer of its Orpheum Circuit holdings to Stadium Theatres Corp., an RKO subsidiary, and cancels claims against Orpheum of more than $3,000,000, would net RKO $890,000.

The allowances sought were $60,000 by Irving Trust Co., RKO trustee, and $85,000 by Donovan, Newton, Leisure & Lumbard, trustee's counsel, which are for services rendered from July 2, 1936. Previous allowances of $150,000 have been made to Irving Trust in the RKO reorganization proceedings, and $290,000 to counsel.

George L. Schein, counsel for an RKO stockholders' protective committee, objected to the allowances, asserting that there is no basis on which a fair fee can be gauged until all claims against RKO have been settled. Judge Bondy reserved decision on the petitions, indicating that he would grant a partial allowance by stating that it might be advisable to withhold complete payment of the fees in order to speed acceptance of a plan of reorganization for RKO.

Looking 'Em Over

"Fury and the Woman"

(Rialto-Syndicate)

The spectacular activities of lumber camps in the north woods provide an exciting background for the unfolding of this story. It is a yarn of brawling men, dangerous work and excitement. It should find more than favorable reception in the lesser spots.

William Gargan, posing as a lumber hand, descends on his father's holdings. Before the story unreels farther he meets Molly Lamont, and finds romance. But there is plenty of work to be done before he can develop this lighter interest. The foreman of his lumber camp is revealed to be perpetrating some double dealing with a rival outfit. Gargan does some research and a little later appears on the scene as superintendent of the rival interests. In that post he garners other facts concerning the aforementioned skullduggery and shortly after uses them to his advantage. A short while later his company's lumber is shipped on time and Gargan finds romantic fulfillment with Miss Lamont. The story is projected with vigor against realistic settings.

Lewis D. Collins directed. The cast includes James McGrath, Reginald Hincks, J. P. McGowan, Libby Taylor, Harry Hastings and David Clyde.

Production Code Seal No. 2,532. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"What Price Vengeance?"

(Rialto-Syndicate)

Here is a film that should do well on double bills. It is a melodrama which starts with a swift pace and holds its speed throughout. The story is obvious but the extra measure of excitement injected into the scenario takes care of that.

In successive flashes the story establishes itself. Lyle Talbot, a policeman, sets out to capture a band of bank robbers after they injure his nephew, Wally Albright, while making their getaway. Talbot in plain clothes works himself in with the gang. With much undercover work, he succeeds in running down the gangsters. Wendy Barrie turns in a convincing performance as Talbot's sweetheart.

The supporting cast includes Eddie Acuff, Reginald Hincks, Lois Albright, Lucille Lund, Robert Rideout and Arthur Kerr. The screenplay is by J. P. McGowan. Del Lord directed.

Production Code Seal No. 2,577. Running time, 55 minutes. "G."

D. C. Tax Measures Would Hit Theatres

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

Washington, April 1.—Declaring his intention of pressing for the adoption of nine tax bills for the District of Columbia which he has introduced, including one imposing a two per cent tax on film theatre receipts, Representative Collins of Mississippi today declared that his theatre tax would raise some $200,000 a year. A total of $12,000,000 is sought through the nine measures.

The theatre tax, effective beginning July 1, next, would be two per cent of monthly gross receipts, less Federal admission tax collections, and is aimed directly at the picture houses, including those showing vaudeville. The levy is to be paid by the exhibitor, the bill prohibiting any increase in admissions to compensate for the tax.

If the bill is enacted into law all film houses will be required to file a statement with the district assessor showing the total capacity of the theatre and secure a certificate to operate.

Fight Wisconsin Tax Bill

Madison, Wis., April 1.—A three per cent amusement tax might ruin the small theatre operator in Wisconsin, it was testified by exhibitor representatives before the Assembly Committee on Taxation in connection with a hearing on the Balzer bill, which seeks to tax theatre receipts.

B. J. Miller, Milwaukee, representing the Fox-Wisconsin and Warner-Saxe Theatres appeared against the measure, as did F. J. McWilliams, Madison, representing the Independent Theatres Protective Ass'n. of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

It is estimated the bill would raise about $500,000 annually, which would be used to alleviate the state old-age pension problem. The committee withheld its recommendation.

Promise No Florida Taxes

Tallahassee, Fla., April 1.—Judging from the stand Gov. Fred P. Cone and Comptroller J. M. Lee have taken, Florida theatre owners have no need for worry over additional taxes for the next four years. Cone had previously asserted that he does not intend to sign any sales, or amusement tax measures.

In a prepared statement Lee said: "I am fully convinced that with proper distribution of the proceeds of present revenue sources this state can carry on without impairing any branch of government and meet requirements of old age pensions without tapping any new source of revenue."

New Orleans Games Continue

New Orleans, April 1.—Despite the fact that Bank Nights have been outlawed by the State Supreme Court, the drawings are being held two and three nights a week, and Bank Night insurance companies are collecting 10 cents a drawing from patrons who are too weary to attend the theatre.

The district attorney says he will take no action until specific charges are lodged with him.

Defeat Sunday Measure

Concord, N. H., April 1.—An attempt to open New Hampshire theatres at 6 P.M. on Sundays, instead of 4 P.M., as at present, has been defeated in the House of Representatives, 197 to 156.

"SEVENTH HEAVEN" PROVES BOXOFFICE HEAVEN IN NATION-WIDE ENGAGEMENTS!

Everywhere Simone Simon and James Stewart are weaving their thrilling romantic spell to net exhibitors tremendous grosses...as ecstatic word-of-mouth builds great business even greater.

For instance in NEW YORK's Radio City Music Hall, where it's bigger than "Lloyds" and "On the Avenue." Held over, of course. In PHILADELPHIA, where it's held over after first smash week. In DENVER, beating "On the Avenue." In TULSA, topping "Girls' Dormitory." In RICHMOND, where day-and-date opening beat "Love Is News." And in DETROIT, ST. LOUIS, SPRINGFIELD, PITTSBURGH, SALT LAKE CITY, BRIDGEPORT, where latest figures show it pulling ahead of such pictures as "Lloyds," "One in a Million," "Love Is News" or "On the Avenue."

That's business! . . . but you expect business from 20th Century-Fox hits!

Radio Ad Cost 15.6% Of '35 Agency Total

PHILADELPHIA, April 1.—Radio networks, spot broadcasting and air program talent costs accounted for 15.6 per cent, or $63,307,000 of the total billings of advertising agencies to clients for advertising in all media during 1935, it has been reported here by William L. Austin, director of the Federal Census Bureau, in publishing a report on agencies for 1935, compiled here as part of the current business census.

The report shows a total of $405,888,000 charged to clients by agencies during 1935. Newspapers led the field, with a total of $153,152,000, or 37.7 per cent, while general magazines, agricultural papers and religious publications handled 26.5 per cent or $107,330,000. The conference will be attended by representatives of the United States, Canadian, Cuban and Mexican Governments.

The broadening of the broadcasting band was recommended by the Technical Radio Conference in Havana which adjourned March 29. The disclosure that an increase in channels is under consideration was made by the N. A. B. in publishing a statement on the conference by Commander T. A. M. Craven, chief engineer of the Federal Communications Commission and chairman of the American delegation.

With the expansion, Craven pointed out, the number of channels available for broadcasting stations will be increased from 96 to 107, of which 58 will be set aside as clear channels for high-power stations and the remaining 49 used by regional and local stations. At present there are 40 clear channels.

New Shows On the Air

"Laugh With Ken Murray"

Ken Murray and his stooge Oswald this week took over the Wednesday evening period formerly occupied by George Burns and Gracie Allen for Campbell Soups. The difference in programs is that whereas George and Gracie always could be depended upon to serve an evening's highlight entertainment, Murray and Oswald give us just another 30-minute routine.

As always with comedians, it's a matter of material. Murray is a capable, mike-wise performer possessing undisputed comic ability, but comic ability on the air is always nullified when the material is loaded with duds and blanks.

Even the musical portion of the program could not measure up to the standard set on the predecessor series. Burns and Allen were fortified with Henry King's orchestra and Tony Martin as vocalist; the new setup employs Lud Gluskin's orchestra, with Shirley Ross handling the vocal assignments. The latter's songs were painfully over-arranged.

The series, titled "Laugh With Ken Murray," is heard Wednesdays from 8:30 to 9 P.M., E.S.T. Campbell Soup sponsors.

CBS Has Plan on World's Biggest Television Unit

feet from the transmitter. It is said that this will provide an almost distortionless transfer of power.

Dr. P. C. Goldmark, head of Columbia's television research department, states the Chrysler Building was selected as the best location after a study of the whole New York skyline.

"Experiments conducted by CBS engineers disclosed that the height of the antenna was not the only thing to be considered despite the general impression to that effect," he states. "The fact that most of Manhattan's population is concentrated to the north of the tower and that no higher buildings are located in that direction was of prime importance in selecting the site. This situation indicates that the radio waves will not be broken up or refracted by the steel skeletons of other skyscrapers and that therefore a common fault of television—the production of double images—will be avoided."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY has repeatedly asked for a statement of television policy from CBS. The answer was always the same, that CBS had discontinued its field experiments several years ago, and that the network was now merely pursuing a policy of watchful waiting.

Five years ago CBS was transmitting low definition pictures over W2XAX. At the same time CBS started the first regular television broadcasts in the United States, continuing them from 1931 to 1933. During that period low-definition, 60-line pictures were transmitted daily on a frequency of 2,800 kilocycles. Since then CBS has been strangely quiet about the subject of television, content to let NBC-RCA and Philco steal the television headlines. Apparently that policy has now come to an end.

The new transmitter will operate on a 441-line basis, as compared to the 60-line images of 1931-1933. It is the number of transmitted lines which determines the clearness of the reproduced picture. The new transmitter will produce 60 pictures a second. The 2,500-kilocycle modulation, states CBS, will provide sufficient detail on the images received to make them comparable in fineness of detail to pictures projected by home picture equipment.

Para. at Work on 7 for New Season

a meeting of the Paramount executive committee yesterday.

Although Paramount's 1937-'38 schedule has not been completely mapped yet, indications still point to a list of about 56 to 58, which would include six westerns. New season pictures on which work has been begun include "Souls at Sea" and "High, Wide and Handsome," which are nearing completion; "Artists and Models," virtually completed; a new Marlene Dietrich picture, started; "The Big Broadcast of 1938," the new Mae West picture and a new Gary Cooper picture, all in preparation.

Plans for the company's annual sales meeting probably will be completed by Neil F. Agnew, vice-president in charge of distribution, during a visit to the studio this month. Robert Gillham, advertising and publicity manager, who returns this weekend from a Florida vacation, will accompany Agnew west, leaving here in about 10 days or two weeks. It has not been definitely determined yet whether Paramount will hold one or two sales meetings this year, or whether salesmen as well as district and branch managers will attend.

"U" Position Best In Years; Cowdin

Universal occurred April 2, 1936. Cowdin said that immediately thereafter Universal adopted "a long-range program of building up a backlog of pictures and creating new stars, which is only now beginning to bear fruit. During the coming months the company for the first time will be in a position to realize on the large expenditure required to carry out this program," he added.

Cowdin said that five features in addition to "Top of the Town" are completed and ready for release, while current and future production is geared to continue on schedule. Included in the latter category are "The Road Back," now in work; "100 Men and a Girl," the new Deanna Durbin picture, which will start on April 12, and "Broadway Jamboree," a new musical scheduled for early production.

Cowdin, who is here conferring with Charles R. Rogers, plans to leave by plane for New York with Samuel Machnovitch, new Universal treasurer, this weekend.

CBS to Retain Its Theatres on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, April 1.—CBS will not abandon its three theatre broadcasting studios with the completion of the new Hollywood plant, it was stated today by Donald W. Thornburgh, vice-president in charge of Pacific coast operations. The large auditorium in the new studio will be used only when the company's theatre schedules are overcrowded, Thornburgh declared. Construction will start in a few weeks. The building plans include the revamping of the Vine St. theatre.

All guest speaker talks from New York will originate here also.

The studio will be equipped with a special control board which will permit the instantaneous cutting in on network programs for emergency news readings.

Say Eastman to Aid Keller-Dorian Work

Complete cooperation in supplying raw stock for Keller-Dorian Colorfilm work will be accorded by Eastman despite the latter's failure to exercise its option for exclusive rights to supply the stock. Lawrence Brown of Keller-Dorian, stated yesterday before leaving for Rochester to complete arrangements there in advance of impending use of the color process on the west coast.

Brown was accompanied by two Keller-Dorian technicians who arrived from Paris on the Ile de France Wednesday night. With two additional technicians they will leave for Hollywood tomorrow to set up a laboratory there, arrange for the manufacture of camera equipment required for the process and train American crews in the technical work. They plan to be ready by the end of the month to start work on a Grand National feature, the first to use the new color process.

More Are Planned with Some in Chicago

Four major companies and one independent will hold their annual sales conventions on the coast and a number of other distributors are now making plans to hold meetings in Los Angeles and Chicago. Practically all of the conclaves on sales product will be held in May and June.

Loew's sales forces will meet at the Ambassador, Los Angeles, May 2-8; 20th Century-Fox, May 31 to June 3, same hotel and place. RKO plans to hold its conferences in Los Angeles starting June 15. Universal probably will take its salesmen and executives to the coast for a three-day meeting, tentatively set for May 17-19. Grand National has been discussing a sales session for May 17-18 at its studios in Hollywood, but these dates undoubtedly will be

Minnesota Advances Allied Theatre Bill

ST. PAUL, April 2.—The Senate bill to require separation of theatre ownership in Minnesota from production or distribution interests was reported out of committee favorably today. The House committee took similar action earlier.

The Minnesota legislature is scheduled to adjourn early next week. It is considered doubtful here whether the theatre divorce measure will be put to a vote prior to adjournment.

Declares Industry Can Solve Problems by Cooperation

Hitting at elements within the industry which "demand legislation instead of cooperation," Will H. Hays asserted in his 15th annual report to the board of directors of the M. P. P. D. A. in session here yesterday that "responsible exhibitors, distributors and producers" regard the policy as a danger to investments in all theatre properties and to an uninterrupted film supply for the public.

The report reasserted Hays' belief in the ability of the industry to solve all of its problems by self-regulation, and cited the impressive progress made by the production end of the industry in eliminating objectionable features by self-regulation under the Production Code.

"It has been proved that within the boundaries of good taste and good morals there is illimitable opportunity creatively, artistically and dramatically, for the screen to rise to the highest levels," the report stated.

While Hays' message did not mention Allied States Exhibitors' Ass'n or the state and Federal legislation which it is sponsoring or supporting, the M. P. P. D. A. head's observations on industrial relations apparently apply to them.

"There will never be a time," his report said, in this or any other industry when individual grievances will not exist and need to be adjusted, and when there will not be groups which will demand legislation instead of cooperation. But an overwhelming

LOS ANGELES, April 2.—The possibility of a new national labor organization composed of projectionists but affiliated with the C. I. O. and therefore in opposition to the I. A. T. S. E., an A. F. Hays Hits at Moves for New Industry Laws number of responsible exhibitors, distributors and producers fully understand that any act which would destroy initiative and enterprise in the industry must endanger the investment in all theatre properties, make is impossible to serve large portions of the public with outstanding entertainment and hurt the small theatre now protected by the assurance of a constant and unfailing picture service.

"There is enough elasticity in the trade structure of the industry and enough men of good will within it—exhibitors, distributors and producers—to solve through self-regulation all its trade problems that exist or may arise from time to time."

At another point in his report, Hays declares that "the success of outstanding films produced and exhibited during the period under review marks 15 years of progress by self-regulation."

Lauds Hollywood

Paying tribute to Hollywood, Hays declared that the American film owes its dominant position throughout the world to the actors, directors, writers and technicians of the screen colony. "The gifts they have brought to this vast medium of entertainment," he said, "have given motion pictures a universal public. Hollywood has become a world symbol of entertainment."

He reported that newsreels "had extended the scope of their informational service during the year" and that "short subjects showed a marked upward rise in quality." Cartoon features have further extended their universal appeal, Hays said, and noted that a new field for this type of film was being opened with Walt Disney's forthcoming feature length subject, "Snow White."

The M. P. P. D. A. head found important the current interest of producers in films based on the lives of world famous composers and musicians, coming productions which he described as "musical biographies." He noted also that studios may turn in the near future to grand opera for production material.

Calls Quality Unprecedented

Hays stated that the current season "has brought a greater number of truly fine pictures to the screen than the industry has ever before produced in a similar period" with the result that the screen's public has been enlarged to encompass new social stratas throughout the world. Viewing forthcoming releases, Hays sees the ground gained not only being held but "indicating the continuance of the upward progress of the screen."

In closing, however, he warns that "public taste is not static" and that the industry "must forever blaze new trails." He views the greater public leisure resulting from shorter work hours as creating a more discriminating film patronage which the industry must satisfy.

"We need public opinion, organized and purposeful," he said, "to give continued impetus to the better picture movement."

discussing industry-wide labor affiliation with the C. I. O. Baynes characterized the meeting merely as a step in the move to solidify studio and theatrical groups and stated that Empire is not yet officially a C. I. O. affiliate. He added that a larger meeting is being planned.

Boston Club Has Party of the forthcoming series featuring Tim and Irene and Bunny Berrigan's orchestra wants an audience in the studio. He is unable to get it, however, because the Times Square Playhouse, WOR's only studio sufficiently large enough to house a large audience, is taken over Sundays from 6 to 6:30 P.M. by the "1937 Radio Revue." The Tim and Irene show will be heard on Sundays also, from 6:30 to 7 P.M.

Additionally, WOR executives are said to be of the opinion that many clients who are not now booking programs on WOR would be attracted to the station if large studios were made available to them.

A couple of days later Paramount signed Wilson to a seven-year picture contract.

F. C. C. Sets Hearing Schedule Next Week

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The Federal Communications Commission today revealed that its hearings next week would include arguments before the broadcast division on April 8 on applications of John S. Allen and G. W. Covington, Jr., Montgomery, Ala., for a new 1,210-kilocycle, 100-watt daytime station; Clarence C. Dill, Washington, D. C., for a 1,390-kilocycle, 100-watt station; Port Huron Broadcasting Co., Port Huron, Mich., for a 1,370-kilocycle, 250-watt daytime station, and Golden Empire Broadcasting Co., Marysville, Cal., for a 1,140-kilocycle, 250-watt daytime station.

On April 9 examiners' hearings will be held on the applications of Twin City Broadcasting Corp., Longview, Wash., for a 780-kilocycle, 250-watt daytime station; Edgar L. Bill, Peoria, Ill., for a 1,040-kilocycle, 250-watt daytime station, and Asheville Daily News, Asheville, N. C., for a 1,370-kilocycle, 100-watt station.

Hearings will be held April 5 on applications of KABR, Aberdeen, S. D., for change of frequency to 1,390 kilocycles and increase of power to 500 watts night, 1,000 watts day, and WSAU, Wausau, Wis., for authority to operate at night.

On April 6, examiners will hear the applications of the Okmulgee Broadcasting Corp., Times Publishing Co. and the Record Publishing Co., all of Okmulgee, Okla., contestants for a 1,210-kilocycle, 100-watt daytime station; Beaumont Broadcasting Ass'n, Beaumont, Tex., for a 1,420-kilocycle, 100-watt station; and KGA, Spokane, for change of frequency.

Hearings will be held April 7 on the application of WBCM, Bay City, Mich., for increase of day power to 1,000 watts and KADA, Ada, Okla., for authority to operate at night.

Change "All Star Varieties"

New Shows On the Air

"All Star Cycle"

"All Star Cycle," a new program which bowed in on the NBC-Blue network Thursday evening, adheres to a straight musical pattern with Ray Sinatra's orchestra supplying the rhythms and weekly vocal guest artists. The initial guest vocalist was Frank Parker.

Nothing startling was expected, nothing startling developed. Parker is probably the air's best tenor, and Sinatra's orchestra is a top-notch combination, but aside from the general excellence of voice and music there is little else to comment about.

Among Sinatra's offerings were "Easy to Love," "Cafe Continental" and "I'm in a Dancing Mood." Parker's "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" was superlative.

The program is sponsored by the Cycles Trades of America and is presented Thursdays from 7:15 to 7:30 P. M., E.S.T.

BANNER

Wire Leasing Order Hits Radio Stations

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—In an effort to stamp out bookmaking in Philadelphia, City Solicitor Joseph Sharfsin formally directed the Bell and Keystone telephone companies to terminate all leases of underground wires which were not authorized by the City Council. Such leases include those with the radio stations in the Philadelphia area and affects remote control broadcasts.

The city's campaign is directed against the leasing of line wires to "news companies" specializing in the dissemination of race results and track information. In submitting all contracts for council sanction, Sharfsin hopes to weed out the bookies and kill off any others deemed undesirable.

While the radio stations have no objection to submitting their contracts to the Council, there is a strong possibility that the city will see in this arrangement an untapped source of revenue. Not only does this ban affect the night club and special events broadcasts, but will force sport commentators to seek new sources of information. Most sportcasters depend on the "news company" for the last-minute results of sporting events.

Elza Schallert's Brother Dead

HOLLYWOOD, April 2. — William Arthur Baumgarten, brother of Elza Schallert, NBC screen commentator, died here today.

Mrs. Schallert, adhering to the theatrical world's time honored tradition that the show must go on, broadcast as usual last night, interviewing Frank Lloyd on her NBC-Blue network period.

WOR Wins Promotion Award

The American Printer yesterday conferred its annual award on WOR for the station's recent sales promotion booklet, "Of These We Sing," which was declared the year's best radio promotion piece.

Seek to Popularize Weaker Radio Hours

HOLLYWOOD, April 2.—The shortage of good broadcasting hours to accommodate the long list of sponsors currently trying to get choice air time has forced the major networks to consider a system of drastic changes to create more popular hours on the air. This condition now facing broadcasting executives also has had its general effect on big company sponsors and points to the bigger commercial sponsors retaining their programs through the summer months, an unprecedented departure from the former policy.

CBS is the first major network to take steps towards creating new entertainment hours. Executives and program directors are now working on plans to create a large following between the hours of 10 P. M. and midnight. The plan involves the substitution of weak programs now on the air at these hours with carefully planned shows using name talent in order to attract sponsors for commercial use. Big programs now originating from the coast currently are broadcast between 5 and 7 P. M., P. S. T.

Michaels in New Series

Michaels Bros., furniture dealers of Long Island, started a new series of broadcasts over WMCA last night, the programs originating on the stage of the Paramount in Brooklyn. Michaels already sponsors the weekly amateur hour from the Fox in Brooklyn, and for some weeks were sponsors of a daily community sing from the Brooklyn Strand.

KMO Power Increased

TACOMA, April 2.—KMO is now on the air with increased power of 1,000 watts, full time. The new station is located three miles east of Tacoma on the Pacific Highway.

The station has new equipment throughout, with a 180-foot Blaw-Knox tower and soundproof transmitting building.

Gretta Palmer in New Program

Gretta Palmer, news commentator, will start a new sponsored program on WOR, beginning April 7 from 1 to 1:15 P.M., E.S.T. The series will be heard twice weekly, Wednesdays and Fridays under the sponsorship of the Gordon-Walker Laboratories. Young and Rubicam is the agency.

Borzage on Air Monday

HOLLYWOOD, April 2.—Frank Borzage, who directed "Farewell to Arms," which will be dramatized on the Lux program Monday, will also appear on the show. Courtney Riley Cooper will fly here to appear on the program with Borzage.

"Very Constructive"

Stage Backers To Ask Aid of Film Industry

Council Admits Picture Houses Are Needed

That film theatres must play an important role in the impending campaign of stage groups to popularize the legitimate theatre with the American public is evident from the plans of the American Theatre Council, the organization being formed to carry on the campaign.

Among the subjects listed for discussion at the new organization's proposed convention here, May 18 to 21 is the opening of film theatres to the legitimate touring shows. The demise of the road and the complete absence of professional drama in rural America were the principal factors which actuated the Dramatists' Guild, Actors' Equity Ass'n. and the League of N. Y. Theatres to form the American Theatre Council for the purpose of infusing new life into the stage.

To revive the road, sponsors of the Pittsburgh Papers End Ban on Tieups

PITTSBURGH, April 4.—The ironclad agreement which has existed here among the three daily newspapers barring theatre promotion tieups, contests and publicity stunts will come to an end April 15.

Al Dale, publisher of the Sun-Telegraph, a Hearst paper, has served notice on the other two papers of his withdrawal from the three-way agreement.

For years, Pittsburgh has been a tough spot for publicity and exploitation men to garner space, and, except for routine announcements, visiting exploiteers and local theatre publicity

Will Revise Publicity on Loaned Stars

Order Follows Objection By Many Players

HOLLYWOOD, April 4.—Following a number of objections by stars and players to the type of publicity and exploitation given them on loanouts, studio publicity departments are cautioning their staffs here, in New York and in the field not to advertise borrowed stars as their own.

In a letter to John D. Clark, general sales manager of 20th Century-Fox, Harry Brand, studio publicity chief, calls attention to the matter and urges cooperation.

"Occasionally when we borrow a star from other studios," the letter reads. "Over-enthusiastic publicity men exploit and advertise them as 20th Century-Fox stars. This is quite an important point," the letter continues, "and plavers under a loanout are not to be designated as members of this company's roster. Their home offices are quite right in objecting and

Southwest Has High Hopes of Bright Season

KANSAS CITY, April 4. — The southwest is talking about its prospects. From almost every source comes word that they are the best in six years. If weather conditions do not turn bad, and crops come to granaries on the basis of present indications, the depression will be over for most of the area.

Six years ago when the southwest had a pretty good crop, market conditions were poor. Today they are good, and, in spite of continuing reports of what promises to be a bumper crop, the market is strengthening Wheat futures this week climbed to the highest since 1929, and corn was bringing the best price since 1920.

During the late winter and early spring weeks, however, exhibitors have had to trade box office punishment for prospects. For eight out

Norma Shearer Now A Partner In Mayer Firm

Deal, Not Yet Signed, Closed by Schenck

By RED KANN

HOLLYWOOD, April 4.—Norma Shearer has become a participating partner in the Mayer company, of which her late husband, Irving Thalberg, was one of a triumvirate with Louis B. Mayer and J. Robert Rubin, under the terms of settlement completed here before Nicholas M. Schenck, Loew's president, left for New York last week.

The deal, while not believed to have been signed as yet, keeps the actress in the M-G-M starring family, and removes all doubt, which has been considerable in Hollywood relative to her future, by providing that she will star in from three to six pictures, the first of which is expected to be "Marie Antoinette," which was planned before Thalberg's death.

The limited circle here acquainted with the essential details regards the deal as another piece of diplomacy and business sagacity on the part of Schenck and further evidence of his

Academy Mails Data On Equipment Change

HOLLYWOOD, April 4.—The Research Council of the Academy has mailed out 19,000 copies of a new technical bulletin outlining necessary changes in theatre reproducing equipment in order to adopt the new standard electrical characteristic for two-way reproducing systems. A copy was sent to every theatre in the country.

The new standard, described by the council as of considerable importance, will permit the theatre to obtain the advantage of the latest studio sound recording practice and is expected to result in a more uniform quality of sound in all theatres. The standard was adopted by the council on the recommendation of the committee on standardization of theatre sound projection equipment, of which John Hilliard of M-G-M is chairman.

Columbia is planning to extend the roadshow policy on "Lost Horizon" throughout the country. Jack Cohn, Columbia vice-president, described the decision as based on the success of the film in two-a-day engagements thus far. Additional bookings in 19 situations are now set and others are being negotiated, it was said.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 4.

THE well known and smooth-functioning Hollywood grapevine has been buzzing quite madly since your itinerant reporter shook off the charms of the desert for his annual descent upon this land of understatement. It has been wagging industriously, has this grapevine, and also enthusiastically about an effort called "Captains Courageous," penned perhaps as many as fifty years ago by Rudyard Kipling. The talk persisted in bouncing around the town's best pumps, met up with us on all sides, demanded attention and in Projection Room No. 9 on the Metro lot the other afternoon got it, courtesy of Sam Katz. . . .

The 115 minutes which followed demonstrated several things, all in profusion. They proved quickly the grapevine, in this instance anyway, was correct to the last lavish encomium and that about this picture something beyond a routinized review should be written. More or less freely adapted from the Kipling work and with eighteen months of industry behind it and $1,500,000 in it, "Captains Courageous," to keep it nautical, is a whale of an attraction. They have been saying here it has the spiritual lift of "The Miracle Man." It all depends upon the approach. This angle failed to hit us midships nearly so much as the sincerity and the superb craftsmanship which mark what is a notable picture in every department. . . .

Even on the slightest of analyses, plot is meagre. This is it: Freddie Bartholomew is ten, the son of a tycoon too busy to get close to his own offspring. The boy is arrogant, crafty, unwholesome and downright brutal. He bullies his schoolmates, goes too far, is uncovered and temporarily dismissed. Melvyn Douglas, the father, urged to take him in hand, takes Freddie to Europe. When the liner lurches, the youngster is hurled into the ocean. Spencer Tracy, who plays Manuel, Portuguese fisherman booked on a schooner out of Gloucester, picks him up. Aboard the We're Here, it is no dice for the spoiled brat. He is on his own, the crew against him and port three months and a hold of cod away.

The remainder of the picture skillfully and touchingly trades Freddie's regeneration under the simple and honest ministrations of Tracy. Under the sun that burns him, the moon that washes him and the waves that drench him, all of the petty meannesses are routed out of the boy's make-up until there finally comes the day when not only he and Tracy are fast pals, but the entire boat as well. A climax, to be sure. It comes in the race to reach Gloucester and the market first, the strain on the canvas which gives away, wrapping torn masts and lines around Tracy's body and bringing him death and relief only when Lionel Barrymore cuts loose the tangled wreckage. Grief-stricken Freddie, inconsolable for a time, eventually is reunited with his father with an indicated happier understanding for them both. . . .

"Buddy" Lighton produced and Victor Fleming directed. They were at it, for one reason or another, including heartbreaking waits for mountainous waters which have been difficult to find on the Pacific, for so long the studio more than once was inclined to call it a day. But the patience which marks M-G-M's major endeavors prevailed once again and the consequence is one of the outstanding pictures out of this film factory town in more time than we can readily call to mind. Gorgeous and magnificent seascapes unfold one after the other. Understanding and complete humility were caught in the script, a combination job by John Lee Mahin, Marc Connelly and Dale Van Every, and fortunately imprisoned by intelligent and arresting direction. . . .

Freddie Bartholomew, who has earned his acting spurs long since, never has delivered a performance which compares; he makes many of his adult colleagues look like a bunch of elocutionists posing in front of a mirror for their own amusement. Tracy, with his soft-spoken patois, his shifts in mood from the gentle to the brawny and the constant and persuasive expounding of his philosophy of faith, performs so well and with so much distinction already Hollywood is talking about him for the year's Academy prize with nine months yet to come. "Captains Courageous" has heart, a big heart, and sweeping appeal. It is artistic, but it is likewise commercial, definitely and absolutely, as the next few months will come along to substantiate. . . .

Legion Approves 19 Of 20 New Pictures

The National Legion of Decency, in its list of new pictures for the current week, has approved 19 out of 20 for general or adult patronage, and classed one as objectionable in part. Fourteen were approved for general patronage, and five for adults. The new films and their classification follow:

Class A-1, Unobjectionable for General Patronage—"California Straight Ahead," "Girl Loves Boy," "Land Beyond the Law," "Law of the Ranger," "Lightnin' Crandall," "Sing While You're Able," "Song of the City," "That Man's Here Again," "Top of the Town," "Trapped," "Trouble in Morocco," "Westbound Mail," "When Love Is Young," "With Love and Kisses." Class A-2, Unobjectionable for Adults—"Herren vom Maxim" (German), "Hofkonzert" (German), "Die Kleine Schwindlerin" (German), "The Man Who Found Himself," "Midnight Taxi." Class B, Objectionable in Part—"Outcasts of Poker Flat."

Youth Organization Plans Film Program

A film program has been inaugurated by the Junior Americans of the United States, a membership organization of children between six and 21 years, organized by Harold Davis Emerson and Eli Gottlieb, formerly with Columbia.

According to the present plan, each unit will have about 1,000 members, and weekly meetings will be featured by the showing of films especially selected for the age group. It is planned to lease theatres in all communities where units are located. The leases will be for periods when the houses are usually dark, Saturday or Sunday morning. The movement is described as a factor in a campaign to curb juvenile delinquency.

Appreciation is expressed by the organization for the cooperation of numerous industry executives, including Samuel J. Briskin, Nate B. Spingold, Arthur DeBra, Roy Curtis, Max Weisfeldt, Norman H. Moray, John Manheimer and Harold Rodner.

Warner Sales Drive Ends

The Sears Drive, conducted by the Warner sales department for the past 15 weeks, and named for Gradwell L. Sears, general sales manager, came to an end yesterday. The company reported the final week of the drive as resulting in the largest week's business in distribution, collections and accessories sales in Warner history.

Edward Laemmle Dead

HOLLYWOOD, April 4. — Edward Laemmle, director and nephew of Carl Laemmle, died here of a heart attack Friday night. He was 49. Laemmle was a graduate of Northwestern University and had worked at the Universal studios for 18 years.

Moe Kridel of the Colonial and Palace, Orange, N. J., and William Landau of the Heights, Washington Heights, N. Y., have pledged their support to the Will Rogers Memorial Fund committee in charge of the annual drive for funds.

Collections in all theatres throughout the country start on April 30.

Southwest Has High Hopes of Bright Season

of the past 11 weeks in Kansas City and in most of the territory Friday, Saturday and Sunday have been inclement. It has rained, snowed, or sleeted, or has been cold. With theatres doing almost 50 per cent of their business on weekends, this factor has cut into grosses appreciably, both first and subsequent runs, in Kansas City and out.

But exhibitors are not complaining. They would like to see a better break in weekend weather, but they feel that with any sort of luck between now and June, the business lost because of rain and snow will come back through the box-office multiplied many times. They are taking the long view, and are able to do so because they have been feeling the effect of the drought for the past six years.

Drought Area Optimistic

Even western Kansas, "dust bowl" of newspaper publicity, barring winds and dust storms, has a very good chance of coming back this season, the first time in six years. Moisture conditions there are the best in years and crop authorities hold the chances very good for the best wheat crop since 1931. Exhibitor optimism is indicated in the plans of many for improvements in theatres, on the basis of prospective business.

In Missouri conditions have improved materially since the drought last year. Not only is there a general improvement in business, but crop and price factors are much better as well, reports the monthly agricultural economic review published by the Missouri College of Agriculture.

The same word comes from Iowa.

"I have never seen so much building of new theatres in Iowa," commented E. C. Leeves, district sales representative of Erpi, on his return here after a long trip.

New England Circuit Holdings Show Gains

Boston, April 4.—New England independent theatre holdings have decreased approximately 17 per cent in the past two years, and circuit holdings have increased about eight per cent, according to supplement just added to the 1937 Theatre Guide issued by the Boston Film Board of Trade.

The fact that a number of town and fraternal halls which formerly housed silent films have been deleted from the new guide partly accounts for the loss on the independent side of the ledger, but it cannot account for the fact that circuits have shown such a marked growth. New England, not including Connecticut, is now shown as having 350 circuit theatres and 658 independent houses.

Gordon Heading East

Hollywood, April 4.—Max Gordon will leave for New York about May 15 and shortly thereafter will sail for London where several current plays, all possibilities for his fall stage season in Gotham, call for his attention.

Out Hollywood Way

Hollywood, April 4. — Harry Sherman is rushing production on his "Hopalong Cassidy" series in an effort to catch up with schedule. There will be no rest between "North of the Rio Grande" and "Rustlers' Valley," and "The Barrier" will be started May 5.

Sol Lesser will cut in 32 film critics from as many cities on a telephone hookup for a description of the making of a scene for "Make a Wish." . . . Rita Cansino signed to a term pact by Columbia and her name changed to Rita Hayworth. . . Charles Gorin finishes work in "Broadway Melody of 1937," M-G-M, and leaves for Metropolitan Opera Co. concerts in New York and Chicago. . . . Pete Smith off for a 10-day stay at Palm Springs.

Helen Gahagan here to spend the summer with her husband, Melvyn Douglas. . . . Gary Cooper, back from eastern vacation, resumes work in "Souls at Sea," Paramount. . . . J. P. Normanly, Universal treasurer, home with flu. . . . Steven Wilkinson, New York stage director, signed by Advance Pictures as associate producer.

Charles Boyer's new Wanger contract is on a producer-actor basis. . . . Ian Hunter cast in "That Certain Woman," Warners, in place of John Barrymore. . . . Dick Powell and Ginger Rogers may be co-starred in "Hollywood Hotel" by Warners.

intention to maintain the Metro family without a split in the ranks.

In the background is the Mayer company, formed some years ago under a contract which still has several years to run. Mayer, Rubin and Thalberg, as participating partners, shared in the profits of pictures they produced for the company. It was this profit-sharing which accounts for the huge earning power of these three individuals. Miss Shearer is understood to have claimed equities and profits accruing from Thalberg-produced pictures which are still in distribution throughout the world.

It is understood that the stipulated terms provide three payments and that each will be grafted to each of the first three pictures Shearer will make. This will supplant a flat salary well up in six figures for each picture.

It is not unlikely that Hunt Stromberg or Bernie Hyman will be assigned to production of the Shearer films, with current indications pointing to Stromberg as the choice.

state's highest tribunal without further appeal will be reached at the meeting, due largely to the fact that the high court's opinion was unanimous. The unit adopted the slogan, "Don't hurry to buy—don't sign any film contracts for new season product at this early date." It also went on record as opposed to all drives, "regardless of the company inaugurating same." The opposition to drives was based on the belief that "they are not to the best interest of the exhibitor or healthy to the industry, and they injure the exhibitors in setting up their bookings."

stage move admit, it will be necessary first to have available a number of properly constructed and equipped theatres throughout the country. The bulk of these are film houses.

Sponsors of the new theatre council are endeavoring to enlist the American Federation of Musicians, Scenic Artists and Theatrical Protective Union (stagehands and electricians) in the move. Action by these is expected shortly. Thereafter, officers and directors of the council will be elected and a national advisory board chosen.

Little of a definite nature in the way of advancing the campaign is expected in advance of the May convention, although indications are that efforts will be made before then to sound out exhibitors on their willingness to lend aid, and the Government on the chances of granting subsidies or other material aid to a national stage movement.

The convention is expected to attract dramatists, actors, managers, theatre owners, road managers, theatre labor representatives, Federal theatre officials, summer theatre sponsors, stock theatres and experimental theatre sponsors, promoters of the Council say.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Think Fast, Mr. Moto"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

Hollywood, April 4.—This is a novel mystery story that differs from the usual routine by making the identity of Peter Lorre, who plays the title role, uncertain until the finish. Lorre is a sinister character who confides in no one and holds interest by exhibitions of jiu jitsu, card tricks and mysterious appearances from nowhere.

As the plot unfolds it develops that Lorre is an amateur detective intent on capturing a gang of jewel smugglers who interfere with his own legitimate importing business. Also concerned in the adventure are Thomas Beck, the son of a shipowner, whose romance with Virginia Field, an accomplice of the smugglers, links him with their plot. The story also ties in Sig Ruman, the brain of the smuggling outfit; John Rogers, Murray Kinnel and J. Carrol Naish, as lesser desperadoes.

Norman Foster's direction ably extracts all the subtleties in the script which he wrote in collaboration with Howard Ellis Smith. The original story is by J. P. Marquand. Sol Wurtzel's production rates high in the mystery-action classification and the picture should please all audiences seeking that type of entertainment.

Production Code Seal No. 3,199. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Mountain Justice"

(Warners)

Hollywood, April 4.—Delving into yesterday's headlines which screamed of the girl who killed her father accidentally following mistreatment, and combining with it a well developed romance and the effort of the girl to bring medical aid to the mountain folk, the writers and director of this film have made of it a compelling drama of hill country life.

Its moments of tragedy, and there are many, almost too weighty, its excellent characterizations having the breadth of reality, the film is given active impetus with a stirring open air trial as the girl is tried for the murder of her father, and the bold maneuver by which she is rescued from a hood-covered mob of grim mountaineers after the jury recommends clemency.

Josephine Hutchinson as the girl and Robert Barrat as the almost crazed father whose mistreatment of her probably will be shocking to many, offer sterling performances, while able support comes from George Brent, the young lawyer from "outside," with whom she falls in love; Guy Kibbee as the country doctor who shares with the girl a desire to establish clinics for the poor children of the hills, and Mona Barrie, Miss Hutchinson's friend, who contributes to the clinics.

Michael Curtiz, director, has crowded his picture with action and drama, and in their original screenplay Norman Reilly Raine and Luci Ward have given him and the cast something with which to work.

Running time, 85 minutes. "A."

Wisconsin Circuit Changes Personnel

Milwaukee, April 4.—A shift of personnel by H. J. Fitzgerald, general manager of Fox Wisconsin, finds A. H. Miller the new district manager for the circuit's Strand, Miller, Riviera, Kosciuszko, Layton Park, Grace, Paradise and Allis, with L. Roy Pierce concentrating on the Wisconsin, Palace, Tower, Oriental, Downer, State, Venetian, Sherman and Shorewood. All are located in Milwaukee County.

Henry Tollette, former assistant to Pierce, has been named manager of the Oriental, and Jack LeVois, former assistant supervisor of the houses in the state, has been named manager of the Wisconsin. Verne Touchett of Fond du Lac succeeds LeVois as assistant to State Supervisor W. V. Geehan, and Harold Knudson, formerly manager of the Odeon in Beaver Dam, succeeds Touchett as manager of the three Fond du Lac houses.

Wilmington, April 4.—A general strike of all truckmen here, which had threatened to close film theatres owing to the impossibility of getting delivery of films, was called off yesterday. Theatres are operating as usual.

Variety Club

Omaha

Omaha, April 4.—The local tent has revealed that the financial success of the national convention here April 17 and 18 is guaranteed.

Goals of $4,000 set for the dinner-entertainment and $5,000 for the souvenir program have been attained. Four hundred $10 tickets for the dinner have been sold and at least 50 more will be purchased, local barkers said. The advertising revenue has exceeded the $400 quota.

Bob Burns and Martha Raye may be sent to the convention by Paramount. Shirley Ross, formerly of Omaha, is another Paramount possibility and it is believed M-G-M and 20th Century-Fox will send at least one representative each.

The attendance of M. H. Aylesworth as convention speaker seemed assured following a long distance conversation between J. E. Davidson, president of the Nebraska Power Co., a personal friend, and Aylesworth. Evert R. Cummings, chairman of the entertainment committee, still declines to announce the identity of other acts on the banquet program.

E. M. Loew Planning Lynn Drive-In House

Boston, April 4.—E. M. Loew has completed negotiations with the Port Authority of the City of Lynn to lease 160,000 square feet of land on city-owned property for the erection of an open air automobile drive-in theatre.

The lease was drawn by City Solicitor Patrick F. Shanahan. It calls for a three-year original lease with an option of renewal for three, five, or 10 years at $4,000 per year with Loew paying the taxes. An option to buy at a price to be determined later, if necessary, by an arbitration board, is also contained. The theatre, on a main highway to the North Shore, will accommodate about 300 cars and will cost about $40,000.

Short Subjects

"Romance of Robert Burns"

(Vitaphone)

A brief romantic interlude in the famed Scotch poet's life is enacted in this two-reeler. It is done in Technicolor and should be satisfactory as historical entertainment. The treatment is similar to the Patrick Henry and Francis Scott Key films. The romantic story is of a familiar pattern. Though love is in his home town, Burns goes to Edinburgh to find it. The flush of success fails to change him from his farmer-poet breeding and he brawls with the snobbish aristocracy. He also learns of false affection. He returns home and marries Jean Armour.

The climax is worked out with the old race-against-time histrionics, but on the whole the film is first rate. The color and atmosphere of Burns' period is convincingly re-created. Of course "Auld Lang Syne" is sung and Owen King, who plays Burns, effectively recites one of the poet's more serious efforts. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 16 mins. "G."

"The Wedding Deal"

(Columbia)

The story involved in this Court of Human Relations issue is dull stuff clumsily handled. Perhaps it will find acceptance with the great True Stories circulation. The plot concerns the plight of a young doctor who married so he could be financed through college by the bride's father. In his work he falls in love with a patient who breaks off when she learns of his wife. Later, the patient dies and leaves a child. The whole problem concerns the couple's adoption of the young girl. It is settled after a reel of unconvincing dramatics. Production Code Seal No. 01,217. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Singing in the Air"

(Radio)

A rather novel and entertaining idea is offered in this comedy. It concerns the efforts of Edward J. Flanagan to put Diana Lewis over on a radio program that is to be broadcast from their company's airplanes. Interwoven in the slight plot are some pleasant songs. Kitty McHugh, Donald Kerr and Harry Bowen round out the comedy. Production Code Seal No. 2,574. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"Ski Skill"

(M-G-M)

The combination of spectacular skiing scenes in the Austrian Tyrol with witty narration by Pete Smith makes an item that will satisfy. The excellent cutting of the various aspects of a downhill ski chase creates a mood of spectacular exhilaration that communicates itself to the audience. The clever stop and slow motion effects evident in the Smith output are present. Production Code Seal No. 3,970. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"It's a Living"

(Paramount)

The many little known occupations that provide sustenance for many people are revealed here. The artificial eye industry, wig making, the manufacture of corncob pipes, a professional screamer, a pie thrower for the films, and finally spectacular scenes aboard a tuna clipper with the technique of angling set forth. It is done in color. Production Code Seal No. 3,015. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Romantic Mexico"

(Van Beuren-Radio)

A first-rate travel item splendidly photographed. Various interesting buildings, parks, ruins, canals, etc., are shown in fine camera compositions and Alois Havrilla's comment is enlightening. It should be a welcome change from European travel fare. Production Code Seal No. 01,444. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"King Soccer"

(Rice-Paramount)

The national game of the Argentine —Soccer—is offered in this Sportlight. But it is more than just an illustration of how the game is played south of the Equator. With enlightening continuity, it covers the sporting and cosmopolitan life of Buenos Aires in an interesting manner. Also, Ted Husing gives facts and figures both geographical and pertaining to soccer. The latter takes up the second half of the reel and many exciting plays are shown. Production Code Seal No. 01,478. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Glimpses of Java and Ceylon"

(Fitzpatrick-M-G-M)

Here are superb camera scenes of the two islands in the Far East. Technicolor reveals the colorful aspects of the inhabitants, buildings and occupations. There are also fine camera portraits of the native types. The accompanying narrative is lucid and informative. It maintains the high standard of other offerings by Fitzpatrick. Production Code Seal No. 3,093. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Beethoven Concerto"

(Amkino)

The novelty of this production from Russia lies in the fact that there is considerably less of the usual propaganda for the Russian system than is generally found in importations from that source.

It concerns the competition sponsored by the Government for child musicians, and therein is subtly inserted the conception that the Soviet state is at great pains to care for its young, give them the greatest of opportunities and see to it that budding genius shall not go unsung.

However, in that the film lacks much in basic technical and production value, it has its appeal chiefly for those whose hands automatically move to applause when the product of the Soviet screen appears. It must be said that the two children who play the leading roles, two young violin students, perform with an ingenuous ease which leads one to believe the program note that the children are not professionals.

The two children, one the son of a violin teacher, are trained for the competition by the professor. The son wins a hearing, the second fails, but shares in his friend's triumph as the young violinist plays a composition of the other boy. There are numerous human and humorous touches throughout.

No production code seal. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Overseas Previews

"Menilmontant"

(Paris-Ciné-Films)

PARIS, March 26.—"Menilmontant" is one of those districts of Paris situated at the city limits, on a hill, where, surrounded by modern buildings, one can still find old hovels, with gardens around them. The film shows the lives of the good people who live there, simply, easily pleased, and with their dreams and their hopes.

The entire film is moving, as it recounts the story of these simple and pathetic figures. It is the direct opposite of the sophisticated stories so often shown on the screen.

Three men, costermongers, live in Menilmontant. They find a diamond brooch and return it to the owner, a wealthy woman. She wishes to reward them, but they refuse. Instead of rewarding them personally she gives them the funds necessary for the realization of their dream, which is to build a garden for the children of Menilmontant.

The film has been directed with much understanding by René Guissart. It shows life in a poor district of Paris and there are many scenes, with children, which are full of freshness. Signoret, Larquey, and Bever take the parts of the old men perfectly. Therése Dorny, Valentine Tessier, Josette Day and Bernard Lancret are also in this excellent cast. Not attempting to be a big picture, this is worthy of notice, and it may interest foreign audiences who will find in it a clean and unusual film.

Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

AUTRE

Short Subjects

"Little Maestro"

(M-G-M)

There is a similarity in this satirical effort with the early Charlie Chaplin films. The plot blends pathos and comedy and unwinds as rather novel entertainment. Jerry Bergen pantomimes his way through the picture as a hungry violinist who wanders into a night club kitchen. He is received with open arms by the music-loving chef and fed royally. Then he must do his stuff. Hardly ever uttering a sound, he goes through a series of idiotic turns on the floor that will bring guffaws by the dozen. It is different. Production Code Seal No. 2,812. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Sailor Maid"

(Columbia)

Obvious comic antics are re-hashed in this comedy. Polly Moran is featured. The meagre plot has Miss Moran introduced as a deportee. After she escapes from immigration headquarters, two reels are devoted to recording her exploits as she tries to marry herself to a sailor. Her chase takes her aboard a battleship, out to sea and finally into the sea. But she gets her man and strikes out for shore. It is the lowest sort of slapstick. Production Code Seal No. 2,926. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"Horse Play"

(Radio)

Jack Norton's comic antics in this two-reeler should prove satisfying. The slight story involves Norton with his cranky neighbors when he joins a polo club. The gift horse included with his membership irritates Kitty McHugh, his wife, and Frank O'Connor. This irritation is the basis of the humorous content and resulting scenes are well handled. Production Code Seal No. 8,621. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"The Fella with the Fiddle"

(Vitaphone)

A pleasant and well executed color cartoon. In flashback, it illustrates a lesson to young field mice in greed. Grandpa field mouse tells the story of a phoney blind fiddler whose lust for gold lands him in the interior of a marauding cat. The picture has exciting sequences and hands the audience a laugh at its conclusion. Production Code Seal No. 3,096. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Bosko's Easter Eggs"

(Harman-Ising-M-G-M)

The younger element in the audience will appreciate the idea set forth in this cartoon. It concerns a pair of pickaninnies and their exchange of eggs on Easter morning. Young Bosko smashes his eggs. To replace them he steals his girl's collection which have just been laid and thereby gets himself involved with an irate hen. From that point on he is tormented by the distraught hen and only after the eggs are hatched with the aid of a hot water bottle does he rest from her ire. It is well drawn and colored material. Production Code Seal No. 3,105. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

pact and contracts with major circuits and look upon the C.I.O. drive for studio and theatre recognition as futile. An unofficial observer said that there is only one industry branch wherein the drive might prove effective and that is the independent theatres. I.A.T.S.E. heads are content to let the rival units have them as they have been a source of nothing but grief since the start of the closed shop drive. They feel that the whole matter might better be washed up with the independents.

The I.A.T.S.E. is watching the C.I.O.'s careful moves to organize the industry through Empire Projectionists' and admits that spotters have attended the meetings but claims absolute loyalty and harmony among the I.A.T.S.E. membership.

The I.A.T.S.E. will definitely back the Screen Actors' Guild in its demands for producer recognition at the annual meetings in New York, according to the spokesman.

The checker's report to his newspaper was that the business has slumped as a result of the little advertising that was being done up to the present time.

Conferences Seek Cuts In "B" Product Costs

Hollywood, April 5.—Universal will produce 12 "A" pictures next year with releases totaling 36, the same as this year. Day and night conferences during the past few days have concentrated on ways and means of cutting negative costs on "B" product.

Negotiations now in progress may result in Henry Henigson's return to the Universal studio as general manager. Agreement on salary has been reached, the only factor remaining to be decided being the extent of the authority which Henigson would have under Charles R. Rogers, vice-president in charge of production.

Rogers states that the Universal studio is five months ahead of its release schedule and that four films a month will be produced instead of

Ascap Bill Validity Doubted in Nebraska

Lincoln, April 5.—Reporting on the constitutionality of the anti-Ascap measure before the unicameral here, the Constitutional Interpretations Committee stated this week that the bill will be found unconstitutional if passed because it covers too much territory.

The bill, offered by Senator Frank Brady, asks that the Sherman anti-trust law be written on the Nebraska statute books and that Ascap be found in restraint of trade and not be allowed to operate in Nebraska. Brady's bill is backed by radio stations, theatre men and dance hall operators in Nebraska. Montana and Washington have already enacted measures along these lines.

Tally Ho!

Boston, April 5.—Roy E. Heffner, Bank night distributor and owner of Specialty Pictures, Inc., local exchange, has been a-hunting. A deer head, a deer pelt, a lamp made from three legs of a deer, and an ash tray fashioned from the hoof of a deer give his office a nimrod touch.

Imagine what the place would look like if Heffner had bagged an elephant.

Statistics

Sheldon, Ia., April 5.—R. F. Kehrberg, secretary of Kehrberg Bros., Inc., owners of the Iowa and Star here, claims they have shown 2,729 pictures, 111,824,000 feet of film, over 6,822,000 feet of short subjects and 114 stage plays in the 14 years they have been in the show business here.

In calculating the amount of kissing in features and shorts, he estimates it all would add up to one kiss lasting 22½ days of 24 hours each.

Of last year's total, 763 were features and 812 were short subjects. There were 161 reissues of features and shorts in this list as compared with 412 in 1935. Member companies of the M.P.P.D.A. produced 462 of the 763 features approved by the Production Code Administration, non-member companies produced 242 and foreign companies, 59. Of the shorts,

Television's Cost Causing B. B. C. Crisis

Asks Cost Be Charged to Treasury's 25%

By BRUCE ALLAN

London, April 5. — The heavy cost of television experiment and transmission, amounting to £111,500 during 1936, although a public service did not begin until November, has caused a financial crisis in the British Broadcasting Corp.

The annual report of the corporation, semi-official body which enjoys a monopoly on radio transmission, states that the situation during the next 10 years will cause "great anxiety," unless the cost of television is charged to the 25 per cent of revenue which, at present, is taken by the Treasury.

Additional developments in radio on pages 6 and 7.

During the past 10 years the B. B. C. had a total income from license fees of £13,864,000, plus a profit on publications of £2,746,000, a total of £16,610,000. Of this amount the Treasury and Post Office obtained £11,371,000.

In 1936, the total income was £2,953,469 and the expenditure £2,579,-

Studio Labor Unions Given 10% Increase

Painters Reject Basis of Reentry to Agreement

A 10 per cent increase in wages for the approximately 20,000 members of the I.A.T.S.E., the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, I.B.E.W. and International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs was granted at the initial conferences between heads of the major producing companies and presidents of the unions included in the five-year basic agreement with the studios, Pat Casey, producers' labor representative, reported yesterday.

The application of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers for readmission to the basic contract after an absence of five years was granted by the meeting, but rejected by the union when it was specified that admission to the pact would include only the labor classifications which were covered prior to the union's withdrawal from the agreement in 1932.

The application of the Screen Actors' Guild for inclusion under the agreement failed to reach the meeting prior to its adjournment and remains to be considered at a later session which will be called as soon as con-

What will probably be the final meeting of distribution companies' attorneys to decide whether or not to contest further in the courts the recen decision holding New York City film rentals to be subject to the two per cent municipal sales tax will be held today at M. P. P. D. A. headquarters.

A majority of the lawyers now appear to favor payment of the tax for the two years it has been in effect, together with penalties and interest, in preference to seeking either a rehearing before New York's highest court or an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Too Many Wives"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, April 5.—Gay comedy romance engages the attention of the leads, Anne Shirley and John Morley, the latter a newcomer, Given farce-tinged material with which to work, they are aided in their amusing experiences by Gene Lockhart, Dudley Clements, Barbara Pepper, Frank Melton, Charles Coleman, Dot Farley, Jock Carson and George Irving.

Morley meets Miss Shirley in the park and it's love at first sight. Morley gets a job as "fall guy" in a newspaper office. Everything goes well as he takes the blame for everything that goes wrong until Editor Clements gets into a jam with Lockhart, the girl's father. Then the story turns into a farce mystery comedy. Stamp collector Lockhart loses a prized stamp and Morley, who Clements establishes as a detective and also a husband and father, must find the stamp and also convince Miss Shirley he is unmarried. To the turn of a long but drawn out chase, he succeeds in both.

Based on the story, "Satisfaction Guaranteed," the screenplay is by Dorothy Yost, Lois Eby and John Grey. Ben Holmes directed. It should serve to stir up quite a bit of laughter in houses where the clientele is not too discriminating.

Talks Continue on English Trade Body

London, April 5.—Discussions looking to the possible development of a joint trade body for the industry in England were continued here today among representatives of the Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors) and the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n, at the offices of the K. R. S. The first meeting was held here last Thursday.

The origin of the meetings was the recent hint by Dr. E. Leslie Burgin, Parliamentary secretary of the Board of Trade, that the Government would step in if the industry showed itself incapable of self regulation.

It was officially stated that progress was made at the session today, and that the meetings would be resumed tomorrow. However, it is generally understood here that the exhibitors are holding out for a statutory arbitration board as their price for supporting the distributor opposition to the quota and other severe recommendations in the report of the Moyne committee on revision of the Films Act, which expires next year.

The Hit Parade

Photographed by Ernest Miller. Special effects by John T. Coyle. Supervising editor, Murray Seldeen. Film editors, Ernest Nims and Lester Orlebeck. Musical supervision by Harry Grey. Musical director, Alberto Colombo. Songs by Lou Handman, Walter Hirsch, Ned Washington, Sam H. Stept, Cliff Friend, Matt Malneck, Duke Ellington. Costumes by Eloise. Cast: Frances Langford, Phil Regan, Louise Henry, Pert Kelton, Edward Brophy, Max Terhune, Inez Courtney, Monroe Owsley, Pierre Watkin, J. Farrell MacDonald, William Demarest, George Givot, Sammy White, The Gentle Maniacs, Tic Toc Girls, Carl Hoff and Hit Parade orchestra, Duke Ellington and band with Ivie Anderson, Eddie Duchin and orchestra, Molasses and January, Pick and Pat, Al Pearce and his Gang, the Voice of Experience, Ed Thorgersen, Oscar and Elmer. Previewed at Alexander, Glendale, March 30. Running time; 80 mins.

'The Hit Parade' has about everything necessary for an entertaining filmusical.

Swift-moving, studded with light entertainers of practically every type, copiously produced, the picture is one continuous parade of screen and radio talent. It's a big show with everything thrown in. Virtually all display their wares to advantage. It is a kaleidoscope of action on the revue plan. Much of it smacks of vaudeville.

While the story is not important, theme nevertheless provides a string on which to hang the various turns. Frances Langford is a singer who jumps from [illegible] record [illegible] radio fame through [illegible] Regan, radio scout [illegible] the height of her [illegible] posed by Louise [illegible] he takes on a [illegible] he is forgiven [illegible] for her and Regan does a swell job. His likeable personality registers well, as do his singing and love scenes with Miss Langford, who though not treated so gently by the camera at times, gives a thoroughly entertaining performance. Miss Henry, as the hoity-toity Park avenue radio singer, gives a convincing performance.

The comedy is downright funny. Edward Brophy, as an air show sponsor risen from the slot-machine racket, is a definite standout for laughs. Max Terhune also does well in a novel role of which he makes the most. Others who contribute to the comedy include Pert Kelton, Inez Courtney and William Demarest.

As the uppity boy friend of Miss Henry, Monroe Owsley registers in a semi-heavy role. Pierre Watkin, J. Farrell MacDonald, George Givot and Sammy White carry through in other parts.

Those contributing routines include: The Gentle Maniacs, Tic Toc Girls, Carl Hoff and the Hit Parade orchestra, Duke Ellington and his band with Ivie Anderson, Eddie Duchin and his band, Molasses and January, Pick and Pat, Al Pearce and his Gang, the Voice of Experience, Ed Thorgersen, Oscar and Elmer.

Gus Meins has directed creditably. Producer Nat Levine, and his associate producer, Colbert Clark, have intelligently assembled the various entertainment elements and given the picture noteworthy mounting.

Musical supervision of Harry Grey and musical direction of Alberto Colombo are accomplished and present a wide diversity of melodies, mostly by Lou Handman, Walter Hirsch, Ned Washington, Sam H. Stept, Cliff Friend, Matt Malneck and Duke Ellington.

Camera work of Ernest Miller for the most part is up to standard, as are other technical departments. Screen play of Bradford Ropes and Samuel Ornitz provides a sufficient motivation for the presentation of the numbers and they have dovetailed their talent neatly.

Cast: Frances Langford, Phil Regan, Louise Henry, Pert Kelton, Edward Brophy, Max Terhune, Inez Courtney, Monroe Owsley, Pierre Watkin, J. Farrell MacDonald, George Givot, Sammy White, the Gentle Maniacs, Tic Toc Girls, Carl Hoff and orchestra, Duke Ellington and his band, with Ivie Anderson, Eddie Duchin and his orchestra, Molasses and January, Pick and Pat, Al Pearce and his Gang, The Voice of Experience, Ed Thorgersen, Oscar and Elmer.

Oodles of talent, including a whole sheaf of names with draw value, have been packed into this lively, popular-appeal musical. It is Nat Levine's farewell offering under the Republic banner and he has given it the works with unsparing hand. The result is swift-moving and continuous entertainment and a sure moneymaker for all concerned.

Radio is the subject and the mainstay of the picture and this makes logical the presentation of one musical or comedy number after another at a pace so fast that it fairly skids. It also gives reason for the introduction of several radio personalities widely popular but not seen before, in addition to the attractive twin stars, Frances Langford and Phil Regan, and a strong comedy cast.

Synthetic Quartet

Film success of the Ritz Brothers and the Yacht Club Boys has decided Paramount to make a synthetic quartet out of Ben Blue, Shaw and Lee, and Rome Vincent. The comedy combo will probably be tried out in "This Way, Please," a Mel Shauer production to start shooting April 19.

Frances Langford is an unknown singer, struggling upward in a sister act at a lower-class cafe, and Phil Regan is a radio agent who has broken off with his star attraction, Louise Henry. On a talent scouting trip he finds Frances and spends the rest of the story in promoting her to the big time and winning her heart. This gives the attractive singer the chance to score with three songs, the most promising of which is "Last Night I Dreamed of You," by Walter Hirsch and Lou Handman, an undoubted hit. She also sings to success "Sweet Heartache," by Sam H. Stept and Ned Washington, in which also Phil Regan makes his one vocal contribution. The two young leads make an attractive romantic team and young Regan advances himself by his brisk portrayal of the go-getter agent.

A comedy hit is registered by Max Terhune, wellknown vaudevillian, here given his first real chance in pictures. His animal imitations and his ventriloquist act make fresh picture stuff and register exceedingly well. Ed Brophy adds to the laughs with a vociferous portrait of a radio sponsor constantly on the verge of heart failure. George Givot delivers good comedy as the tongue-twisted cafe proprietor, and Sammy White has a brief look-in for his antics.

Outstanding numbers are those by the three wellknown bands. Duke Ellington contributes a new "Rugcutter Song" and a swing arrangement of a medley of Viennese waltzes. His characteristic renditions are well aided by his vocal soloist, Ivie Anderson.

Eddy Duchin and his orchestra add to the popular appeal with brisk dance tunes, already popular. Adding Carl Hoff and the big Hit Parade orchestra, there is plenty of tuneful minutes, but never too many or too much of anything. Harry Grey, musical supervisor, has used excellent taste and nice discretion in the presentation of this musical menu, and Alberto Colombo, musical director, adds fine feeling and judgment in the handling of his accompaniments.

Radio Acts Brought In

The story writers, Bradford Ropes and Samuel Ornitz, have shown ingenuity and resource in building a familiar story into a fitting frame for such a variety of material. For the brief appearances of Al Pearce and his gang, Molasses and January, Ed Thorgersen, Oscar and Elmer, and the Voice of Experience they have turned a neat trick. In addition, they have kept the dialog throughout short and snappy, smartly ending each episode with a laugh line.

Gus Meins, directing, has wisely kept the proceedings moving at a fast farce tempo and put the weight of emphasis on comedy. Excellent and sometimes arresting photography is contributed by Ernest Miller, notably in the orchestra closeups and the production number in which the pleasantly vocal Tic Toc Girls are featured. Which leads to credit for one other song that will near the hit class, "Love is Good for Anything that Ails You," by Cliff Friend and Matt Malneck.

Other members of the cast that earn credit are lovely Louise Henry as a temperamental Park Avenue vocalist, Pert Kelton as Frances Langford's loyal and protective partner, Monroe Owsley as Regan's highhat rival, Pierre Watkin as the radio station manager, J. Farrell MacDonald as radio story-teller and William Demarest as a persistent parole officer.

The production is handsomely mounted and edited with judgment and its large total of entertainment and total absence of dull moments is a marked credit to Colbert Clark, the producer in charge.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Hit Parade"

(Republic)

SAN DIEGO, March 29.—Nat Levine, producer, has spared no expense in this production, which should enable exhibitors to attract plenty of patron attention with such names as Phil Regan, Frances Langford, Eddy Duchin, Al Pearce, Pick and Pat, George Givot, Molasses 'n' January, Carl Hoff, the Voice of Experience, Roy Smeck and others.

A preview audience here last night gave the film a good reception. It is fast-moving, with plenty of catchy tunes, good voices and sufficient comedy, most of the latter element supplied by Cowboy Max Terhune.

The story, an original by Bradford Ropes, with the screenplay by Ropes and Samuel Ornitz, concerns Regan's search for a radio star to outshine Louise Henry, who has thrown him over for her attorney, Monroe Owsley. The plot is chiefly a vehicle for the purpose of presenting well known stars of the air. Most of the action is set in Station WKN. After Regan's rebuff, he picks up Terhune, they seek a new star, and find Miss Langford singing in a beer hall. The rest of the story has to do with Miss Langford's fight to replace Miss Henry on the hour sponsored by the wealthy Ed Brophy. In a well-motivated climax, Miss Langford is identified as an escaped convict. Famous stars stage a testimonial program in her honor and she returns just in time to receive the governor's pardon and a kiss from Regan.

Other players deserving [illegible] are Pert Kelton, J. Farrell MacDonald, Sammy White, Ed[illegible]en, Tic Toc Girls and Inez Courtney.

New Shows On the Air

"Edwin C. Hill News Parade"

If listeners needed a reminder that Edwin C. Hill is the best news commentator in radio, they received one yesterday afternoon when the veteran reporter and commentator bowed in for Lucky Strike cigarettes on CBS. Hill's pattern, of course, differs not at all from that employed by his competitors, but none, in our estimation, can match him in his ability to breathe life and animation into inanimate microphone news readings. Commentator who closest approaches Hill in word artistry is Lowell Thomas, but we think Hill best.

On the opening 15-minute stanza, Hill commented on the arrival of those two perennial harbingers of spring—the circus and the blossoming of the cherry trees in Washington; reported the latest developments in the Supreme Court situation, the Spanish war, the sit-down strikes, and the stock market situation.

Working in an anecdote, he recounted some of the ghostly legends of the Tower of London as they were told to him during a recent interview by the keeper of the British crown jewels.

Hill's "News Parades" are broadcast Mondays through Fridays at 12:15 P. M., E.S.T. American Tobacco Co. sponsors.

"Gas Light Theatre"

Played with all the gusty flavor of the gas light era, Mutual's new coast-to-coast offerings of famous old "mellerdramas," "Gas Light Theatre," should find an appreciative audience waiting for them each Saturday night. A prerequisite for thorough enjoyment of the shows, however, should be a mug of beer within elbow-reach, your reviewer must warn.

The initial "draymer" was "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight," played to the hilt by silent screen stars Creighton Hale, William Desmond, Wilfred Lucas, Dorothy Farley, Joseph De Grasse, Minta Durfee Arbuckle and Fred Bowers. The program would do a swell selling job for a sponsor. The airings are heard Saturdays from 9:30 to 10 P. M., E.S.T., originating in the studios of Don Lee's KHJ, Los Angeles.

Lane," pioneer radio serial with programs originating on the coast. He stated that NBC would maintain studios here permanently as a convenience to sponsors and agencies and because Hollywood offered the necessary talent and technicians. He added, however, that his company would continue to broadcast good programs from wherever they were available.

Gilman was silent on the subject of radio competition with theatres but said that radio is doing its part to elevate standards of taste in the entertainment field generally.

Discussing Paramount's filming of "One Man's Family," Gilman said that this was entirely experimental, that the serial had never actually been sold and that bidding on it still is in progress.

Gilman declared that he sees no dearth of talent at the moment and added that NBC will always be able to take care of its talent needs. The NBC official stated that he sees television in practical form not next year but shortly thereafter.

Claude A. Labelle, radio and drama editor of the local Scripps-Howard newspapers, acted as master of ceremonies.

Ford Program Going to CBS

Due to NBC's inability to clear Saturday time for the Ford Motor Co's. "Universal Rhythm" program, the series will shift to the CBS network, with the first airing scheduled for April 17, from 7:30 to 8 P. M., E.S.T. N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., is the agency.

Vic, Sade Drop One; Take Another

Vic and Sade, who for the last few weeks have been heard in two Wednesday night broadcasts in addition to the two-a-day, five-days-a-week schedule, will drop one of the Wednesday night performances and add a Tuesday night broadcast effective today.

Under the new schedule the show will be heard at 10:45 P. M., E.S.T. each Tuesday over the NBC Red network and the Wednesday night show will be heard over the Blue at 10 P. M., E.S.T., thus keeping the same time and network they have occupied since the shows were added. The 7:45 P. M., E.S.T. Wednesday broadcast for the last few weeks will be eliminated in favor of the Tuesday night show. The change will expand greatly the Red network audience for the program for under the former schedule only a portion of the Red network was available for the broadcast.

NBC Resuming Field Testing Of Experimental Television

NBC yesterday resumed experimental television field tests with the new 441-line definition. The tests will continue throughout the spring and summer months on a scale said to be the largest ever undertaken in the United States.

The test programs will be televised daily over the NBC transmitter in the Empire State tower and the quality of reception will be checked by NBC engineers on more than 75 receivers placed at selected points throughout the Metropolitan area.

O. B. Hanson, NBC chief engineer, said that the object of the new tests is to determine the home program potentiality of high-definition television. These will be NBC's first tests under practical field conditions. While testing the quality of 441-line transmission, NBC also will experiment in television programming and production. Elisabeth Rethberg, Mario Chamlee, Walter Damrosch, Helen Hayes and Lanny Ross are among those who will appear before the iconoscope.

NBC engineers state that there are still many major problems to be solved in the televising of different colors, scenes and types of performances. A tentative schedule is under consideration which would provide for four evenings a week on alternate weeks for this purpose. NBC is inviting leaders in stage design, textiles, decoration and fashion to cooperate in solving the problems of television staging.

Ralph Wonders, acting for Rockwell-O'Keefe, and Morris Small, executive of the Hollywood film talent agency, handled the contract.

venient for the various parties to the agreement.

The 10 per cent wage increase for the four studio unions will add $3,000,000 annually to studio payrolls, company officials estimated yesterday. It is the second consecutive year that the unions have won a 10 per cent increase at the annual conferences on wages and working conditions provided for in the basic agreement. The increase does not apply to the American Federation of Musicians, whose studio wage scale is negotiated separately.

The rejection of the offer to include the Painters' and Decorators' union in the agreement was due to the provision that make-up artists, hairdressers, art directors and draughtsmen, who were added to the union's membership just prior to its withdrawal from the agreement in 1932, would not be included. The union's withdrawal at that time was also due to the refusal of the producers and other labor unions to agree to include those workers' classifications, in addition to the painters and decorators, in the pact. It was stipulated, however, that the wage increase granted for this year would also apply to the Painters and Decorators union on its reentry.

An application by a studio laborers' union for inclusion under the agreement was also acted upon favorably by the meeting but details of the conditions of its admission are still under discussion.

HOLLYWOOD, April 5.—Lawrence Lindelop, president of the Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers International, today threatened to call a strike at the studios because of the refusal of the New York labor conference to accept its terms of readmission to the basic agreement.

Guild Actors' Wages Holding Up Agreement

Seek Classification of Groups in Talks Here

The difficulty of establishing standard minimum wage schedules for the widely varied talent classifications represented by the Screen Actors' Guild membership stands as the principal bar to recognition of the players' union by the studios, it was learned yesterday following further informal conferences between Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the Guild, and Pat Casey, labor representative for major studios.

All of the five international unions now included in the basic labor agreement with the studios advocated recognition of the guild and its admission to the basic agreement at the meeting earlier this week of the union and production company heads. For this reason, it appears inevitable that some form of definite action on the guild's inclusion will have to be taken prior to the departure from New York of the various union and company heads. The action either may be decided here or a basis laid for an agreement to be finally worked out between Casey and Thomson on their return to Hollywood, it now appears.

Thomson contends that minimum wage scales for the player members of the guild are not an issue at

Circuits, Stagehands Again Discuss Wages

Circuit executives met yesterday with representatives of Local 1 and Local 4 of the stagehands' union on the question of increasing wages. Both sides are standing pat on their offers and another meeting will be held in the near future, the date to be set later.

The unions demanded an increase of 15 per cent, retroactive to March 1. Circuit representatives proposed a two-year deal which would provide for a six per cent increase now, another six per cent hike on Sept. 1

Para. Meet Set June 10-13; Warners to Name Date Soon

Neil F. Agnew, vice-president in charge of distribution for Paramount, yesterday set June 10-13 as the dates for the company's annual sales convention at the Ambassador, Los Angeles.

The one big meeting was decided upon instead of two regionals which had been considered for some time. The coast sessions will be attended by division, district and branch managers in addition to home office and studio executives. It will be followed later by district meetings to be supervised by district managers and which will be attended by sales forces, bookers and office managers.

Warner sales heads are discussing plans for holding the annual sales convention in Los Angeles the latter part of May or early June.

Roy H. Haines, eastern division head, will leave for the coast in about two weeks to arrange details. Before he heads west, the Monday Knighters will tender him a banquet in honor of his recent promotion.

Last year the company held a number of regionals. Gradwell L. Sears, general sales manager, returned from the coast Monday after conferring with Jack L. Warner and Hal B. Wallis on production plans for next season.

LONDON, April 6.—A preliminary agreement was reached today on overbuilding, a standard contract and "various trading conditions," at the joint meeting of the representatives of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n and the Kinematograph Renters Society, from which is expected to develop a single supervisory industry trade body.

The Film Group of the Federation of British Industries was invited today to attend the next joint meeting, scheduled for Monday, to discuss the quota, the proposed Government film commission and other controversial points in the recent Moyne report on revision of the Films Act, which expires next year.

The official attitude of the C.E.A. is that exhibitors and distributors should clear up the outstanding business differences before tackling the CBS's new television transmitter will be manufactured by RCA, it was revealed yesterday by David Sarnoff, RCA president, at the annual meeting of RCA stockholders.

Commenting on television, Sarnoff admitted that the art still needs further improvement in transmission as well as reception before it can become a nationwide service. He said, however, that RCA was in the forefront of television development, and that it is his firm conviction that television ultimately will be established here on a practical and free nation-wide basis.

Theatres Seek Renewed Fight On Sales Tax

As Result, Distributors' Lawyers Delay Action

Exhibitors yesterday intervened in the deliberations by distribution companies' attorneys at M. P. P. D. A. headquarters to urge further opposition to the payment of the two per cent municipal sales tax on film rentals collected within the city, with the result that company lawyers again delayed a decision on abandoning further legal action on the tax.

A majority of the distributors' attorneys had favored accepting the ruling of the Court of Appeals without a new legal contest either in the way of an application for a rehearing or an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court. Circuit representatives yesterday, however, are reported to have urged further action on the ground that current admission levels cannot absorb the tax and to pass it on to the public would involve an increase in scales which would bring many houses up to or beyond the 41-cent Federal admission tax level.

Distributors have until April 25 to apply to the Court of Appeals for a rehearing. Yesterday's meetings, like the four others which preceded it, adjourned without a decision being made. Indications are that another meeting of the attorneys will be called soon to consider further the several courses of action which are still open.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 6.

ON May 12 England crowns her George. One week earlier up and down the land Warners make their bid for top money with a coronation of their own. They turned to Mark Twain for inspiration and found his "Prince and the Pauper" waiting for their cameras.

This famous flight of the Twain imagination is so well known that to repeat the fanciful tale of Edward, the Prince, and Tom, the boy who changed clothes with him for a lark and almost altered the destinies of the British royal family, would seem as necessary as persuading the English unicorn to roar the louder.

Billy Mauch plays Tom and his pea-in-the-pod brother does Edward. There have been better juvenile actors, but the comedy richness of the parts and their boyish charm give them sufficient opportunity to kick in pleasing performances. This "Prince and the Pauper" is supercharged with hokum, lots of it pretty engaging. It has Errol Flynn as its dashing hero quick with the rapier; it has its sinister Earl of Hertford, played by Claude Rains in what is an outstanding acting job; it has its medieval background, its fiery horses, its court ceremony, and above all an adroitly lengthy coronation scene which is meticulous in detail and pageantry.

There was a day in this business when a film of story content like this was viewed as something suitable for children alone. It may yet be around for all we know. We don't know what average adult reaction will be and we don't think Warners or anyone else can tell for that matter. As an out and out exploitation picture, however, this "Prince and the Pauper" fits in very neatly with the impending actual event across the sea and that may easily prove enough.

Revokes Games Ban On Buffalo Houses

BUFFALO, April 6.—Police Commissioner James W. Higgins has revoked his ban on Bank Night, Bingo and all other games in theatres, less than 12 hours before all precinct captains were under orders to enforce it.

At the same time, the commissioner indicated his campaign against theatre lotteries had not been abandoned. Instead, he will fire from a new angle, testing the legality of the games in a test case, prosecuted before the license commissioner.

Delegates from the Theatre Owners' Protective Ass'n., new organization representing every house in town, has promised Commissioner Higgins that if he wins his test case, exhibitors here will end giveaways.

Philadelphia Games Worry Independents

PHILADELPHIA, April 6.—Worried by reports that Warners would try out games in isolated spots, independent exhibitors in some local areas today held informal meetings with chance game distributors on Vine St. in an effort to hold priority rights in their situations. No definite agreement has been reached in view of lack of a decision in a games case now before Judge McDevitt in Common Pleas Court.

The suspicion is growing that if games get court approval, Warners will combat the situation by flooding the territory with devices heretofore used by independents.

Quigley Grand Award Winners Are Chosen

About 35 sales executives, advertising and exploitation heads and others gathered yesterday at the Hotel Astor for the annual judging for the Quigley Grand Awards. Twenty-four exploitation campaigns, the monthly winners of awards of the Managers' Round Table Club of Motion Picture Herald, were presented to the judges prior to a luncheon.

Speeches were brief. Terry Ramsaye welcomed the guests and Martin Quigley spoke. He stressed the importance of recognition and encouragement of those whose efforts stimulate the sale of box-office tickets.

A-Mike Vogel, chairman of the Managers' Round Table, also spoke briefly.

List of Judges Impressive

Judges of the awards were: S. Charles Einfeld and Mort Blumenstock of Warners, Harry Goldberg of Warners Theatres, John D. Clark and Charles E. McCarthy of 20th Century-Fox, Oscar A. Doob of Loew's Theatres, William R. Ferguson and Si Seadler of M-G-M, Y. Frank Freeman and Robert Gillham of Paramount, Lowell Calvert of Selznick International, James Mulvey of Samuel Goldwyn Prod., A. W. Smith, Jr., and Monroe Greenthal of United Artists, Hy Daab of Columbia, Gus Eyssell of the Music Hall, Edward M. Fay of Fay's Theatres, Ed Finney of Grand National, Paul Gulick of Universal, Irving Lesser of the Roxy, Arthur Mayer of the Rialto, Ralph Rolan of March of Time, Al Selig of G. B., George C. Walsh of Netco Theatres and Gordon White of Educational.

Colvin Brown of Quigley Publications and Gerard B. Lambert and Bob Neff of United Air Lines were among the guests.

Emile Pathe, Film Pioneer, Is Dead

PARIS, April 6.—Emile Pathe, pioneer film man, died at his home in Pau, a suburb, yesterday.

Pathe and his brother, Charles, started French production in 1896. With two compatriots they organized Pathe Freres and issued films with the well known crowing rooster trade mark. An American branch was established in 1904. Four years later the company, with Emile and Charles in control, opened a studio in Jersey City. In 1914 the company produced "The Perils of Pauline," with Pearl White in the leading role. Five years previous the company had shown the first news film.

The brothers started with two kinetoscopes, an Edison invention. Their venture grew to proportions that included completely equipped coast studios and an imposing list of star names. In the latter part of 1930 they disposed of their American company and properties to a group of New York bankers. The present company here is now engaged in the printing and developing of negatives, the producing and distributing business having been sold to RKO.

Completing Newsreel Plans on Coronation

LONDON, April 6.—Plans for the filming of the Coronation ceremonies on May 12 are rapidly being rounded into final shape. Arrangements are virtually completed for the placing of newsreel cameras for the actual ceremony in Westminster Abbey.

Present plans call for six newsreel cameras to be placed in the Abbey for the ceremony, one of which probably will be a Technicolor camera. The plans are contingent upon the approval of the Earl Marshal following test shots which are scheduled for tomorrow at the rehearsal. The camera stations in the Abbey are to include one in the triforium, which is a balcony above the nave.

Canada Profits Reported

TORONTO, April 6.—Eastern Theatres, Ltd., has reported a net operating profit for 1936 of $42,750, as against $40,790 for the previous year. This company paid $35,000 on 5,000 shares of preferred stock and the earned surplus at Dec. 31 was $85,705. Total current assets were $245,000, while current liabilities were negligible, it was reported.

Hamilton United Theatres, Ltd., Hamilton, Ont., closed the year with a gross profit of $77,392 as compared with $70,133 for 1935, while dividends paid during the year totalled $33,486. This company proposes to write down the item for goodwill and franchise from $1,310,000 to $157,000, while the authorized capital is to be reduced from three million dollars to $1,080,000 by a revaluation of stock. It is interesting to note that Hamilton United owns bonds to the value of $34,706 in Famous Players Canadian Corp.

Consolidated Income Up

The net income of Consolidated Amusement Co., Ltd., for 1936 was $315.351, which is equal to $2.10 each on 150,000 shares of preferred stock. This compares with $243,745, or $1.62 a share for 1935.

this time and should not be permitted to stand in the way of action on the guild's inclusion in the basic agreement. Production company heads, however, point out that wage scales would have to be set sooner or later in the event of the admission of the guild and that, therefore, they are as important at this time as they ever will be.

No formal meeting of the various principals, company and union to further consider the guild's application has been set yet. One may be called momentarily, however, depending mainly on the availability of the principals.

Board Asks Empire Men Be Reinstated

The survey board appointed by Mayor LaGuardia to settle the operator union problem in New York theatres yesterday requested that members of the Empire State union who have been discharged from houses of I.T.O.A. members be reinstated. The request was included in a letter from the board to Joseph Basson, president of Local 306, and Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A. It was signed by Sam A. Lewisohn, chairman of the survey board, Howard S. Cullman and William Collins.

The discharge of Empire men followed the agreement reached some time ago by which the Allied union was absorbed by Local 306 and a contract was signed between 306 and the I.T.O.A. The letter indicates that on March 22 the board had requested 306 and the I.T.O.A. to desist from replacing Empire men with members of 306, and to reinstate those already dismissed. "This request has not as yet been complied with, insofar as the discharged Empire men are concerned," the letter said. Two alternatives are suggested, absorption by 306 of Empire men employed in I.T.O.A. houses, or exemption of the 12 houses using Empire men from the general 306-I.T.O.A. agreement.

Ascap Monopoly Case Dismissed on Coast

LOS ANGELES, April 6.—The U. S. District Court here signed an order today dismissing a monopoly action against Ascap which had been brought by California Federated Industries, Inc., an organization of tavern keepers and other proprietors of public amusement places.

The plaintiffs had sought an injunction to restrain Ascap from collecting royalties for the public performance of copyrighted music within the state.

Weisman in Fox Action

Milton C. Weisman, receiver for Fox Theatres Corp., was authorized yesterday by Federal Judge Martin T. Manton to have his attorney, Basil O'Connor, cooperate in the prosecution of claims against William Fox. Ralph O. Willgus is now in charge of the suits which are pending in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

The actions are to set aside alleged fraudulent conveyances made by Fox to the All-Continent Corp. Willgus brought a suit against Fox before the latter's voluntary petition in bankruptcy in May, 1936. Weisman stated that he had filed a large claim against Fox in the bankruptcy proceedings.

Continuing Distribution Probe

LOS ANGELES, April 6.—In what is believed to be an outcropping of the Fox West Coast bankruptcy case which the Tally-Corbar action has been fighting to set aside, Albert B. Law, special U. S. District Attorney, is said to be continuing the investigation of distribution and exhibition methods in this territory.

Col. W. H. Neblett, Tally-Corbar attorney, who will appeal the Circuit Court decision against his clients, has until May 23 to file his briefs with the U. S. Supreme Court.

Warners File Answer

Warners and the Remick Music Corp. filed answers in U. S. District Court yesterday to a suit brought against them by Nat Nazarro, charging that his song, "Rhythm for Sale" was plagiarized in the song, "Swing for Sale" in the picture of the same name. He has asked a permanent injunction and accounting. Warners denied producing a picture by that name and asserted that the song "Swing for Sale" is public property. Samuel Kahn and Saul Chaplin were also named as defendants.

general problem. Actually it appears that the C. E. A. has taken the opportunity afforded by the need of the K.R.S. for exhibitor support against the Moyne report and producers by forcing the K.R.S. to cooperate in the overbuilding campaign which had been held up previously by distributor refusal to operate a product boycott. Also the C.E.A. is seen as having obtained K.R.S. approval of standard contract clauses previously rejected by the distributors, and a measure of relief from the present credit terms.

It is believed that the C.E.A. has accepted the K.R.S. suggestion for an industry governing body composed of members of the trade, with a chairman to be appointed by the Board of Trade, but has added a provision for a board of expert assessors to adjudicate trade disputes.

Before the announcement of the invitation to attend, the Film Group had displayed annoyance because they had not been asked to be present at the conference, and had seemed likely to take the attitude they alone are concerned in the national aspects of the production problem. However, the Film Group will accept the invitation to participate.

"Top of Town" Goes Due to Booking Jam

Although the picture could have been held a third week on the strength of business in its second week, "Top of the Town" will be forced out of the Roxy tomorrow night because of bookings previously promised to RKO and 20th Century-Fox.

Some time ago Howard S. Cullman, trustee, dated "Wake Up and Live" for April 23. "Michael Strogoff" has been penciled in to open Friday with the distributor and theatre management setting a control figure for a possible holdover.

While the Roxy would like to hold "Top of the Town" another week, there is a likelihood of getting into a booking jam with 20th Century-Fox if it is decided to hold "Michael Strogoff." The date for "Wake Up and Live" cannot be changed.

Hence, a compromise has been effected with Universal. The company may have another picture in the Roxy starting April 16, the date contingent on the business of "Michael Strogoff."

It is figured "Top of the Town" will end its second week with approximately $40,000.

After tallying $33,000 on the first week, "The King and the Chorus Girl" is expected to wind up a second week at the Strand with about $15,000. "Marked Woman" will open there Saturday.

French Censor Board Bans "Black Legion"

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, April 6.—"Black Legion," Warner picture, today was banned by the French censor board. It was explained that the film was banned because it did not conform with the new French censorship regulations, which specifically mention gangster pictures as taboo. It was said the film contains too many killings.

It was indicated at Warners' home office yesterday that the decision of the French censor board would be appealed immediately to the Commission of Film Control of the Ministry of National Education, under whose jurisdiction the censor board operates.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Wake Up and Live"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, April 6.—This is rousing, fast-stepping entertainment which should have a wide appeal reflected at theatre box-offices from Broadway to Pumpkin Corners. Against a radio background, with a novel twist in theme, a full quota of sparkling comedy and a handful of Gordon and Revel songs which should set audiences to humming, the film is understood to have received considerable personal attention from Darryl Zanuck—and looks it.

The story angle, which should draw heavily at the box-office, is the pseudo-feud between Ben Bernie and Walter Winchell on the air, and both these avid publicists appear to advantage. The screenplay, in which Harry Tugend, Jack Yellen and Curtis Kenyon all had a hand, is from the book by Dorothea Brande, and Sidney Lanfield's direction has resulted in a maximum of popular entertainment.

The excellent cast, in addition to the air tusslers, includes Alice Faye, in fine voice; Patsy Kelly, Ned Sparks and Walter Catlett for the incessant comedy, and Jack Haley, who is the picture's big surprise. The material he has had in former screen appearance has done little to increase his value, but here it is good, and he makes the most of it. His ability to put over a song and the quality of his voice speak highly for his future value.

The novel story twist finds Haley, sadly stricken with mike fright, satisfied to become a radio center usher. In a daring moment, he sings into what he thinks is a dead mike, and his voice comes into Bernie's broadcast in a night club. Letters pour in and the wild search is on for "the phantom troubadour," with Haley joining, and Winchell revealing that Bernie himself does not know who his "phantom" is. The fun waxes fast and comic, Miss Faye befriends Haley, finds he is the "phantom" and arranges his broadcasts from her home, with what he thinks is a dead mike. Then, with everything set for his personal appearance, he disappears as Bernie opens at a new club, everyone is frantic, until his comic last minute arrival results in his triumph on the air and in love, and a Bernie-Winchell reconciliation.

New Shows On the Air

"Beatty's Circus Adventures"

KANSAS CITY, April 6.—"Beatty's Circus Adventures" is an air serial originating over KMBC and designed to appeal to the youngsters, to whom it carries the inevitably long advertising message, in this case about Skinner Mfg. Co.'s food product.

The adventures of Clyde Beatty, which begin with his troubles in getting a load of "cats" from the jungles to America, will appeal to the kids. Episodic like all adventure serials for kids, and slightly overdone in the mystery parts, the "adventures" are well developed and well staged. All the present voices in the cast are about as good as are ever found in radio dramas, both in quality and casting. Heard Monday through Friday from 5:15 to 5:30 P. M., the program is recorded at KMBC from the regular performance and shipped to KTUL, Tulsa, for broadcast there, and may go on several other stations, via transcription. Beatty's voice is impersonated.

A tieup with Republic's Clyde Beatty screen serial has been arranged with a number of Kansas City theatres. Large posters are in all grocery stores selling Skinner products, and a box face from one of these, plus five cents, is admission for the children into the theatre playing the serials.

"Enlightening"

"I have noticed your coverage on radio, particularly as it pertains to the motion picture industry. I think that your articles have been well written and cover the situation from all sides. There is no doubt that theatre men have much to consider from radio, both in their favor and against them, and to have a publication such as Motion Picture Daily give the facts, is certainly enlightening"—Nat Holt, division manager, RKO Theatres, Cleveland.

Film Ticket Stunt Highly Successful

PHILADELPHIA, April 6.—The giving away of free film tickets has proved an excellent stimulant for the "Classified Section of the News" on WFIL, creating unprecedented demand for inclusion by participating sponsors. The station groups most of the spot announcement accounts on this stanza, interspersing the announcements with recorded music and film chatter by announcer Jack Steck. Although there are four "Classified Sections" aired daily, sponsors for participation must now take their turn on a growing waiting list. There are already 23 participants on the program and as many waiting to go on.

Fifty pairs of tickets are given to listeners each week for the best sentences using key words given by the announcer and the name of a participating sponsor. Mail response to the contest idea is unprecedented. Theatres giving the passes receive an air reader on their current attraction.

year. The net profit for the first quarter this year, after all deductions, are estimated at approximately $2,200,000, compared with $1,287,000 for the corresponding period last year. This would be an increase in net profit of more than $900,000 for the three-month period.

Allowing for the quarter's preferred dividend charge, there would remain $1,391,000, equivalent to 10 cents per share on the common stock, against a deficit of approximately one cent per share in the corresponding quarter last year. A total of 9,272,000 shares of stock were voted at the meeting, approving the reelection of the directors.

today was confident that he would be able to secure a favorable report.

The bulk of the opposition to the bill during the hearings came from the film industry, representatives of which expressed the fear that restrictions upon the entry into this country of alien artists would give rise to increased difficulty in selling pictures abroad, particularly in those countries whose talent was barred.

Dickstein, on the other hand, contended that the legislation need not deprive the film industry of foreign actors, but merely makes it obligatory for foreign governments to extend to our talent the same privileges we offer theirs.

to take over general supervision of the music licensing society's activities.

John G. Paine, chairman of the Music Publishers' Protective Ass'n, was invited by the board to assume the post being vacated by Mills on May 1. While Paine asserted that "there is no question but what I will accept," he added that the formal approval of the M. P. P. A. board would be asked at a meeting being held today. He said he would recommend Harry Fox, head of the organization's electrical transcription department, for the board chairmanship.

Both the Ascap board which is seeking Paine and the M. P. P. A. board are composed of music publishers. Paine's organization recently retained Joseph V. McKee as "czar" of trade relations in the music publishing industry.

Says Reserves Of GB Should Go for Losses

Maxwell Thus Testifies In Dividend Action

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, April 7.—Any reserves existing in the Gaumount British financial structure should be allocated to meet the "severe" capital losses of the company, John Maxwell, head of Associated British Pictures, testified at the continued hearings today of the G. B. stockholder action for an injunction to prevent the directorate from paying a declared dividend on the preference shares. Maxwell was one of the G. B. directors who vigorously opposed the board's decision on the dividend.

Maxwell's statement came in answer to cross examination by Sir William Jowitt. The action is being heard before Justice Clauson. Maxwell declared that the G. B. board is composed of three sections, the nominees of the 20th Century-Fox interests, the nominees of A. B. P., the Maxwell company, and the three Ostrer brothers. He said that the closing down of G. B. production and distribution was discussed at length at a meeting on Feb. 11, last, and that the 20th Century-Fox and Maxwell nominees were opposed.

"We thought it a policy of defeatism," Maxwell testified. "We thought it still possible to revive the fortunes

20th-Fox Will Not Boost Bid For Roxy, States Sidney Kent

"We are not prepared to boost our bid on the Roxy," Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox, told Motion Picture Daily yesterday when questioned on attempts being made by various bondholder and stockholder interests to get the company to revise its offer.

"I think we have gone as far as we want to go," he said, "and if anyone wants the theatre any more than we do he can have it."

Kent made the statement just before he sailed for England. Special Master Addison S. Pratt and counsel for the bondholders' and stockholders' protective committees for the Roxy cut short a hearing Tuesday afternoon to repair to W. C. Michel's office where efforts were made to induce 20th Century-Fox to change its bid.

A motion by Harold B. Seligson, counsel for the Tipton committee, to dismiss the proposed reorganization plan was denied yesterday by Pratt because he lacked the power to dismiss the proceedings at present. The proponents of the plan rested their case yesterday. The opposition will begin today.

Van Beuren's Production to Wind Up Soon

The Van Beuren Corp. will discontinue production with the completion of its current season commitments for RKO, it was decided at a meeting of the board of the company yesterday.

Van Buren's current program should be completed during July, and thereafter a gradual liquidation program, calculated to wind up its activities, will be begun. The company contracted to produce 32 short subjects for RKO release this season. RKO owns a 50 per cent interest in Van Beuren and the other 50 per cent was acquired recently by Condor Pictures, of which A. J. Van Beuren

Dickstein's Alien Actor Bill Tabled

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Opposition to the Dickstein Alien Actor Bill by members of the House Immigration Committee today proved too strong for supporters of Chairman Dickstein and the measure was tabled, with indications that it will not again be revived this session.

The motion to shelve the measure was offered by Representative Kramer of California, who later declared that the bill is dead for the session.

Chairman Dickstein refused to discuss the situation other than to say that it had merely been tabled "for the present," and indicated that he would make another effort to bring it up before adjournment.

M-G-M Plans 52 for Next Year: Schenck

M-G-M will have 52 features next season and "plenty of them will be big ones," Nicholas M. Schenck, president, yesterday told MOTION PICTURE DAILY. Norma Shearer will make two pictures a year, he added.

Schenck emphasized that the "plenty of big ones will be good ones" and next season will be the greatest in the company's history. He did not touch upon the number of shorts the company will release.

Asked about the Norma Shearer situation, Schenck said: "It is all straightened out and we're one happy family." The reason Miss Shearer will make only two a year is because Rubin Going Abroad; May Confer on G. B.

J. Robert Rubin, vice-president of Loew's, will sail next Wednesday on the Normandie for a four-week vacation and business trip to England and France. Rubin stated yesterday he might look in on the G. B. situation in England.

On the same boat will be Truman H. Talley, producer of Movietone News. He will be gone three weeks, during which he will attend the Coronation. Following his return from abroad, Talley will go to the coast for the 20th Century-Fox convention and then will sail for Sweden. Lowell Thomas. commentator for the newsreel, will sail the latter part of the month for the Coronation.

Sixty Set for 20th-Fox List, Kent Declares

Eight Will Be "Outside Pictures", He States

Twentieth Century-Fox will release 60 features next season, Sidney R. Kent, president, told MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday prior to sailing on the Queen Mary for England. Of this number, 52 will be produced on the coast and eight will be "outside pictures." The "outside" films will include six Sol Lesser westerns and two to be made in England by New World, 20 Century-Fox subsidiary.

Kent stated that the principal purpose of his trip abroad was to hold two sales meetings in Paris. He denied he was going over on anything in connection with G. B., but "if anything pops up, I'll try and take care of it."

Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, conferred with Kent in his stateroom, presumably on the G. B. situation, just before the Queen Mary pulled out. J. Robert Rubin, vice-president of Loew's, was another visitor.

There is a possibility 20th Century-Fox may discontinue production in England. Kent said he will decide definitely on the matter while he is in England. He plans to return about May 15.

Walter J. Hutchinson, foreign head, accompanied the president. He will remain abroad after the two conventions and return in June.

Disney Completing Final Two for U. A.

Walt Disney is now completing the last two subjects for U. A. release, Roy Disney, general manager of Walt Disney Prod., stated yesterday. The first RKO release will be "Pluto's Quin Puplets," which is now in the last stages of work, he said. The final releases for U. A. will be "Hiawatha" and "Mechanical Man."

Disney plans to make 18 subjects next season. Of this number, eight to ten will be with Mickey Mouse. The balance will be made up of Silly Symphonies, Donald Ducks and Plutos.

"Snow White," the first full length feature cartoon in Technicolor, will be ready for release through RKO in December, Disney said. There will be all new characters in the feature. The second full-length animated Technicolor subject is now in production.

Walt Disney will arrive in New York in 10 days or so to look over the various plays.

Italy Closing Film Accord with Germany

BERLIN, April 7.—Luigi Freddi, chief of the film division of the Italian Propaganda Ministry, is in Berlin to complete details on the film accord between Germany and Italy which was tentatively formulated some time ago. An organization called Difu has been developed to finance the distribution of Italian films in the Reich and to encourage further use of German films in Italy. Johanna Friedrich Doering represents Germany in the organization, and Mario and Ida Franchini are the Italian agents.

Under the surface is seen in the new accord an attempt to break the strong hold of American product on the Italian market. In return, it is believed, the German industry will finance Italo-German cooperative films. An extensive propaganda campaign is planned in each country to induce interest in the product of the other.

German stars have been informed of drastic salary cuts as a step in an attempt to make up the year's film deficit, amounting to 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 marks. The Government also hopes, through barter deals, to better the position of German product in the foreign market.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 7.

IF you are a success, which ordinarily means you have something, or somebody, someone else wants, or thinks he wants, the result in Hollywood is target practice. The marksmanship, mind you, is not always as accurate as it might be, but when the barrage lands in front, behind and maybe on the sides, it gets close enough to make the surroundings, let's say, a trifle distasteful. If you will bear that in mind while the typewriter shifts for a moment to another matter, later we'll see if the two cannot be persuaded to join hands. . . .

Drawing their justifiable pride from any number of directions, Nick Schenck and Louis B. Mayer like to talk at length about the manner in which their official family has stuck it out all these years. Changes in the topline aggregation in New York have been very infrequent. In Hollywood where the mortality rate is considerably higher, it is proportionately difficult to keep the line intact. Yet Mayer has done it, but not without what could be described as financial penalty. When target practice from other directions, therefore, meets up with this professional family pride, in the case of Metro at least and so far, the shells have been successfully dodged. And were again a few days ago. . . .

Norma Shearer was the issue. Metro was the defender; Sam Goldwyn and Dave Selznick, who are pretty good allies within United Artists at the moment, the aggressors. Two years ago when the late Irving Thalberg was in the throes of an unhappy series of moments, Goldwyn tried and tried hard to acquire a new producer for U. A. You may recall the talk. The diplomatic hand of Schenck cleared away that situation, but not before Mayer, the inside insists, voluntarily gave part of his holdings in the Mayer Company to Thalberg as one inducement to continue with the organization for which he had done a generally illustrious job. The Mayer Company was the unit formed when Bob Rubin brought Mayer and Thalberg into Metro-Goldwyn back in the days when Marcus Loew was at the helm and Schenck bulked large in the ascendancy. Partners all, Rubin, Mayer and Thalberg wanted stock in what then became Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Loew said they ought to earn from that which they produced. This, if you didn't know it, will explain the tremendous earnings figures reported for these three in S. E. C. and income tax reports. . . .

That was two years ago. A few months later, Thalberg died and the industry became the poorer for it. Miss Shearer had a personal problem to contend with, but latterly also found herself confronted with a professional difficulty as well. Thalberg, in latter years, had produced all of her pictures. The meticulous care directed at them is widely known, of course. There never seemed much doubt about the ultimate decision of Miss Shearer to continue with her career, but there was a grave doubt in her mind as to the auspices under which she might proceed with Thalberg gone. Should it be Goldwyn, or Selznick, who had interested her in the Scarlett O'Hara role in "Gone with the Wind"? Or her home lot, the scene of enthronement on about as tall a peak as any to which woman in Hollywood might aspire? . . .

The era of "Free Souls" was far behind and had been supplanted by "Smilin' Thru," "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" and "Romeo and Juliet." Exhibitors may snort at the Shakespeare item, but here where prestige counts and has many indiscretions committed in its name, it was something to have played the part of Juliet. The O'Hara part in the Mitchell novel is unsympathetic. Would it be worth the risk? Of such questions is Hollywood made up. The problem of production supervision, in this case, was an extremely important one as well; the shadow of Thalberg hovered over the outcome. Almost incidental, comparatively, were the terms of any deal. Not so incidental, however, was how to dispose of the Thalberg equities in the Mayer Company. . . .

It was more or less patent future profits could not be divided on the three-way basis which had prevailed when Thalberg was alive. But how to reach amity, which was another way of describing a division satisfactory to the principal parties? The job was significant enough to bring Schenck in from Florida and Rubin from New York, with "Lep" Friedman flanking. Mayer was on the ground and, finally, a formula worked out. The terms provide that, to each of the first three pictures Miss Shearer is to make for Metro and aside from the six figures flat in salary per film for her services, there will be added an agreed upon sum covering equities and profits on the Thalberg end. Beyond "Marie Antoinette," the first Shearer, looms "Pride and Prejudice," drawn from the Max Gordon show which ran in New York several seasons ago. Hunt Stromberg, almost a lone eagle at Metro, what with his record of successes trailing, holds the inside track as the Shearer producer while Bernie Hyman, as the wires out of here narrated on Monday, is the runner-up. . . .

The arrangement won't please Goldwyn, nor will it Selznick, but it is stamped with earmarks of a happy one for the star and her producer. It seems a rather safe conclusion to draw that Schenck, Mayer and Rubin would have gone further than was necessary in this circumstance to keep Miss Shearer where she has been for so long. If this tale has any conclusion, it might well be an illustration once more of the sagacity with which Schenck meets and licks his intra-organizational problems. But that's an old and well demonstrated yarn anyway. . . .

Utility Workers to Confer on the Coast

Details of the admission of the Utility Workers' Union to the basic agreement between major studios and the five internationals will be worked out by the heads of the unions on the coast in the near future, it was stated here yesterday.

Among the principal details is the settlement of conflicting jurisdictional claims over the various classifications of studio laborers now aligned with the Utility Workers' Union. Several of the internationals which are already signatories to the basic agreement claim jurisdiction over one or more of the labor classifications within the Utility Workers' organization. Most of the union representatives who came here for the annual wage scale conferences with producing company heads and Pat Casey have left New York for Hollywood.

Prospects of the Screen Actors' Guild being admitted to the basic agreement appeared less bright yesterday, although indications that company heads may consider the application further are still in evidence. No meeting on the subject has been called yet, although Casey reiterated yesterday that there was still a possibility of one.

The companies' principal objection to the admission of the guild is the apparent impracticability of setting up a standard wage scale for the widely divergent talent groups embraced in the guild's membership, it was said.

Music Men to Study Paine Resignation

The Music Publishers' Protective Ass'n appointed a committee of three yesterday to consider and make recommendations to the organization's board on accepting the resignation of John G. Paine as chairman in order to permit Paine to accept the general managership of Ascap.

Paine has stated already that "there is no question" of his accepting the Ascap post and the Ascap board has declared that it would draft Paine if he declined its offer. The M. P. P. A. committee will also report on Paine's recommendation that Harry Fox succeed him as chairman of the organization. The committee is to report back to a later meeting.

Erpi Files Answer In Royalty Action

Erpi filed its answer yesterday in the $211,743 breach of contract suit brought against it in U. S. District Court by John G. Paine as agent and trustee for music publishers. Paine claims that he contracted with Erpi in September, 1927, to permit Erpi to sub-license producers to use songs in the United States and Canada of which the publishers held the copyrights.

Later, in July, 1929, the rights were extended for all foreign countries. Paine alleges that $211,743 in royalties remain unpaid. The answer admits the contract but denies that any royalties are unpaid. Erpi also claims that the statute of limitations has expired on part of the claims.

Second Judge Avoids Hearing Zirn's Plea

Federal Judge Henry Leibell yesterday disqualified himself from ruling on the motions of Samuel Zirn, attorney, to set aside the recent acquisition of Orpheum Circuit assets by Stadium Theatres Corp., RKO subsidiary. Judge Leibell stated his disqualification after the case had been referred to him by Federal Judge Murray W. Hulbert, who also had disqualified himself.

The case was assigned to Federal Judge Patterson for hearing tomorrow. Zirn's action also involves an attempt to have Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn removed from the Orpheum bankruptcy proceedings.

Sets Pathe Trial Date

The trial of the $50,000 suit brought by Phillips H. Lord, known as Seth Parker, against Pathe News was set for April 19 by Federal Judge Vincent L. Leibell yesterday. Lord alleges that he arranged a world cruise in 1933 and that Pathe agreed to supply cameramen and technicians to film the cruise. Expenses were to be shared on a 50-50 basis. He claims Pathe failed to supply the men or share the expense and Lord was compelled to hire F. Herrick Herrick to make the film. He claims that an additional expense of $50,000 was incurred.

Fox Hearing Tomorrow

Hearing on the proposed reorganization plan for the Fox, Brooklyn, will be held tomorrow before Federal Judge William Bondy. The meeting was scheduled for Tuesday and adjourned until tomorrow, and not April 16, as originally reported.

"INTERNES CAN'T TAKE MONEY"

Paramount's

"Internes Can't Take Money" has . . . ROMANCE

It has young love . . . the yearning of the one man for the one woman. It has the kind of romance that is understood, appreciated and thrilled to by the millions who live, breathe and have their being in the very backgrounds and the very scenes that make this picture a document from real life itself.

"Internes Can't Take Money' has... HOSPITAL BACKGROUNDS

Much of the dramatic action in this dynamic picture takes place in a hospital. Not familiar and stereotyped scenes, but an hitherto undramatized phase of the life of the hospital interne, the temptations to which he is subjected, the sacrifices he is called upon to make in order to stick to his ideals.

"Internes Can't Take Money" has UNDERWORLD BACKGROUNDS

Action outside the hospital brings in the underworld and many colorful underworld characters. Here, too, originality of plot and freshness of treatment are maintained, an ingenious twist being given to the actions of a kingpin racketeer who is called upon to pay off a debt of honor.

"INTERNES CAN'T TAKE MONEY"

elements that audiences LOOK for in pictures

"Internes Can't Take Money" has . . . MOTHER LOVE

Poignant, sincere, heart-tugging scenes that portray a young mother's search for the child that has been taken from her. Scenes that grip as they show the heights to which she rises when called upon to sacrifice everything that respectable women hold on to in order to get her child back.

"Internes Can't Take Money" has . . . SUSPENSE

Scene after scene, cleverly directed, superbly played by stars who get every bit of emotional and physical value out of their roles. Scenes that will live long in the memory . . . the whole worked up to a gripping and affecting climax that will leave audiences emotionally limp.

"Internes Can't Take Money" has . . . SUPERB ACTING

A new Barbara Stanwyck, aided by a story that gives real opportunity to her talents. Joel McCrea adds to his stature as a leading man. Lloyd Nolan and Stanley Ridges in crisp underworld roles make dynamic every scene in which they appear. Perfect direction by Alfred Santell.

Mr. EXHIBITOR:

Is Your EYE on Your BOX-OFFICE?

We take it for granted it is. We also take it for granted that you're showman enough . . . businessman enough . . . to dig into this matter of "INTERNES CAN'T TAKE MONEY". Give it every consideration. Base that consideration on the unusual story . . . the Class A performances of BARBARA STANWYCK, JOEL McCREA, LLOYD NOLAN, STANLEY RIDGES . . . the finished direction. Then, give the picture the preferred playing time it deserves, the kind of advertising buildup that'll presell it to your audience, and we'll underwrite it that "Internes Can't Take Money" will make plenty of money for you.

DENVER, April 7.—"Lost Horizon" just about flattened out the competition in its first week here at $1.50 top at the Broadway. The $8,500 take was over par by $6,500 at regular prices, and holdouts were numerous.

"Seventh Heaven" cracked a three-day record at the Denver, it was stated, and picked up $9,500. This was $2,000 over a seven-day par. "Swing High, Swing Low" was nearly as big in its second week at the Denham as during its first week at the Orpheum. The take was $7,000, $2,000 up.

KNX's Problem Still Is Far from Settled

San Diego, April 7.—Continued listener complaints, plus Mutual's retaliatory advertisements highlighting the San Diego situation, have CBS representatives scurrying around spreading goodwill, but dodging comment for publication.

It is believed the silence is strategy. It is pointed out that the network can make no promises until something is done in Washington. The only solution to the self-interference problem which messes up San Diego reception of KNX is to move KNX or establish a new station in the border city, neither of the established stations there being interested in affiliation. F.C.C. approval is necessary for either action and with several applicants for construction permits in San Diego, CBS is forced into a role of watchful waiting, observers insist. It is understood the network is ready to take immediate action when a move from Washington clears the way.

Listeners who have been circulating petitions gradually are beginning to understand that it means more to CBS to cover the San Diego market than it does to them to get CBS programs. The realization that CBS is just as eager as they are to clear up the reception situation has turned away much of the early wrath. San Diego currently is supplied by KFSD (NBC Blue) and KGB (Mutual).

'Extremely Valuable'

"In my opinion the mediums —radio and motion pictures— are drawing closer together. The exhibitor who is on his toes must study his competition, if he would know what is going on. Your radio coverage—fast and condensed —does this. It is, therefore an extremely valuable addition to your pages. I tell you this as one who has long been active in the exhibition field." —E. M. Fay, Fay's Theatre, Providence, R. I.

New Shows on the Air

"It Can Be Done"

"Welcome Valley" having worn out its welcome, Household Finance Co. has substituted "It Can Be Done," holding over Edgar A. Guest as the permanent feature. This newcomer to the network family of programs is a so-so offering and seems headed for a rocky future.

The program is themed to prove that no matter what the odds, individuals can rise above their circumstances and do things. Phil Lord's "We, the People" sets out to do the same thing, and does it much more entertainingly.

The opening stanza brought to the microphone, Frank E. Austin, builder of ant palaces, and Mrs. Anna L. Sheridan, an elderly policewoman who is now an attorney. Austin, broke and out of work at 60, proved "it can be done" by creating and successfully marketing the bugdom palaces. Ditto Mrs. Sheridan a retired policewoman and grandmother who enrolled at a western university and graduated with the highest marks ever given by the school.

The dramatizations showing how these two people rose above the levels fate had set for them were stilted and almost amateurish. Frankie Masters' orchestra handled the musical portions nicely.

"It Can Be Done" is presented Tuesdays from 8:30 to 9 P.M., E.S.T. on the NBC-Blue.

"Esquire on the Air"

"Esquire on the Air" frankly states that the program is intended for male ears exclusively, and urges the ladies to busy themselves with other things when the program enters the listeners' parlors. Which is just as well, for the female of the species, bless 'em, will find little of interest in this series. But the pants wearers (exclusive of those instances wherein the lady of the house wears the aforementioned trousers) should take to the program as avidly as they do to the cartoons in the sponsor's magazine.

The program offered timely masculine fashion hints, studding each hint with an entertaining anecdote, described the idiosynerasies of the Esquire gag men and cartoonists, told when to use worms or flies when fishing, and in general offered a potpourri of entertaining chatter calculated to keep the men glued to the loudspeaker. A Van Dyked guest, a Mr. Van Duesen, told of the fun he derives from collecting old fashioned shaving mugs.

The series is presented Tuesdays from 8 to 8:30 P. M. on WOR. The Smart Publishing Co., publishers of Esquire and Coronet, sponsors.

of the production business of the company. At that time we knew nothing about the agreement with C. M. Woolf's General Film Distributors. We knew nothing about it until after the preference dividend was passed. The figures before us induced a contrary belief because £118,000 were allocated for the working expenses of production and distribution during 12 months."

Maxwell commented on Isidore Ostrer's refusal to permit the directors to take copies of the financial estimate before the board for study. "The chairman (Ostrer) said there is always the possibility we might lose it," Maxwell declared. He still thought there had been a shrinkage of capital calling for provision before disposal of the reserve, the A. B. P. head testified.

Edward Maloney, accountant, continuing his testimony from yesterday, declared the theatre depreciation as listed was insufficient, in his opinion. He testified that if he had been a director he would have opposed the preference dividend. Under cross examination by Cyril Radcliffe, Maloney agreed the company would pay the dividend from the revenue account, even if the company's fixed assets depreciated.

The G. B. position had been weakened by £800,000 in the year to March, 1937, exclusive of the studio depreciation, Maloney said. He agreed that a dividend was permissible if there were reserves available in that amount.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Internes Can't Take Money"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, April 7.—There is a full measure of dramatic suspense in this picture concerning the manner in which a young hospital interne becomes involved with gangdom in his effort to aid a pretty girl in distress. His performance of two operations outside the official line of duty, the last to assist the girl to find her baby, are the dramatic highlights of the film, which has sufficient drama and excitement to satisfy amply the regular run of picture goers, even though it is not fraught with any great significance.

It is a vigorous story, told well, lacking comedy relief but compensating with speed and action. The hospital atmosphere is merely initial background and incidental to the theme, having its origin in the refusal of Joel McCrea, the interne, to take money for the emergency operation performed on Lloyd Nolan, gang chief. By so doing, he gains a friend in Nolan, who helps in McCrea's effort to help Barbara Stanwyck, met accidentally when she comes for hospital treatment, in her search for her child.

The climax comes when Miss Stanwyck, in a last desperate act, agrees to go away with another gangster in return for information as to the whereabouts of her child. McCrea, who had misunderstood her reason for wanting money, goes to Nolan, and complete gangster coverage of transportation facilities is mobilized. Her companion is shot, and in Nolan's headquarters McCrea performs a masterful operation to save his life, in return for information about the child, which brings happiness and a culmination of the romance.

Alfred Santell directed from the Rian James screen play of Max Brand's Cosmopolitan Magazine story.

Production Code Seal No. 3,032. Running time, 81 minutes. "G."

"Mile a Minute Love"

(Fanchon Royer-Ace)

Hollywood, April 7.—Of neighborhood calibre, this film carries the formula romantic chase routines. In its present cutting the situations drag and lose their punch, but the performances are good and show balanced direction. An excellently photograph speedboat race highlights the thrill elements.

The story features a bogus count, Duncan Renaldo, and his cohort, Earle Douglas, moving in on Wilfred Lucas, wealthy speedboat enthusiast, and ruining the chances of a young inventor, William Bakewell, getting Lucas' backing on a new super charger.

Renaldo works himself into Lucas' confidence as well as his gushing sister-in-law, Vivien Oakland, while the romantic thread weaves itself around Bakewell and Arletta Duncan, the daughter of Lucas.

The balance of the picture features fist fights and boat races, which Bakewell doesn't win according to formula, and culminates in the arrest of the swindlers and the success of Bakewell, both romantically and professionally.

The performances are highlighted by those of Miss Oakland and Etta McDaniels as the robust and colored cafe owner. Elmer Clifton directed, with photography by Arthur Martinelli. Renaldo did the original story with Edwin Anthony penning the screen play.

Production Code Seal No. 3,156. Running time, 73 minutes. "G."

J. Cheever Cowdin, Universal chairman, said yesterday that reports published on the coast that more than 100 persons had been dismissed by the studio at the beginning of the week were untrue. Cowdin stated that not more than 25 persons had been laid off, and that the layoffs were temporary and occasioned by a slowing down of production after peak activities at the studio over a period of several months.

MPTOA PLANS NEW DRIVE FOR REFORM

Nationwide Tour in View To Press Plans, Says Kuykendall

The M.P.T.O.A. will begin a nationwide drive this month to coordinate exhibitor efforts to obtain trade practice concessions and reforms from distribution companies, Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, said yesterday on his arrival here from Washington.

The drive will replace further efforts on the part of the M.P.T.O.A. to have its 10-point trade practice program approved by distributors through joint conferences with sales heads, Kuykendall said. He declared that the concessions which have been made by the seven distribution companies which recognized the M.P.T.O.A. program were not satisfactory, that the distributors are familiar with what is wanted by exhibitors and that the M.P.T.O.A. has already done all that it could to obtain the desired concessions from distributors through round-table sessions.

The M.P.T.O.A. head declined to say what procedure would be recommended to the exhibitor groups throughout the country to obtain the concessions sought. He declared, however, that a definite plan had been devised which he is not at liberty to divulge at this time.

Starting at Memphis on April 18, Kuykendall will address exhibitor gatherings in 13 strategic cities

Attack Dividend Payment of G.B.

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, April 8.—The payment of a preference share dividend by the board of directors of Gaumont British was scored today in the hearing on the shareholder action contesting the payment, by Dixon Boardman, banker and one of the G. B. directors who opposed the declaration of the dividend.

Boardman testified that the estimates to the board indicated a production loss of £423,000, and net profits from other sources of £194,000. Including one semi-annual dividend already paid, the G. B. loss is just under £300,000, Boardman said. The dividend was not earned, he declared, the company's reserves are insufficient and payment of the dividend would be imprudent.

Hollywood, April 8.

TALES from the Hollywood Hills:

The community is sad. The five or six gallon Stetson, worn by Si Seadler up from the ranch and the desert through five days' meanderings in these anointed parts, has returned to Lucien Hubbard, owner. For Si, a few days ago now, went east. At the preview of "Captains Courageous," one of the awe-struck sideliners, remarked: "He must be a rich rancher."

All efforts at persuading Seadler to wear the hat and his full cowboy regalia into the Loew Building in far-off New York went afloppo. . . .

They have a system in the new administration building at 20th Century-Fox where the corridors are plush-carpeted and the walls an almost dead white "on account of we make so many pictures with hospital backgrounds," one attache offered. Down the hall from Joe Schenck's offices, about which more at another time, is an elaborate layout for visiting New York executives. The door now carries John D. Clark's plate. Other plates, however, are available and at a moment's notice. Such as for Sidney R. Kent and Joseph H. Moskowitz. The last to visit gets the longest billing. His name stays up until the next one hits town. Clark's run is tops this month. . . .

The yarn of a producer, not quite as proficient in the classics as he might have been and what happened about that. A writer, the ribbing kind, told him he had made a deal for stories from Aristophanes and Moliere. Later, there was submitted a script from the latter. The producer didn't like it.

"Who is this guy Mollerey or Maloney?" he demanded.

"Just a fellow who used to steal plots from Shakespeare."

"Well, he's no good. Fire him." . . .

Earthquake stories:

To Seadler: "Did you feel the earthquake the other morning?"

From Seadler: "No, I didn't. I was at the studio. There's always an earthquake there."

Max Schuster, the New York publisher, insists upon this:

"I ordered a fried egg that morning. By the time I got it, it was scrambled." . . .

One on Frank Morgan and you needn't go further if you know it.

All of his life, it is reported about him, Morgan had been seeking enough of what it takes to buy a yacht. Hollywood, finally, furnished it and Morgan acquired his boat. The first day out on a two weeks' cruise brought much mal-de-mer. Morgan put into port and spent the remaining thirteen days at Palm Springs. . . .

Attention Ned Depinet, Willard McKay, Herb Yates, Grad Sears, Jules Levy, N. L. Nathanson, "Deac" Aylesworth, Sam Dembow, et al: A chapter of "21" has been organized at the B-Bar-H Ranch. The location: A stable. The Neon sign: Numerals and the letters laboriously spelling out "21 Club," made up of empty Ballantine cartons, one-fifth of a quart size and representing whisky consumed. . . .

A chance meeting with Lou Lusty, following handshakes:

"Is that sunburn, or something Sam Briskin told you this morning?"

Forty-eight hours later, Lusty was reported out of Radio and the job of Briskin's executive assistant, but the report proved untrue.

A definition of a producer, attributed to Walter Wanger in the lighter vein:

"You've got to be firm. You've got to be definite. You've got to make up your mind. And then change it." . . .

Flagstad Song Chosen

Hollywood, April 8.—Kirsten Flagstad, recently signed by Paramount for "The Big Broadcast of 1938," will sing the "Battle Cry of the Walkyries" from "Die Walkuere" as her contribution to the picture.

Orders "Souls" Retakes

Hollywood, April 8.—William Lebaron, production chief at Paramount, has ordered a month's additional shooting on "Souls at Sea," which was recently completed after five months. The Gary Cooper and George Raft feature will resume production in three weeks and will entail the insertion of a new sea sequence and a new ending.

Claims Noteholders Approved Roxy Plan

Alvin J. Schloffer, a member of the noteholders' protective committee, testified yesterday that the noteholders approved the proposed plan of reorganization for the Roxy, at the hearing before Special Master Addison Pratt. Schloffer, connected with Halsey Stuart & Co., was described as the father of the plan by Harold P. Seligson, counsel for the Tipton bondholders' committee. Schloffer revealed that Milton C. Weisman, receiver of the Fox Theatres Corp., is expected to declare a dividend to creditors shortly.

The Roxy plan provides that noteholders are to participate in the claim against Fox Theatres Corp. to the extent of 65 per cent of their interest. The value of the stock in the new corporation may be expected to be about $8 or $9, according to Schloffer. He also was connected with the reorganization of Fox Metropolitan Playhouses and the proposed plan of reorganization for the Detroit Fox Theatre and office building.

Deny Play Infringement

Jacob and Lee Shubert, the Shubert Theatres Corp. and the Select Theatres Corp. filed answers in the U. S. District Court yesterday to the infringement suit of Richard Fitch. The defendants deny that their play, "My Maryland" infringed on "Barbara Frietchie, the Frederick Girl," written by Clyde Fitch, the plaintiff's father. They also allege that a license to use the dramatic portions of the Fitch play was obtained in January, 1924.

MPTOA Plans New Drive on Trade Reform

throughout the country during the next two months. In each center efforts will be made to coordinate the strength of regional exhibitor units affiliated with the M.P.T.O.A. and to enlist the aid of non-members of the organization in the drive for trade practice reforms and concessions.

Kuykendall declared that the impending move is in line with decisions made at a meeting of the executive committee of M.P.T.O.A. at Miami last month, and sentiment echoed on the convention floor there. Kuykendall was criticized at the Miami convention for being "too tolerant" in his unsuccessful negotiations with distributors for the adoption of the 10-point program. A possible key to the impending action may be found in his reply to the criticism at that time.

"I have tried every method I know," Kuykendall said then. "If exhibitors of the country stood solidly together for one week we would have every distributor on bended knee."

Silent on Legislation

Kuykendall emphatically denied that a new season "buyers' strike" would have any place in the projected drive. He declined to comment on whether or not the Allied States—sponsored legislation for divorce of theatre interests from distributing or producing companies had any part in the new procedure.

Kuykendall plans to return to Washington Sunday and will confer there with regional exhibitor leaders. From Washington, he will go to Memphis for the meeting of the Tri-States Exhibitors' Ass'n, opening April 18, at which the projected plan first may be broached. He will return to New York following the Memphis meeting and confer with exhibitor representatives here.

Kuykendall said he planned to accept the invitation of the C.E.A., British exhibitors' organization, to address its annual summer meeting in England.

Equipment Exhibits For MPTOA Planned

Plans for an "equipment exposition" to be held in connection with future M.P.T.O.A. conventions are already in work, Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, reported yesterday.

Kuykendall said that the proposal, which was first broached at the exhibitor organization's recent Miami convention, was receiving strong support from equipment manufacturers and supply dealers and interest in it at this point is sufficient to warrant continued planning. The equipment exposition would be held during several days either preceding or immediately following the M.P.T.O.A. annual convention to avoid conflicting with convention programs.

If the proposal materializes next year, it may cost Memphis the 1938 M.P.T.O.A. convention, as Kuykendall offered the opinion that one of the larger cities, such as Chicago, would have to be selected in order to obtain proper exhibit facilities.

Attack Dividend Payment of G. B.

the losses were mainly due to G. B. Distributors operation, Boardman contended, "A loss by a wholly owned subsidiary is the same as a loss by the parent company." He disagreed that the use of the £500,000 reserve was conservative finance.

"During the past four years," he said, "we have had to use something like £1,000,000 for other losses," in concluding the evidence of the plaintiffs in the action.

Sir William Jowitt, counsel for G. B., opened for the company with the assumption that the action in declaring the dividend was within the law, and the statement that the directors who voted the dividend were not told by their accountants that they were committing a grievous sin from the accountancy point of view. He said the directors thought the preference dividend justified even if it meant dipping deeply into the reserves, because the company is now in comparatively calm water. It could devote more time to exhibition, he said, which is "far more profitable than production since films for world showing come up against the American interests, which make it extremely difficult for any British firm to get in."

Accountants Ask Payment

Wilfred Harrison of Price, Waterhouse & Co., accountants, and E. M. Bowden, G. B. auditor, gave evidence supporting their joint affidavit that they had advised on the accountancy aspect, holding the view that since the cessation of production made the heavy current losses non-recurring, they regarded the dividend as payable. Under cross-examination, Harrison agreed that subsidiary losses must be borne by the parent company, but said that amounts, not referred to in the accounts, were available to meet the losses of G. B. Distributors.

W. B. Robinson, secretary of G. B., gave evidence concerning the financial position of the company.

Talks Begun Here on New A. H. Blank Deal

Efforts to conclude details of the agreement under which A. H. Blank's Central States circuit operations would be combined with those of Tri-States circuit, which is jointly owned by Paramount and Blank, were begun here yesterday and may continue into next week. Blank will also discuss new season film buys while in New York.

Details of the new operating deal, involving about 70 theatres in Iowa, Nebraska and southern Illinois, will be worked out with Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount vice-president. The deal involves the elimination of Paramount's option to repurchase Blank's 50 per cent interest in Tri-States, thus placing the operations on a permanent basis.

Daughter Born to Blanks

Des Moines, April 8.—Myron Blank, head of Central States Theatre Corp., and Mrs. Blank are the parents of a daughter, Beverly Ann, born April 3 at a local hospital.

Seek Commerce Unit Solely for Industry

Washington, April 8.—Efforts to have a separate film foreign department set up within the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce are being made here in an effort to cope with the industry's increasing problems in doing business abroad, it was learned today.

Championed by industry and Administration officials, the proposal appears to have an excellent chance of materializing providing an adequate appropriation can be had. Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. president, has been active here on behalf of the proposal.

Spiegelglass Is Named

Hollywood, April 8.—Leonard Spiegelglass today was named assistant to Emanuel Cohen of Major Pictures.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Public Wedding No. 1"

(Warners)

Hollywood, April 8.—This is light and airy comedy geared for double bills and general neighborhood patronage. The show moves fast, performances and direction are good and the dialogue packs many chuckles. The picture adequately fulfills program qualifications.

Berton Churchill, his alleged stepdaughter, Jane Wyman; Dick Purcell and Raymond Hatton are the silvery tongued custodians of a whale's carcass in a carnival concession. The exhibit lacks sex appeal and flops, so the sheriff threatens to close them up for unpaid bills. Putting their wits together, the foursome plans a fake wedding in the mouth of the whale with the town's merchants chipping in for return advertising. Purcell and Hatton run out with the dough and leave Churchill and Miss Wyman without a parson or a groom. William Hopper, a young artist, is substituted in the groom's spot and a real judge performs the ceremony, legally linking Miss Wyman and Hopper.

Miss Wyman finally cashes in on a fake suicide dive involving Marie Wilson and put on by Churchill and gets Hopper's name on the front page. The following series of involved incidents which pit Churchill and Miss Wyman against each other are good for lots of laughs. The romantic conclusion is routine.

Nick Grinde's fast tempo direction leaves no dull lapses in the film. Miss Wyman, Hopper and Churchill do some good trouping. Roy Chanslor and Houston Branch penned a snappy screenplay.

Production Code Seal No. 3,039. Running time, 57 minutes. "G."

"Night Key"

(Universal)

Hollywood, April 8.—Novelty in theme, good performances and engaging romance against a background of occasional sequences of rapid action, serve to make this an entertaining, although unpretentious film, which should be highly suitable in smaller situation.

There is interesting material included, in the pictorial description of the manner in which wired burglar alarm systems in stores operate. Boris Karloff, whose performance as an old man is excellent, and not in keeping with his usual characterizations, is cheated by Samuel Hinds of the fruits of an alarm system he invented years before, and develops an instrument by which he can render the present system useless. He sets about destroying the value of the old system, but carefully refrains from theft. However, accidentally, through his helper, Hobart Cavanaugh, he is forced to work with a gang of thieves.

His daughter, Jean Rogers, searches for him with the aid of Warren Hull, young officer of the protective system. Eventually, in a punch climax, Karloff makes his escape, crosses the gang by reversing the alarm system, and they are captured, with a rescue of Miss Rogers concluding the romance with Hull.

Lloyd Corrigan's direction has given the story pace and interest. Tristam Tupper did the screenplay from a story by William A. Pierce.

Production Code Seal No. 3,113. Running time, 66 minutes. "G."

"Quality Street," which opened yesterday morning at the Radio City Music Hall, was previewed by wire from the coast on March 8.

"The Soldier and the Lady," now being shown at the Roxy, was reviewed from Hollywood by wire under the title of "Michael Strogoff" on Feb. 17.

"Marked Woman," previewed from Hollywood on Feb. 25, opens at the Strand tomorrow morning.

Mineola, L. I., April 8.—A net estate of $577,790.10 was left by the late Thomas Meighan, according to a transfer tax appraisal filed here yesterday. The gross estate was $623,804.59. The will left household effects and four-fifths of the residue in trust for the widow, Frances Ring Meighan.

Candid Camera Night will be inaugurated by Loew's at the State on April 12. Patrons with candid cameras will be invited to take pictures of the stage show. Amateur photographers will be asked to submit the snapshots for awards. It is planned to set aside every Monday night for the new vogue.

Harry N. Blair has been appointed Grand National exploitation manager. He succeeds William Pierce, who resigned to join Monogram on the coast. Helen Harrison has been named to handle G. N. publicity.

Short Subjects

"Glove Taps"

(Roach-M-G-M)

The "Gang" is approached by a pair of newly-arrived-in-the-neighborhood ruffians as they leave school. It seems the newcomers are tough guys and they must establish their reputation in the new location. Alfalfa is elected to combat one Butch. He trains with the aid of Spanky. The day of the bout arrives. During the second round a pair of Alfalfa's confederates "fix" the bout and he comes out the winner. It is average fare of this sort, but will doubtless please the kids. Production Code Seal No. 3,020. Running time, 11 mins. "G"

"Super Snoopers"

(Columbia)

El Brendel and Monty Collins, provide the comedy in this short. The humor is of the overworked variety. Brendel is a would-be detective; Collins is a policeman. Together they pursue and corner a gang of bank robbers who elude the pair. Later they again track the gangsters and recover the money, not however, until they enact many stenciled situations. Production Code Seal No. 2,956. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"Wrestling"

(Rice-Paramount)

This Sportlight is aptly subtitled, "It's a Laugh." Opening with shots of "Man Mountain" Dean's skill in the phoniest of sports, the reel continues with amusing scenes of various and amusing stunts that promoters have utilized. It concludes with a pair of feminine wild cats having at it. Ted Husing, the narrator, gets himself worked up to hysteria. Production Code Seal No. 01,523. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Puttin' on the Dog"

(Van Beuren-Radio)

The exhibitions of various breeds of hunting dogs going through their paces in the well filmed and intelligently narrated sequences of this Bill Corum issue should be agreeably received. Of particular novelty there is shown the rare River Toller, a duck decoying dog. Good sporting stuff. Production Code Seal No. 01,448. Running time, 10½ mins. "G."

"Nobody Home"

(Paramount)

Shorty, a chimpanzee, runs the gamut of obvious comedy situations in this short. Left alone at home, he gets into all sorts of awkward adventures about the house, finally getting drunk and dashing off to bed. It is an innocuous little film. Production Code Seal No. 01,501. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Jacques Fray and his Orchestra"

(Vitaphone)

In the usual form of presentation this number of the Melody Master series compares favorably with its predecessors. The orchestra plays in finished style. There is singing by Andrea Marsh and the eccentric dancing by Andy and Louise Garr. Production Code Seal No. 01,330. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

New Shows On the Air

"Picadilly Music Hall"

CHICAGO, April 8.—American radio talent let loose in an English Music Hall setting resulted in what might be termed an International hash that was not particularly palatable.

Filled with a roster of guest stars, the majority of which were typical American radio acts, the program lacked the warm appeal usually connected with a British Music Hall. John Goldsworthy, London-born actor, was the M.C. and weighted down with long introductions filled with musty wisecracks had a difficult time keeping the show moving at the proper tempo. Goldsworthy, it seemed, supplied the only music hall touch to the program. Other performers who were expected to do so failed.

Judged individually for performances many of the acts did very well. The Ranch Boys, Maple City Four, a xylophone player and the orchestra under Al Short, were most satisfactory. Sylvia Clark struggled bravely with some weak comedy material.

It seems to us that a synthetic music hall hasn't a great deal of value as a radio offering—provided the show just heard is a sample.

The program was over the NBC-Blue, 10-11 P. M., C.S.T., Tuesday April 6. (Sustaining.)

The League is launching a membership drive for studio workers of all classifications, from laborer to creative department member, it was said.

No Decision on Guild Demand

Prospects of any immediate action on the inclusion of the Screen Actors Guild in the studios' basic labor agreement faded yesterday following a final conference between Pat Casey, producers' labor representative, and Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the guild, which failed to result in any change in the situation which has prevailed during the week.

Thomson left for the coast yesterday afternoon to report back to his organization at a meeting of the guild in Hollywood Sunday night. The guild's future course of action probably will be decided at that time, he said.

Unionizing in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—Unionization is proceeding rapidly though quietly among exchange employes on Vine St. and it is believed that organizational setups have been largely established. At the present time, only rewinders, shippers, poster clerks and accessory room people are affected by the movement. No definite demands have been made as yet at any of the exchanges.

Ohio Bill to Stop Reel Cuts Defeated

require a minimum of two operators in each booth has been postponed indefinitely while the hearing on House Bill 369 which would compel the employment of a maintenance man in all theatres having more than 300 seats was scheduled for next Tuesday. The hearing on House Bill 348 to eliminate Bank Night and other giveaway games was not heard yesterday.

P. J. Wood, secretary of the I.T.O. of Ohio, stated today that he would strive to bring to an issue the bill calling for divorcement of production and exhibition. The measure has been in the hands of the House Judiciary Committee since the hearing early in March.

Maryland Approves Sunday Films

ANNAPOLIS, MD., April 8.—Film measures acted upon by the legislature which adjourned here this week included the bills legalizing Sunday exhibition in Oakland and Arundel County, both of which passed both houses. The Oakland measure was signed by the Governor after which a referendum in Oakland approved the measure by a margin of 3 to 1.

A bill calling for the barring of children under 18 from theatres showing unapproved films was held in committee while a substitute measure, reducing the stipulated age to 16, was defeated in the House.

The Senate Finance Committee killed the suggested 10 per cent admission tax and substituted a one per cent gross admission levy.

Following passage by the Senate, the House Judiciary Committee defeated the bill which would have placed on a film the name of the judge who overruled the censor board seeking to bar its exhibition.

Fight Connecticut 2-Man Bill

HARTFORD, CONN., April 8.—Seventy-five exhibitors, supported by a number of distributors, today registered opposition to the bill which calls for the employment of two men in all booths at a hearing on the measure held here today before the Judiciary Committee.

Edward Levy, principal spokesman for the exhibitors, sought to prove that fires have not been caused by the lack of an extra projectionist. He declared that the present safety rules of the state police are entirely adequate.

Fred Dempsey, secretary and treasurer of the I.A.T.S.E., and other A.F.L. executives had argued for the bill from a standpoint of safety.

Memphis May Up Prices

MEMPHIS, April 8. — As a result of the new state revenue law in Tennessee, theatres are planning to pass on to the public the three per cent tax which has been imposed on amusements. Plans call for increases of one or two cents in all admissions both in neighborhood and downtown houses.

MPTO Radio Unit to Meet On April 20

No Definite Plans Set Declares Vincent

The first meeting of the M. P. T. O. A. radio committee was designated for April 20 by Walter Vincent, chairman, yesterday, contingent upon the availability of the committee members on that date. The meeting will be held at Vincent's office here.

In addition to the chairman, the committee is comprised of Lewen Pizor, Philadelphia; Samuel Pinanski, Boston, and Arthur Lockwood, Middletown, Conn.

Vincent said that no definite line of procedure had been decided upon to accomplish the committee's aims of devising means of bringing under control radio's use of film personalities and material in unrestricted competition with theatres. He indicated that while there is a possibility that representatives of radio broadcasters would be asked to attend the initial meeting no formal invitations have

Midwest Spots Using Local Radio Talent

Kansas City, April 9.—Exhibitors in the smaller cities hereabouts are beginning to use local radio talent on their stages. The trend is new for this type of theatre and is particularly significant because of theatres' growing disinclination toward use of money and merchandise giveaways.

Ostrers Win Court Fight On Dividend

Result Is Victory Over Maxwell Faction

By BRUCE ALLAN

London, April 9.—Justice Clauson in Chancery Division here today rendered a judgment for Gaumont British in the action of a stockholder for an injunction to prevent the company from paying a dividend on the 5½ per cent preference shares, as declared by the directorate.

Thus the action of the dominant faction on the board, headed by Isidore Ostrer and his brothers, in declaring the dividend was upheld in court and the Ostrers are left free to pay the preference dividend. They retain their control, over the vigorous opposition on the board of John Maxwell, head of A.B.P., and the 20th Century-Fox interests, which are allied in the bitter fight of which this action is but one phase.

It was generally believed that the action, brought in the name of W. H. J. Drown, a stockholder, was in reality a move on the part of the Maxwell faction to wrest control of

Theatre Divorcement Bill Seen in Illinois

Chicago, April 9.—From authoritative sources in legislative circles here it is learned that a theatre divorcement bill is now in preparation and that the measure will be introduced at Springfield shortly.

Opposition to the bill on the part of the large circuits such as Warners, B. & K. and Great States would be made difficult by the absence of any organized front.

RKO Seeking Six Theatres In N. Y. Area

Deals to Be Completed May 1 Under Plan

RKO is negotiating for a half dozen theatres in the Greater New York area. All of the deals are expected to be consummated before the new season gets under way. Several weeks ago arrangements were completed whereby RKO acquired a half interest in two Randforce theatres in Brooklyn, the Republic and Lefferts. RKO will operate, starting Sept. 1.

With the conclusion of current talks, the circuit will have 50 units in the local territory.

Copyright Hearings Will Begin April 12

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Hearings on the copyright treaty will begin before a subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, headed by Senator Duffy of Wisconsin, on April 12.

Among those who will be heard will be Gabriel Hess, general counsel for the M.P.P.D.A.; Julian Brylawski, Jr., representing Warners, and John G. Paine, representing the Music Publishers Protective Ass'n.

Pointing out that the committee has considered the matter exhaustively in the past, Senator Duffy today said he would keep the hearings brief.

The copyright treaty was approved by the Senate in the last congress but its action was rescinded in order that legislation amending the copyright act to permit adherence of the United States to the international copyright convention might be passed first. The measure was adopted by the Senate but failed of action in the House.

Animal Bill Passes Reading in Commons

LONDON, April 9.—The Cinematograph Films bill, which prohibits the production or exhibition of any picture in which the mistreatment of animals is shown, passed its second reading in the House of Commons today. Geoffrey Lloyd, speaking for the Home Office, approved the principle of the bill and declared it is desirable that foreign producers should realize they are wasting their money if they hope to exhibit in England films showing cruelty to animals.

The bill was promoted by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. It is considered unlikely that the bill will become law during this session, however, because of the short time remaining for the current session of Parliament. It was pointed out that the British censor board is watching such films carefully.

Ostrers Win Court Fight On Dividend

the company from the Ostrers. The dividend was due March 31, last.

Justice Clauson declared the matter was purely and simply a legal one. "Some publicity was given to the suggestion that the purpose of the payment of the dividend was to retain voting control," the court said. "It is not a matter in which I am concerned in the least. I am only concerned with this: Is there a legal bar arising out of company law which prevents a payment out of capital to pay this interim dividend. If anybody has an idea that the court is affected either by commercial desirability or by a suggestion of a deep-laid plot to preserve control it is a complete misconception."

The court declared further, "So much publicity has been given the matter your clients [G. B.] might think the best way to deal with it would be a general meeting [of shareholders], but I do not press the suggestion."

Mark Ostrer was ill and unable to give evidence in support of the affidavit he filed in the case recently. Julian Levy indicated a valuation of £16,143,233 on the company's theatres as going concerns.

Ostrer Lists Reserves

Isidore Ostrer, in his testimony, declared that the reserves the board intended to use for the dividend if it was held legal were £500,000 of general reserve, £200,000 in a special reserve from the year's profit to March, 1936, £147,000 brought forward and £15,000 in a further reserve. He declared that M-G-M had bought two stories for £25,000, further reducing the company's loss. Justice Clauson questioned Ostrer on several points.

Ostrer disagreed that the debt of G. B. Distributors to the parent company was a bad debt. "If the assets were only £1, with the value of the Gaumont newsreel, the debt would be good," he said.

It was contended in opposition that the company's articles of incorporation prevented the payment of a dividend from reserves without the approval of a general shareholders' meeting. The contention was disputed by the company's counsel, and the court upheld the company, declaring the reserves were largely premiums on the shares.

rental of $150,000 annually; 15 per cent of the annual gross up to $1,000,000; 17½ per cent of the gross up to $1,500,000 and 20 per cent of the gross if in excess of $1,500,000. Fabian also agreed to pay 62 per cent of the heating cost. The Reconstruction Finance Corp. has consented to grant a $725,000 first mortgage on the condition that they be permitted to name one of the three voting trustees. Fabian and the bondholders have the right to name the other two.

It was revealed that Milton C. Weisman, receiver for Fox Theatres Corp.,paid $44,596 in dividends to the trustee, which represents five per cent of the claim of $891,000. Fabian Enterprises, Inc., which has held a lease on the Fox Brooklyn since July, 1934, will guarantee the lease. George S. Horton of Horton & Buckley testified that he appraised the land and building at $3,000,000. Samuel L. Chess, attorney for the minority bondholders, told the court that he had originally opposed the plan but subsequently found that it was the best available. The hearings were interrupted on several occasions by women bondholders who insisted they were being defrauded of their rights. Judge Bondy reserved the right to change his mind concerning the approval, but indicated that a formal order approving the plan would be signed next week. The hearing was adjourned to April 16.

been issued yet. He said that the committee might content itself with going over the situation generally and devising some procedure for the future before consulting with radio officials. However, in view of the fact that members of the committee all are from out of town and would be required to make a special effort to attend committee meetings, it is very probable that radio men will be asked to attend in order to make as much progress as possible.

Officials of NBC and CBS said yesterday that they saw no reason why representatives of their organizations should not meet with the committee if asked to do so.

"We welcome any move which has as one of its objects the improvement of radio programs," said one radio official who declined to be quoted. "We understand that some exhibitors have complained that a film star's prestige is injured by his or her appearance on a poorly presented radio program. So is the prestige of the network which carries such a program, and if there is anything we can do to prevent such occurrences we will be more than happy to do our part."

The same official added that any genuine action to control programs would require the cooperation of commercial sponsors and their advertising agencies, as well as the networks.

Easter Week Key Grosses Take Jump to $2,008,743

Easter week grosses leaped to $2,008,743 in the 175 first run theatres of 29 key cities reporting to Motion Picture Daily. This was only $175,207 below the four-year record set during New Year's week.

It was within $81,401 of the mark set during Labor Day week when the current season got off to a flying start. The comeback was striking in view of the fact that at no time during Lent did the totals come within shooting distance of the $2,000,000 mark.

K. C. Moves to Get Agreement On Giveaways

Kansas City, April 11.—A move in the direction of cutting out money giveaways and premiums was instituted here last week with the appointment by the I. T. O. of two committees to check individual independents for their attitude. Should independents agree 100 per cent to eliminate such promotions, that probably will be done.

No steps have been taken with respect to multiple bills, but exhibitors generally are growing increasingly antagonistic to the policy, and it appears likely that any definite move to eliminate doubles and triples also would receive favorable reaction.

The I. T. O. committees named to sound out exhibitor sentiment on

Outlook Dark For Starting Local Boards

The outlook for the establishment of local conciliation boards to hear and adjust exhibitor-distributor grievances is admittedly dark, Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, revealed yesterday before leaving for Washington. His admission came in the face of assurances given him last week that favorable action on the boards might be obtained from distribution companies in the near future.

It is known that at least two major distribution companies have taken a definite stand against participation in the boards and two others have qualified their endorsements of the new conciliation machinery to an extent which would seriously hamper their usefulness. Either situation is capable

Selznick May Quit U.A. for Deal at M-G-M

Company to Stay Intact If Deal Goes Through

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 11.—Selznick International may switch over to M-G-M at the expiration of the company's current commitment with United Artists. If the deal which has been discussed on "Gone with the Wind" as a springboard materializes it will mark the first outside feature production alignment on the part of M-G-M with the exception of the perennial association of Hal Roach. Selznick holds an eight-picture contract with United Artists. Only two, "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and "Garden of Allah," have been released. "A Star Is Born" is completed and ready for preview. "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "Let Me Live" are in hand and "Tom Sawyer" will be started shortly. This leaves Selznick with two more to go. It is significant that "Gone with the Wind" nowhere within Selznick International is discussed as a United Artists release. It may be, of course, if Selznick continues with the organization. The deal advanced by M-G-M would maintain the identity of Selznick International, which would continue to produce at its own studio, the former Pathe lot in Culver City a few minutes removed from M-G-M. Financing by Metro is not an essential of any deal, but low distribution cost and percentage profits are. Selznick will go east in a couple of weeks, perhaps for the purpose of discussing the possibility with Nicholas Schenck.

Studio labor developments resulting from the rejection of the Screen Actors' Guild application to come under the basic agreement with the studio internationals, and the refusal of the Painters' Union to accept the terms for its readmission to the agreement, will be watched closely on the coast this week by Pat Casey, producers' labor representative, who left for Hollywood over the weekend with work here uncompleted.

While the probability of a strike by either organization is believed unlikely of definitely obstructing the work of the board.

Outlook Dark For Starting Local Boards

Motion Picture Daily revealed as early as Feb. 18 that efforts to establish an initial four or five trial boards in selected key cities had been stalemated by divergent distributor attitudes. The situation existing then has undergone no change up to the present time.

Kuykendall reiterated yesterday that no further meetings with distribution officials to obtain the complete 10-point trade practice program would be held either by himself or other members of the M.P.T.O.A. trade practice committee. He emphasized that his impending national campaign to mobilize exhibitor strength on behalf of the program will supplant further conferences with distributors. A definite plan by which exhibitors will assert their demands, once their efforts have been coordinated, has been devised, Kuykendall said, but declared that its chances of success would be impaired by its being made public at this time.

Kuykendall will go to Memphis from Washington at the end of the week and begin his national trek there. He will return to New York from Memphis and his itinerary thereafter will include Chicago, Minneapolis, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Denver, Oklahoma City and Dallas. In several of these territories M.P.T.O.A. has no affiliated representation. Kuykendall has explained that the projected drive will include the enlistment of support from outside M.P.T.O.A. ranks.

of eight to five, yesterday expressed approval of a bill prepared by Representative Rees of Kansas, Republican member of the committee, requiring the filing of bonds to assure the departure of such aliens following the termination of their permitted stay.

During the hearings on the Dickstein measure, it was alleged that numbers of aliens who came into the country as actors changed their names and dropped out of sight after their arrival.

By requiring the posting of bond to assure the departure of such temporary visitors, Rees holds, the film and other industries will be enabled to continue the employment of such aliens as they need but the possibility of using the exemptions of the law to secure illegal entry will be minimized.

K. C. Moves to Get Agreement On Giveaways

premiums are composed of E. S. Young, E. E. Webber, C. H. Potter and Robert Rhoades, who will bring in their reports by April 15.

The desire to get rid of the heavy burden of premiums has been growing among exhibitors here, but, as in the case of doubles and triples, no one likes to make the first move.

Cost of premiums to exhibitors is difficult to determine, but on the average for all independents it probably runs to almost 100 per cent of film costs. Fox Kansas City theatres haven't used chinaware since last year, but they do have radios, electrical refrigerators, and other large single promotion items.

To give some idea of dollars and cents cost of premiums to exhibitors here, one exhibitor is reported to be spending about $165 a week for film, $300 for premiums; another is said to be writing checks of $300 a week for film, $500 for premiums, and still another, $120 a week for film, $100 for premiums.

Reject Manitoba Games Ban

Winnipeg, April 11.—Free dinnerware can be offered legally by exhibitors of Manitoba. This was decided after a sharp fight in the Manitoba Legislature when the Law Amendments Committee tossed out a bill introduced by Col. R. H. Webb of Winnipeg to prohibit giveaways by theatres, although the second reading of the measure had passed on the floor of the house by a vote of 27 to 23.

Illinois Asks Legalization

Some patrons lauded the plan, but sitting through five shows was too much to pay for an idea. There was no disturbance at the theatre.

New Shows On the Air

Fleischmann Show a Hit

Judging from Friday night's introductory broadcast, the new Fleischmann program is headed for runaway popularity on the air. The program is radio's first commercial all-colored show, but in all likelihood it won't be the last. Sponsors are notorious copyists and unless we miss our guess agency contracts and pens will be offered to other great colored entertainers in the not too distant future.

The mad, staccato rhythm of Louis Armstrong's band playing "Swing That Music," "Sheik of Araby," "When it's Sleepy Time Down South," plus the torrid vocalizing of Armanda Randolph made the listening an exciting pleasure, and the comedy delineations of Eddie Green and Gee Gee James set a level that many of our higher priced Nordic comedians might well aspire to reach.

The series is presented each Friday from 9 to 9:30 P. M., E.S.T., on the NBC-Blue. Fleischmann's Yeast sponsors. BANNER.

Radio Speeds Its Invasion Of Hollywood

MPTO Moves Followed By Swift Action

By JACK BANNER

Apropos of the action taken at the recent M. P. T. O. A. convention in Miami calling for an immediate get-together of picture interests to halt Hollywood's increasing participation in radio, it might not be amiss here to re-tell the story of old King Canute, particularly in view of the radio-film developments following in the wake of the M. P. T. O. A. convention.

Old King Canute, it is recalled, sat on his throne by the ocean's edge and commanded that the waters rise no higher. The old ruler fled from his throne in the nick of time, just as the rising tide washed his royal roost into the sea.

Additional developments in radio on pages 12 and 14

With as much jumping agility as was shown by old King Canute, we leap from mythology to the present time. Hardly had Ed Kuykendall

Condor Explains Call For New SEC Hearing

Minor details concerning "rental clause pertaining to extras" and "minimum shooting day requirements," described as usual in studio leases, are the only matters referred to in the S.E.C. call for a hearing on the registration statement of Condor Pictures, Inc., it was explained by George A. Hirliman, president, yesterday.

Hirliman declared that "innumerable financial statements, memorandums, etc.," were filed with the S.E.C. and, at the commission's request, tele-

See $40,000 in Week For 'Marked Woman'

"Marked Woman" garnered $17,500 in its first two days at the Strand, indicating the picture may gross $40,000, or better, on the week. Approximately 32,460 admissions were registered over the weekend, with capacity business for all shows.

Matinee prices were tilted from 55 cents to 65 cents and evening admissions boosted from 85 cents to 99 cents. The picture is expected to remain for three or possibly four weeks.

IATSE Drive To Be Pushed In Key Spots

Plan Is to Circumvent Moves by the CIO

An extension of the current drive to organize exchange employes will be undertaken in the near future through A. F. of L. and I.A.T.S.E. forces and is expected to take in every exchange center in the country, it was learned on good authority yesterday.

The move is understood to have been hastened by recent C.I.O. organizing activities among exchange employes and in other branches of the industry. Recent wage increases granted by distribution companies apparently halted the progress of C.I.O. organizing in the exchanges, but the interest displayed by the rival organization in the film industry has spurred the I.A.T.S.E. to action, regardless. Officials of the latter organization asserted yesterday that "if there is any organizing to be done in the distribution end of the industry, it is up to the I.A. to do it."

In some I. A. quarters the organizing of exchange employes is looked upon with a marked lack of enthusiasm. The international, however, has

Kent May Testify

London, April 12. — Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox, who arrived here today from New York, is expected to testify in the action brought by John Maxwell, head of Associated British Pictures, against the Ostrer brothers.

In his action Maxwell charged fraudulent misrepresentation on the part of the Ostrers in their sale to him of 250,000 non-voting "B" shares in Metropolis & Bradford Trust, holding company controlling 57 per cent of Gaumont British.

Hear Protest To Agreement On Copyright

Washington, April 12.—Adherence of the United States to the International Copyright Convention today was opposed before a sub-committee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by representations of the film, broadcasting and music publishing industries.

Spokesmen for all three groups, appearing before Senators Duffy of Wisconsin and White of Maine, insisted that our own copyright law should be amended and modernized before the Government entered the convention. At the opening of the hearing, it was pointed out by Senator Duffy that the treaty has been pending since February, 1934, that it was ratified by the Senate at the last session of Congress and that action was rescinded in order that the domestic law might first be revised.

Appearing on behalf of film producers, Edward P. Kilroe, chairman

U.S. Film Admissions in '35 Totaled $495,860,000

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

Washington, April 12.—Total admissions and fees to 12,024 film houses in the country in 1935 amounted to $495,860,000 out of total receipts for the year of $508,196,000, according to the final report of the amusement industry survey made public today by the U. S. Census Bureau.

The receipts total and other statistics on the amusement industry were published in Motion Picture Daily on March 19.

The balance of the $508,196,000 total was divided into $576,000 for the sale of merchandise and $11,760,000 from other unspecified sources, the report indicated.

Federal Rule Of Production Held Possible

Congress Power Widened By Wagner Decisions

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

Washington, April 12.—Government control of production under the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution was seen as made possible today by the Supreme Court decisions upholding the validity of the Wagner Labor Relations Act on the ground that while production might be intrastate in nature, Congress could still legislate on employer-employe relationship in a way that might have a substantial effect on the free flow of interstate commerce.

The decisions were viewed as giving the Government the groundwork for a new NRA, if desired, or for legislation regulating the hours and wages of employes engaged in production activities.

"Although activities may be intrastate in character when separately considered," Chief Justice Hughes said, in reading the court's opinion, "if they have such a close and substantial relation to interstate commerce that their control is essential or appropriate to protect that commerce from burdens and obstructions, Congress cannot be denied the power to exercise that control."

The court passed on five cases brought under the law, disposing of one unanimously, but splitting five to

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 12.

STRANGERS from the other side of the mountains meet a number of questions here, but always one: "What's new in the double feature market? Is it waning? Is it as strong?" And therein is a story. . . .

Aside from those companies which exist by the grace of twin bills, cross-sectional Hollywood opinion maintains doubles are doing no good. As a matter of fact, the agreement is rather all-inclusive that they do harm. Yet some there are who find solace in the current booking situation. They maintain this year, as they did last, that the practice gives the studios an opportunity to test out new and raw talent; that the experimental outlet so provided gives the coast an unprecedented chance to play around with new people in the ever-present hope and prayer that some of them will click and thus graduate into the A division. . . .

It goes like this, an important producer talking:

"On a lot such as ours (it's a big one) the B's do a job in absorbing overhead and, with us, it's about thirty-five per cent. We have a number of young players here whom we don't dare use in the high negative pictures because they are not known to the public. The B product gives us that chance and, of course, we are using it to the full." As he speaks, so do others on major lots here. The argument goes that, sans B's, a lavish hand with unknowns would not be in the cards. To all and sundry who expound this point of view, your correspondent has one monotonous approach. He asks what happened on the new talent equation in the days before the alphabet appraisal of product became fashionable? The answer, almost invariably, was: "Such talent never got a chance." We fail to see how that works out. Our memory seems to tell us it was Winnie Sheehan who saw whatever he saw in Janet Gaynor, gave her a small opportunity in "The Johnstown Flood" some years ago and began taking her places from about that point on. . . .

Somehow or other, through careful plotting, spots can be filled for promising newcomers and the product, we fail to see has to be B product. Hollywood, we think on this score, is prone to overlook the determining factor in matters such as this, which is the public—that same public which went wild over Shirley Temple on the strength of a small role in one of the early musicals at Fox before it became prefixed with Twentieth Century. Aside from all of this, it seems a rather unnecessary procedure to apologize for B films beyond the very pertinent observation that the producers who make them these days, which is to say all producers, do so because the market they are feeding insists upon them. That ought to be sufficient reason. . . .

Nick Schenck wrapped a few vowels and a handful of consonants around the problem very aptly a few days back as he passed through Chicago en route to New York from Hollywood. He envisioned duals as even more of an issue in the next few months to which he further remarked any cessation in the practice depended upon the public's absolute refusal to attend theatres pursuing the habit, demand, or whatever it may be. Other directional signs in the wind are pointed up by the situation in New York today where, MOTION PICTURE DAILY reported recently, little hope is seen for a widespread swing back to singles. . . .

Hollywood, continuing as it does its general disregard for outside opinion, probably paid no attention to the shipboard statement issued by Joe Bernhard prior to his departure for Europe. The operating head of the Warner circuit turned to doubles at the time and said some things that sounded quite interesting, at large, and quite inexplicable, in particular, to us. For instance:

> "The dual feature can never advance the industry—it can only retard it. Quantity never takes the place of quality in entertainment. When I return from abroad I'll give serious attention to constructive proposals for eliminating double features. In the beginning, the double feature may be a shot in the arm for some theatres, but it eventually loses its power to improve box-office. And then theatre grosses fall back to the single feature level. . . . The studios blame the double feature condition on the exhibitors and the exhibitors blame it on the studios. Meanwhile, we know there is a large body of public opinion which finds the double feature distasteful. . . . The only sure protection of this great industry is constant upward progress in the quality and class of entertainment. . . . It seems to me that one of the steps toward abolishing this evil might be to create a new film form between the feature and the short. Say, for instance, a class of three or four reel features using popular poems, famous short stories and historical characters."

And so, another statement. Bernhard's company has an important studio here and it makes a number of B pictures each year. In the place of theorizing, it would be nice for a change, if not for the deviltry in it, to do something. If Bernhard is as convinced as his statement sets forth that duals are not wanted by the patrons of Warner theatres, why not rout them out? At least, why not try? It might work. . . .

Ralph Ince Killed In Crash in London

LONDON, April 12.— Ralph W. Ince, for many years one of the industry's leading production personalities, who came to England three years ago, was killed in an automobile accident in Kensington yesterday. Mrs. Ince, who was driving the car when it struck a safety zone, suffered shock and lacerations and was taken to a hospital. Ince was 50 years old.

Born in Boston in 1887, Ralph W. Ince was the son of John E. and Emma Brennan Ince, themselves well known in the theatre. Young Ince played a season in Richard Mansfield's company before he was 21. Brief vaudeville tours followed.

He went to the screen in its early days, his first part in a series of one-reelers, "The Lincoln Series." Ince played the President. Before his screen career began he did magazine illustrations and cartoons for the New York Mirror and the Evening Telegram. Ince became one of the first directors in the era of the one-reeler.

He was a pioneer in the development of the two and three-reel film, acting in and directing many for Vitagraph. In 1916 he joined Lewis J. Selznick, directing a number of Robert Warwick vehicles. His early stage training served him well with the advent of talking pictures. He appeared in many, notably as Pete Montana in "Little Caesar." In 1934 he directed and acted in "No Escape" for Warners, then went to England under Warner contract, appearing in "So You Won't Talk." At the time of his death he was directing a melodrama, "The Man Who Made Diamonds."

He was a brother of the late Thomas Ince, famous producer. He had been married three times.

Another effort will be made to have 20th Century-Fox Film Corp. increase its offer for the Roxy, Samuel Kramer, counsel for the Roxy stockholders, revealed yesterday at the hearings on the proposed plan of reorganization now being held before Special Master Addison S. Pratt.

An adjournment until 2 P. M. today was taken to allow W. C. Michel, 20th Century-Fox executive, to communicate with Sidney R. Kent, president, by transatlantic telephone when the latter arrives in London. Alvin Schlosser, a member of the noteholders' protective committee, testified that he valued the theatre at $5,500,000. He said the plan was fair to bondholders and noteholders and "unfortunately fair" to stockholders.

Reserve Ruling on Katz Claim

The Circuit Court of Appeals reserved decision yesterday on the appeal taken by the Irving Trust Co., Paramount-Publix trustees, against the allowance of the $265,000 claim made by Sam Katz. Special Master John E. Joyce expunged the claim after a hearing, but Federal Court Judge Alfred C. Coxe reinstated it. Katz alleges that he was employed as vice-president of the company on a two-year contract on Jan. 1, 1932. His contract was terminated on Oct. 26, 1932, and he is making a claim for salary allegedly due him.

Ask Cohan Suit Dismissal

Maurice A. Richmond and Max Meyer, who do business as the Paull-Pioneer Music Co., filed a motion in Federal Court yesterday to dismiss the complaint of George M. Cohan for $100,000 royalties on 49 Cohan songs. The motion is made on the ground that the Federal Court lacks jurisdiction to hear the suit and that the complaint failed to set forth a cause of action. Judge Robert T. Patterson will hear the arguments on April 20.

Orders RKO Claim Finding

Federal Court Judge William Bondy yesterday ordered Special Master Richard J. Scrandrett to determine a complicated claim of $11,629 against RKO. The Hanover Capital Trust Co. alleges that it is the assignee of a claim from Alfred E. Fliegel. The Trenton Advertising Co. has made a demand to participate in the allowance to the extent of $3,000. Scrandrett is also holding hearings on the claim for $5,161 against RKO by the Trenton Advertising Co.

Hear Protest To Agreement On Copyright

of the Copyright Committee of the Hays office, told the Senators that adherence prior to copyright revision would throw the copyright law into chaos. The State Dep't, he said, is urging adherence as part of its foreign trade improvement program, contending that with the exception of England no country is concerned whether we enter or not. On the contrary, Kilroe asserted, every member of the convention is anxious to have the United States adhere.

Contending that this country should wait until the next meeting, at which the convention will be amended, Kilroe said that many countries had entered with reservations. The next meeting of the International Copyright Union may be important, since many radical and revolutionary proposals have been drafted.

There is a tendency abroad, he explained, to give the author more rights because of new inventions, such as talking pictures, television and the like, and among these problems is the question of who is to be considered the author of a scenario, held in this country to be the producer, but in some others the scenario writer.

Many of these questions, he added, are of primary importance to the film industry. "Whatever this country is going to get in the way of concessions it must get before it puts its name on the dotted line," he concluded. After that, the United States will have but one vote.

Appearing on behalf of the National Ass'n of Broadcasters, Sidney M. Kaye told the committee the radio industry is "not hostile" to adherence by the United States and approves the Duffy Copyright Bill, but opposes entry before revision on the same ground as the film producers. Adherence before copyright revision, he contended, might subject broadcasts to heavy penalties because of the lack of definite information as to what parts of our copyright and common laws still were operative.

Asks Individual Treaties

Declaring that copyright is a commercial proposition, John G. Paine, chairman of the board of the Music Publishers Protective Ass'n, voiced opposition to adherence, recommending instead that this Government make individual treaties with the various foreign countries as it has on tariff and other subjects. The treaty, he pointed out, becomes the law of the land under our Constitution, and the United States could take no retaliatory action against any nation which discriminated against us without entire withdrawal from the union.

Paine asserted that entry into the union would not assure Americans of full union rights in all countries, pointing out that it would still be necessary for them to comply with native requirements.

The sub-committee will hold another brief meeting tomorrow for the purpose of securing the views of the State Dep't.

Algers Master for RKO Reorganization

there were "special circumstances" in the case which compelled him to send it to a special master instead of holding the hearing himself. Special Master Algers was ordered to divide creditors and stockholders into classes according to the nature of their claims and report on the fairness and feasibility of the proposed plan. Modifications will be presented to Algers and he is required to make recommendations. No dates for the hearings have been set. Thomas D. Thatcher and Richard J. Scrandrett will continue to act as special masters for the hearings on claims against RKO.

Algers is a practicing attorney and a former member of the committee on admissions to the New York bar. Several years ago he was appointed by Governor Lehman chairman of the Moreland commission to conduct an inquiry into real estate mortgages here.

Expect KAO Board To Retain Balance

The present balance of representation on the Keith-Albee-Orpheum board will be continued for another year at the annual meeting of stockholders of the company tomorrow, it is learned.

The representation formula, adopted last year, apportions three places on the board to RKO-RCA interests, three to M. J. Meehan interests and one to a neutral selected by the two principal stockholder groups. Only one new director is expected to be elected at tomorrow's meeting, and this will be to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of M. H. Aylesworth, one of the RKO representatives. Major L. E. Thompson is regarded as the probable successor.

The remaining six directors are expected to be reelected. They are Leo Spitz, K-A-O president and chairman; Lunsford P. Yandell of RCA; Malcolm Kingsberg. P. J. Maloney and Monroe Goldwater, Meehan representatives, and Donald K. David, neutral member. Up to the annual meeting last year, the RKO-RCA and the Meehan interests had five representatives each and there were three "neutral" members of the board. Results achieved by the smaller board of seven members appear to insure its continuance.

RKO Signs for First Of Six New Theatres

Negotiations have been concluded by RKO for the first of six theatres to be acquired in the local area. According to the terms of a deal signed late last week with M. Squires, independent exhibitor, RKO will begin operating the Parkway, Mt. Vernon, May 1.

RKO interests hope to complete arrangements this week for taking over three more houses on May 1.

The circuit is making a strong bid to build up its local units to a point where it will be represented with as many theatres as Loew. The latter circuit also is adding to its string, having recently taken over the Cameo, New Rochelle, in addition to building a 1,100-seat theatre at Fenton Ave. and Boston Road, in the Bronx.

Federal Rule Of Production Held Possible

four on the others. In a dissenting opinion, the minority held that Congress has exceeded its authority.

"Obviously," the minority opinion commented, "what is determined may gravely affect a multitude of employers who engage in a great variety of private enterprises—mercantile, manufacture, publishing, stock-raising, mining, etc. It puts into the hands of a board power of control over purely local industry beyond anything heretofore deemed permissible."

High Court Verdict Effect Felt in L. A.

new labor federation to negotiate a basic agreement with producers was signified at Sunday's mass meeting of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers Local 644, when reports from delegates attending New York meetings were heard.

The tenseness in the current labor situation revolves around the question of whether or not future confabs between painters and producers shall be held. Guild spokesmen unofficially declared a series of conferences between Guild leaders and painters over the next ten-day period had been decided upon. Although reports indicated producers would stand by the decisions made in New York without future conferences, Pat Casey definitely refuses to comment, lending credence to the statements that there would be continued negotiations for inclusion in the basic agreement.

Decision Seen Labor Victory

The upholding of the Wagner Act was viewed as a victory for labor factions in union circles. The Guild contends producers will be forced to negotiate an agreement under the present circumstances.

Possibilities of a strike by the Guild and Painters now appears remote. IATSE heads, however, would not comment one way or the other on the situation.

Regardless of whether a new federation comprised of Guild members and painters and affiliates is formed or not, it is understood that the existing harmony between these factions will continue. Meanwhile Studio Utility Employees Union Local 724 stated that it had received word from International heads that they had entered a producer-labor basic agreement. This organization has a membership estimated at 1,400. It is understood that the classification of men will await conferences with IATSE officials.

NEW HAVEN, April 12.—The newly-chartered A. F. of L. exchange employes union here claimed an increase in membership at the fifth meeting here. A last open meeting has been scheduled for Wednesday night at Trades Council Hall, when it is promised the long-awaited officers of the Boston union will be present, and permanent New Haven officers will be elected.

Although the announcement that salary increases were imminent drastically cut attendance at the second meeting, failure of the increases to materialize has once more stimulated interest in the union.

been advised by the A. F. of L. that cooperation would be given in distribution centers where the I.A. is not established and in other centers where questions of jurisdiction may arise. Moreover, it was reported that industry officials for the most part prefer to see the exchanges organized by the I.A.T.S.E., in the event that national organizing of the employes is inevitable. Past relations between the international and the industry have been amicable enough and no strike of any serious proportions in which the I.A. has been involved has occurred in the industry in the past 10 years.

It was also reported that company heads were given notice of the I.A.'s organizing intentions in the course of the labor conferences at the office of Pat Casey, producers' labor representative, last week.

The I.A.'s local organizing drive was launched yesterday in most of the principal exchanges and will be continued, it was said, until representation is obtained in all exchanges.

Winninger to "Showboat"

HOLLYWOOD, April 12. — Charles Winninger has been signed to return to the Maxwell House "Showboat" program in his original role as "Cap'n Henry." The program moves here from New York late this spring.

Radio Speeds Its Invasion Of Hollywood

appointed his committee to look into the film-radio situation, when the following radio headline news broke into print:

1.—Maxwell House "Showboat," one of radio's biggest and most popular programs, announces its decision to change its base of operations to Hollywood, with film guests as the program's premiere attraction.

2—Kate Smith, whose radio followers number in the millions, is purchased by General Foods for a new Hollywood program. Film players, of course, will be featured as guests.

3—CBS approves a new $2,000,000 Hollywood studio seating 1,200 spectators, and seven additional Hollywood studios, for completion by November of this year.

4—The Nash-Lafayette program drops Floyd Gibbons and Grace Moore substitutes as star—with a resultant program shift to Hollywood.

5—Chase and Sanborn admits that "Do You Want to Be an Actor?" is not glamorous enough as a Hollwood offering, and signs Don Ameche to head a new series. Ameche will be supported by guest film players.

All the above developments have crystallized since the Miami M. P. T. O. A. call for regulation. Additionally, it is only a matter of days, or at best, weeks, before NBC will make public its plans for additional Hollywood studios, at a cost rumored to be about $2,000.000. MOTION PICTURE DAILY has positive assurance that the studio expansion plans have been approved by the network. The plans merely await public announcement.

Radio, in the light of the above actions, seems to have given the answer. The answer is—"Hollywood Ho!"

Open Season on Gifts

Agencies and sponsors have declared open season on radio editors, with sundry gifts as the decoys to lure space breaks from the "boys."

Herewith is a recapitulation of the "bribes" received by M. P. D's. radio editor the past week:

A single shoe string from the H. N. Kiesewetter agency. (A shoe string was to provide an important clue in a forthcoming broadcast of "Famous Jury Trials.")

From the National Silver Co., sponsors of the Irving Kaufman broadcast on WOR, a single teaspoon.

From NBC, a toy mouse, allegedly of the singing variety.

From Young & Rubicam, an empty carton of "Grape Nuts" to call attention to the new Burns and Allen program.

From Kenyon & Eckhardt, a toy skillet, lest the "Sisters of the Skillet" go unnoticed.

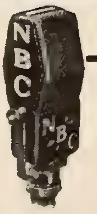
FINAL

PEOPLE TO EAT ALL SUMMER!

FINAL

LIFE is about the same, summer and winter. People eat and drink, work and play, keep on buying. They spend just as many millions of dollars. Not only for seasonal needs and luxuries, which you'd expect. But for year-'round products like gasoline, cigarettes, electric refrigerators, automobiles. (These hit peak sales in summer!)

Radio listeners hang right on, too. Of the millions who listen to NBC winter programs, 97% are available to radio in any week in the summer. For where people go—there goes radio. This tremendous year-'round acceptance makes NBC the most effective year-'round sales medium in the world. That is why more advertisers are on the air—the NBC air—right through the seasons, without interruption.



Last summer, advertisers on NBC Networks (weekday time alone) boosted NBC income to an increase of

WCAU Tries Farming Out New Announcers

Philadelphia, April 12.—In an effort to develop radio announcers to meet the qualifications demanded by a 50,000-watt station and, indirectly, for the networks, Stan Lee Broza, program manager at WCAU, local CBS outlet, has arranged to farm out all worthy applicants to smaller stations. Six stations in towns near Philadelphia will serve as a "school of experience" for the potential WCAU announcers.

Although Broza does not promise a WCAU post for every schooled applicant, the station will retain a preferential option for their services. And if a post is not available, the groomed announcer will be at liberty to accept any other assignment.

Germany Signs Film Deal with Italians

Berlin, April 12.—Germany took one more step over the weekend in the use of the screen as a medium of propaganda, with the signing of a film treaty with Italy, as indicated by the presence here last week of Luigi Freddi, director of the film department of the Italian Propaganda Ministry. Dr. Lenich, president of the Reich Film Chamber, signed the accord for Germany.

The treaty now will go to the two Governments for formal ratification, and later a complementary agreement will be drawn. Cultural cooperation and an exchange of films between the two countries are the outstanding features of the treaty, which was instigated for Germany by Minister of Propaganda Joseph Goebbels.

At the same time there was revealed a less formal film alliance with Japan, in the form of an agreement between the Government-controlled Tobis here and Cocco Tobis Nippon. There is no secret here of the intention of the Reich Government to use the screen in alliances with other nations which think as the Hitler regime does.

Much Cutting on Italian Film

The heavily publicized cooperative film "Condottieri," made with Italian interests, has run into difficulty. Based on the "Fuehrer" principal, showing rough soldiers of fortune of the Italian Renaissance, it pictures in an important scene a war leader kneeling at the feet of the Pope. There are many other religious scenes. The Propaganda Ministry has returned the film to the studio for recutting. It is now reported the film has been withdrawn from 110 houses in South Germany where it already had opened. The recent encyclical concerning Germany is seen here as having given rise to the action by the Goebbels department.

By JAMES LOCKHART

Mexico City, April 12.—Two features and four short subjects were destroyed in a fire which yesterday seriously damaged the studios here of the Mexican Film Co., of which the president is George Stahl. Stahl and one assistant suffered slight injuries in the effort. The loss was estimated at about $30,000. The fire is considered a serious setback to production activity in this area. The blaze was caused by a short circuit.

Two Newsreels Make Changes In Personnel

Reek in Movietone Post, Butterfield at "U"

Changes in executive personnel were made yesterday by two newsreels. Edmund Reek was named general manager of Movietonews, Inc., and Allyn Butterfield was appointed editor of Universal News, succeeding Harold E. Wondsel, who resigned.

Wondsel left to assume the presidency of the recently organized Sound Masters 16 mm. Film Co. Butterfield, who had been managing editor of the Pathe reel since his resignation from the post of editor of the Universal reel, assumes his new post tomorrow. Courtland Smith, head of the Pathe reel, named Bert Kalisch as assistant editor.

Smith expressed regret at Wondsel's resignation, the two having been associated since 1926. Wondsel "contributed greatly to the successful de-

California Criticism Kills Block Booking

SACRAMENTO, April 13.—Protests of organized labor, clubwomen and spokesmen for both producers and exhibitor organizations were heard by the State Assembly Judiciary Committee here yesterday before they effectively tabled the proposed anti-block booking bill introduced by Ernest O. Voight of Culver City with the supposed backing of the I. T. O. of Southern California.

Morgan A. Walsh, operator of several houses in northern California and Oregon and president of the I. T. O. of Northern California, was among the independent exhibitors against approval of the proposed bill which is now effectively killed.

20th-Fox Is Given $46,717 Tax Refund

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Over-assessments totaling $46,717 have been credited to 20th Century-Fox, it was revealed today by the Internal Revenue Bureau, correcting errors found in 20th Century Pictures' income for the fiscal year ended May 31, 1935. Of the amount, $40,445 resulted from the discovery of over statements due to the method of computing taxable income, while $5,738 represented the allowance of an additional deduction for ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the balance an allowance for a deduction for state taxes.

Court Decisions May Spur New Theatre Labor Drives

Widening of the organizing drives among theatre and exchange employes is viewed by company and labor officials as one of the most immediate effects within the industry of the Supreme Court's decisions upholding the Wagner Labor Relations Act, it was ascertained yesterday.

The organizing of exchange employes, already scheduled to proceed on a national front under A. F. of L. and I.A.T.S.E. auspices, probably will be speeded up on as a result of the decisions to further offset C.I.O. organizing. In addition, the drive may be extended now to include non-union theatre workers and projectionists and others employed in hitherto unorganized small towns throughout the country, it was said.

Another effect of the decision, as suggested in MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday, may be the reestablishment of a new NRA with the possible regulation of trade practices, as well as wage and hour schedules. Under the court's new interpretation of interstate commerce, there is but little doubt expressed in legal circles here that Congressional regulation of the industry could be extended to exhibition as well as to production and distribution.

With several substitute NRA measures already prepared for submission

Special Radio Tax Is Urged By G. H. Payne

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Special taxes on broadcasting stations, from which an annual revenue of $6,946,395 would be secured, today were recommended to Representative Boylan of New York by Commissioner George H. Payne of the F.C.C.

Accompanying a letter outlining the possibilities of the taxes, Commissioner Payne submitted the draft of a bill to be introduced in Congress by the New York member.

Under the proposed schedule, stations with less than 1,000 watts power would pay a tax of $1 per year per watt; stations with 1,000 to 10,000 watts would pay $2 per watt, and stations with more than 10,000 watts would pay $3 per watt. In the case of part-time stations the tax would be one twenty-fourth of the wattage assessment for each hour the station

Warners Find Air Previews Aid Business

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—Bi-weekly radio previews of new pictures opening in Warner first run houses here are credited by the circuit with being an important aid to business and are being continued on a new series of broadcasts over WCAU, beginning this week. As in the past, an occasional special broadcast will be given also on KYW.

The 15-minute programs consist of condensed dramatizations of the new pictures narrated by Powers Gouraud, accompanied with broadcasts of excerpts from the sound tracks played through a sound head. The Warner first runs here use five pictures weekly, two of which are selected for the programs one day in advance of their opening. Musicals are preferred for the programs, but any picture regarded as adaptable is included.

The broadcasts were originated 18

Drake Chosen As President By Erpi Board

Succeeds Bloom Who Has Held Two Positions

Whitford Drake was elected president of Erpi, succeeding Edgar S. Bloom, at the annual meeting of the company's board of directors yesterday. For the past two years Bloom has held the dual posts of president of Western Electric and of Erpi. He continues as president of the former.

Drake, who became associated with Western Electric in 1924, has been a director and vice-president of Erpi since its formation in 1927. A year ago he was elected executive vice-president.

Daniel C. Collins, Erpi comptroller, was elected a vice-president in charge of public relations and licensing at yesterday's board meeting. E. S. Gregg, assistant comptroller, was named by Drake to succeed Collins. Drake also appointed P. L. Palmerton to the post of general foreign manager of Erpi. Palmerton, who has been export manager, returned recently from an inspection of Erpi's associated European companies.

At the annual meeting of stockholders, preceding the directors' meeting, T. Brooke Price, vice-president and general counsel of Western Electric, was elected a director of Erpi, succeeding Edward E. Shumaker, whose term expired.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 13.

A QUAINT place, this Hollywood. What follows is designed to prove it. . . .

Harrison Carroll, in his syndicated King Features column:

> "To Kay Francis, sophisticated beauty of the screen, has come the longest, most expensive proposal of marriage ever received by a Hollywood star. It is a 2,500 word telegram sent from the Statler Hotel in Detroit by an admirer who said he was on his way to New York and would be in Los Angeles within a few weeks to hear the star's answer. Filling 22 pages of telegraph blanks, the message is estimated to have cost the sender $212.85. In flowery phrases, it urges Miss Francis to accept the proposal and find 'love, ideal companionship and life as it should be lived.' It informs the star that the admirer is a man of considerable means. At the Warner Brothers studio yesterday, Miss Francis [hold your breath] said: 'It's so long I haven't read it all.'"

FAN TELEGRAPHS 2,500 WORD PROPOSAL

Read Kendall in his "Around and About in Hollywood" column, appearing daily in the Los Angeles Times:

> "Blind people visualize their favorite film stars in terms of colors. An interesting letter on the subject was received yesterday by Ginger Rogers from Weldon Webb of Chicago. He lost his sight in an accident, he wrote, when he was in his 'teens. Webb sees Miss Rogers walking in a flame color suggesting a lovely golden sunrise. He visualizes Marlene Dietrich as rose red, Greta Garbo as royal purple, Shirley Temple as Nile green, Miriam Hopkins, yellow; Ann Sothern, rose pink and Anne Shirley, sky blue."

What? No Gypsy Rose Lee?

It is hailed as a big piece of news here that Sam Goldwyn, finally and at last, has discovered the front page of any metropolitan newspaper is as dramatic as any fanciful yarn concocted here by writers at $2,500 per week and up. Now, the news in this piece of revelation actually is that any factor in Hollywood, as highly placed and as important as Goldwyn, could have understood otherwise. The first page of almost any edition of The New York Times, reflecting the political and and economic conflicts of this sorely tried world and the beleaguered hopes of the minority races, is all the evidence anyone might need, including Hollywood, if it can get away from Louella Parsons' column long enough. . . .

Then the true story of a producer's assistant.

"Get me footage on the coronation," he demanded.

A call from the assistant to the library to find out:

"But the coronation has not been held yet."

The producer: "Well, get me footage from the coronation of the last king. What was his name? Edward, something or other, I think."

Second call from the assistant to the library and this:

"Edward was never crowned. He abdicated before the coronation was held and there simply is no footage."

The assistant stymied:

"I'll call you back after I talk to Mr. ——." . . .

"You ought to get into New York more often to find out what the world thinks," we remarked to Walter Wanger the other day.

Seriously, "I read."

Jocularly and otherwise, "Besides, you talk of life and facts. Since when have they anything to do with making pictures. The status of the industry? I never knew it had one."

Those all-MOTION PICTURE DAILY few minutes in Wanger's reception room, flanking his office the other day, were our own conspiracy, enacted as we waited. Ruthlessly shoving all others to one side, our favorite baby went on complete display. Thereafter, we sat back and beamed. . . .

Ivy Wilson plants publicity for Mike Levee, once a producer, now long a ten per center. Prior to her departure for the Orient developed the usual party with trimmings, including telegrams. From Warren William:

> "Five thousand years ago Confucius said: 'He is not a wise man who opens his mouth and lets the elephants jump out.'"

The toastmaster was Joe E. Brown. . . .

"What do I think of the new season, you ask?" A big producer talking. "Let's see, last year I think it was dramas. Just substitute musicals this year and let it ride." . . .

"Fifty-second Street," story in work for Wanger at the minute, ought to better Warners' "Forty-Second Street" by ten blocks, Hollywood figures. . . .

Three More Theatre Sites Near for RKO

With a deal set to take over the Parkway, Mt. Vernon, on May 1, RKO is understood to be negotiating for two more sites where new theatres will be built and added to the circuit before the 1937-38 season gets under way.

One of the two locations is said to be at Allerton and White Plains Aves.; the second, at Sound View and Westchester Ave. Both theatres will seat about 1,800. Negotiations are reported to be virtually set for closing of building contracts with work scheduled to get under way as soon as signatures are affixed to the pacts.

RKO circuit heads are understood to view these locations as great possibilities. Both sections in the Bronx are said to be building rapidly. No major circuit is represented in either situation at the present time.

A deal is on for three other theatres with prospects of an early closing bright. The circuit also plans to build a 4,000-seat house at 23rd St. and Eighth Ave., which is expected to be ready for September opening.

See Maxwell Action Delayed Until Fall

LONDON, April 13.—The hearing of the action of John Maxwell, head of Associated British Pictures, against the Ostrer brothers, charging fraudulent misrepresentation in the sale to Maxwell of 250,000 non-voting "B" shares of Metropolis & Bradford Trust, is unlikely until next fall, it is understood on good authority here.

The action is seen here as part of the fight under way on the directorate of Gaumont British, of which M. & B. is the holding company, waged with Maxwell on one side and the Ostrers on the other.

Goldstein Services Today

The post taken by Reek at Movietone has been unoccupied since the elevation of Truman Talley, now president, from general manager about six months ago. The move places Reek in command under Talley, a spot held by Laurence Stallings, as editor, prior to his resignation some months ago.

Jack Haney, former assignment editor, was named by Talley to Reek's former post as news editor. No successor to Haney has been named as yet. MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Woman I Love"

(RKO)

Hollywood, April 13.—There is strong emotional appeal in this story of the man who suddenly finds himself in love with the wife of his best friend, against a background of the World War as fought in the clouds. Splendid performances impart to the production even greater strength, for the story has been told before.

It has been adapted by Anthony Veiller from a Franch story, "L'Equipage," by Joseph Kessell. In his direction Anatole Litvak has made the most of his material, presenting just enough scenes of battle in the sky to add thrill and action to the underlying drama of three honest people facing wreckage of their lives and destruction of their ideals in a war-torn world.

For making an old theme ring true and appear strong much credit must go to the cast, led by Paul Muni, demonstrating once again that a good performance is automatic with his appearance, as the husband; Miriam Hopkins, his wife; Louis Hayward, Muni's friend, and Colin Clive, their escadrille captain. Vince Barnett and Sterling Holloway offer moments of welcome comedy.

Young Hayward, all aflame with a desire to get to the front, meets Miss Hopkins the night before he leaves, and the two fall in love. He joins his squadron, finds Muni the jinx because he has lost two observers. Volunteering to fly with him, Hayward and Muni become the closest of friends, tell each other of their respective sweetheart and wife, become the aces of their escadrille. Hayward, on leave, learns that his sweetheart is his friend's wife. Despite his effort, Muni learns the truth, and the film ends with Hayward's death in battle, and a new understanding and respect of Muni and Miss Hopkins for each other.

Short Subjects

"March of Time, No. 9"

(RKO)

Two extremely newsworthy episodes, of wide significance here and in England, and one of real general interest, all presented in the incisive, attention-compelling style of the Time reel, serve to make this latest issue one which should appeal to all intelligent audiences.

Of prime interest is the episode on the Supreme Court, pictorially and verbally pointing up the current controversy concerning the tribunal, picturing the protagonists, President Roosevelt and various legislative leaders opposed to his plan, and taking on added interest with informal shots of the nine justices about whose heads the battle rages.

The reel has built a significantly interesting sequence from the ascertained fact that half of the applicants for the British army are rejected because of undernourishment. The nation is shocked by the revelations, especially at this time, when Britain is doing its utmost to spur rearmament and bolster its army's numerical weakness. Pictured are the drastic measures undertaken to condition potential army recruits, feed up the children of the poor areas.

The final episode tells of the unusually effective work done by a group of amateur sleuths in New Jersey, who, pooling their respective abilities as scientists, engineers and the like, have assisted in the solving of more than 300 crimes, and have won the commendation of J. Edgar Hoover, chief G-Man. The men are seen competently at work in their sleuthing.

"Some Time Soon"

(M-G-M)

A factory girl pines for her prince charming. She meets him and learns he is a prince but he also works in her factory. They part. Her friend learns he is the real thing and brings them together. This slight plot is worked out cleverly and with a measure of humorous relief by Jean Chatburn, Inez Courtney, Gregory Gaye and Arthur Auerbach. It has all the pseudo-Russian accoutrements. There is also a nicely turned musical number woven in. It is pleasing stuff. Production Code Seal No. 3,151. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"Dizzy Doctors"

(Columbia)

The Three Stooges again empty their bag of amusing "business." The trio's wives compel them to get jobs. They become medicine salesmen and invade a hospital where they have an uproarious time with the various attendants. After being chased all over the streets of Los Angeles they arrive back where they started—in bed. Production Code Seal No. 2,940. Running time, 17½ mins. "G."

Special Radio Tax Is Urged By G. H. Payne

operated per day, while in the case of stations using different powers night and day the tax would be on the average power. Non-profit stations broadcasting unsponsored programs only, and stations owned by Federal, state or other governmental agencies would be exempt from tax.

"There has been a widespread conviction that the enormous profits made by the broadcast stations more than justify a special tax, as they now enjoy the use of a great national resource and it is the Government that bears the burden of the regulation without which they could not exist," Commissioner Payne wrote. The suggested form of taxation, he added, is less objectionable than levies on gross revenue or net income that have been suggested.

"The levy on power in the form of a special tax is simple, calculable at once and is eminently fair," he contended. "To give you some idea of the profits, it is a fact that there is not more than $40,000,000 invested in the broadcasting business and the gross revenue last year exceeded $107,000,000, with the possibility of its reaching $125,000,000 to $130,000,000 in the current year.

Tax "No Burden"

"The proposed special tax," he concluded, "will be no burden on the broadcast industry, as it represents less than six per cent of the revenue of the industry. At best it is but a small return for the great privilege the industry enjoys in using the people's air waves. I may mention, in this connection, that the bill represents purely a revenue measure and that no special tax heretofore levied by the Government, including the special taxes of the Harrison Act and the Firearms Act, which are largely regulatory, has ever been upset by the courts."

Broadcasters' representatives in Washington tonight were reluctant to discuss Commissioner Payne's proposal pending more detailed study, but indicated they would seek hearings before the House Ways and Means Committee, if the bill was introduced, at which they would have evidence to present relative to the contribution they now make to the Government through income and other taxes.

Broadcasters to Act On Program Registry

James W. Baldwin, managing director of the National Ass'n of Broadcasters, has informed WBNX that the recommendation made by WBNX to the N. A. B., suggesting the establishment of a "clearing house" for program titles, will be introduced to the forthcoming convention of the broadcasters, to be held in Chicago during the summer.

The action by WBNX was based upon the duplication of one of its programs titled "Rackets," by another station in New York. This duplication, according to WBNX, is only one of a number of abuses which have affected not only that station, but other stations in the New York area as well.

KDYL Puts on a New Type Theatre Tieup

SALT LAKE CITY, April 13.—Adapting the Bernie-Winchell technique with a few variations, KDYL has signed the Victory Theatre and the Orpheum Theatre of the Intermountain circuit on an unusual schedule. The commercial plugs for these two theatres, heard on KDYL's two-hour Saturday Night Jamboree request program, are handled as follows:

Myron Fox, KDYL announcer, puts on two spots for each theatre, explaining that the managers have called up for free publicity. After the first of the two spots each Saturday the managers are supposed to call again and do a little name-calling because the other house has received the most publicity. This procedure will be built up for four weeks when, during the middle of the program, both managers will appear in person demanding to know why they have received bills for time. Fox then becomes the "fall guy"—the managers take it out on him and leave happily. The first night's response got a lot of favorable interest with many calls received at KDYL and the theatres and much street comment.

KDYL's Saturday Night Jamboree is heard from 12 midnight to 2 A. M., M.S.T.

Tweet and Boom

San Francisco, April 13.—Which can be heard farthest—a drum beat or a piccolo tweet? Not that it matters, but Fred Waring, and Meredith Willson, NBC music chief on the coast, found the problem the basis of an argument.

So loudly did they argue that newsmen were attracted. The result was an impromptu tugboat ride to Yerba Buena Island, site of the 1939 exposition, where Waring beat a drum, Willson tootled a piccolo.

The listening party on the mainland reported hearing neither.

New Shows on the Air

Burns and Allen

George Burns and Gracie Allen, radio's most dependable zanies, were at their sparkling best Monday night in their Grape Nuts debut. Their insane patter packed a terrific comedy wallop, and to round out the entertainment Ray Noble's tunicians tootled engagingly. Dick Foran sang pleasantly, and, best of all, the blurbs were held down to such an unbelievable minimum that one was hardly aware that the program was a sponsored offering. Add all these factors together, and they spell entertainment with a capital E.

Burns and Allen's previous sponsor, Campbell's tomato juice, was accorded a generous share of the program's time when Gracie insisted that she and George still were broadcasting in behalf of that product. As a matter of fact, Gracie maintained to the bitter end that Ray Noble and Dick Foran really were Henry King and Tony Martin in disguise. King and Martin, of course, appeared with Burns and Allen for Campbell. These situations may not sound funny in cold print, but the vacuous Gracie put them over with a bang.

Noble's swell combination offered "Plenty of Money and You," and a medley from "On the Avenue." Foran, Warners' cowboy star, offered "My Little Buckaroo" in pleasing voice.

Burns and Allen are heard Mondays from 8 to 8:30 P. M., E.S.T., on the NBC-Red in behalf of Grape Nuts, a General Foods product.

"Sisters of the Skillet"

Another new series which arrived on the airways Monday night was the Kellogg sponsored "Sisters of the Skillet," East and Dumke. This one also featured a highly ridiculous and rib-tickling sequence wherein a salesman for the Kellogg Co. pleaded vainly with the stars for practically the full 15-minute duration of the program to sign up with the Kellogg Co. East and Dumke maintained to the end that they were not interested in securing a sponsor and that they'd rather do the program as a sustainer.

Another click sequence, called the "Problem Solving Laboratory," showed how to sew a button on a shirt worn by a ticklish person.

Interspersing the comedy were comedy songs by the boys, "Ain't Gonna Play No More" and "One, Two, Button Your Shoe."

The series is heard Monday's, Wednesdays and Fridays over WJZ, from 7:45 to 8 P. M., E.S.T.

CHICAGO, April 13.—More than $1,500,000 will be spent by General Mills and the Socony Vacuum Oil Co. for broadcasts of baseball games this season over 70 stations, it was revealed at the two-day convention of 60 radio sports announcers at the Edgewater Beach Hotel here, which ended last night.

A banquet conference was sponsored by the Knox Reeves and Stirling Getchell advertising agencies, for General Mills and Socony Vacuum. The figures cited include the cost of station time, announcers, broadcasting rights from teams and the like. The group was addressed last night by D. D. Davis, president of General Mills, and William Harridge, president of the American League.

Court Decisions May Spur New Theatre Labor Drives

to Congress, such as the fair trade practices bill of Major George L. Berry's Council for Industrial Progress and the measures drafted by the A. F. of L. Dep't of Commerce attorneys and Donald R. Richberg, no action is likely to be taken by the industry on the establishment of local conciliation boards until the Government's future industrial program as a result of the court decisions is made known. It is pointed out that even if the establishment of the local boards could be completed at once, which is not the case, however, a new NRA program probably would render them useless.

Open Studio Recognition Drive

HOLLYWOOD, April 13.—T. V. A. unions affiliated with the A. F. L. but outside the studio basic agreement launched a concentrated drive for studio recognition here today following the Supreme Court's Wagner Act decision. The Machinists Union had already filed a protest with the National Labor Board against nine major companies for alleged refusal to negotiate prior to the court's decision. The protest now will be acted upon.

Pattern Maker's Ass'n called a board of directors meeting for Thursday to draft a labor board to petition for studio recognition. Molders Local 374 is expected to file a complaint Wednesday. The plasterers local declined to make a statement at this time. However, officials stated that they would have an announcement within two days. An estimated 20 unions, including plumbers, stationary engineers, laborers and kitchen help employed in studio commissaries are taking immediate steps for action.

It has been reliably learned that Pat Casey meanwhile held a series of labor conferences with producers to map a plan of action. No statements were issued but it is understood that the forthcoming conferences center on whether or not the California film industry, as interpreted in the Wagner Act, is an interstate or intrastate activity.

The Actor's Guild will meet with Guild directors tomorrow.

Consolidated Men Meet Again

Striking employes of Consolidated Film's Fort Lee laboratories met again yesterday with H. J. Yates, Consolidated president, in a new effort to negotiate a settlement of the strike launched two weeks ago.

The new negotiations were begun following the withdrawal of the strikers from the Theatrical and M. P. Workers' Union, which had applied for a C.I.O. charter. The laboratory employes organized a new union to be known as the M. P. Workers' Union of New Jersey and will seek an A. F. of L. affiliation, it was said. The move is in line with A. F. of L. and I.A.T.S.E. dominance of new organizing activity within the industry.

Indications are that Consolidated will consent to a poll of employes at the laboratory, in line with the Wagner Labor Relations Act, and if the new union polls the required majority of employes it will be recognized.

State Dep't Urges Copyright Action

assistant chief of the Treaty Division of the State Dep't.

Appearing before the two Senators, comprising a subcommittee on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in charge of the copyright treaty, McClure stressed, among other points, the increased assistance which the department would be able to render film companies in difficulties abroad if the United States was a member of the copyright union.

McClure's position was attacked by J. Fulton Brylawski, copyright expert for the Hays organization, who warned that this country would "come off second best" if it engaged in a pact with foreign nations.

During discussion of the treaty by Brylawski, Senator Duffy admitted there has been some difference of opinion among members of the interdepartmental committee as to whether copyright revision should precede or follow ratification of the treaty.

McClure Against Separate Pacts

Presenting the views of his department, McClure insisted that the United States should become a member of the union before its next meeting, at which, it is anticipated, the convention will be amended, and insisted that ratification should not be held up until a new copyright law is enacted. While not denying that the same beneficial results which he predicted for the convention could be attained by separate copyright treaties with each country, he contended that the latter procedure would entail a great deal of time and that the results finally would probably be less satisfactory in 40 or 50 negotiations than in one unified action.

McClure charged that opponents of the treaty, among them the film industry, have misinterpreted its provisions, but Brylawski insisted that "oral and choreographic copyright" and copyright of renditions is specifically provided for.

Also supporting the treaty was Thorvald Solberg, former registrar of copyright, who said that the convention clearly defines reciprocal protection and this country would benefit greatly from adherence. If experience showed this not to be the case, he pointed out, the United States could withdraw upon a year's notice.

Opposition to adherence was expressed by Marvin Pierce, chairman of the copyright committee of the National Publisher's Ass'n, who specifically objected to the automatic copyright provisions.

Closing the hearings, Senator Duffy announced that he would ask Senator McAdoo of California, chairman of the Patents Committee, for an early hearing on his copyright bill.

of the Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors) and the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n in their objections to the recommendations of the Moyne committee for revision of the Films Act, which expires next year.

That will be the basis of the report of the C.E.A. representatives to the general council at Portsmouth tomorrow, following joint conferences with the K.R.S. and the F.B.I. Film Group. The representatives will report that if such assurance can be given the Film Group the latter will support the K.R.S. in its demand for a low quota.

Otherwise, it is indicated, the Film Group will express itself as satisfied with the Moyne report.

FitzPatrick Leaves For English Studio

Having completed "Floral Japan," last of 12 Technicolor TravelTalks for release by M-G-M this season, James A. FitzPatrick will sail today on the Normandie for England to produce "The Life of Tom Moore" beginning May 3.

On May 23, FitzPatrick's Technicolor unit will leave Hollywood for New York and sail May 29 on the Gripsholm for Sweden. FitzPatrick will meet the unit in Sweden and then go to Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Budapest and Vienna for material on a series of TravelTalks for next season's release.

FitzPatrick will make a short near Louis B. Mayer's home in New Brunswick, Can., in August, and then go to Nova Scotia. In September, he will return to England to produce "Bells of St. Mary's." Following this will be "The Life of Franz Liszt," in October.

The three features are among the twelve quota pictures he is making for M-G-M. His English company is known as FitzPatrick Pictures, Ltd., with headquarters at Sound City studios, Sound City, Shepperton, Middlesex, England.

M-G-M British Work Delayed Two Months

Production by M-G-M in England is not expected to get under way for another two months, it was intimated yesterday by Ben Goetz. He has been conferring with Louis B. Mayer on plans abroad and sails today on the Normandie for his headquarters in London.

The first year's program has been lined up, but will not be announced until Goetz returns to the other side. Bob Ritchie, who was scheduled to accompany Goetz on the Normandie, has delayed his departure until next week when he will sail on the Queen Mary.

Michael Balcon, who will supervise M-G-M's production activities in England, will remain on the coast for another four to six weeks familiarizing himself with the company's system.

London, April 13.—The picture which Basil Dean will make for Alexander Korda of London Films at Denham will be the John Galsworthy story, "The First and the Last."

G. B. Appeal Due

London, April 13.—Formal announcement is expected soon of an appeal to be taken by the Nordon group of shareholders of Gaumont British from the recent decision of Justice Clauson refusing an injunction to restrain the board of directors of G.B. from paying a dividend as declared on the preference shares of the company.

Ohio Tax Raise Plan Disturbs Exhibitors

Columbus, April 13.—Ohio exhibitors are disturbed as legislative leaders are demanding passage of the bill raising the admission tax to 10 per cent from the present three per cent. There also is a strong possibility of a one-cent increase in the liquid fuel tax. Interests close to legislative circles predict passage of the state income tax, reported out of committee with recommendation for passage last week.

The relief situation in Ohio is serious, with the treasury depleted, and no funds for administering to the needy. The relief program, however, is tied up by the legislators, who say they will do nothing about it until and unless the various tax measures are passed. The situation is expected to be cleared within the next two weeks.

Pass One Bill in Kansas

Topeka, Kan., April 13.—Only one measure affecting the film industry out of 18 introduced in the Kansas legislature during the session ended March 31, was passed, a study of the session indicated. The measure passed calls for a two per cent sales tax which includes admissions, and took the place of all other tax bills. The majority of the other measures were defeated in committee.

Head Monogram Branch

Lon T. Fidler, Grand National branch manager in Denver, will resign effective May 1, to open a Monogram office there, under the name of Monogram Intermountain Pictures, Inc. William Onie, Republic head in Cincinnati, also will leave his post May 1, to take over the Monogram branch there.

Exhibitors Fighting Levy in Connecticut

Hartford, April 13.—A group of Connecticut theatre men, numbering 85, today opposed a bill for a 10 per cent amusements tax before the Finance Committee.

Edward Levy, secretary of the M.P.T.O. of Connecticut and general counsel of the M.P.T.O.A., declared that such a tax would be discriminatory, since theatres in the state now are paying for city and state licenses, Federal taxes on admissions over 40 cents and a tax to Ascap. He cited the experience of South Carolina, where a similar tax caused heavy theatre mortality. Proponents of the tax proposal seek $1,500,000 in revenue from the planned levy.

Lita Gray Sues M-G-M

Myers Hopeful for Minnesota Measure

With North Dakota having passed a theatre divorcement bill recently, Allied interests are hopeful that Minnesota will be the next state to act favorably on a similar measure, Abram F. Myers, general counsel for the exhibitor organization, stated yesterday.

Myers explained the postponement of Allied's convention in Milwaukee to May 26 was to give the committee on arrangements more time to complete details. Myers said his trip to New York had nothing to do with business. He returned to Washington last night.

Ask Ban on Horse-Tripping

Sacramento, April 13.—Senate Bill 476, which seeks to outlaw the intentional tripping of horses in the filming of pictures, went to the Assembly today after passage in the Senate. It is sponsored by Senator Williams.

"Spain" Showing Is Set Despite Protest

Seattle, April 13.—"Spain in Flames," the controversial film, will play here at the Civic Auditorium despite the protests of various civic bodies.

The film was reviewed by the Seattle censor board and was given official approval. Subsequently, the Knights of Columbus and other local bodies protested the scheduled showing, but the City Council has declared itself unwilling to interfere with the censor's ruling. N. P. Atkinson, secretary of the North American Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy, is sponsoring the local showing.

U. A. Has New Agency

The Cecil, Warwick & Cecil agency is handling national advertising for Selznick International's "A Star Is Born" and Samuel Goldwyn's "Woman Chases Man." Donahue & Coe, which has had the United Artists account, continues handling the balance of the national picture work and that of the Rivoli here.

British Seek New Subsidies On Television

Estimated Need Is About $450,000 Yearly

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, April 7.—The British Broadcasting Corp. is pressing the Government to make a special Treasury grant to cover the cost of television expansion, with an intimation that £150,000 ($450,000) yearly would meet the situation.

Alternatively, say B.B.C. heads, the present license fee of 10/— a year paid by every British owner of a radio receiving set should be increased to 12/6d. This suggestion is unlikely to be considered by the Government, as it amounts to a suggestion that television would be subsidized by the whole body of radio listeners, less than one per cent of whom have, or can afford, television receivers.

Increase in the subsidy for television would enable the B.B.C. to engage more artists and to increase

FCC Probes Control By Church Air Unit

NEW ORLEANS, April 14.—The question of whether the Coliseum Pl. Baptist Church, as owner of Station WBNO, was violating the law by failing to exercise proper control over the station was thoroughly aired at a hearing started here today by the F. C. C.

The hearing developed the testimony that the church is interested chiefly in having its religious services broadcast and that Edward R. Musso, manager, allegedly sold a half

MPTOA Radio Stand Is Not Set—Vincent

The M.P.T.O.A. radio committee is not convinced in advance that any use of film personalities and material on radio programs is unfair competition or injurious to theatres, Walter Vincent, committee chairman, said yesterday.

The exhibitors' radio committee is scheduled to meet here next Tuesday if out-of-town members can be here on that day. Lewen Pizor of Philadelphia has accepted for that date, but Arthur Lockwood of Middletown,

Warners Take Offensive in Games Battle

PHILADELPHIA, April 14. — The Stanley-Warner offensive against theatre chance games in the form of hot competition is to be carried into seven new sections immediately by installation of the games at the Strand, Lindley, Colney, Keystone, Liberty, Crosskeys and Wishart. The company is satisfied with the results of the experiment at the Kent, Imperial and Cadet.

Each theatre is in direct competition with independent houses using games.

While no Stanley-Warner official would comment, it was learned from a good source that the circuit was

U. A. May Hold Three Regional Sale Meets

Daylight Time Sections Show Little Change

Gains Are Recorded in New England States

Daylight Saving Time will be used in approximately the same number of cities and towns in this country and Canada that it was used last year, although there is a slight falling off in the total to 816 communities for this year in the statistics available thus far.

New York towns register a gain in favor of the clock change which will take place Sunday, April 25. The total this year is 328, a gain of eight. Marked gains are registered in Maine and New Hampshire. The Maine figure this year will be 76. Last year it was 59. The New Hampshire total will be 116. Last year it was 31. Vermont also is swinging in favor of the change with 13 towns this year and three last.

Hearings were begun yesterday before Federal Judge Richard P. Patterson on motions by Orpheum Circuit preferred stockholders to set aside the recent acquisition of Orpheum's assets by Stadium Theatres, an RKO subsidiary, for $700,000 cash and subordination of $3,000,000 of claims.

Isidor J. Kresel, attorney for one stockholders' group, on whose behalf a competitive offer of $2,500,000 cash was made, termed the Stadium transaction "improper." Arguing also for permission for Orpheum stockholders to intervene in the RKO reorganization proceedings, Kresel said it was

No Production Code Changes Needed: Breen

Says Producers Should Stick to Its Rules

No changes in the Production Code, either by way of relaxing its provisions or making them more stringent, are necessary at this time, says Joseph I. Breen, code administrator.

Interviewed yesterday at M. P. P. D. A. headquarters following his recent European trip, Breen said: "The more I see of the code, the more respect I have for it. All I can say to producers is to tell them to keep on the way they've been going."

Breen, who visited briefly in Paris and London, reported that he encountered a widespread opinion abroad that the application of the Production Code has greatly enhanced the entertainment value of American films. The impression, he said, is that the guidance of the code has directed producers into new channels with an apparent improvement in Hollywood product resulting.

Breen was impressed by the volume of theatre business current in Paris and London, the dominance of American films in the two capitals and the high admission scales prevailing in London—considerably high-

KAO Stockholders Keep Board Setup

The existing balance of representation on the Keith Albee Orpheum board, consisting of equal representation for the principal stockholder groups plus one "neutral" member, was continued for another year at the annual meeting of the company's stockholders yesterday.

Six members of the board were reelected and Richard Jones, attorney, associated with the law firm of Simpson, Thacher & Bartlett, attorneys for Atlas Corp., and prominent in the RKO reorganization proceedings, was elected to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of M. H. Aylesworth. Jones, with Leo Spitz, K-A-O chairman and president, and L. P. Yandell of RCA, comprise the RKO representation on the board. Malcolm Kingsberg, P. J. Maloney and Monroe Goldwater were reelected as representatives of M. J. Meehan, who controls about 34 per cent of the K-A-O preferred stock. Donald K. David was reelected as the neutral member of the board.

The new board will meet in the next few days to elect officers. The reelection of Spitz as chairman and president is anticipated.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 14

NBC, for over a year now, has been operating broadcasting studios here. On Sunset, not far removed from the twin radio towers that ornament the entrance of the Warner studio which today quietly continues its dabbling in radio shows recorded on film, is a large hole in the ground. Surrounding is a neatly painted gray fence which carries a message. The word is that here is the site of CBS's future broadcasting home. All over the town are the representatives of the big national advertising agencies handling air entertainment for their nationally advertising sponsors. In a word, radio is also an entertainment business here on ground formerly sacrosanct and exclusively motion pictures. . . .

Both of the mediums appear to be getting on pretty well. There is large return for film talent on the air. The ether wave protagonists know it and, more and more, Hollywood is getting to know it; fat checks have a habit of making a very substantial impression in these, and other, parts. Naturally, too, there is discussion about radio, how far film names ought to proceed. Every so often, a thought or two is radiated beyond the mountains and into that vast area stretching to the Atlantic and the two other borders wherefrom comes the money which keeps local earning power wound up to something beyond its maximum. That's a long-winded way of merely saying exhibitors. . . .

With the exception of Garbo, Mae West and Shirley Temple and one or two perhaps overlooked, radio has successfully captured Hollywood talent en masse. It will continue to do so for several reasons, all apparent. In the very first instance, there can be no denial of the exploitation value of the air. In the second, or probably the first, really, the added return is something no sought after talent will turn down. The use of this talent has been so general that it is now accepted here as procedure to continue and to grow. Hollywood likes to step on any bandwagon and it does not care usually what the label may read.

The exploitation value which is in radio, however, depends on several factors. Both of them have been cited in this column earlier and now, that there has been a chance to talk and listen, the original opinion need undergo no revision. Radio can be useful to this business if the application is sensible. When Twentieth Century-Fox a few weeks ago tied into the "Hollywood Hotel" program with "Love Is News," exhibitors and some here thought it unwise to divulge as much of the story as it is understood that broadcast did. The program was one we did not hear and that places us lamely on a basis of depending on outside opinion for the purposes of this argument. However, and assuming it did or some future program does, the conclusion is rather clear cut. Any show which spills too much of any picture is dangerous stuff. It removes thunder from the attraction and it gives the listening public an opportunity to pre-determine whether or not eventually a visit to its local theatre is worth while. . . .

This is one pitfall. Another is the frequency with which given talent takes the air lanes. In attempting to analyze a medium which reaches into millions of homes at the one time, the task of arriving at clear-cut and definite conclusions becomes guesswork. It may or may not be correct to say, therefore, that Fred Astaire's weekly appearances for the Packard hour each Tuesday evening are hurting him, as some maintain. Astaire's voice has never been much and tap dancing over the air is a dubious enterprise; he has to be seen for him, his abilities and his personality to be appreciated. The question to properly poise, therefore and in his case, is whether or not his cumulative air programs are damaging him on the screen. Coupled with frequency of appearance also must go adaptability to the medium and proper astuteness on selectivity of material. . . .

Here where stars rule the roost, a happy meeting ground is anything but easy to find. Packard is reported paying Astaire, as a case in point, $5,000 a show, which is a whale of a wad of money to rule out. Moreover, the over-all attitude of the preponderance of significant talent is one of getting what it can while it can, which is hardly a startling observation to report after a lengthening series of annual Hollywood visits. The talent equation continues to prosper in films what with producer anxiety, reflecting exhibitor anxiety, for more and bigger names and apparently never-deflated money-bags from which to draw. This

Rubin Not to Attend G.B. Case Hearings

J. Robert Rubin, vice-president of Loew's, said yesterday he had no plans for attending the G.B. hearings under way in England, but just wanted to be around in case anything happened. Rubin made the statement to Motion Picture Daily aboard the Normandie just before it sailed for London.

The Loew executive will be away a month, visiting England and the Continent. He has a number of matters dealing with authors and stories which he will take care of abroad, he said.

Frank Capra, Columbia producer, and Robert Riskin, associate producer and writer, also sailed. Capra denied rumors that there was a rift between him and Harry Cohn because of his departure for England. When asked what his next picture would be and how many he planned to make next year, Capra replied: "I am not certain. I have no definite schedule."

Both Capra and Riskin will attend a week's celebration in Moscow, starting May 1. They also will be on hand for the opening of "Lost Horizon" at the Tivoli Theatre, London. Capra will be gone about two months and Riskin may extend his vacation a month longer.

James A. FitzPatrick said he was going over to make features and shorts and would be back July 20. Others sailing included Mort Spring, Ben Goetz, Sam Jaffe, the agent, Louis Dreyfuss of Chappell Music Co., Truman H. Talley and "Skeets" Gallagher.

Columbia to Push Serial Campaigns

National exploitation campaigns of the same type as those provided for feature productions will be undertaken by Columbia for the promotion of the company's new serials, Jack Cohn, vice-president, said yesterday.

Tie-ups with national advertisers and specially planned publicity campaigns will feature the new promotional attention to be given the serials, he said. Columbia's first serial starring Frank Buck is scheduled for release Sept. 1 and will be augmented by a series of stories by Buck which will run simultaneously in a national magazine, Cohn said.

Butterfield at Pathe

Through an error it was stated in yesterday's issue of Motion Picture Daily that Allyn Butterfield had been named editor of Universal Newsreel. It should have read: Allyn Butterfield, former editor of Universal Newsreel, has been named editor of Pathe News, succeeding Harold E. Wondsel, resigned.

Gillham, Agnew West

Robert M. Gillham, director of Paramount's advertising and publicity, leaves for the coast tomorrow for 1937-38 product conferences. Neil F. Agnew, vice-president in charge of distribution, who will also attend the meetings, departs Tuesday.

Warners Take Offensive in Games Battle

through sitting on the sidelines watching the independents reap a harvest with the games.

The reaction when the independents learned of the Stanley-Warner move was immediate. Pressure was brought to bear on agents of the games not to service the Stanley-Warner, but this availed them nothing. As a result, one important independent circuit canceled its deal for its houses with a games company serving Stanley-Warner.

When the Kent opened with games Monday the house did a big business. "On the Avenue" was on the screen. Independents admit grosses are certain to be affected when they get the picture later.

One chance game dealer has refused to serve Stanley-Warner.

The squawk of the independents is not only against competition of games, but also that Stanley-Warner houses play pictures ahead of them in each zone. If the Stanley-Warner houses play games with hit pictures, this milks the shows in addition to being strong competition for the independents the nights the Stanley-Warner games are held.

A bitter competitive battle is in sight, it is agreed on Vine St.

Bank Night Case Delayed

Beatrice, Neb., April 14.—Trial of the Bank Night test case against Foxwesco's Rivoli and Fox, managed by Lewis B. Sponsler, will come up next week, according to the Attorney General's office. It had been scheduled for next Saturday, but the judge could not hear the case.

DeLuxe Renews with Technicians' Union

De Luxe Laboratories has renewed its agreement with Film Technicians' Local 669, for one year, it was stated yesterday. The deal is the first so far and provides for a 10 per cent increase over the basic contract rates provided under the NRA code. The arrangement is effective immediately.

Negotiations are continuing with Consolidated, Richard Walsh of the union said, but there is no indication when a deal will be set. New contracts are also being discussed with other independent laboratories.

Mathias P. Moller Dead

Harrisburg, April 14.—Mathias P. Moller, owner of the M. P. Moller Organ Works, Hagerstown, Md., died in his home in that city yesterday. He was 82 and was a victim of pneumonia. His firm has built hundreds of organs for theatres, including the New York Hippodrome. He was decorated a Knight of the Order of Dannerborg, of Denmark, by King Christian. Moller is survived by his widow, a son and three daughters.

Filoteo Alberini Dead

Rome, April 14.—Filoteo Alberini, inventor of early film apparatus, died Monday following an operation.

Warner-National 2-Year Pact Talked

Warners may get together with National Theatres on a two-year product deal. Several discussions have been held on a contract for both one year and two years, with circuit executives favoring the longer pact.

Gradwell L. Sears, Carl Leserman, Jack Brower and Herbe Ochs yesterday held one of a series of meetings with Spyros Skouras, William T. Powers, Edward Zabel, Milton Hossfeld and Aubrey Schenck. No decision has been reached on the deal for 420 houses. Additional meetings are planned in the near future for further consideration.

National Theatres men also have been talking to U. A. and Columbia sales forces. So far the circuit is set with 20th Century-Fox, M-G-M and Paramount, the latter two companies on franchises which have two and one year, respectively, to run.

Charles Skouras, operating head for Fox West Coast, left Los Angeles last night for New York. He is due Saturday for a vacation and periodical checkup.

Over 100 Monogram Men to Attend Meet

More than 100 salesmen and franchise holders will convene at the Drake, Chicago, for the two-day Monogram sales convention, W. Ray Johnston, president stated yesterday. The sessions will begin May 7.

Distribution plans for the company's 42 pictures will be outlined by Edward Golden, general sales manager. Several studio executives are scheduled to attend.

"Blazing Barriers," fourth in the lineup, will be placed into production at the studios today under the supervision of Scott R. Dunlap. On May 3, "Hoosier Schoolboy," with Mickey Rooney, and "The 13th Man" will be put into work. On May 15, "Romance of the Limberlost" and "The Luck of Roaring Camp" will get under way.

Monogram has received word from the S. E. C. that its registration statement for its new reorganized corporate setup will become effective April 23.

Loew Extends Astor Lease for 6 Months

Loew's has taken a six-month extension on the Astor lease. A four-month extension, previously granted Loew's, expires on May 1. Under the new deal, the circuit will continue operation until Nov. 1. "The Good Earth" is now in its 10th week and holding up well enough to warrant four to six more weeks. The picture will probably be followed by "Captains Courageous" on a two-a-day policy.

"Maytime" last night concluded a four-week engagement at the Capitol. For the last week, the musical tallied about $25,000. "Waikiki Wedding" finished a third week at the Paramount with $30,000. "Elephant Boy" garnered $10,250 at the Rialto and is now in its second week. The second week of "History Is Made at Night" wound up with $15,000 at the Rivoli and the Globe took in approximately $14,000 for the sixth week of "Lost Horizon" at two-a-day admission prices.

Daylight Time Sections Show Little Change

that all New Jersey communities will adopt the change again this year. In Pennsylvania 90 will go for it. Last year there were 93. In Delaware, cities, towns and villages will make the change effective generally this year. Last year only 11 used the advanced time. In Massachusetts the observance is required by state law. All Rhode Island communities observe it. Ohio will continue to observe Eastern Standard Time, with the exception of a few small communities, as it has done since 1927.

Indiana will have 19 towns on the change. Twenty observed it last year. Illinois remains unchanged at 93. Michigan will use Eastern Standard Time except in a few communities. Georgia will have four towns on the change instead of three, and in Minnesota large business establishments will shift their schedules without changing the clocks. Idaho will have four Daylight Time communities and Colorado one—Denver.

Seventy-two towns and cities in Quebec, Ontario and the prairie provinces of Canada will change their clocks. This will also be true in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. In Labrador and Newfoundland the change runs from May 1 to Oct. 2.

By Hunt Stromberg

"Sneak previewed NIGHT MUST FALL last night with audience reaction surpassing our highest hopes and predictions stop Audience was like man on the flying trapeze stop They were doing mental and emotional acrobatics all through the picture with gasps and screams vying with roars of laughter throughout eleven thousand feet and the result becomes all the more remarkable in view of this footage stop Seldom can dramatic stories hold up in such length but when the audience sits spellbound through the entire screening nature must take its course stop Montgomery's new characterization was like blast of dynamite with explosions in every other scene stop They thought we were kidding at first and all you could hear was buzzing and figuring stop Then when they realized that we were giving the screen possibly its most startling departure from common place characterization and story they took all the curves and dips with us hanging on for dear life as though riding a scenic railway stop Sincerely believe this picture great showmanship opportunity and urge all theatres to start talking about it now" program time. At the moment lack of money is holding up the addition of the third daily hour of television, recently promised. As a temporary stop-gap, the B.B.C. plans a television propaganda film, to be directed by Gerald Cock, director of television, which will be repeated daily until better material is available.

Lack of equipment, due to lack of money, is holding out of commission the second studio at the official television station at the Alexandra Palace, London.

interest to Mayor Walmsley for $1,800 and that the church recently leased the station for a period of one year to WBNO, Inc., a corporation in which Former Governor James A. Noe holds 197 shares, and William A. West, Jr., George Pierce and Musso one share each. The validity of Noe's contract hinges on the Federal Government renewing the church license. If the commission finds that inadequate control has been exercised then the license will not be renewed and Noe's lease will be void.

The hearing is being conducted by George O. Porter, assistant general counsel of the commission; Major A. V. Dalrymple, A. D. Ring, chief engineer of the broadcasting division, and William T. Massing, heading the license division of F. C. C.

MPTOA Radio Stand Is Not Set—Vincent

Conn., and Samuel Pinanski of Boston have not stated definitely whether they can attend.

Vincent declared that he had an open mind on the subject of whether or not radio's use of film players and personalities was injurious to the boxoffice, and assumed that this was true of other members of the committee. He said that reports on film radio programs and their relation to the theatres' business would be studied at length before any definite line of action was decided upon by the committee. The committee's first effort will be to determine whether film radio programs are bad for the theatre, aids to the theatre or without effect.

Indications are that representatives of the radio networks, program sponsors and producers will be asked to attend either this or a later meeting of the committee.

CBS Summer Radio Survey Going Out

Dr. Daniel Starch's annual summer radio survey for CBS, designed to show the increasing importance of summer time periods on the air, is now on its way to all advertising agencies and sponsors.

The following are Dr. Starch's conclusions:

1—There will be 2,000,000 more radio families in the U. S. in the summer of 1937 than there were last year.

2—All told, there will be 34,000,000 radios in the country this summer—25,000,000 radio homes; 4,000,000 extra sets in the homes; 5,000,000 radios in automobiles.

3—There will be a total of 77,000,000 family hours of listening this summer.

4—Basing this conclusion on his past researches, Dr. Starch estimates that the radio families will be listening to radio an average of four hours, 24 minutes daily.

The survey concludes with a chart showing the increasing use of CBS summer radio by sponsors; appends a complete list of sponsors who were summer radio users on CBS in 1936.

Connery for Delay On Radio Tax Plan

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Declaring that the proposition involved considerations which enter into the investigation of the radio situation which he has asked of the House, Representative Connery of Massachusetts today asked that consideration of the taxes on broadcasting stations proposed yesterday by Commissioner Payne of the F.C.C. be postponed until after the inquiry has been completed.

His resolution for a probe of broadcasting conditions is pending before the House Rules Committee, which, Connery declared, would undoubtedly give it approval.

"The question of taxing radio stations should be one of the matters investigated by the House," he said. "I do not think it wise to decide on methods of taxing radio until all aspects of monopoly and discrimination charges are gone into."

Union Keeps Bands From Brooklyn Show

Local 802, A. F. M., yesterday refused permission to union members to perform as volunteers in the finals of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle's film contest, held at the RKO Albee, Brooklyn, last night. The union ban affected bandleaders Leo Reisman, Arnold Johnson, Enric Madrequera and others, whose names have appeared on the marquee of the theatre for the past few days in connection with last night's contest finals.

Despite the fact that their forthcoming participation in the contest had been well advertised on the theatre marquee and on the pages of the Brooklyn Eagle for several days, the union did not take action until a late hour yesterday afternoon. Suspension was threatened to all union members for violation of the union ukase.

802 for some time past has been picketing all RKO and Loew theatres in an effort to put "live" music back in the theatre.

Orders Damskov Testimony

Dorothea Damskov must submit to a pre-trial examination in connection with the $10,000 damage suit which Damskov, Inc., of which she is president, has brought against the Knickerbocker Broadcasting Co., Inc., according to a decision yesterday by Justice Julius Miller in the N. Y. Supreme court. She must also supply Knickerbocker with a sample of Damskov's reducing formula in order that the defendant may make an analysis of it.

Damskov bases its suit on Knickerbocker's alleged improper breaking of a contract whereby Damskov was to broadcast three programs a week over WMCA and have its reducing product advertised during the program. Knickerbocker refused to continue the advertising on the ground that it does not conform with certain rules set down by the F. C. C. The breaking of the contract, the defendant held, was justified.

RCA Denies Engelman Charge

RCA entered a general denial yesterday to the $250,000 breach of contract suit brought against it, RCA Victor, RCA Radiotron Co. and the E. T. Cunningham Tubes, Inc., by Abram J. Engelman, who claims that he contracted with the defendants Sept. 8, 1933, to get a 10 per cent royalty on all sales on a new method of transmitting written and printed matter by radio telegraphy which he was to show to the defendants. On May 31, 1934, the royalty was reduced by mutual consent to two and a half per cent. Engelman claims that sales have amounted to $10,000,000 and that he has not received his royalty.

He noted two current reactions in Europe to recent American films, one being based upon the impression that cruelty to animals is becoming prevalent and the other a generally confused impression stemming from misrepresentation of American life in films. Breen said that the belief that cruelty to animals actually occurs in the filming of pictures is a mistaken one and, actually, is a tribute to the realism attained by camera tricks and clever film cutting.

Breen plans to leave for the coast today. He described his trip as a "holiday," made possible by the seasonal production lull in Hollywood.

"A Day with the Quintuplets"

Hollywood, April 14.—The famous babies are growing up. At three, they stumble and grin and chatter like all other children except that in "A Day with the Quintuplets" the charm is multiplied five times.

This is another in the series of Dionne pictures made in the last few years by Pathe News for Radio distribution. Alois Havrilla supplies the occasional narrative and Dr. Dafoe appears as one of the central and actual characters.

It is, however, the enormous appeal of these lovely children falling all over themselves largely unconscious of the prying camera that makes this 18-minute subject of sure-fire appeal to the millions who undoubtedly will want to see it.

Tipton committee, was the first witness for opponents of the plan. He characterized the plan as unfair and said he would favor continued operation of the theatre by Howard S. Cullman, trustee, unless a better offer was received. Tipton testified that his committee would accept a lower interest rate than that proposed in the plan if 20th Century-Fox guaranteed principal and interest. He stated further that unless such a guarantee were forthcoming he would oppose complete control of the Roxy by 20th Century-Fox. He charged that 20th Century-Fox directors would be "dealing with themselves" unless bondholders were represented on the board of directors of the new corporation.

Nothing has been done by 20th Century-Fox about increasing its bid for the Roxy, Michel stated last night. He added he has another meeting scheduled soon with the committee and will listen to what it has to say.

Olympia Hearing Today in Hub

Boston, April 14.—A hearing on New England Theatres' offer to purchase for $4,000,000 the assets of Olympia Theatres is scheduled for tomorrow in Federal court here. The principal Olympia assets consist of 28 theatre properties and two leaseholds.

Both circuits are subsidiaries of Paramount Pictures. If the New England offer is approved the operations of Olympia, which has been in bankruptcy for the past five years, would be consolidated with those of New England under the management of Martin Mullen and Sam Pinanski.

"unfair" that RKO creditors should receive "payment in full" while those of Orpheum, an RKO subsidiary, received only 30 cents on the dollar. He also asserted that RKO stockholders will receive one-half share of new stock for a share of old, whereas Orpheum stockholders will receive nothing.

The hearing will be continued today when additional motions by Samuel Zirn, attorney for a second stockholders' group are expected to be heard. Two Federal judges disqualified themselves from conducting the hearings prior to the assignment of the case to Judge Patterson.

Condor Hearing Date Advanced

Upon request of Irving I. Schachtel, counsel for Condor Pictures, Inc., S.E.C. held its hearings on the company's registration statement Tuesday, instead of next Monday, as had been planned.

Schachtel requested the earlier hearing, he said, so that he could show "there had been no omission of any material facts from the registration statement and to avoid the effects of any misconceived publicity attendant on the delay."

The question at issue was whether the statement in the registration papers that the studio lease called for rentals of $350 per shooting day was true in view of the fact that the lease memorandum was not as complete as the lease finally drawn.

Schachtel informed the commission that rent was a nominal part of production costs. He also suggested to the commission, he says, that in calling such hearings the commission state that the call does not constitute a finding that there has been any omission to state a material fact or that a misstatement exists.

Indict Marx Brothers

Los Angeles, April 14.—A Federal grand jury today indicted Groucho and Chico Marx for alleged copyright violation based on their use in a radio broadcast of "Adventures of Mr. Dibble and Mr. Dabble." Garrett and Carroll Graham claim to be the authors and owners of the copyright.

Groucho Marx is now en route to Honolulu but Loyd Wright, his attorney, stated that both will surrender—Chico within the next few days. He posted bond for their court appearance.

Old Australia Sound Action Is Dismissed

Justice Julius Miller in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday granted a motion made by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., and co-defendants to dismiss a suit instituted against them Sept. 16, 1930, by D. Davis & Co., Ltd., of Australia. The defendants, which included the Brunswick, Balke-Collender Co. and the Brunswick Radio Corp., held that the suit should be dismissed because of the plaintiff's failure to prosecute within a reasonable time. The formal plaintiff in the case was Julius Smessert as assignee of the Australian company.

Justice Miller ruled that the plaintiff could not satisfactorily excuse its failure to prosecute. The defendants were served with a summons in 1930, but never were served with a complaint so that they were unaware of what the suit demanded. Technical legal questions had kept it in various courts since 1930.

Court Transfers Llanuza Plea

A motion of Pedro Llanuza for an order to permit him to cross examine California witnesses who are to submit written interrogatories for Columbia Pictures Corp. and others whom Llanuza is suing for an accounting of profits was referred yesterday by Justice Alfred Frankenthaler in N. Y. Supreme Court to Justice Lloyd Church who granted Columbia's request to take interrogatories from witnesses who cannot come to New York to testify at the trial of the case.

Llanuza asserts that Columbia, Winkler Film Corp., United Artists Corp., Charles Mintz and Walt Disney adopted his idea of using caricatures of prominent screen stars for short subject purposes and improperly capitalized on his idea. The defendants argued that the Llanuza idea was one employed long before he considered it. The witnesses who are expected to corroborate this contention are Mintz, George Stallings, Earl Hurd, Ted Sears, Bill Nolan and Jack King.

Republic Unit Files Suit

Republic Pictures Corp. of the Southeast, a Georgia corporation, filed suit in Federal Court yesterday to restrain Republic Pictures Corp. from breaching a contract allegedly made on July 5, 1935, for distribution of the latter's films. The contract was terminated by the defendant on March 22 because it was allegedly breached by the plaintiff. The Southeast corporation claims to have closed 2,735 contracts totaling $712,811 for distribution of Republic films. A commission of $219,620 was received, but, as $351,348 was spent, there was a loss of $131,728. The plaintiff alleges that if the contract is allowed to continue until 1939, a profit of a quarter of a million dollars will be realized. A temporary injunction pending trial is also asked.

Allow Paramount Sale

Paramount Pictures, Inc., was authorized yesterday by Federal Court Judge Alfred C. Coxe to sell or mortgage its property and assets free and clear of prior liens. Authorization was required because an order made in June, 1935, while Paramount was being reorganized was regarded as a cloud on the title of real property which Paramount owned.

Says FCC Efforts Are Being Balked

Baltimore, April 14.—Efforts of the F.C.C. to arrange the distribution of broadcasting stations on an engineering basis have been nullified by "economic pressure," it was declared today by S. Howard Evans, secretary of the National Committee on Education by Radio, in an address before the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs.

The 40 cleared channels were to be operated for the service of rural and remote areas, he asserted, but "certain of the cleared channels were broken down, much to the detriment of their service to rural and remote areas, but greatly to the profit of private groups which found a way to make 47. Of these, he added, 43 are located in metropolitan areas having a population of 100,000 or more and "our urban farmers are beautifully cared for."

Incursion of newspapers .into the broadcasting field also was criticised by Evans, who declared such operations in time "may undermine the freedom of the press because newspapers with investments in radio stations may be tempted to change the editorial policies of their papers in order to gain renewal of radio licenses from an unfriendly administration."

"There is also the further danger that newspaper chains which are already very powerful will add unto themselves radio facilities to a point where they become more powerful than the instrumentalities of government itself," he said.

KFAB Asks Power Boost

Washington, April 14.—Application for a change of frequency from 770 to 1,080 kilocycles and increase of power from 10,000 to 50,000 watts was filed with the F.C.C. today by station KFAB, Lincoln, Neb.

On the other hand, any discussion of radio and what goes on with it here can properly forego opinion in the face of facts. On the musical end, currently fourteen shows feed from here on national webs. Rubinoff starts this coming Sunday and, by July when Maxwell House Coffee shifts "Showboat" west, the curve will rise to sixteen, all of them and in one form or another tapping film names for guest appearances. No matter how it is approached and no matter how indulgent the viewpoint may be, it becomes evident quickly that Sunday night is murder complete for theatre business. When Rubinoff begins, the hours [Eastern time] will be filled virtually from five o'clock until nine with one overlapping program from eight to eight-thirty. Mind you, these are musical shows, designed in their conception to be big, and take into no account other national programs dealing with Hollywood, such as the Elza Schallert and Jimmy Fidler chatter program. . . .

MPPA Board Accepts Paine's Resignation

The resignation of John G. Paine as chairman of the board of the Music Publishers Protective Ass'n was accepted by the board at a joint meeting last night with representatives of all other organized groups within the music industry. The board also confirmed the appointment of Harry Fox as executive head of the M.P.P.A. to succeed Paine. The latter will assume his new post as general manager of Ascap on May 1.

Last night's meeting discussed the widespread litigation and legislation pending against music organizations throughout the country and laid the groundwork for a united industry front to oppose it. Although Ascap is the sole target of the current legislation and litigation, any curtailment of its income or operations would be felt directly in all branches of the music publishing industry and by composers and authors.

E. C. Mills, Ascap general manager, who will become chairman of the organization's new administrative committee on May 1, will leave for Helena this weekend where a test of the constitutionality of the new Montana law prohibiting Ascap from operating within the state is scheduled for April 23 before a three-judge Federal court.

Erpi to Expand in Non-Theatre Field

Erpi will expand its interests and activities in the non-theatrical field in the near future, it was learned yesterday. The expansion plan will include the development of new markets for recording and exhibition equipment as well as for the non-theatrical productions of affiliated Erpi companies.

Daniel C. Collins, new Erpi vice-president, will be in charge of the company's non-theatrical expansion plans. He succeeds Edward E. Shumaker, who formerly headed the non-theatrical department.

Wanger to Go Ahead On "River Is Blue"

Hollywood, April 14.—Walter Wanger proposes going through with "The River Is Blue," Clifford Odets' original with a Spanish civil war background, the producer tells Motion Picture Daily.

Readily admitting difficulties with the Hays office in having the script approved, Wanger now declares this is behind him. It is understood the Hays office objection was predicated on Left Wing implications in the Odets story.

Say Loew and RKO Circuit Moves Not Against Indies

Expansion moves by Loew's and RKO are not directed at independent operators, but intended to solidify the circuits' first run setup in the local territory, it was stated yesterday.

Both major circuits have been anxious to enter certain situations which are developing rapidly, particularly in the Bronx and Brooklyn, it was said.

Loew's is now building a 1,000-seat theatre at Fenton Ave. and Boston Road. RKO is planning to construct 1,800-seat houses at Sound View and Westchester Aves. and at Allerton and White Plains Aves. The three sites are in the Bronx.

RKO has made a deal with Randforce to take over operation of the Lefferts and Republic in Brooklyn for one year with options. Under the Randforce management, both houses were second runs. RKO will install first run policies when it assumes operation. The nearest RKO house to the Lefferts is in Richmond Hill. The circuit also has acquired the Parkway, Mt. Vernon.

Loew's recently took the Cameo, New Rochelle, and is understood to be interested in converting a legitimate theatre in the Times Square sector to a picture policy. Circuit executives are also reported eyeing a number of other locations. RKO has negotiations under way for at least three more units. Consummation in the form of signed contracts is expected in the near future.

Grand National to Promote Managers

Three or four branch managers will be promoted to district managers at the Grand National sales convention in Los Angeles, May 16-19, Edward Peskay, general sales manager, stated yesterday prior to his departure for the coast with Edward Finney.

The selections will be announced from the winners of the current sales drive which ends May 15, Peskay said. About 70 division managers, branch heads and salesmen will attend the four-day session.

Plans are under way to release 12 "A" pictures next season, Peskay added, three of which are expected to be ready for screening at the sales meetings. There will be eight Ken Maynard and a like number of Tex Ritter westerns in the 65 pictures to be announced.

James Cagney will be listed for

IATSE Starts Drive Around New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 15.—The I.A. T.S.E. made known today that it would begin a drive immediately to put union projectionists in all theatres in this territory where they are not already employed.

The drive will have the cooperation of other A. F. of L. unions in this vicinity and is regarded here as the initial move on the part of the I.A. to extend its organizing activities to theatres which have been wholly non-union heretofore. These include not only the small town houses throughout the south, but also numerous small independent theatres in the larger cities.

Labor spokesmen stated today that

Olympia Sale Gets Court's Approval

BOSTON, April 15.—New England Theatre Corp.'s offer to purchase the assets of Olympia Theatres, bankrupt Paramount subsidiary, for $4,000,000 cash was approved today by Judge Harold Williams in Superior Court here. Consummation of the sale will wind up the five-year-old bankruptcy of Olympia.

No objections to the sale were voiced by any Olympia creditor during the three-day period allowed for the filing of such objections, which ended today.

The Olympia assets consist principally of 30 theatres, 28 of which are fee properties and two are leaseholds. On the conclusion of the sale Olympia operations will be consolidated with those of New England, which also is a Paramount affiliate headed by Martin Mullin and Samuel Pinanski.

Stockholders Value Roxy at $7,897,000

Class A stockholders of the Roxy Theatres who are fighting the proposed plan of reorganization before Special Master Addison S. Pratt yesterday produced an appraisal which valued the theatre at $7,897,000. This figure is more than twice the $3,500,000 valuation placed on the property by the Pound committee, proponents of the plan.

Ira Goldstein, real estate expert, as witness for the stockholders, placed a $2,550,000 valuation on the land and the lobby leasehold without improvements. Leon Fleishmann, former Loew executive, valued the building and equipment at $5,347,000,

RKO's '36 Net Up More Than 3 Times 1935

Audited Report Shows Total of $2,485,911

RKO profits for 1936, the company's audited report shows, were considerably more than three times as high as they were in 1935. The net was $2,485,911 after interest, depreciation, amortization of leaseholds, loss on investments and capital assets, provision for affiliated companies not consolidated, Federal income taxes, excess profit taxes, surtaxes and other charges, but without provision for arrears on dividends on the cumulative preferred stock of K-A-O.

Total assets are listed at $91,559,816, with a capital deficit of $10,977,285 and an operating deficit of $13,491,782, compared with total assets of $93,086,407, capital deficit of $11,001,351 and operating deficit of $15,963,565 on Dec. 31, 1935.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Beverly Hills, April 15

PLAYING it out along strictly old-fashioned, melodramatic and hokum lines, "Good Old Soak," nee "Old Soak," has an aura of another year about it, but enough of what it ought to have to make this minor effort from M-G-M an acceptable attraction for the rank and file. Not strong enough for a playing time this nevertheless is homey enough and formula enough to register well in neighborhoods and smaller situations.

Wallace Beery is the "Clem Hawley" of Don Marquis' widely known play. Janet Beecher is his tolerant wife, Eric Linden, the more or less wayward son, Betty Furness the daughter, Una Merkel an amusing maid, Edith Barrett the feminine menace with a heart of gold, Robert McWade the old skinflint who gets his just deserts in the hip hip hooray manner. Ted Healy is again a stooge and George Sidney another bit of comedy relief.

The slight story swings around Linden's infatuation for Miss Barrett. He gets himself in a jam and pilfers his mother's stock. Beery is suspected, and to save the youngster's face with his mother automatically permits her to assume she is correct. However, in a situation that is alternately grim and humorous, Beery threatens McWade and exacts from him the difference between the price for which he bought the stock from Linden and its ultimate sale. This proves enough to meet all deficits and straighten out all the kinks. In the meantime Linden has told his mother the truth, so back to the family fireside goes Beery, reunited with the family and pretty much its collective lion.

There is not a great deal to this, but Beery's characterization alone is along lines well hewed by him in many earlier pictures. J. Walter Ruben's direction does well enough by the tale.

If this creaks too loudly at times, it is merely the years and changing times exacting their inevitable toll.

Four More Circuits To Aid Rogers Drive

Four more circuits and 12 independent theatres have been added to the list of supporters for the Will Rogers Memorial Fund drive which gets under way the week of April 30. Another meeting of local committees was held yesterday at the New York Film Board with William A. Scully of M-G-M presiding.

Max A. Cohen's Cinema circuit, Nelson & Renner, Harry Harris and Harry Hecht are the new circuits. Independent houses include the Rivoli, Belmar; Queen Anne, Bogota; Strand, Farmingdale; Lyric, Stanley, and Station, Newark; Rialto, Paterson, N. J.; Bluebird, Manhattan; Cameo, Yonkers; Didsbury, Waldon, and Savoy, Jamaica, L. I.

The Paramount circuit was among the first group of major houses to pledge support to the drive leaders. They are included with National Theatres, Loew's, RKO, Warners and Skouras.

M-G-M has just completed an all-star short featuring Robert Taylor and Gary Cooper. The reel will be shown in all theatres cooperating in the drive.

At that time cash totaled $343,093 and current assets $449,150 against current liabilities of $69,261. Orpheum Assets Sale Defended by Trustee Expressing the opinion that Orpheum Circuit was mismanaged and that a suit against its former directors might bring a financial recovery for creditors, Phillip Snyder, Orpheum creditors' trustee, nevertheless, defended the sale of Orpheum's assets to Stadium Theatres, RKO subsidiary, for $700,000, during a hearing on motions to set aside the sale before Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson yesterday.

The opposition to the sale is headed by preferred stockholders of Orpheum, represented by Isidor J. Kresel and Samuel Zirn. The latter also asks that Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn be removed from the Orpheum proceedings and that Orpheum be permitted to intervene in the RKO reorganization proceedings.

Calls Deal Best Available

Snyder, declaring that a financial recovery from a suit against the directors for mismanagement was "speculative," defended the Stadium transaction on the ground that it was the best deal which Orpheum creditors were able to make. He pointed out that it was the preferred stockholders who blocked a recovery suit against the directors some time ago. Snyder declared that there was no merit to Zirn's charges against Ehrhorn and that if Orpheum was permitted to intervene in the RKO reorganization Orpheum would become liable for approximately $11,000,000 of landlords' claims which are not provable in bankruptcy but are in reorganization. He asserted that the preferred stockholders have no equity in Orpheum.

Edward Hanlon, attorney for Marcus Heiman, Orpheum trustee in bankruptcy, also defended the sale to Stadium. The hearing was adjourned to Friday when the defense of the sale will be continued by O. C. Doering, of counsel to the RKO trustee.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Pick a Star"

(Roach-M-G-M)

Hollywood, April 15.—After years of experimenting, Hal Roach definitely moves into the feature producer class. Just as "Pick a Star" does credit to its producer, the film reveals Rosina Lawrence as a promising and valuable screen personality. The story is a novel Hollywood burlesque and the production effects compare favorably with the most pretentious pictures. The lively show is packed with laughs and it blends comedy, romance and light drama, interspersed with gags. Howard Sedgwick, the director, combined the best principles of two-reeler technique with accepted feature methods, an idea that is certain to amuse audiences.

The story, parading the personalities of Patsy Kelly, Mischa Auer and Laurel and Hardy, concerns the efforts of Jack Haley, a hick, to get Miss Lawrence, a beauty contest winner, in pictures. From that point the film moves briskly with plenty of novelty to differentiate the show from other Hollywood-premised attractions.

Richard Flournoy, Arthur Jones and Thomas Dugan did the original screenplay. The music and lyrics are by Fred Stryker and Johnny Lange. The colorful and spectacular dances were staged by Edward Court. The theme song which is well given by Miss Lawrence was written by Alexander Anderson.

Production Code Seal No. 2,900. Running time, 78 minutes. "G."

"Let Them Live"

(Universal)

Hollywood, April 15.—This film is an average item that features entertaining drama built around a young doctor who becomes involved in dirty politics. It is a swiftly moving picture balanced by fine performances. However, it suffers from lack of drawing names. John Howard in the title role registers as a potential box-office name.

Howard, starting out on his medical career, finds himself holding documents that incriminate Edward Ellis, a politician. He does an about-face on his plans to become a practising physician and devotes himself to a general hospital. In his line of duty he starts crusading against unhealthy, slum tenements. The campaign reflects on Ellis. Howard goes right ahead, becoming more involved by his romantic inclinations for Judith Barrett, Ellis' niece. Nan Grey, whose father was wrecked by Ellis, aids Howard in his fight and works her way into his affections. The series of dramatic incidents are climaxed by the serious illness of Bennie Bartlett, a youngster, whom both Ellis and Howard love. That ends the feud. Ellis is later forced to go straight and Miss Grey and Howard are the romantic twosome in the fadeout.

Harold Young directed with fine perspective for dramatic values. Bruce Manning and Lionel Houser wrote the screenplay. Robert Wilcox as Howard's fellow interne gives an outstanding performance.

Production Code Seal No. 3,112. Running time, 73 minutes. "G."

Coast Labor Units Hold a Joint Meet

Hollywood, April 15.—While producers' attorneys continued to study the Wagner Act decisions, the painters' local held mass meetings here tonight attended also by makeup men. According to a reliable source, several other unions now outside basic studio agreement also were present. Ken Thompson and Aubrey Blair of Screen Actors' Guild attended.

Pat Casey stated that not a single union has made overtures to the studio labor board for inclusion in the basic agreement since the New York union meetings. Casey also said that no promises have been made by producers in connection with possible follow-up conferences with the painters and the guild.

Technical phases of the Wagner Act decisions showed that the legal aspects would take possibly 30 days to clarify, Casey added.

Other unions, excluding machinists, apparently were holding future National Labor Board protests in abeyance pending action from the guild and painters.

The guild is expected to demand regulation of actor radio appearances and term contract adjustments. Definite action by the unions will probably materialize before the first of next week.

Paper Stops Pickets At Jamaica Theatres

Striking reporters on the Long Island Press have been stopped from picketing the Valencia, Merrick and other Jamaica theatres, advertisers in the newspaper, in a campaign for increases in salaries. Guild representatives approached all advertisers in the paper and asked them to withdraw their advertising. When this was refused, a picketing campaign was started.

However, the Press secured an injunction forbidding picketing within five blocks of the armory, which included most of the theatres.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Big Business"

(20th Century-Fox)

Hollywood, April 15.—The Jones family adventures into the field of stock promotion are amusing. A family type attraction, the film concentrates on romance, drama, comedy and excitement, the ingredients of its predecessors in the series.

Shirley Deane is in love with Russell Gleason, florist. He doesn't feel that he has money enough to get married. Back to town comes, Allen Lane, city slicker stock promoter, who with his partner, Frank Conroy, plans to swindle the citizens. Flirting with Miss Deane, much to Gleason's discomfort, Lane learns that Florence Roberts has a lot of old stock certificates. He offers to buy them, but the shrewd granny figures if they are worth money to him they surely are worth money to her. Nevertheless he creates a market for the worthless stock and Jed Prouty becomes a leader in urging his friends to invest.

In the meantime George Ernest and Kenneth Howell have invented an auto super-charger in which they are trying to interest a local capitalist. Prouty considers the invention worthless and puts his money in Lane's and Conroy's promotion. Shrewd Florence Roberts, however, suspicious of their plan, reveals it as a fraud. A wild crosscountry chase follows in which a car equipped with the super-charger captures the swindlers. As the townsfolk's money is returned to them, they invest in the new invention with promise of big returns.

The same cast, with the addition of Russell Gleason, Lane and Frank Conroy that appeared in previous pictures is again featured. The story is an original by Ron Ferguson and Eleanor Delameter. Robert Ellis and Helen Logan did the screenplay. Frank R. Strayer directed.

Production Code Seal No. 2,073. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"King of Gamblers"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, April 15.—Drama and suspense are combined here to give this gangster film grim interest. Claire Trevor, Lloyd Nolan and Akim Tamoroff create strong characters and a capable support contributes effective work. The film provokes and holds interest. The gist of the story does not suffer by the unnecessary material which is obviously worked in as padding.

Tamiroff becomes a ruthless killer to protect his slot machine and related gambling rackets. His murders are made to appear as suicides. Miss Trevor is the suavely attentive night club entertainer who is romantically attached to Nolan, a reporter. Tamiroff skillfully diverts suspicion from himself. With the death of Helen Burgess, the affection between Nolan and Miss Trevor causes them to join forces after the killer. With Nolan's clever detective work the story builds to a tense climax in Tamiroff's office where he dies in the same manner as his victims.

The picture has character that promises to be appealing to adult audiences. New twists incorporated into formula situations give the production an air of freshness and difference that is good enough for inclusion on any dual program. The film can take first billing on many such programs.

Tiffany Thayer wrote the original story. Doris Anderson did the screenplay and Robert Florey directed.

Production Code Seal No. 3,152. Running time, 75 minutes. "A."

New Shows on the Air

Babe Ruth

Babe Ruth opened his bi-weekly series for the Sinclair Refining Co., Wednesday evening, and the Babe's vigorous personality came over the loudspeaker in fine fashion. Sinclair was shrewd enough to spot the Babe in a baseball talking role and as a consequence the ex-Sultan of Swat was as much at ease before the microphone as he is on the playing field. Previous sponsors had hired the Babe as an actor in serialized stories—and invariably he was terrible.

In his opening stanza, Ruth stepped in where angels fear to tread by giving his American League selections for the coming season. In the next episode the Babe again will lead with his chin by making public his National League selections. The merits of baseball over football, and vice versa, were argued by two high school students who were in the studio as Ruth's guests. The program concluded with a dramatization of a highlight in Ruth's baseball career—the third game in the 1932 World Series when the Babe pointed at an outlying fence, and on the next pitch knocked the ball out of the park over the aforementioned enclosure.

The program obviously is designed to catch the ears and the trade of the baseball public. That public being legion in the summertime, the sponsor should cash in handsomely on his Ruthian investment. In addition to Ruth, the program is handsomely baited with an offer of 522 prizes a week, consisting of two automobiles, 20 automobile radio sets, and 500 autographed baseballs.

The broadcasting schedule is Wednesdays and Fridays on CBS, from 10:30 to 10:45 P.M., E.S.T. The Federal Advertising Agency handles the account.

Lily Pons Returns

High-spot premiere of Wednesday was Lily Pons' return to the Chesterfield cigarette program. The petite coloratura soprano, whose remarkable voice has captivated opera and screen audiences and radio listeners, succeeded Nino Martini in the series.

The Chesterfield program continues to run a middle course, maintaining a fine balance between popular and serious music, a deft policy. Unquestionably it is the finest program of its type on the air.

High-spot portion of the high-spot program was Miss Pons' offering of La Forge's "Bird Sing." Her superbly delicate phrasing of this number was truly magnificent. Her other songs were "The Blue Danube," "Seal It With a Kiss," from her last picture, "That Girl from Paris," and Hymn To the Sun," from Coq d'Or.

Andre Kostelanetz added to the lighter moments of the session by offering fine orchestrations of "Too Marvelous for Words," "Say Si-Si" and "Good Night Ladies." David Ross rendered the commercials in his usual brilliant fashion.

The program is heard Wednesdays from 9 to 9:30 P.M., E.S.T. on CBS.

Miss Menken Excellent

Helen Menken, who opened Wednesday in a new dramatic serial script, "Her Second Husband," scored nicely in her debut, her dramatic talents lifting her far and above the homey, conventional script the sponsor provided for her.

The opening episode told of the trials and tribulations of a Brenda Williams, played by Miss Menken, a young widow who struggles to make a living for her two small children in a dress making establishment in a small town. A savior, in the guise of a rich easterner, enters the script—and therein probably lies the ultimate solution to Brenda Williams' financial and heart problems.

Miss Menken, a thorough artist, will unquestionably win for herself an enthusiastic air audience as the series progresses.

The series is sponsored by Bayer Aspirin and replaces Ethel Barrymore's "Famous Actors Guild" for that company. It is heard Wednesdays from 8:30 to 9 P. M., E. S. T.

India Germans Get Banned Films List

Germans living in India have received, in the January issue of their monthly magazine, "Der Deutsche in Indian," a list of seven films considered objectionable to the present regime in the Reich and have been asked to report to the German consulate in Calcutta the names and addresses of any theatres exhibiting them.

Among American pictures on the list are "The House of Rothschild," "All Quiet on the Western Front," "War Mammas" and "The Lost Squadron."

Ford, Garnett U.A. Producer Contract Set

Renowned Artists Corp. Formed; Colman Star

HOLLYWOOD, April 16.—John Ford and Tay Garnett would become producers and Ronald Colman a star for United Artists under a deal tentatively approved here.

Heading separate units but grouped cooperatively as Renowned Artists Corp., formed this week in Delaware with a capital of $2,000,000, the plan provides for at least one picture from each next season.

Lester Cowan, former secretary of the Academy of M. P. Arts and Sciences, and later a Columbia producer, is the general manager. Sol Rosenblatt, brother-in-law of Cowan, is here arranging the distribution contract. He will return to the east by train next week. Lurie Frisco, real estate millionaire, who originally financed Sol Lesser, is behind the new company.

Under the company's plans for next season, 10 features and 26 shorts will be released through RKO and 14 features for Grand National. Six of the RKO pictures will be westerns with George O'Brien. The shorts are

Mystery Veils Theatre Bill In New Jersey

Allied Claims to Know Nothing About It

One of Allied's theatre divorcement bills has popped up in New Jersey and the Jersey Allied leaders say they don't know anything about it. It's one of those late-session legislative mysteries that sometimes crop up over there, it seems.

Ordinarily new bills are not introduced so late in the session, but they are slipped in at times by agreement, and unless a deal is made among groups of legislators having pet projects they seldom get out of committee. The Legislature is now in its final struggle over the appropriation bill and getting ready to wind up.

This particular measure, House Bill No. 507, was put into the hopper last Monday by Assemblyman Edison Hedges, an Atlantic County lawyer, who lives at Mays Landing. He said

"Marked Woman" At $35,000, Strand

"Marked Woman" at the Strand tallied approximately $35,000 for the first week. It is to be held two, and possibly three, more weeks. "Quality Street" garnered $70,000 at the Music Hall and "The Soldier and the Lady" took in $37,600 at the Roxy.

"A Star Is Born" will start at the Music Hall on April 22, and will be followed by "Shall We Dance?" with Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers on May 6. "The Prince and the Pauper" has been tentatively dated for the Strand starting May 8. "Cafe Metropole" will be shown at the Rivoli beginning May 1.

Bloom Is Contract Chief for 20th-Fox

Jack Bloom has been named head of the 20th Century-Fox contract department, succeeding Nat B. Finkler, who died early this week. Samuel J. Epstein is now assistant contract manager, taking over Bloom's former duties. Other promotions include Ralph DeBurgos to section supervisor, David Ornstein to assistant section supervisor, and Nat Rosen, Murray Scher and Angela Mandella to data clerks.

Edgar L. Hollander, formerly ad sales manager at the 20th Century-Fox local exchange, has been promoted to eastern ad sales supervisor,

No "U" Change

Hollywood, April 16.—Charles R. Rogers took formal cognizance of persistent rumors here of a shift in the Universal production helm when he told the Masquers Club: "I've heard the many humors, but I'm still there."

Dr. A. H. Giannini, president and chairman of U.A., was the guest of honor. Present were Jesse L. Lasky, J. Cheever Cowdin, James Normanly, Sol A. Rosenblatt, Rupert Hughes, R. H. Burnside and several hundred actors.

Auditors of City Study Film Sales

Auditors for the city are studying the accounts of all local exchanges preparatory to drawing up the city's assessments for the two per cent sales tax on film rentals for the past two years and expect to complete the work in 10 days, it was learned yesterday.

Members of the city comptroller's department said that no accurate estimate of the amount owed by the local distribution offices could be made prior to completion of the audits, but said that it was their impression that the $2,000,000 estimates mentioned heretofore were too high, even with penalties and interest.

Attorneys for distribution companies plan to meet again early next week to discuss further the possibility of new action in opposition to the application of the tax. The time allowed for the filing of an application for a rehearing of the distributors' case by the Court of Appeals at Albany expires at the end of the week. There is no indication at the moment that further appeal moves would be sanctioned by all distribution companies.

Para. to Take Half Interest in Circuit

Paramount will receive a one-half interest in Central States circuit in connection with the relinquishing of its option to repurchase A. H. Blank's half interest in Tri-States circuit, is was learned yesterday.

Under the agreement now being drawn by Paramount's attorneys and Samuel Spring, attorney for Blank, operations of the two circuits would be consolidated with Paramount and Blank sharing equally in each and with the ownership interests on a permanent basis.

Blank is expected back in New York in about 10 days for the formal closing of the deal.

Kansas Bars Court Speech From "Time"

Censors Call Wheeler's Remarks "Partisan"

When a United States Senator says he is opposed to changes in the U. S. Supreme Court and gives his reasons in a film it cannot be exhibited in Kansas if the Kansas censors think it is partisan or biased.

This ruling has just been put into effect for the first time on the latest issue of "March of Time" dealing with the current court controversy. The reel followed the court fight on the Wagner Labor bill from its inception at Aurora, Mo., to last week's 5-4 decision. Speakers against the plan in the reel are Senators Bennett Clark of Missouri, Carter Glass of Virginia and Burton K. Wheeler of Montana. Candid camera studies of the nine judges are included.

In his speech Senator Wheeler said: "You can say that the privilege of appointing postmasters will not be accorded to me. You can say that I'll get no more projects for my state. You can say what you please, but

Bank Night Is Ruled Lottery in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 16.—Bank Nights were held to be lotteries by the State Supreme Court today which refused to restrain local authorities from interfering with them. This ruling was handed down in an appeal by Iris Amusement Co., B & K., and other theatre operators from an adverse ruling by Judge Niemeyer in Superior Court some time ago.

Theatre owners had sought to enjoin authorities from stopping Bank Night and similar games. The Supreme Court opinion given today said:

European Building Off, Says Schaefer

Only two new theatres have been opened in Central Europe in the last year, Gus J. Schaefer, general manager for Paramount for this territory, stated yesterday upon his arrival from Paris on the Manhattan.

Both theatres are in Roumania and are being operated by independents. The first opened last September and the second in December.

The Adriatic Insurance Co. of Italy is now building an 1,800-seat theatre in Warsaw, Poland. It is expected that it will be completed in three or four months. Negotiations are on for a company to assume operation but nothing is set, Schaefer said. He also added Loew's plans to build a de luxe house in Amsterdam, Holland.

Paramount's activities in Germany have been divided between Leo J. Horster, who is now sales manager, and Paul Thiefes, office manager.

On May 1, Loew's will take over the Schweten in Vienna from the widow of the late M. Bartz, Schaefer added. He will leave today for Boston to spend a week with his family, then return for business conferences with George Weltner. He plans to remain here about a month before returning to his Paris headquarters.

New Offer Holds Up Fox Brooklyn Deal

A competitive offer to reorganize the holding company for the Fox Theatre and office building, Brooklyn, will be submitted to Federal Judge William Bondy next Tuesday by Joseph Nemerov, attorney, who told Judge Bondy yesterday that he represented "one of the biggest men in the film industry," but declined to identify him.

The reorganization plan proposed by the bondholders' committee and approved by the court a week ago was to have been confirmed by a formal order of Judge Bondy yesterday. Nemerov's statement that he would better the committee's offer prevented the signing of the order. The bondholders' plan provides for a 20-year lease on the theatre to Fabian Brooklyn Theatres, Inc., at a minimum rental of $150,000 annually plus a graduated percentage of the grosses up to and above $1,500,000.

Ohio House Passes Income Tax Measure

Columbus O., April 16.—The Ohio House has passed the state income tax bill by a vote of 81 to 44. The bill was amended to increase exemptions from $800 to $1,000 for single persons, and from $1,600 to $2,000 for married couples. Exemption for dependents was increased to $300, compared with the original figure of $200. Several representatives stated privately that they voted for the bill only for the purpose of the record to satisfy certain groups of constituents.

It is now considered a certainty that the bill will not be approved by the Senate, which twice previously has defeated similar measures.

Paris Tax Is Reduced

Paris, April 8.—The pauper tax of 10 per cent of gross receipts paid by all theatres in France has been reduced in Paris to 8.75 per cent. The difference will be made up by a special tax on radio broadcasting advertising. A similar reduction was obtained in Nice some time ago, but all other exhibitors continue to pay the 10 per cent tax.

Kansas Bars Court Speech From "Time"

I say to you and to Mr. Farley, to everybody else, that I will vote against this proposition because it is morally wrong; it is morally unsound; it is a dangerous proceeding."

Orders to remove the speech were received by T. R. Thompson, branch manager of RKO in Kansas City, from Mae Clausen, chairman of the Kansas censor board, who wrote: "We are approving the print of March of Time No. 9 with elimination of the entire dialogue by Senator Wheeler. We feel this dialogue is partisan and biased."

Louis de Rochemont, producer of the reel, said: "The elimination which the Kansas board has ordered will distort the impartiality of 'March of Time's' complete review of the Supreme Court controversy. The cut eliminates a speech by the U. S. Senator from Montana, Burton K. Wheeler, opposing the proposed plan to enlarge the Supreme Court at his fireside chat when he presented the plan to the nation. To the best of our knowledge this is the first time that a statement on a national political issue by an accredited authority like a U. S. Senator has been censored from the screen by a state board."

Change "Time" Episode

The decisions on the Wagner Act by the U. S. Supreme Court early this week caused a re-editing and rescoring of the episode in the latest release, dated April 16, which concerned the current Supreme Court controversy.

lotteries is ancient and embedded in fundamental law. In this scheme (Bank Night) there is present every element of the evils attendant upon mass gambling. The price for a fair and reasonable chance to win is the cost of a ticket of admission to the theatre, which is the object of the plan, and thus a lottery is completed.

"Our public policy against lotteries expressed in two constitutions in the criminal code and in Chicago a city ordinance is much too firmly rooted to be evaded by any commercial device."

The ruling in all probability means the death of Bank Night in this state.

maintaining strict secrecy regarding future moves but it has been learned that negotiations with producers will be instituted following a checkup which, it is hoped, will show that a majority of the studio workers are members of the crafts represented in the federation. However, no producer negotiations are expected before the middle of next week.

Lloyd Calls Union Ineffective

LOS ANGELES, April 16.—Jack Lloyd, president of the Studio Employes' Protective League, has declared that of 30 studio craft organizations in existence, only five are recognized by producers. He claimed that union members of the recognized crafts are supporting the drive to bring studio workers into the C. I. O.

He contended that lack of aggressiveness on the part of the existing unions was the cause of what he claims to be a trend toward the C. I. O. He declared that many of the present unions are affiliated with the A. F. L. When a proper allotment from each craft has been obtained, he said, application will be made by his organization for a C. I. O. charter.

Net of $19,332 for Month at the Roxy

A net profit of $19,332 before deductions for interest on funded indebtedness and depreciation for the period from Feb. 26 to March 25 was shown in the report of Howard S. Cullman, trustee, in his monthly report on the Roxy filed in U. S. District Court yesterday. Cash receipts for the period were $161,839 and expenditures were $144,166 showing an excess of receipts over expenditures of $17,672. Cash on hand was $101,876 as compared with 84,204 on Feb. 26. Payments totaled $131,790; film rentals were $21,867 and advertising costs were $19,599. It was not made clear in the report how the net of $19,332 was reached.

Special Master Addison S. Pratt reserved decision yesterday on a motion by Carlos Israel, counsel for the Pound bondholders' committee, to have the cost of subpoenaing witnesses and records of the S.E.C. assessed against the Tipton bondholders' committee and the stockholders' protective committee. Pratt is holding hearings on the proposed plan of reorganization for the Roxy.

Israel charged that Harold P. Seligson, counsel for the Tipton committee and Samuel Kramer, stockholders' counsel, were "acting in bad faith" by making technical objections. Pratt stated that he would rule on the motion at the close of the case. The offer of 20th Century-Fox for the Roxy theatre expires on May 1 unless the time is extended. Leon Fleishman, who appraised the Roxy for the stockholders, was under cross-examination yesterday. The hearings will continue on Monday.

"In Pictures" is published in a limited edition.

Sunday Listeners to Get Five Consecutive Hours of Comedy

Beginning tomorrow, when Bert Lahr and Tim and Irene join the networks, Sunday dialers will be offered a steady diet of comedians for five hours, beginning at 5:30 P. M. and extending to 10:30 P. M., save for a half hour interval from 9:30 to 10 P. M. Such a preponderence of comedians following one after another on one evening would seem to be poor programing on the part of agencies and sponsors, but apparently this theory does not hold, for most of these acts have been following each other Sundays for a season or more, with no appreciable drop in popularity or rating. The schedule follows:

Stoopnagle & Budd, 5:30 to 6 P. M., NBC-Blue; Joe Penner, 6 to 6:30 P. M., CBS; Ray Knight and his Cuckoos in the "1937 Radio Revue," 6 to 6:30 P. Decision Reserved On Orpheum Motion

Decision was reserved by Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson yesterday on the conclusion of hearings of motions by Orpheum Circuit preferred stockholders to set aside the sale of Orpheum's assets to Stadium Theatres Corp., an RKO subsidiary, to permit Orpheum to intervene in the RKO reorganization proceedings and to remove Oscar W. Ehrhorn as referee in bankruptcy for Orpheum.

O. C. Doering, Jr., of counsel for the RKO trustee, in concluding the arguments yesterday said that with Orpheum's assets appraised at $2,772,000 against liabilities of $6,875,000 stockholders had no equity in Orpheum. He declared that while recovery suits against former directors of Orpheum for mismanagement, and actions against Keith-Albee-Orpheum to set aside the indentures might salvage something for stockholders, "it would be unconscionable to subject Orpheum's creditors to such hazards."

Doering also stated that under Section 77-B the Orpheum trustee has no power to intervene in the RKO reorganization proceedings, that such a move could be made only by the owners or directors of the corporation. He also stated that a subsidiary cannot intervene in the reorganization proceedings of a parent company, but could be brought in by the parent.

Bondy Expunges RKO Claims

Federal Judge William Bondy yesterday formally expunged 25 claims, totaling $2,961,940, against RKO. The largest of the claims was that of the 3rd & Brady St. Corp. for $1,850,000. The others are the Rogers Prod., Ltd., $350,000; Laura F. Albee, $287,500; Collector of Internal Revenue, $259,456; Pathe Exchanges, Inc., $67,277; Parthenon Realty Corp., $59,492; Jeanette Cohen, $50,000; E. M. Glucksman, $13,650; Fay H. White, $8,700; Electric Products Corp. of Cal., $2,669 and Electric Products Corp. of Oregon, $1,455.

Approve Fee for Steuer

In a unanimous decision the Appellate Division of the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday upheld a ruling of the lower court that Max D. Steuer should have a fee of $75,000 for his services as counsel in behalf of the Knickerbocker Theatres Corp. and the Clinton-Apollo Theatres Corp., which several years ago were in litigation over leases with the Greater New York Vaudeville Theatres Corp.

Knickerbocker and Clinton-Apollo at the time had a number of theatres on the lower east side. The theatres argued that Steuer's demands were exhorbitant and the question was turned over to a referee who recommended that the attorney be paid $100,000. Justice Valente reduced the figure to $75,000, which was approved by the higher court yesterday.

Tobacco Firms Are Greatest Users of Air

Three Brands Dominate The Expenditures

By JACK BANNER

The gross sales figures for 1935 of the three leading tobacco companies using radio, as revealed this week for the first time by the S.E.C., upon comparison with the radio time expenditures by the tobacco companies for that year, indicates quite clearly why the tobacco firms are rapidly becoming the greatest users of network time.

Radio's "big three" tobacco sponsors are the American, Liggett & Myers, and R. J. Reynolds companies.

Additional developments in radio on pages 6 and 7

The gross sales figures for the above companies in 1935 were: American, $217,224,080; Liggett & Myers, $221,736,295; and R. J. Reynolds $250,635,962. The commission's release indicates that 85 per cent of the total volume in each case was for Lucky Strike, Chesterfield and Camel cigarettes—the company products most extensively advertised on the air.

Both films are in the final stages of production. A decision is expected prior to the annual sales convention which will be held May 31-June 3 at the Ambassador, Los Angeles.

Jack Sichelman and Martin Moskowitz, assistants to John D. Clark, general sales manager, are handling convention details at the home office. More than 300 sales and home office executives are scheduled to attend the coast sessions.

Key City Grosses Fall Off To $1,815,850 After Easter

Key city grosses slumped sharply after the Easter Week rush which flirted with the four-year record set up New Year's week, but the total was still well above most of the weekly figures recorded this season. The take for 178 first run houses for the week ending April 9-10 was $1,815,850.

This was $192,393 below the Easter Week figure of $2,008,743.

Last week's total has been exceeded only six times since last September. The first time was during the Labor Day week rush when $2,090,144 was set up. After that the totals trailed along in the vicinity of the million and three-quarters mark until the first week in December when $1,946,078 was taken in by 176 first runs. During the first two weeks in January the totals passed the two-million mark. They then fell off again until the week of Feb. 26-27 when the total bounced back to $1,849,622. The Lenten slump followed until the first week in April.

Loew 28-Week Net Totals $8,606,130

Loew's, Inc., has reported net profit for the 28 weeks ended March 11, 1937, of $8,606,130, after depreciation and taxes, but without provision for sur-taxes on undistributed profits. The net compares with $5,033,038 for the similar period ending March 12, 1936.

The net for the 1937 period is equal to $62.95 per share on the preferred, and $5.26 per share on the common, comparing with $36.81 and $3.04, respectively in the 1936 period.

The company's share of the operating profit for the 1937 period, after subsidiaries' preferred dividends, amounted to $12,390,097, as against $7,878,998 for the 1936 period. Depreciation and taxes in 1937 accounted for $3,783,967, compared to $2,845,960 in the 1936 period.

Orpheum Circuit's Losses Cut in 1936

Marcus Heiman, trustee of the Orpheum Circuit, Inc., filed a report in Federal Court on Saturday on the consolidated operation of 13 wholly owned active subsidiaries of Orpheum for the 47-week period ending Nov. 21, 1936. The report showed a loss of $57,679 and compared with a loss of $275,786 for the year of 1935 and a loss of $391,715 for 1934.

The gross income was $3,189,150; operating expenses, $2,684,626; net income, $504,524; depreciation and amortization, $158,381. The loss does not include $50,400 received as dividends from the Singer Theatre Corp. and $12,500 from the Colorado Orpheum. These sums were received by the Stadium Theatres Corp. on account of the collateral in Orpheum which it holds.

Champaign Orpheum showed a profit of $27,769; Junior Orpheum, Los Angeles, $19,578; Junior Orpheum, San Francisco, $91,117; Des Moines

Kansas Censor Says Governor Not Told

Kansas City, April 18.—Gov Walter Huxman "knew nothing of" the Kansas state censors' order to delete Senator Burton K. Wheeler's remarks in opposition to President Roosevelt's court plan from the current issue of the "March of Time," and "gave no instructions or suggestions" on the matter, Mae Clausen, chairman of the censor board, said yesterday.

Miss Clausen's statement was in answer to Senator Wheeler's earlier declaration that the barring of his remarks "ought to qualify Governor Huxman for the dictatorship of the United States." The senator said he was informed that the distributors of the reel were told that his criticism of the court bill must be eliminated because the Kansas Governor and legislature were "in favor of the President."

"It is to prevent just that sort of thing that we need an independent judiciary free from executive interference," Senator Wheeler commented.

Films Subject To Wagner Act In Myers' View

Allied Counsel Foresees Measures in States

Washington, April 18. — The opinion that the entire film industry is, or ultimately will be, subject to the provisions of the Wagner Labor Relations Act is advanced by Abram F. Myers, general counsel of Allied States Exhibitors' Ass'n., in an organization bulletin distributed to members today.

Myers states that while in his opinion theatres are beyond the scope of Congressional regulation, even under the Supreme Court's recent interpretation of the Wagner Act, "It is inevitable that a movement will be initiated in many states to enact bills similar to the Wagner law in order that no form of employment may escape." He also points out that the Administration may "try to get employers not subject to the act to conform to it voluntarily under a revised NRA." In either event, his apparent conviction is that all branches of the industry will be subject to legislative control in due time.

"In the meantime," his bulletin observes, "it is not improbable that union organizers may seek to stretch the Wagner Act to include . . . theatres. The problem is growing imminent and the exhibitors must chart a wise course. Unless greater interest is displayed," Myers cautions, obviously

G.B. Expected to Stay at 20th-Fox

Physical distribution of G. B. product is expected to continue through 20th Century-Fox which handles the British product for 10 per cent, exclusive of sales.

The early probability that physical handling may switch to Universal in view of the interest of C. M. Woolf of General Film Distributors, Ltd., of London in both Universal and G. B. production is no longer rife.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 18.

WHEN Hollywood gets mixing around with the psychopathic the ordinary result is not only trouble but plenty of it and something the public will walk by. But if for no other reason perhaps than to riddle the embracing wisdom of any such sweeping pronunciamento comes along "Night Must Fall," Emlyn Williams' play with a year or more behind it in London and a successful if shorter run on Broadway earlier this season.

One of the current excitements around M-G-M, it was brought into the open with much fanfare at Grauman's Chinese Friday night to bump against the test of critical scrutiny. On major counts it not only met the test but emerged as the winner.

In a play such as this where the actual plot maneuvers are essentially incidental to the character, depiction and creation of dramatic moods, the cast had to be good and the direction better. Herewith and actually for the first time Robert Montgomery might be said to have acted. He is no longer the playboy of the horsey set and tired of it all. This time he is Danny, the jaunty, boastful, lying and mentally sick page boy who has ruined one servant girl at least, made his way with a woman guest at his hotel and finally wheedles his way into the foolish affections of May Whitty until her complete confidence results in her murder and the near elimination of Rosalind Russell, her niece, until the police arrive in the nick of time. There is immediate conflict between him and Miss Russell, who is as much fascinated by his strange makeup as she is suspicious almost from the start that murder is on his hands. At the close he is of course sent to the gallows and thus the twists in the melodrama end.

But, far more arresting and dramatically gripping is the almost imperceptible impact which is given the picture of the growing forebodings by Richard Thorpe's direction. Menace mounts and mounts until it well nigh supercharges the atmosphere. You know Danny is guilty of murder and you realize he is preparing for another. How he does it under the dictates of his curiously constituted mind actually gives the picture power.

In the two hours, less five minutes, in the present form cutting is to be desired. While the leisurely propulsion toward the climax is vital to the treatment, not all the footage diverted to this very necessary procedure is required.

Unknown as the equation will be of the public's reception of Montgomery in this type of widely different characterization, his is not the wholly unfriendly part by any approach. As the murderer, he must be condemned, but the extenuating circumstances of his bent mentality and his innate charm of manner cloak him with a sympathy which audiences should be quick to grasp.

Industry to Aid in National Music Week

Distributors and exhibitors have agreed to cooperate with the National Music Week committee in the observance of Music Week, May 2 to 8, under arrangements to be made by the individual exhibitor and the local committee.

Under the plans now being completed, many theatres will stage the local music contests being sponsored by the committees, thereby deriving the advantage of the additional publicity and having the musical programs as added attractions instead of competition.

Requests for the industry's cooperation came to the Hays office from the National Music Week committee in recognition of the increasing importance of films in bringing music to the public, it was said.

National's Product Deals Closed Early

National Theatres have closed film buys for the new season with Paramount, M-G-M, Warners, 20th Century-Fox and RKO in what is probably the earliest period in that circuit's history. Spyros Skouras moved up negotiations in order to sail for Greece with his family early next month.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Oh! Doctor"

HOLLYWOOD, April 18.—For six reels this meanders along in typical Edward Everett Horton style. In the last reel it is climaxed with a finale reminiscent of Harold Lloyd's "Safety Last."

Horton, who imagines he has every disease in the world, is the easy victim of William Demarest, Thurston Hall, Eve Arden and Edward Brophy, a quartet of slick swindlers who give him $50,000 in exchange for his $500,000 inheritance, in order that he might live his last six months in luxury. Horton is dying gracefully until love for his nurse, Donrue Leighton, gives him a new interest in life. Horton becomes jealous of William Hall, a he-man athlete, who intrudes upon his secret romance. This leads him to indulge in some wreckless driving stunts that threaten quick death and disaster to the Demarest mobs' vision of easy money.

Miss Leighton learns of the trickery and goes to their office to force cancellation of the contract. Horton, deciding that he has something to live for, follows her. He goes thorugh many hair-raising antics on the facade of a building. The contract is cancelled. The mob gets their money back. Horton, with a new lease on life goes abroad with a motorbike and with Miss Leighton in the rumble seat.

Horton contributes his reliable performance. Hall, Brophy, and Catharine Doucet contribute laugh provoking support. The rest of the cast is of stock caliber. The story was adapted from Harry Leon Wilson's novel. Harry Clark and Brown Holmes did the screenplay. Ray McCarey directed.

Production Code Seal No. 3,206. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

"Hills of Old Wyoming"

(Sherman-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, April 18.—This latest Hopalong Cassidy maintains the entertainment quality established by previous numbers in the series. A 100 per cent outdoor film, it makes possible the presentation of artistically photographed scenic backgrounds. Good showmanship is evidenced in the manner in which drama and comedy that has plenty of action and enough but not too much romantic love interest has been included. In the place of Jimmy Ellison, Producer Harry Sherman introduces Russel Hayden as third member of the William Boyd-George Hayes trio. In his first try at pictures, the newcomer shows definite promise.

The story concerns the efforts of an Indian reservation employe, Stephen Morris, to rustle cattle and shift the blame to the tribesmen. Boyd, with the assistance of Hayes and Hayden, blasts the plan. Action incident to the story is rather slow in building, but the finale presents an exciting riding chase in which the combined Indians and rancher forces come to grips with Morris' rustlers.

Based on Clarence E. Mulford's "The Roundup," Maurice Geraghty's screenplay nicely balances dialogue and action. Nate Watt's handling of story material and personalities is good craftsmanship. The idea of keeping the film entirely out of doors, with only a few interior shots, gives the film a tone quite unlike the formula western.

Boyd and Hayes, holding to the standards of earlier pictures, turn in good jobs. Stephen Morris is a more than satisfactory menace. The love interest features Gail Sheridan and Clara Kimball Young and John Powers helps out Hayes in the comedy.

Production Code Seal No. 3,204. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

Films Subject To Wagner Act In Myers' View

referring to the projected extension of organizing activities to small city and rural theatres, "exhibitors may be confronted by an emergency for which they are wholly unprepared."

He asserts that the theatre labor organizing movement "is bound to come up" at the Allied board meeting next month, and probably at the organization's convention in Milwaukee May 26 to 28. "Meantime," the bulletin advises exhibitors, "if the subject arises prematurely in your territory, we shall be glad to supply information and advice on the legal aspects."

Myers asserts that it "is clear" that the Wagner Act applies to the production end of the industry and "highly probable" that it also applies to the exchanges.

"It is not far-fetched," he says, "to speculate how far control over production can be exerted. If Congress can enforce collective bargaining in the studios, can it also regulate what goes into the pictures? Has the Supreme Court paved the way for 'unified regulation at the source'? And to what extent, if at all, would the states have to yield to the Federal Government in their regulations of public exhibitions which incidentally impinge upon interstate commerce? The problems of the film industry have been greatly increased by the recent decisions, and we are entering upon an era of experimentation and change," he observes.

First, the advancement during the past year of the Twin City area from eighth to seventh retail market area of the nation.

Second, a more than 500,000 population increase in the station's primary coverage area because of its new $300,000 transmitter re-location and re-designing project; also an increase of nearly 2,500,000 in the station's total coverage since the new installation.

Third, a $78,179,000 increase over 1935 in the cash income of Minnesota farmers; and, fourth, an increase of nearly $800,000,000 in Twin Cities' buying power over 1935.

A local brewery chain is sponsoring the Allen cup series on CJRC, and the sponsors overcome public opposition to advertising by anouncing the games are broadcast by four local "sportsmen," naming the chiefs of the four breweries in the chain.

The other station here, CKY, is carrying the series from Calgary. The decision to carry the games was made at the last moment, causing CJRC to cancel its local scheduled program and CKY to throw over the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. features for which it has paid.

Tobacco Firms Are Greatest Users of Air

the above companies were as follows: American, $800,426; Liggett & Myers, $729,447; R. J. Reynolds, $772,236.

As will be noted, the American Tobacco Co. expended more than its two greatest competitors, yet trailed last in gross sales figures.

Lord and Thomas, agency handling the American Tobacco account explained this as being due to the fact that Lucky Strikes had not had a program on the air for almost the full previous year. Lucky Strikes sponsored the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts from December, 1933, through the spring of 1934. The company did not return to the air until April, 1935, at which time it began sponsorship of the "Hit Parade."

Non-Theatre Buying Pennsylvania Worry

acting for a high state official within the last week approached sales executives of several major companies in an effort to secure groups of pictures. He is said to have offered one company a minimum of 200 school bookings with the possibility of increasing the number to 2,000.

The proposal is reported to concern shorts mainly with a few features tied in. The distributor has not made a decision, but is inclined to turn the deal down because it would conflict with exhibitor contracts now in effect.

Last week, the U.M.P.T.O., through Contact, its house organ, blasted Columbia for selling a non-theatrical account. The deal is one of the few the company has made this season.

Bill Would Restrict Minors' Employment

MADISON, Wis., April 18.—Stringent requirements governing the hiring of minors by theatres and broadcasting stations are contained in a bill introduced in the Assembly by the Committee on Labor.

Under the measure, no minor between 12 and 18 years of age would be permitted to be employed by places of entertainment unless the employer secures a permit from the industrial commission which he is obliged to return to the commission within 24 hours after the minor's employment has been terminated.

No permits would be issued for performers under 12 years of age and where the minor is under 16, his parent or guardian would be required to accompany him at all performances and rehearsals.

Inspection of all electric wiring and equipment in theatres seating more than 60 at least once a year would be required under the Schenk bill, introduced in the Assembly. The measure also amends the law relating to the licensing of electricians.

Daylight Time Defeated

DENVER, April 18.—Daylight saving time here, which local theatre men have bitterly opposed, and which the local radio stations have championed, was beaten here when Mayor Ben Stapleton vetoed the bill. It had passed the City Council by a vote of five to four, and the four members opposed have indicated that they will not change their votes when the bill is considered again tomorrow. A vote of six to three is required for passage over the mayor's veto.

Building Ordinance Vetoed

KEWAUNEE, Wis., April 18.—Mayor William Karsten has vetoed an ordinance adopted by the Common Council which would have restricted theatre cnstruction to one house for each 3,000 population. Under the killed ordinance, anyone desiring to erect a new theatre in Kewaunee would be obliged to spend not less than $50,000.

Believe Ohio Tax Dead

Booth Bill Defeated

HARTFORD, April 18.—The Judiciary Committee has disapproved the two-men-in-a-booth bill, and the House has accepted the report. The measure has been defeated for the seventh consecutive time.

Meyer, January Wed

IATSE Pushes Organizing on Vertical Line

Entry into New Fields Similar to C.I.O.

With the I. A. T. S. E. active in organizing exchange employes, new classifications of theatre workers, laboratory employes and others, the leading theatrical union is being jockeyed by competitive organizing efforts within the industry into a policy which more nearly approaches the vertical unionism of the C. I. O. than that of the crafts unions of its parent organization, the A. F. of L.

Whether the policy can be extended throughout the industry along lines compatible with A. F. of L. principles during the next few months will probably be the deciding factor on the I. A. remaining within the A. F. of L. fold. The I. A. policy, at present, appears to restrict its expansion to hitherto unorganized employe classifications and, if adhered to, would

Guild Announcers Confer Upon Terms

The American Guild of Radio Announcers and Producers, a union of announcers and producers formed at the New York offices of the CBS recently, met with a committee representing the company yesterday to further discuss the Guild's demands. While no statements as to the result were issued either by CBS or the Guild, it is known that several of the Guild's points were conceded by the committee representing the network. A further discussion will take place

Coast Stations Calm Over C. I. O. Reports

Los Angeles, April 19.—Broadcasting studios in this area are little disturbed by the recurring reports of C.I.O. organization and by the confirmed report that the American and Radio Telegraphists' Ass'n and the United Radio and Electrical Workers have opened offices, with C. H. Jordan, in charge.

One of the major broadcasting executives says organization of radio crafts, for the present, at least, will be confined to marine communications systems.

TradeProgram Fight Pledged By Kuykendall

Also Scores Bank Night At MPTO Meeting

Memphis, April 19.—Ed Kuykendall, president of the M.P.T.O.A., pledged continuation of the fight for the 10-point trade practice program, attacked Bank Night and pleaded for cooperation with labor in an address before the M.P.T.O. of Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee here today.

The exhibitor organization chief promised that there would no be evasion in the M.P.T.O.A. campaign to bring about reforms in trade practices as embodied in the 10-point plan presented to distributing companies. He described Bank Night as "getting out of the show business and into rackets. I think we ought to make

Paris Film Strike Halted by Police

By PIERRE AUTRE

Paris, April 19.—A general strike of theatre employes here was short-lived this morning, as police forced workers to withdraw from all film houses and music halls. The strikers offered no resistance. Earlier the Government had refused to receive a delegation representing the workers.

A number of theatres were closed yesterday, including the 6,000-seat

New Dual Idea

Seattle, April 19.—An unusual twist in the double feature idea is being tried out here by Hamrick-Evergreen. It consists of changing the second feature of a dual program after one week's run, and continuing the top attraction.

The plan is designed to allow repeat patrons to see the principal picture a second time and also see a new second film. In addition, it permits the use of more "B" attractions during a season.

Para. to Take Dakota Law to Federal Court

Paramount attorneys will apply for an injunction to restrain the State of North Dakota from enforcing its recently enacted theatre divorce law, it was learned yesterday. The application may be filed at Bismarck within the next few weeks with a possibility of a hearing before summer.

Following this procedure, Paramount would obtain a test of the constitutionality of the Allied-sponsored theatre divorce bill months earlier than if it were to wait for the state to proceed against it when the law becomes effective one year from now. By the injunction procedure Paramount also would initiate its test of the law in a Federal, rather than a

It Appears Like Anybody's Race with Coronation Reel

As April draws toward the home stretch and the Coronation of King George VI on May 12 gets within hailing distance it appears that the story of how the several American newsreels will bring the pictorial record of that historic event to the waiting screens of this country will emerge as a far livelier yarn than that of the Coronation ceremony itself.

An aura of deep, almost impenetrable mystery surrounds the carefully arranged plans of the reels to hit the American theatre screens with the pictures in first place. It should be a stirring race, and, as plans now shape up, a good deal is going to depend on flying conditions next May 12 and 13. Head winds and storms may tell the story, and wreck a considerable number of highly expensive plans, at the same time making some excellent newspaper copy incidental to the main news event of many a year.

One thing appears certain now. The Hindenburg is out. The big airship's schedule of flights has been released, and there are no deviations intended, Coronation or no. The North German Lloyd line yesterday declared flatly that the Hindenburg will leave Frankfort-on-Main May 11, the day before the Coronation, will be hundreds of miles at sea when King George VI is crowned in Westminster Abbey, and definitely will carry neither films nor any other kind of

Federal Trust Probe Looms On the Coast

Justice Dep't. Inquiry Reaching Climax

By RED KANN

Los Angeles, April 19.—Complaints of anti-trust law violations reputedly filed with members of Congress as well as the Justice Dep't in the local area may be given to a Federal Grand Jury for sifting and possible criminal indictments, according to Joseph B. Keenan, assistant to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, who is here from Washington.

"The time is past when civil injunctive processes of the court can be invoked. If the anti-trust laws have been flagrantly violated, as we have been informed they have been, it is a matter for criminal prosecution," he stated today.

Since the evidence prepared for possible consideration by the Grand Jury naturally is secret, the specific charges and by whom they have been filed have been withheld. However, it has been common knowledge that the Justice Dep't has been interested in complaints registered locally and in Washington relative to the local situation.

Local Federal attorney Hall has been conferring with his Washington superiors and in the last few weeks Special Assistant Attorney General

"Earth" at $13,100 In 11th Astor Week

"The Good Earth" tallied $13,100 in the 11th week at the Astor. The picture will continue for about another month and will be replaced by "Captains Courageous," which today starts a third day in a test roadshow engagement at the Locust, Philadelphia.

Approximately $15,000 was taken in for the third week of "History Is Made at Night" at the Rivoli. "Elephant Boy," after garnering $12,000 the first week, ended the second and final stanza at the Rialto with $9,500.

"Earth" Shows Gain

"The Good Earth" roadshows are slowly creeping up on "Romeo and Juliet." The latter picture was shown two-a-day in 523 theatres. The present score for "The Good Earth" is 135.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 19.

GYPSY ROSE LEE has arrived to prepare for "You Can't Have Everything," a musical with a title which might be viewed as not completely complimentary in the light of her available exposures. In it will be Alice Faye, Don Ameche and Rubinoff. Not without significance is the fact that already the Twentieth Century-Fox publicity department lists Miss Lee in the featured cast. Ada Leonard, striptease compatriot, is part of the RKO family for a Helen Broderick-Victor Moore musical. Paramount is understood to be testing Alma Bray and to Metro is attributed considerable interest in June St. Clair, both members of the same illustrious school. In a word, the studios are playing "follow the leader" again and as of yore. . . .

Fan magazines, now on the newsstands, have gone to it on Miss Lee, using art which gives 20th-Fox a convenient and technical out in that the photographs are the enterprise of burlesque press agentry. "Feature Forum," a weekly department of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, two weeks ago asked "Is Sex Coming Back to Hollywood?", took a six-column head, most of its sectional front page and eight photographs featuring feminine abutments to discuss it. Several pictures were old and in the horizontal plane the Hays office ruled out several years ago, but could not rule out of newspaper morgues. . . .

In Chicago, by way of demonstrating that Hollywood has company this time, the Oriental, State-Lake and Stratford lead the pack with stage shows featuring exponents of the striptease. There was Ann Pennington, at one time prominent with Florenz Ziegfeld and George White, explaining her latest endeavor with: "Instead of taking most of my apparel off in the dressing room, I do it on the stage. This is not an uncommon thing in show business today and it pays better than the old style of dancing." Sally Rand, who made the bubble famous, has been doing all right in producer-owned or affiliated theatres throughout the Middle West for some time, which makes ripe for conjecture how far this sort of thing actually will go before something happens to jog the current indiscretions of short memories. . . .

It was Lyle Brooks in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat who was bylined on Hollywood and sex and Miss Lee, according to Brooks, who has started filmland's observers wondering. A slight inaccuracy there. He should have said the studio that hired her in the light of her own recent statement, made in Chicago, that she appreciated the fact she did not belong in pictures. He makes an obvious error, too, when he draws the conclusion that Darryl F. Zanuck will order Miss Lee undressed, but note the approach and remember this is newspaper copy reaching thousands of readers: "A stripper under wraps, as you might say, is the height of something or other. If dear Darryl and his competitors are simply looking for girls to read lines instead of showing them, why seek out maids who have matriculated in M. Minsky's college?" Zanuck can furnish his own reply, if he cares to. . . .

Brooks, himself and on second thought, expresses a doubt. He thinks the Hays office and the Legion of Decency will have something to say about all of this and, if it is not too impertinent, we ask at this juncture where the Hays office has been while the public prints first reported the negotiations with Miss Lee and finally the closing of the contract. It is completely obvious that behind the Lee arrangement is publicity ballyhoo, but the grave question is how far reputable elements in this industry ought to permit themselves to go even on that count. Sam Goldwyn and Sam Briskin were engaged in a competitive race for Miss Lee; Goldwyn and Zanuck had words over her. Briskin, for Radio, lost out and settled for Ada Leonard. Other studios, sensing a phantom competition, now follow up and the consequences bid fair to be a striptease on every major lot in Hollywood. . . .

It is a very hot potato the industry is playing with. King Vidor made the Los Angeles Times the other day with a rather extended beef about censorship restrictions. Supervisors, here and there, are yelling because the lines are drawing tighter. They may not be responsible, but certainly their principals are for drawing the noose closer. In a vague and general way, Hollywood wonders why it cannot do this or that. It rends the atmosphere with trivia and overlooks the overtones which, sooner or later and somewhere along the line, will sound off ominously on major errors such as the wholesale plunge into trouble, this time labeled striptease. . . .

Producers, by their own voluntary action and if they can recall, put teeth in the production code three years ago. Compelled to turn away from old fetishes, they conceived new ones which evidenced themselves in product on a plane never before attained. There is no actual violation, it is true, in employing striptease performers. As a matter of fact, probably they will be overdressed in a clumsy gesture to dodge criticism. Yet, those who know the background, at the same time, will know what to look for and imagine it if they cannot find it. The newspapers of the nation know the circumstances and may be expected to report them.

It will be a scurvy trick and a disappointment to the offending producers if anything else takes place, which will not. For all of this, the industry may even be lucky and get away with this latest folly, but its impending walkout on good taste self-imposed is something it cannot. . . .

Para. Purchase by Griffis Reported

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Acquisition in February of 208,000 six per cent sinking fund Paramount debentures through Hemphill, Noyes & Co., has been reported by Stanton Griffis, director of Paramount, it was disclosed tonight by the S. E. C. in its semi-monthly report of transactions of officers and directors in the stocks of their corporations.

Griffis also reported the acquisition, through Hemphill, Noyes, of 6,300 shares of Paramount common to protect a short position previously reported, and the disposition through exchange of 900 six per cent convertible first preferred stock.

A December report by Albert D. Farwell, Chicago, director, showed the sale of 500 shares of Consolidated Film Industries common, wiping out his holdings. Reports from R. W. Altschuler, New York, and J. P. Case, New York, new directors of the company, show that at the time of their assuming office they held no equity stocks.

A corrected December report from H. P. Farrington, New York, director, showed the disposition of 1,200 shares of Trans-Lux Daylight Picture Screen common, and holdings at the end of the month of 8,000 shares. A corrected January report from Morris Wolf, Philadelphia, director, showed the acquisition of 500 shares of Warner common, bringing his holdings to 750 shares.

Reports from Edward J. Peskay, New York, who became an officer in Grand National Films late last year showed ownership at the time of 300 shares of common, while Paul G. Brown, Philadelphia; J. Cheever Cowdin, New York; William Freiday, New York; Budd Rogers, New York, and Charles R. Rogers, Universal City, Cal. reported no holdings of Universal securities when they became directors last year.

Warner Roxy Bid Terms Disclosed

that company to improve its present offer.

The Warner bid was disclosed in correspondence between White & Case, attorneys for the Pounds bondholders' committee, and Alfred M. Wolf of Hirsch, Lilienthal & Co. It consisted of an offer of $900,000 in cash for the Tipton bondholders' committee, $350,000 of which was to be reserved for rehabilitation and working capital. An issue of $1,800,000 worth of 10-year five per cent first mortgage bonds was to be divided equally between Warners and the present Roxy bondholders. An additional $2,700,000 of 20-year four and one-half per cent bonds were to be issued for the remainder of the bondholders' equity. Gold noteholders were to receive stock and stockholders were to receive stock purchase warrants. Warners were to guarantee the rent, taxes, insurance and interest on the first mortgage if the gross totaled $32,000 weekly. Of any gross over that amount, 15 per cent was to go to the new company for amortization and interest on the four and one-half per cent bonds. A first run Warner- F. N. franchise was included in the offer. The correspondence indicated that the negotiations were still active on Dec. 23, 1936.

Reports that Warners and Paramount are again interested in bidding for the Roxy were current yesterday but could not be verified.

Saul E. Rogers, attorney, also made an offer for the Roxy last year on behalf of unidentified interests, it was disclosed, with a feature of the bid being an offer to purchase the present first mortgage bonds at the rate of $550 for each $1,000. Rogers was formerly attorney for the Fox Film corp.

Renowned Seeking Republic Studios

HOLLYWOOD, April 19.—Renowned Artists' Corp., recently organized as a United Artists producing company with Tay Garnett, John Ford and Ronald Colman as the principals, is negotiating for the Republic Studios.

The acquisition is believed contingent upon a decision in the action of the Guaranty Corp. against Republic charging fraud and coercion in the leasing contract signed when Nat Levine was president of Republic Prod. The suit is now scheduled for an early court hearing with Levine understood to be the principal defendant.

Herbert J. Yates arrived here today and is expected to confer with Guaranty officials on the leasing arrangement in addition to rearranging the Republic executive personnel.

Renowned to Release Three

HOLLYWOOD, April 19.—Releasing arrangements have been completed whereby Renowned Artists Corp. will release a minimum of three and a maximum of four pictures next season through U. A. John Ford will produce one, Ronald Colman will appear in one and Tay Garnett may make two.

"Trade Winds" has been set as the first Colman production under the new setup. No officers have been selected.

Fox Bankruptcy Case Is Postponed Again

ATLANTIC CITY, April 19.—Further testimony in the William Fox bankruptcy case scheduled to resume here tomorrow before Federal Referee Steedle has been postponed again with the tentative date in about two weeks.

Referee Steedle said: "We have no one to go on with. The contempt citation against Herbert Leitsteen, the family bookkeeper, has not been decided. Federal Judge John Boyd Avis has upheld the contempt citation against Mrs. Eva Fox, but it has not yet been announced whether she will submit to questioning or appeal. And the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals has not yet decided the appeal against the order to turn over the All-Continent Corp. books."

Loew Decision Pending

BOSTON, April 19.—Decision is pending in the U. S. District Court here in the action brought against E. M. Loew by the Copyright Protection Bureau, charging the bicycling of eight shorts.

The subjects are all of the Warner "Broadway Brevities" series. On the basis of $250 fine for each film, Loew faces a fine of $2,000 if he is convicted. It is charged that he contracted for the subjects for two days each at the Casco in Portland, Me., and then used the films also in the New Portland.

Two Players Sue Columbia

LOS ANGELES, April 19. — Harold Goodwin and Leon Beaumon have filed suits in Superior Court here for $125,000 and $305,000 damages, respectively, against Columbia, charging damage to their reputations. Goodwin alleges Columbia represented him as a member of the cast of a film in which he did not appear, and Beaumon claims Goodwin, instead of himself, received credit for the role. Roscoe Hess is attorney for both.

Joins Protest on Theatre

An action to prevent the construction of a film theatre at 1109 Lexington Ave. was revealed yesterday when the Lenox Hill Hospital and operators of the St. Ann's Academy, a Catholic institution, filed papers asking permission to intervene as plaintiffs with the Ardsley Garage Co., Inc., in opposing the proposed theatre. The hospital and academy assert the theatre would be within 600 feet of their properties and prove an annoyance to those whom they serve. Argument on the question is scheduled to be heard today.

Sues Randolph Scott

LOS ANGELES, April 19. — J. G. Bachman, Inc., has sued Randolph Scott for alleged default of the percentage of his weekly salary of $2,000 claimed to be due to the plaintiff.

Dismisses Erpi Action

Federal Judge Vincent L. Leibell signed an order yesterday dismissing the infringement suit brought by Thomas Bullitt Dixon against the A. T. & T., Western Electric and Erpi. The order follows an affirmance of the Circuit Court of Appeals of the dismissal of the suit after trial. The action was commenced in February, 1932, alleging infringement on a patent covering amplifying apparatus used in radio and television receiving and producing and sound recording and reproduction for films and television.

Postpone RKO Hearing

A scheduled hearing on the RKO reorganization plan before Federal Judge William Bondy was postponed yesterday pending the start of creditors' hearings on the plan Thursday before Special Master George W. Alger. The hearings will be held at the Bar Ass'n Bldg. and are expected to continue almost daily until all creditor groups have been heard on the plan.

Adjournment of the hearings before Judge Bondy was taken to May 24.

Reserve Griffith Decision

Federal Judge Vincent L. Leibell yesterday reserved decision on the bid made for D. W. Griffith, Inc., assets by Woodson R. Oglesey, attorney for D. W. Griffith. Oglesey offered $500 and $1,459 storage charges for 21 silent films owned by the corporation. A bid of $5,000 was made for realty at Mamaroneck which is subject to a tax lien of $120,000. No other bids were received.

Starts Morgan Action

New Shows on the Air

Bert Lahr

After several unsuccesful network assaults, Bert Lahr assayed the task again Sunday night as the comedy star of "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round," and this time the ace musical comedy comedian made the grade with a vengeance. The Sunday night network schedule is chock full of topflight comedians, but no one need feel any hesitancy in dialing in on Lahr. He'll not disappoint.

"Manhattan Merry-Go-Round" long has been one of radio's brighter musical features. With the addition of Lahr it retains its musical sparkle, and adds a much needed lighter touch. Rachel Carley, vocalist, and Don Donnie's band are holdovers.

The series is sponsored by Sterling Products for Dr. Lyons Tooth Powder, and is heard Sundays at 9 P. M., E.S.T. on the NBC-Red.

"Fun in Swingtime"

"Fun in Swingtime," featuring the comedy routines of Tim and Irene and the swing music of Bunny Berrigan's orchestra, promises to be one of the more diverting summer programs, judging by Sunday night's premiere effort.

However, a slight reservation for Tim and Irene must be entered here, before wholeheartedly bracketing the program in the click frame. This pair has been funnier in the past, and they'll have to measure up to previous standards, else they'll find themselves acting, figuratively, as spear carriers to Berrigan's swing troupe. The Berrigan swing music is better than good —it's sensational.

We've heard all the alleged kings of swing—Benny Goodman, Casa Loma, Bob Crosby, Jimmy Dorsey, Louis Armstrong—but for that zombie rhythm at its best, we'll take Berrigan. His musical numbers included "Am I Blue?," "He Ain't Got Rhythm," and a trumpet solo, swing style, of "Trees."

Sunday's guest of honor was Lennie Hayton, who solo'd "Sweet Sue" on the piano.

"Fun in Swingtime" is Mutual's newest coast-to-coast offering, sponsored by Admiracion Laboratories in behalf of that company's shampoo product. The sessions are heard Sundays from 6:30 to 7 P.M., E.S.T.

Bert Lebhar, WMCA director of sales, negotiated the deal.

Radio Artists Show Draws Talent Galaxy

LOS ANGELES, April 19.—Hollywood representation was abundant in the Second Annual Radio Artists' Show, held in the Shrine Auditorium. Ed Lowry of "Sungtime" renown emceed the afternoon show, and Don Wilson, mastered the evening show. At both Maureen O'Connor, 13-year-old artist, was presented as the Baby Star of Radio for 1937.

Chase and Sanborn has signed Nelson Eddy for the company's forthcoming new program which, on May 9, succeeds "Do You Want to Be an Actor?" heard Sundays from 8 to 9 P. M., E.S.T., on the NBC-Red. Eddy, however, will not join the cast until August 8.

Other performers already signed for this new series are Don Ameche, em cee, and the orchestra of Werner Janssen. With a cast such as is found above, and additions to come, Chase and Sanborn is living up to its promise to make the new program one of the most elaborate ever heard on the networks during the summer months.

Clements to Go on Split Net

Jack and Loretta Clements, currently broadcasting for Kirkman's Soap over WABC locally, Mondays through Fridays from 9 to 9:15 A. M., E.S.T., will be heard soon on a split CBS network, it was indicated yesterday by N. W. Ayer & Son.

Guild Announcers Confer Upon Terms

Wednesday, at which time settlement of the negotiations is expected.

Representing the Guild at yesterday's meeting were Roy S. Langham, production man who organized the Guild; Karl Schullinger, a production man, and Bill Perry, an announcer. The network was represented by M. R. Runyon and L. W. Lowman, vice-presidents, and Doug Coulter, assistant director of broadcasts.

The four basic demands of the Guild are: recognition of the organization, recognition of the Guild as the bargaining agents for the CBS announcers and production men, maximum hours of work and minimum salaries.

At the close of yesterday's conference a Guild committeeman informed MOTION PICTURE DAILY that the committee representing the network had definitely conceded several of the Guild's demands but because nothing has been set in writing as yet, he asked that these concessions not be made public for the time being.

It has been learned also that the CBS Guild members have been receiving queries from announcers and production men employed at NBC. Whether or not a similar union will be formed at NBC, however, is not known at the moment.

Guild committeeman Bill Perry, having been assigned to cover the total eclipse of sun from Peru, has resigned from the committee to prepare for that event. Kenneth Roberts, an announcer, replaces him.

WHN Will Feed New Program to Boston

A unique contract for a program to originate in the studios of WHN here, and to be heard only over WNAC, Boston, was signed yesterday for the Lipton Tea Co. by the Frank Presbrey agency.

The series starts today, and will be presented twice weekly, Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:45 to 7 P. M., E.S.T. Featured will be Don Albert's orchestra and vocalist John Griffin.

WNAC is a member of the Yankee network. The program will be piped to Boston over a direct line to the WNAC transmitter.

A spokesman at the Presbrey agency stated the unique setup did not portend a deal involving WHN and WNAC, such as was recently completed between WLW and WHN. He stated that the agency was merely leasing studio facilities for the program from WHN.

McMullen today signed the bill exempting from taxation for a period of 15 years the properties of any film producing company locating in Delaware on or after July 1. The bill is an inducement to film companies to locate in Delaware and was introduced by Representative W. R. Ringler of Millville.

It Appears Like Anybody's Race with Coronation Reel

pictures of the Coronation. It is due to tie up at Lakehurst on May 14.

In the newsreel offices in New York, information is conspicuous by its absence, but certain facts stand by themselves. Paramount is the only reel which is forthright about the situation. They claim they have no plans to fly the reels to New York, and are making no unusual preparations to get the pictures here. That's their story.

Charles E. Ford, Universal News editor, had a chuckle in his voice when he said, "We have nothing to say for publication."

Jack Connolly responded without a chuckle, "Pathe News will have the pictures in New York as soon as anybody else."

James Mollison, noted English flyer, was signed recently to fly the Coronation films to New York, starting early in the evening of May 12, contracting to make the trip in 30 hours, on the condition that head winds shall be less than 35 miles an hour.

The general understanding is that the Mollison contract is with Movietonews, and Truman Talley, its chief, is in Europe to handle details of the reel's coverage. Movietone has exclusive Technicolor rights.

The most interesting and most recent development is that Dick Merrill, Eastern Air Lines pilot, has been granted a leave of absence by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, general manager of the air line to occupy as much time as is necessary for Merrill to fly pictures of the Coronation from England to New York. Furthermore, Merrill has already lined up a speedy twin-engined Lockheed plane, and the line has assigned its senior co-pilot, Jack Lambie, to fly the job as Merrill's co-pilot, and Lambie is busily engaged studying ocean flight navigation with Commander Weems, described as a leading authority on that particular phase of over-water flying.

Again, there is nothing definite, but reports are more than warm that the Merrill flight will be for Hearst and the M-G-M reel, News of the Day. Mike Clofine, editor, is non-committal.

There is also talk, here and in London, of Dufaycolor planning to take all the color shots of the Coronation it can get, and arrangements are afoot to fly the film here, where, it is said, it will be developed at the Fox laboratory, and be shown on all the screens east of Chicago as soon as possible. Negotiations are supposed to be under way for a pilot.

It looks from this point like anybody's race, and if weather is favorable and the Gods of Chance are smiling, a couple of New York's neighboring landing fields should be scenes of wild excitement along about evening of May 13, which misses by one day being Friday the 13th.

Kuykendall Pledges Fight for Program

our living out of this business legitimately," he said.

"One major company refused a deal with the M.P.T.O.A. on any basis, putting itself into a position that it will regret," apparently having reference to the trade practice program.

Referring to labor, Kuykendall declared, "The future of the film business depends on the patronage of the laboring classes, and we should cooperate with labor and aid it in all reasonable demands. But some sense and reason must be exercised by labor. It must not go too far and demand too much," he continued. "It seems some labor leaders have gone wild and the movement as a whole will suffer unless labor takes stock and uses some discretion."

A plea for internal regulation of industry problems was seen in Kukendall's statement that, "We are determined to use every recourse to stay away from regulation and legislation, but if laws must be written in Washington, they should be written by responsible exhibitors and not chiselers."

He praised the moral tone of films and urged moderation in the use of film stars and scripts on the radio.

President R. X. Williams of Oxford, Miss., remarked at the close of the morning session, "We cannot sell some of the pictures made by some of the companies without Bank Night."

He named M. A. Lightman, Y. D Moore and W. D. Ruffin as a committee on Tennessee legislative matters.

The business session of the organization closed this afternoon and the annual party at the Chisca Hotel concluded the meeting tonight.

MPTOA Radio Talks Off at Least a Week

The first meeting of the M. P. T. O. A. radio committee for the purpose of studying the effects of Hollywood broadcasts on theatre business has been deferred for at least one week due to the absence from the city of Walter Vincent, chairman.

The meeting had been scheduled for today, but Vincent was called to Richmond on business over the week-end and is not expected back until tomorrow. He will leave for Allentown, Pa., on Thursday, hence indications are that a new date for the meeting will not be set until some time next week.

Other members of the committee are Lewen Pizor, Philadelphia; Arthur Lockwood, Middletown, Conn., and Samuel Pinanski, Boston.

Paris Film Strike Halted by Police

Gaumont Palace. The unions, operating under the General Confederation of Labor, refused to accept arbitration between the Employers' Federation and the Confederation on the application of the recently instituted 40-hour week and adjusted salary scales. The 40-hour week was causing considerable loss to workers, it was contended by the strikers.

All houses of the Pathe and Gaumont circuits were closed. It was estimated that more than 200 film, vaudeville and legitimate theatres were affected yesterday, as the strike call sent workers into the theatres for sit-in activity.

Federal Trust Probe Looms On the Coast

Law, resident here, likewise has been checking. The evidence has been gathered quietly from independent producers and exhibitors, and is reported being compared with evidence independently compiled by the investigating units of the Government. If the basis for a Federal suit is found, a Grand Jury will be impaneled and criminal indictments sought.

Those familiar with the traditional policy of the Justice Dep't of maintaining silence on impending actions today failed to understand why Keenan so readily granted newspaper interviews, and speculated accordingly.

Merle Oberon and Gary Cooper will be teamed in "Adventures of Marco Polo" and "Spring in My Heart." Miss Oberon also will appear in "Folly and Farewell."

"Woman Chooses Man," one of the current season's releases just completed, will open day and date at the Warners Hollywood and Downtown starting April 28.

Conn Planes to Coast

Maurice Conn, head of Ambassador and Melody Pictures, who has been in New York for the past two weeks on story buys for new season production, will return to Hollywood by plane tomorrow. He plans to return to New York in a few weeks to complete plans for a 1937-'38 schedule.

Says Bank Night Is In 5,700 Theatres

Bank Night is being shown in approximately 5,700 theatres throughout the country. Where some circuits have dropped the game new accounts have taken up the slack, Claude Ezell, general sales manager, stated yesterday before leaving for Philadelphia.

Ezell says the game is relieving tax difficulties in Arkansas and Texas.

Both states do not have a ticket tax, but instead exhibitors in Arkansas have agreed to give the state 15 per cent of the awards, when made, and Texas, 20 per cent.

Ezell spent about five days in Boston. After a short visit in Philadelphia, he will go to Washington and continue on to Galveston, where the Hoblitizelle circuit will hold a convention of its managers, April 25-28. His company in Dallas has secured the rights for AdCaster.

Warner Considering Premiums in Phila.

Philadelphia, April 19.—Stanley Warners is studying the premium situation in this territory, as part of the sharp competitive battle with independent theatres in the area which was launched last week with the planned installation of games in 10 houses, all in competition with independents employing giveaways.

It is reported unofficially that the circuit plans the use of games, premiums and similar methods in every location where independents use such devices.

Vancouver Bans Bingo

Vancouver, April 19.—There will be no more Bingo played in Vancouver, according to the city police, who have issued warnings that the game is outlawed as a "game of chance."

The edict does not effect theatres here, as managers have carefully steered away from Bingo. The game was played largely in bridge and dancing clubs, and if it had any effect on the industry at all, it was to keep potential patrons out of theatres. No Vancouver theatre uses giveaways of any type.

Boston Bureau Hits Game

Boston, April 19.—A drive against Bank Night has been started by the Boston Better Business Bureau, which recently attacked the game in a bulletin. It is understood that the bureau is considering attempting to spur the district attorney's office to inaugurate fresh prosecutions against theatres using Bank Night. A form letter has been sent to theatre owners and operators, to determine their attitude toward the giveaway.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"As Good as Married"

(Universal)

Hollywood, April 19.—The ingredients of Norman Krasna's stories—bright dialogue and good situations—are not missing here. The yarn is a comedy-romance told in farcical, unsophisticated style. It is the kind of show whose smartness may be unrecognized at first. It should provoke word-of-mouth advertising.

The story is a study in modern marriage. Income tax and woman trouble cause John Boles to decide to make a marriage of convenience. He selects Doris Nolan, his secretary. Boles, through many well developed comedy scenes, takes marriage as a business affair. But when he backslides with Tala Birell, Miss Nolan rises in womanly indignation. He is given liberal doses of his own philandering medicine and soon rushes headlong into a reconciliation trap Miss Nolan has set for him for the proper ending.

The performances of the leads are first rate and the gay theme of the story is pepped up by the work of Walter Pidgeon, Alan Mowbray, Miss Birell, Mary Phillips, Ernest Cossart and Dorothea Kent. Krasna's original was smartly adapted by F. Hugh Herbert and Lynn Starling. Eddie Buzzell's direction keeps things moving speedily.

probably result in avoiding jurisdictional disputes with other A. F. of L. unions already established within the industry. Indications are that such will be the case while George Browne, I. A. president, remains a vice-president of A. F. of L.

Complete jurisdiction in the theatre field was granted the I. A. two years ago by the A. F. of L. Whether this has been extended since to include unorganized fields in production, distribution and allied industries has not been disclosed yet. Recent excursions by C. I. O. organizers into the exchanges, laboratories and studios have spurred the I. A. to new defensive activities in all three fields. Industry officials regard the complete unionization of theatre and exchange forces, at least in the larger centers, as inevitable with only a few exceptions. At the studios, jurisdictional claims over newly organized employe groups have already arisen, with the I. A. laying claim.

Negotiating with Consolidated

It recently closed a new contract with DuArt Laboratories and is now negotiating one with Consolidated Film. Industries. Its organizing activities among exchange employes are being extended as rapidly as possible. Organizing of New York exchanges, undertaken a week ago, has been held back due to the illness of Joseph Basson, Local 306 president, but is scheduled to go ahead again within the next few days. Preparations for organizing Chicago exchanges are being made and locals are fairly well. established in such representative exchange centers as Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, New Haven, Detroit, Denver and Los Angeles.

That the move will be extended to theatre employes, in addition to projectionists, is regarded as inevitable. I. A. campaigns already are under way in the south, particularly in the New Orleans territory, where unionizing has made but little progress in the past. At the outset, it is expected that organizing there will be confined to non-union projection booths.

"Courageous" Gets Philadelphia Start

Philadelphia, April 19.—"Captains Courageous" got off to an auspicious opening at the Locust St., where "The Good Earth" has just completed an eight-week, two-a-day run. Ted Lewis, headline stage attraction at Loew's State, will handle the drawing. Later there will be Keeno, dancing and entertainment.

M. B. Horwitz, president of the local club, leaves immediately after the drawing for Florida to join his wife and son.

20th-Fox Net For Quarter $2,067,598

Compares to $1,239,760 In 1936 Period

Consolidated net operating profit of $2,067,598.75, after normal Federal income tax, for the 13 weeks ended March, 1937, was reported at the annual stockholders' meeting of 20th Century-Fox Film Corp. yesterday.

The profit compares with a profit of $1,239,760 for the first quarter of 1936 and a profit of $2,338,275 (exclusive of National Theatres Corp. dividends of $1,134,000) in the fourth quarter of 1936. No dividends were received from National Theatres during the first quarter of either year, it was explained. The profit figures do not include provision for surtax on undistributed profits.

The net for the 1937 quarter is equal to $1 per share on the 1,684,075 common shares outstanding, after allowing for the first quarter preferred dividend.

During the 13 weeks, gross income from sales and rentals amounted to

Jersey Allied Leader Denies Backing Bill

Allied of New Jersey is in no way identified with the theatre divorcement bill introduced in the New Jersey legislature last week, Sidney E. Samuelson, a member of the national organization's special defense committee, stated yesterday.

"In order that there may be no misunderstanding, we deem it fair to state that Assembly Bill 507, introduced April 12, is not the divorcement bill drafted by Allied experts," he said.

Samuelson also adds that the bill was not submitted to or approved by Allied's special defense committee, of which W. A. Steffes of Minneapolis is chairman, and was not introduced at the request of anyone acting for the New Jersey exhibitor unit.

"While the committee appreciates the sympathetic interest which many exhibitors and others have taken in the movement to divorce production and distribution from exhibition, it cannot accept the responsibility for

Scale Boosts In 125 Coast Spots Decided

Scheduled Tomorrow in Northern California

Starting tomorrow, 125 major and independent theatres in northern California, particularly San Francisco and Oakland, will increase admission prices from five to 15 cents, an executive of Fox West Coast told MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday. The plan is similar to that adopted in southern California some time ago, he said.

Business is better, pictures are improved and there are no strikes in California, the F.W.C. executive said in explaining the reason for the move, decided upon last week.

Included in the 125 houses are 24 F.W.C. units, it was stated. Theatres now charging 40 cents will boost to 55 cents and the smaller houses charging 25 cents will add five cents. Admissions now scaled at 30 cents will be hiked to 40 cents.

Majors Assure Missourians Sex Film Fears Groundless

ST. LOUIS, April 20.—Sex in pictures need not worry members of the M.P.T.O. unit in this territory, according to Fred Wehrenberg, president. He has the word of Will H. Hays and executives of most of the major companies to this effect.

In fact, the correspondence on the subject, in addition to Hays, is from the following: Al Lichtman, Ned E. Depinet, S. R. Kent, George J. Schaefer, R. H. Cochrane, Neil F. Agnew and W. Ray Johnston.

The excitement dates back to an article titled "Is Sex Coming Back to Hollywood?" in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat March 28. It happened that the M.P.T.O. unit met shortly afterwards. One of the members indicated his belief that if sex had left Hollywood it shouldn't be allowed to return and that by all means it should be kept from Missouri and southern Illinois.

There were several speeches on the topic and President Wehrenberg was instructed to write all the major companies. He did.

Hays wrote: "You may be very sure, of course, that no producer will lessen the great care and efforts always for the finer pictures and the best in advertising."

All the others promised high class, clean, wholesome pictures.

Immediate Tax Study Sought By President

Ends Hope of Changes in Ticket Levy Rates

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, April 20.—An immediate exhaustive study of the existing tax structure, with a view to developing new and additional taxes to be enacted early next year, has been asked of the Treasury Dep't, President Roosevelt revealed today in a message to Congress asking an appropriation of $1,500,000,000 for relief.

The message was seen here as dissipating for several years to come any chance of an increase in the present 40-cent admission tax exemption.

Tax revenues for the current fiscal year, ending June 30, next, will be some $604,000,000 under the estimates made last January, the President disclosed. Of this, $267,200,000 will represent the amount by which the new tax on undistributed corporation income failed to come up to anticipations and $337,000,000 will be the deficiency in other revenues.

This situation will carry over into the coming fiscal year, when income tax collections are expected to be some $410,000,000 short of original estimates, although an anticipated increase in other receipts will reduce the net loss to $387,600,000.

The lowest deficit which now can be

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 20.

SOUND and fury along the boulevards:

Walter Winchell, synonymous with Broadway, likes the life as Hollywood lives it. Due here in June for his annual two-month holiday, he already is back to report blessed events and addenda, world-shaking in their import, from a point as distantly removed from Times Square as this. With "Wake Up and Live" behind him and $75,000 in the bank for six weeks' diligence, of which four and one-half were utilized, Winchell is under option to Darryl F. Zanuck for another picture, probably to be made in 1938. Once a hoofer, the columnist is as nervous as your ordinary Hollywood performer over the public's reception to the film in which he appears with a surprisingly engaging Jack Haley, a pleasant and competent Alice Faye and an ingratiating Ben Bernie. . . .

Winchell plays himself which, no doubt, means audiences all over the country familiar with his syndicated column and his Jergen's aircasts will be curious enough to take a peek. The Bernie feud plays a part in the telling, but, aside from the obvious commercial value in that, "Wake Up and Live" is an enormously entertaining piece of entertainment. Ranking up well with the best of the Zanuck musical cycle encompassing "Sing, Baby, Sing," "Pigskin Parade," "One in a Million" and "On the Avenue." We are content to rest the issue on MOTION PICTURE DAILY's review of the other day that "this is rousing, fast-stepping entertainment which should have a wide appeal from Broadway to Pumpkins Corners." It will, definitely, as it also will make a star of Haley, his voice and his Chaplinesque appeal. . . .

Tall and angular, Dudley Murphy is a familiar decorative adjunct to the Hollywood scene at the minute. He is working on plans for Associated Artists, the company he formed some months ago in England with Leslie Howard. Three A's are planned the first year, or one from each of three units, and several B's. Murphy informs that, after protracted negotiation, Howard's remaining six pictures for Warners have been split up on a basis which will permit him to make two for that studio, then two for Associated on an alternating basis. . . .

Sections of the British press, influential enough in the aggregate, at least, to capture attention at Twentieth Century-Fox, have that studio deliberating on a change in plans for Gracie Fields' first picture. Planned here with a July starting date, printed protest from London, charging Hollywood with further penetration of the British industry through the acquisition of its Number One star, may return the film to London. No major company today can wilfully slight its English market. . . .

One of Hollywood's favorite whispers, as quiet as a roar, insists Walter Wanger had $180,000 invested in "The River Is Blue" by the time Left Wing propensities in the Clifford Odets' story turned the Hays office into frowns and the reputed investment into a complete loss. Wanger insists (1) the figure is not correct and (2) if it were, it makes no difference since he plans to produce it now that the script has been tagged with official approval. . . .

Inside reason, or one of them, for Ralph Poucher's recent trip here was to interest Eddie Alperson in acquiring Grand National's printing for Consolidated. G. N.'s contract with Pathe runs out in a couple of weeks. Financing may or may not be part of any deal, the outcome of which is not determined. Alperson maintains it is not. . . .

Sidney Skolsky, hiding behind dark glasses, to Winchell:

"You want a news item? There goes —— walking under his own power."

—— is a well known figure here, on most familiar terms with Messrs. Ballantine, Walker, Dewar, Haig, et al. . . .

Issue Book on "Prince"

Warners has prepared an elaborate press book on "The Prince and the Pauper," with an assortment of selling angles for the exhibitor. The book contains 36 pages in addition to a six-page advertising section. Various exploitation tieups with stores on the film and the Mark Twain book from which it was adapted are included in the press book.

BEATRICE, Neb., April 20.—The American Legion here has obtained sufficient names on the petitions it has been circulating to require city officials to call a special election on Sunday films. Fox Brooklyn Plan Approval Now Sure

The reorganization plan for the Fox Brooklyn proposed by the bondholders' committee will be approved "forthwith" by the court as a result of the withdrawal yesterday of a better bid which had been entered secretly the day before, Federal Judge William Bondy advised creditors of the theatre and office building yesterday.

The bondholders' plan which will be approved provides for a 20-year lease on the theatre to Fabian Brooklyn Theatres, Inc., at a minimum rental of $150,000 annually, plus a graduated percentage of the grosses up to and above $1,500,000.

The competitive bid, which was described by Judge Bondy as "a better offer than the one before the court," was presented in chambers on Monday by Joseph Nemerov, attorney, who said he represented "one of the biggest men in the film industry," but declined to identify him. Nemerov yesterday also refused any information concerning the bid or the reasons for its withdrawal.

Artcinema Company Started by Jensen

Emil C. Jensen has formed a new company known as the Artcinema Associates, Inc., with Jensen as president. The company has purchased the assets of the Art Cinema Corp., including about 30 pictures previously released through United Artists, a number of unproduced book rights, original stories and stage plays.

Plans are under way for reissues of some of the pictures, including "Abraham Lincoln," and for the sale to other producers of certain of the properties which will not be used for production by the Jensen company. Jensen will continue to represent the Pickford Corp.

Operating from his offices will be the American branch of Capitol Film Corp., Ltd., and Trafalger Prod., Ltd., London, under the supervision of Al Aronson. The new company's publicity and service departments will be headed by Charles E. Moyer, former advertising and publicity director of U. A.

Shumaker Is Head Of Erpi Consultants

E. E. Shumaker has been reelected president of Erpi Pictures Consultants, the educational film producing subsidiary of Erpi, the latter company stated yesterday. New officers include Charles Olajos, assistant treasurer, and John McGilvray, assistant secretary. Dr. V. C. Arnspiger continues in charge of production and H. C. Grubbs in charge of distribution.

The operations of Erpi Picture Consultants are separate from those of Erpi's commercial non-theatrical activities. The latter are under the direction of Daniel C. Collins, newly elected vice-president of the parent company.

Technicolor Profit Up

HOLLYWOOD, April 20.—Earnings of Technicolor, Inc., for the first two months of 1937 were about $120,000 before taxes, or approximately double the same period last year, according to Dr. Herbert T. A nostalgic tribute to the memory of Will Rogers was seen this afternoon at M-G-M, the studio which undertook the job of producing "Lest We Forget" on behalf of the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital at the request of Major Leslie E. Thompson and Will Hays. In eight minutes of film and two of music it includes Gary Cooper, Harry Carey and Allan Jones in acting and singing performances and Robert Taylor, who makes direct plea for contributions.

Embraced also are actual dialogue clips from Rogers comedies including "David Harum," "State Fair," "The County Chairman," "Life Begins at 40" and "In Old Kentucky," all held together with an effective musical score under direction of Dave Snell. Frank Whitbeck not only wrote the little story but produced as well under Metro auspices but on behalf of the entire producing industry.

This is a cooperative effort to aid the hospital drive for funds. Goldwyn loaned Cooper, Radio loaned Carey and Paramount Henry Hathaway to direct them. Metro met production costs and loaned its personnel. Jules E. Brulatour furnished gratis the film stock for 5,000 prints which National Screen Service and all national distributors will handle without charge for free showings during the week of April 20.

The wholehearted effort would make it reasonable to expect that exhibitors will join in this industry-wide charity move and, by playing "Lest We Forget" at every show, give the public the opportunity to evidence its cash support.

RKO Brief Filed on Ohio Playdates Law

CINCINNATI, April 20.—Lester A. Jaffe of Paxton and Seasongood, attorneys for RKO Distributing Corp., has filed briefs in the suit against the State of Ohio to test the validity of the preferred playdate law.

Constitutionality of the law is challenged on the ground that it is discriminatory.

"It attempts to determine how a copyright shall be exercised and constitutes limitations on the copyright grant which is beyond the scope of state legislation. It places unreasonable burdens and restrictions on complainant's business in interstate commerce, attempts to regulate a business not 'affected with a public interest,' and is not a valid exercise of the police power of the state because it bears no real or substantial relation to the public health, safety, morals or general welfare," the brief states.

Defendants have 30 days in which to file additional briefs.

Attorney General John W. Bricker declared the act unconstitutional after it had been passed by the Legislature. Governor Davey refused to sign the bill. It automatically became a law without his signature 90 days from that time.

Seek to Examine Lowe

Jenny Robertson and Hattie Blumenson, sisters of the late Lilyan Tashman, wife of Edmund Lowe, will ask Justice Miller in N. Y. Supreme Court today for permission to examine Lowe before trial in a suit for $121,750 which they have brought against him. They claim that Lowe failed to turn over jewels and furs belonging to Miss Tashman following her death on March 21, 1934, pursuant to an agreement they made with him in connection with the settlement of his wife's estate.

Fox Is Granted An Appeal

ALBANY, April 20.—Fox Film Corp. was granted a new trial today by the Court of Appeals in its action against Springer & Cocalis, Springer, Cocalis Circuit, Inc., and Trio-Consolidated Corp. The lower courts had dismissed the complaint on the ground that the contract required an accounting upon six pictures as one group and that consequently no recovery could be had on action based upon failure to pay on separate pictures.

Postpone Theatre Case

Argument on the action brought by the Lenox Hill Hospital and others to prevent the construction of a film theatre at 1109 Lexington Ave. was adjourned yesterday in N. Y. Supreme Court until tomorrow.

M-G-M Wins Australian Appeal

SYDNEY, March 25 (By Air Mail Via London).—The High Court of Australia, by a vote of three judges to one, has dismissed an appeal by J. C. Williamson, Ltd., from a decision of a Victoria court that the exclusion of film rights from the company's rights to perform the musical play, "Rose Marie," included the talking film rights.

In effect, the decision gives M-G-M the right to distribute in Australia the film "Rose Marie" without infringing the rights of the Williamson company. The original contract that the Williamson company signed for the play in 1924 excluded "moving picture film rights," and the company contended that referred to films as known in 1924 and not talking pictures.

features in about 10 F.W.C. houses, it was decided to return to twin bills, it was stated. The test showed, according to the F.W.C. executive, that "it is quality and quantity the public wants." Bank Night and giveaways have been discarded and will not be reinstated, it was said.

Charles Skouras, operating head of F.W.C., arrived from the coast yesterday with Mike Rosenberg, a partner in a number of houses. They will remain here about three weeks conferring with Spyros Skouras, William T. Powers, Ed Zabel, and other National Theatres executives on film buys and operations.

Negotiations with Warners on a product deal for next season continue. The circuit is anxious to enter into long term deals instead of one-year pacts. Hence, it is possible the Warner deal may be made for two years. No talks have been held with RKO executives.

Charles Skouras will leave next week for Baltimore for a tonsil operation at Johns Hopkins. Spyros Skouras is planning to take a vacation in Greece, leaving here some time in May.

Theatre acquisition is at a standstill as far as F.W.C. is concerned, it was stated.

Ask Rogers Memorial

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Senators Thomas and Lee of Oklahoma have asked Congress for a $500,000 appropriation for construction of a memorial to Will Rogers. Their bill provides for a Will Rogers Commission to be appointed by the President to cooperate with the Oklahoma unit in building a memorial on a site to be donated by Mrs. Rogers.

M. This is the same period Miss Smith now occupies on CBS for the A. & P. Tea Co.

The starting date, however, remains indefinite. Miss Smith ends her present series for A. & P. early in July.

New Shows on the Air

"The Flying Dutchman"

Dedicating the affiliation of the new WLW line, the Crosley station Monday evening presented one of its ace program attractions, "The Flying Dutchman," to WHN and the other stations in on the line. This new regional web consists of stations WLW, WHN, KQV, Pittsburgh; WFIL, Philadelphia, and WAAI, sister station to WLW and located also in Cincinnati.

"The Flying Dutchman" much to our surprise, proved to be a straight musical program and not a serial script, as one might believe on first hearing the title. The title applies to William Stace's orchestra. Heard with the band were the De Vore Sisters, a trio of vocalists; and "The Three Spades," colored scat singers.

The best we can say about the band is that its arrangements were highly unusual. On second thought, we'll say that some of the numbers sounded positively wierd. Perhaps the band derives its unusual name from the quality of its music. However that may be, one may be certain that once heard, "The Flying Dutchman" will not be confused with any other band heard hereabouts.

The DeVore Sisters, who have been heard on the major chains, offer close harmonies in pleasing fashion. The "Spades" provide scat vocals in a manner typical of their race.

William Hedges, Crosley executive, spoke briefly, stating that all programs, particularly radio, is based on experimentation, and enumerated the benefits of this specific experiment to sponsors, listeners and the stations involved.

There can be no questioning Hedge's words. The WLW line will provide a healthy exchange of programs and some day this new hookup may grow to be quite a healthy regional web, affording mutual benefits to the stations, sponsors, and to the listeners.

"Free For All"

Emulating the recent examples set by the publishers of Esquire, Coronet and Liberty magazines, Charles S. Payson brought his publication Commentator to the air Monday evening. It's called "Free For All" and is heard Mondays from 11:05 to 11:15 P. M., E.S.T. on WEAF only.

Heard on the initial show were Payson, Lowell Thomas and John B. Kennedy, and a reader of the pocket size magazine.

"Free For All" managed to become quite involved in the short time aloted to it on the air. All concerned fired comments at each other based on articles appearing in the current issue of the magazine, and in the rapid cross-fire of questions and answers, one lost track of practically everything that was said on the program. Ten minutes, we know, is a short period, and we can understand the sponsor's desire to cram as many subjects as he can into that span, but we advise a more leisurely approach in future broadcasts. As it now stands "Free For All" is exactly what its title states—a scramble. BANNER

Fibber McGee Signed For Paramount Film

Fibber McGee and Molly, network comedians sponsored by the Johnson Floor Wax Co., have been signed by Paramount for a featured role in a forthcoming picture, "This Way Please." NBC Artists' Service and John Jay Louis of Needham, Louis and Brorby, agency handling the comedians' program, negotiated the contract.

The comedians leave for Hollywood shortly, and beginning May 3 their program will originate there for approximately six weeks. Due to previous commitments, Ted Weems' orchestra will be unable to travel to the coast, and will be replaced by Jimmy Grier's orchestra.

Brown to Air Games

CHICAGO, April 20.—Joe E. Brown will arrive here Tuesday by plane for an appearance over WJJD as play-by-play announcer of the baseball broadcasts from that station for one week.

The Kellogg Co. of Battle Creek, Mich., is spending $130,000 this season for baseball broadcasts over WJJD. The Joe E. Brown engagement is the first of a series which will have celebrities in the announcer roles. Both Cubs and White Sox games will be broadcast this summer.

Dorothy Haas to F. & M.

Dorothy Haas of Mutual's publicity division has resigned to assume charge of publicity and promotion in the New York office of Fanchon and Marco.

Photoplay Award to Be Aired by Mutual

Photoplay's annual award of a medal of honor for the best film of the year will be presented on Mutual, April 25, from 11:30 P. M. to 12 midnight, E.D.S.T., from Los Angeles. The award picture is "San Francisco."

Bernarr MacFadden, publisher of the magazine, will fly to the coast this week to present the medal to Jeanette MacDonald who will accept in behalf of her fellow players.

Jessica Dragonette May Go West

While confirmation is lacking from the agency, it is believed that the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet program starring Jessica Dragonette will shift to Hollywood before the summer sets in. Benton and Bowles is the agency. Maxwell House "Showboat," another program handled by this agency, hies coastward in July, and the Dragonette series will follow shortly thereafter, according to report.

Josephine Currier Leaves KYW

PHILADELPHIA, April 20.—Josephine Currier, secretary to E. H. Gager, plant manager at KYW, left today to prepare for her marriage May 6 to Russel Walker, sports writer for the New York World-Telegram.

Shift "High School Reporter"

WMCA's "High School Reporter" will be heard at a new hour, effective today. The new time is 5:30 P. M., Mondays through Saturday. Hal Janis, assistant director of special events for Inter-City, produces the program.

World-Telegram and Station WHN to Part

The year-old affiliation between the New York World-Telegram and WHN is expected to come to an end this week, due to WHN's inability to furnish satisfactory time for the newspaper's news and stock market broadcasts. The World-Telegram's board of directors at a meeting tomorrow is expected to decide in favor of the termination of relations between the station and the newspaper.

WHN has been the "voice" of the World-Telegram for the past year. The newspaper is on the air twice daily, from 12:45 to 1:15 P. M., with a straight news broadcast, and stock market reports from 3:30 to 4 P. M. Recently WHN sold its daily 2:30 to 5:30 P. M. time to General Mills Corp. and Mobile Gas, joint sponsors of the baseball games involving the Jersey City Giants, thus cancelling out the World-Telegram's daily stock market reports.

WHN has offered a new time to the newspaper for these reports, but it is understood the paper will refuse the offer.

Clemens Pair Gets CBS Split Network

Jack and Loretta Clemens, heard locally over WABC for Kirkman's Soap Co., have been granted the CBS split network, as indicated in MOTION PICTURE DAILY several days ago. Their new time period will be Monday through Friday from 2:15 to 2:30 P. M., E.S.T.

Century Action Dismissed

The $22,250 suit brought by the Century Indemnity Co. against the Standard Cahill Co. was dismissed yesterday by Federal Judge John W. Clancy. Federal Broadcasting Co., Metropolitan Broadcasting Co., George A. Coats and Paul M. Kuder, also named as defendants, failed to answer the complaint.

The suit arose out of a contract made in September, 1931, between the Federal Broadcasting Co. and the Waltham Watch Co. in which Federal was to consolidate Stations WBNX, WMSG and WCDA and broadcast half-hour time signals over the consolidated stations. When Federal failed to fulfill its contract, Century Indemnity was compelled to pay Waltham $18,750 plus $3,500 for attorney fees. Century contended that Standard Cahill became liable for the debt since Standard obtained permission from the F.C.C. to consolidate the stations in August, 1933.

No Secret

It's no longer a secret. It was officially confirmed yesterday that Jerry Cooper has been signed to succeed Fred MacMurray on the "Hollywood Hotel" program. Cooper will take his place as em cee on the series starting May 7.

The CBS artists' bureau negotiated the deal.

Two Block Giveaway Elimination in K. C.

Kansas City, April 20.—Although the majority of independent exhibitors here want to eliminate money and merchandise giveaways, refusal by two theatre operators to go along with the others has blocked the movement.

Two committees, composed of E. E. Webber, C. H. Potter, Robert Rhoades and E. S. Young, named by the I.T.O. to determine the sentiment of independents toward elimination have reported that with the exception of Rube Finkelstein of the Belmont and Jay Means of the Oak Park and Bagdad all exhibitors want giveaways eliminated. Reed Porter of the St. John has been ill and was not contacted.

Exhibitors favoring the move even went so far as to agree to give Finkelstein the 20 weeks he said he wanted for running off his existing contracts, but the Belmont operator refused flatly.

I.T.O. members had hoped to make giveaway elimination the first step in a cleanup of a bad local situation. The I.T.O. had planned to go ahead, after doing away with premiums, and work toward elimination of double features, at least to some extent, and then to try a general increase in admission prices.

These films will be reviewed in full in a coming issue of Motion Picture Daily.

Casey Negotiating New Producer Pact

Hollywood, April 20.—Negotiations for a separate agreement with producers were opened here today following receipt by Pat Casey of a petition from the Actors' Guild. The producers' decision to confer came as a result of lengthy meetings attended by Edward J. Mannix, Darryl F. Zanuck, William Goetz, Charles R. Rogers, James Normanly, Harry Cohn, Henry Herzbrun, Ben Kahane, Hal Roach and Samuel Briskin. Louis B. Mayer presided. Casey will handle the negotiations on behalf of the producers.

CIO and I.A. Begin Rival Drive in K. C.

Kansas City, April 20.—Unionization of film exchange workers is proceeding on two fronts. Organizers for the C. I. O. met with exchange employes Sunday in a preliminary meeting to be followed by another April 24.

Following an executive board meeting of the I. A. T. S. E. in Chicago Saturday, Harland Holmden, vice-president, authorized Felix Snow, representative for this district, to proceed immediately with unionization of Kansas City exchange workers and "front-of-the-theatre" employes in the theatres.

Denver Union Files Demands

Denver, April 19.—The local Film Exchange union is asking for a new scale of wages. Included is a demand for $35 for shippers and heads of ad sales, with $25 for assistants; $22 for head inspectors and $20 for other inspectors. No change is asked in hours and other conditions.

The union has elected Bud Austin, Warners, president; Lee Cronk, Paramount, vice-president; Sue Rhodes, Paramount, recording secretary, and Max Gilbert, secretary-treasurer.

The union has filed notice of its demands with the State Industrial Commission, a move necessary if they wish to strike. A 30-day period must elapse between notice and a strike, according to law. The commission can hold hearings and attempt to settle, but has no power to enforce any findings.

According to organizers, all but one man in nine exchanges has joined the union, with 20th Century-Fox and M-G-M employes remaining out.

hoped for the current year will be $2,557,000,000, or $309,000,000 over the January estimate, while for the fiscal year 1938 a net deficit of $418,000,000 is now figured.

"I propose to use every means at my command to eliminate this deficit during the coming fiscal year," Roosevelt told Congress.

Seek Mass. Tax Delay

Boston, April 20.—The special commission appointed to examine Massachusetts taxation has asked the Legislature to defer action for another year on the proposal to limit real estate taxes to $25 per $1,000 of valuation. The proposal for a change in the state constitution was given sufficient support when circulated as a petition. It is now mandatory for the House and Senate to meet in joint session and vote on the proposal. The Legislature can, however, vote to postpone the action until the next session for further study of the matter. Adoption would mean marked decreases in theatre real estate taxes.

Kill Ohio Footage Tax

Columbus, April 20.—A bill calling for the imposition of a footage tax on film distributed in Ohio has been killed in committee, it was learned here today.

to the entire sales force which will attend the meeting. Final plans for the 1937-'38 schedule are now being made at the studio with J. Cheever Cowdin, chairman; James R. Grainger, general sales manager, and Charles R. Rogers, production head, participating. Grainger yesterday sent wires to district managers, exchange managers and the company's entire sales force, inviting them to attend the sessions. Home office executives will also attend.

Scheduling of the meeting for Los Angeles will give the Universal sales force its first opportunity of visiting the studio since the reorganization of a year ago. In the interim, studio personnel has been revamped under Rogers' direction and Universal City has undergone virtual reconstruction.

Columbia Convention Details Ready Soon

Details in connection with Columbia's annual sales convention will be set in two weeks, Abe Montague, general sales manager, stated yesterday. Home office sales executives have completed a series of regional meetings on the current season's product.

Singles Go Back in Westchester Houses requested Skouras to return to one feature programs and have refused to lend their support unless the policy is reinstated.

When Skouras took the houses from Jack Rosenthal and Nick Paley several months ago, single features, which had been the policy for years, were dropped in favor of duals. However, the Women's clubs complained they did not want to sit through two "B" films, but wanted only one picture and a good one.

Skouras has been experimenting with singles at the Manhasset, Manhasset, L. I., a new theatre, and it has been decided to continue the plan indefinitely.

To Try Single Bills

Kansas City, April 20.—The first effort by a suburban theatre to bring back single bills as regular exhibition policy is being made by the Brookside, new southside unit of W. D. Fulton's Mutual Theatres. The house has instituted a policy of single bills every other change. Patrons frequently have protested doubles to the management of the theatre, said Joe Green, general manager of Mutual Theatres.

measures instigated by others without knowledge or authority; which deviate in language so as to raise new legal questions which the general counsel and the committee's legal experts have not had full opportunity to study.

"Moreover," Samuelson said, "the decision to initiate the bill in a particular territory involves consideration of many factors including timeliness."

Assemblyman Edison Hedges of Atlantic County told Motion Picture Daily last week that he proposed the bill after a number of exhibitors whom he would not identify complained to him about Warners' activities. He said he was not familiar with the bill and believed it was patterned after the one introduced and passed in North Dakota.

Allied of New Jersey and Warners have been working together harmoniously for some time and from authoritative sources it was learned that there is no intention on part of the exhibitor unit to introduce a theatre divorcement bill at this time.

Introduction of the Hedges bill came as a surprise to both Allied leaders and Warner theatre executives. Samuelson's statement is understood to make it clear that Allied of New Jersey is not seeking to disrupt its relationship with Warners.

Won't Consider Divorce Bill

St. Paul, April 20.—With the legislature scheduled to adjourn tomorrow it is considered extremely unlikely that the theatre divorcement bill will be considered.

Landon Hits Action Of Censor in Kansas

Topeka, Kan., April 20.—Alfred M. Landon today called upon Gov. Walter Huxman of Kansas, his successor, to "correct the foolish act of the Kansas censor board," and restore the speech of Senator Burton K. Wheeler to the current issue of "March of Time," in which Wheeler voices opposition to the President's Supreme Court revision plan.

Emerging from political retirement to denounce the action of the board, headed by Mae Clausen, Landon declared, "We must not sleep while a Government board takes away the very foundations of our freedom." The action of the board has caused a political furor in Kansas. The former governor expressed himself as shocked by "the reactionary position of this board, two of whose members I appointed."

The censor board will hold a hearing on Friday to consider protests against its action. The hearing was arranged by Rev. L. M. Birkhead, chairman of the Kansas City branch, American Civil Liberties Union.

U.A. Decides Not to Appeal On Sales Tax

City Auditing Books to Decide Amount Due

A definite decision not to appeal from the Court of Appeals ruling that film rentals within the city are subject to the two per cent municipal sales tax has been reached by United Artists, it has been learned.

The local United Artists exchange was the defendant in the test case recently decided by the state's highest court with a unanimous decision in the city's favor. Whether or not a rehearing would be sought or efforts made to have the case reviewed by the Supreme Court has been the subject of considerable discussion during the past several weeks by attorneys for the distribution companies.

Auditors for the city comptroller's office have been examining the books of the local exchanges in order to fix assessments for the more than two years during which the sales tax has been in effect. The work is expected to be completed in about 10 days and is expected to show that about $1,350,000 is owed the city. More than half of this has been collected during the past year from theatres by distributors and held in escrow.

With the tax being passed on to theatres, companies with theatre affiliates in the city have been reluctant to abandon the legal contest without further appeal.

ITOA Picks Brandt For the Fifth Time

Harry Brandt, head of the Brandt circuit, yesterday was nominated as president of the I.T.O.A. for the fifth consecutive term at a meeting at the Astor. Bernard Barr, first vice-president; George Rudnick, second vice-president; Leon Rosenblatt, treasurer, and Maurice Brown, secretary, were also renominated.

Four changes in the board of directors were recommended. John Manheimer last night sent a letter to Governor Lehman on behalf of the "Horizon" Will Get 4 More Weeks Here

"Lost Horizon" garnered $12,000 in its seventh week at two-a-day at the Globe. The picture will be held for an additional four weeks, an extension of the lease having been taken by Columbia for the extra time.

German Deals Are Menace to U.S. Product

Called Means to Recoup Weak Export Trade

The series of reciprocal agreements on film trade recently negotiated and planned by the Nazi Government in Germany are seen in major distribution circles here as designed specifically to undermine the dominant position enjoyed by American product abroad and to recoup the serious losses incurred by Germany's film exports within the last two years.

The latest of the arrangements, that for cooperative film activity between Germany and Italy, although declared in Rome not to be aimed at American pictures has a coincidental element in the increase of the dubbing tax on imported product.

The increase, which is understood to have been made effective yesterday, is not, as was first supposed, merely a straight increase from the previous 30,000 lire per film to 50,000 lire ($2,500). Actually the dubbing tax is a graduated levy and is based on the gross receipts in Italy of each picture. The minimum tax is 50,000 lire and applies to films which

ANTI-TRUST SUIT WAVE IS FORECAST

Producer Opposition to Conciliation Boards Blamed by MPTOA

A wave of anti-trust suits and attempts to obtain state and Federal regulatory legislation is foreseen by the M. P. T. O. A. as a result of "the delay and /or collapse" of the projected establishment of local conciliation boards, the responsibility for which, the exhibitor organization asserts, rests with distributors.

The organization's bulletin, distributed to members yesterday, poses the question: "Do distributors prefer to fight out the question of regulation of trade practices in court and invite Federal and state regulation by statue and commissions?

"If that is true," the bulletin observes, "their present policy should get the desired results.

"We seem to be on the verge of a lot of spectacular anti-trust suits, and exasperated and disgruntled exhibitors, with nowhere within the industry to get their grievances and complaints heard and adjusted, are bound to turn to their legislatures and Congress for relief. It may not be very smart, but it is inevitable, and the exhibitor can hardly be blamed under the circumstances."

The bulletin, conceding that six of the 10 proposals comprising M. P. T. O. A.'s trade practice program are dependent upon the establishment of the boards, asserts that the failure of distributors to take the initiative in setting them up is their "definite, direct responsibility."

Reviewing the concessions granted by distributors under the trade program, the bulletin sets forth that seven

NBC to Build New Plants in Six Key Spots

NBC will expand and improve six of its plants in key cities of the Red and Blue networks. The project includes immediate construction of new studios at Philadelphia and Schenectady, the completion of a building already under construction in Washington, and the subsequent provision of new facilities at Hollywood, San Francisco and Cleveland.

Additional developments in radio on pages 16 and 17

Discussing the construction program, President Lohr stated the increase in NBC business plus radio's rapid development made such expansion immediately necessary as provision for the new demands.

Changes and new developments in the six cities will be made with a view to placing all NBC broadcasting plants on the same technical basis as the Radio City and Chicago studios. The plans provide space for future development of television activities.

Ground will be broken at Philadelphia within a week for the construction of a six-story building at

Kansas Censors Reverse Stand And Admit Wheeler's Remarks

Topeka, April 21.—The Kansas censor board, after provoking a political furor by banning the remarks of U. S. Senator Burton K. Wheeler opposing the President's Supreme Court plan, in the latest issue of "March of Time," today capitulated to public sentiment, reversed itself and ordered restoration of the Wheeler remarks in the reel.

The attack which followed action of the censor board, of which Mae Clausen is chairman, was led by no less a Kansas personage than former Gov. Alfred M. Landon, erstwhile presidential candidate and former governor of the state. After sidestepping responsibility for the censor action, which was unanimous with the board's three members, Governor Huxman of Kansas yesterday declared he would ask the board to reconsider its action. Today Miss Clausen revealed the board's reversal, closing an incident in the activity of censoring bodies which was echoed in the press of the country.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 21.

FILMS predicated on the Hollywood scene are not new. The story of fantastic success and crushing heartbreak which are part of the fabric of the community is a recurring theme, but probably it has never been more effectively told than in the instance of "A Star Is Born," despite an excessive and anticlimactic 110 minutes.

This is Selznick International's third for United Artists and is earmarked with all of the essentials of a sock money picture in big theatre situations and small. Its melodramatic texture is fabricated along accepted and decidedly routine lines. In brief, it is the story of a small-town girl who rises to the dizziest pinnacle as the colony's outstanding actor whom she marries slides into oblivion and into suicide when he understands he is threatening her career.

A success story and a Cinderella tale purely and simply, it is the sort of vehicle about motion pictures about which a motion picture could be and has been made. The vital elements in the plot construction fit easily and conveniently into grooves well prepared for them. "A Star Is Born" is therefore hokum on a lavish scale, but the sort of hokum the public might be expected to subscribe for to the tune of high and mighty grosses.

While the original yarn by William Wellman and Robert Carsons is anything but original, the treatment by Dorothy Parker, Alan Campbell and Carsons in many respects is. There are frequent moments of refreshing comedy emphasized by the definitely commercial direction of Wellman and the major performances by Miss Gaynor and March. Miss Gaynor, this time in Technicolor, takes on an added physical loveliness denied her in black and white photography. Her performance, too, has a maturity not apparent in most of her earlier efforts which leads to the impressions her role here is easily one of the best of her career, and perhaps the best. In a part where some hamming might be condoned March foregoes any slavishness to his trade in favor of a workmanlike and thoroughly praiseworthy job.

This attraction has about it an inside peek into the intricacies, the pitfalls and foibles of the advantage of the worldwide interest in the production colony through an adroit and showmanship grafting of studio background onto the development of the drama. The combination may prove to be unbeatable.

Richey to Decide on Quitting in 2 Weeks

DETROIT, April 21.—H. M. Richey will make no definite decision for at least two weeks on leaving his post as general manager of Allied of Michigan to accept "an attractive offer" which he has received, he said today.

Fred Delodder, president of the Allied unit, has appointed a committee consisting of Sam Brown, George Wilber, G. A. Cross and himself to confer with Richey next week with a view to inducing him to continue in the post which he has occupied for the past 17 years. Richey declined to disclose the offer which he says he is seriously considering.

Report New Fabian Deal

Reports were current yesterday Simon Fabian was negotiating for the New Amsterdam on W. 42nd St. Fabian could not be reached at his office. He is in Albany and scheduled to return tomorrow.

Sheldon Quits Selznick

HOLLYWOOD, April 21.—E. Lloyd Sheldon has resigned as associate producer at Selznick International. His withdrawal from the studio is the result of an agreement with David O. Selznick.

Eight Firms Allow Review of Pictures

Eight distributors have expressed willingness to permit Associated Film Audiences, new organization, to review films in advance of release in order to designate them in line with its policy of discouraging "militaristic," "anti-labor," "Fascist" and similar themes, according to Motion Picture Herald.

The companies willing to cooperate are: Amkino, G. B., Grand National, M-G-M, RKO, 20th Century-Fox and Universal. Two companies, Paramount and United Artists, declared themselves undecided, and Columbia and Warners stated they probably would refuse permission, the Herald says. Charges of Communistic leanings are beginning to be heard with reference to Associated Film Audiences, which is headed by Edward Kern, chairman of the executive committee.

It was indicated that Universal, also promising reviewing privileges, may decide to revoke the authorization, suggesting its films be seen in theatres.

Delaware Film Bills Die

DOVER, Del., April 21.—Two of the three film bills introduced in the present session of the legislature here failed to be enacted as the General Assembly adjourned sine die today after being in session since yesterday morning.

The only film bill which became law was the measure exempting from taxation for 15 years any film producing companies established in Delaware after July 1.

German Deals Are Menace to U.S. Product

gross up to 2,500,000 lire. On films grossing more than 2,500,000 lire the dubbing tax will increase 15,000 lire for every 500,000 lire of gross receipts exceeding 2,500,000 lire.

In other words, if a picture were to gross 4,500,000 lire the dubbing tax on that film would total 110,000 lire ($5,500) as compared to the previous dubbing tax of a straight 30,000 lire on each picture. Italian law requires that all foreign product be shown in Italy in the Italian language, and that the dubbing must be done in that country.

It has been estimated that most of the films imported into Italy from the United States would fall within the 2,500,000 lire classification, and that approximately 10 per cent would come into the 4,500,000 lire group. Thus the better American product is most heavily burdened by the dubbing tax. There is no maximum dubbing levy under the new regulations.

Germany has recently concluded deals with Japan for cooperative effort and with Austria, which was placed in the position of acceding to the German demands in order to improve the market in Germany for its own product. It is an acknowledged fact that Austrian producers cannot exist without the German market.

The German Government admittedly has been disturbed over the decline in its film exports, and since what is Germany's loss is America's gain in the film markets abroad, and those markets all are limited in requirement, increased German exports by agreement must necessarily cut the market for American product.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Dance, Charlie, Dance"

(Warners)

Hollywood, April 21.—Show business garners many chuckles at its own expense in this simple tale. It concerns a small town boy who accidently turns out a Broadway hit show. The screen adaptation of George S. Kaufman's "Butter and Egg Man" is good comedy full of laughable situations and dialogue which will please average audiences. The direction is handled in a dry, humorous vein unfolding with little apparent effort. The performances are commendable.

Stuart Erwin has a tough time breaking into show business until Allen Jenkins and Charles Foy, promoter and producer, respectively, discover he is a willing sucker to "angel" the show. Glenda Farrell, Jenkins' wife, who sports a large bank roll, puts her thumb down on the financial advance. She sees no potential hit in the play. The schemers then generously cut Erwin in with a 49 per cent interest for $20,000. The show flops in the sticks on its tryout and the promoters sell out to Erwin. In the meantime Erwin goes romantic for Jean Muir, the promoters' secretary. The two are stranded without enough money to make a final payment to Jenkins and Foy so they pull a fast one on Chester Clute for additional financing. They get $15,000 and capitalize on the situation before the ink is dry.

With proper revising, the play takes shape as dramatic merchandise, but emerges as a successful farce on Broadway. The climax finds Addison Richards registering a plagiarism suit against the show and Erwin, in a fast move, sells the play back to the promoters for $100,000. A quiet hotel business in a hick town is Erwin's and Miss Muir's future at the fadeout.

Frank MacDonald's direction is subtle, tongue-in-cheek artistry. The screenplay by Crane Wilbur and William Jacobs is smooth and packed with humor. Bryan Foy produced.

Looking 'Em Over

"Ghost Town Gold"

(Republic)

Here are more colorful exploits of "The Three Mesquiteers." It is a satisfying western combining all the usual ingredients, but without a romance.

The trio start the excitement in the first reel, as they ride into Prospect with the proceeds from their cattle. Max Terhune, Porthos of the team, gets involved with a tent show sharpie, but comes out ahead in a three card monte game. He wins a ventriloquist's dummy which later provides comedy. Ray Corrigan and Bob Livingston, the other members of the triumvirate, start things moving with a series of brawls. The serious side soon becomes apparent when the local bank is robbed and Burr Carruth, the banker, and his daughter, Kay Hughes, are faced by a gang of irate miners. Corrigan enters a prizefight with a local champion to help. The excitement of the bout is heightened by the discovery of the stolen money on Milburn Morante, a slightly demented resident of a deserted town. Both the outlaws and the "Mesquiteers" light out after Morante. The resultant doings at the "ghost" town of both factions are cleverly worked sequences. Wild shrieks and ringing bells scare the wits out of the outlaws. And mixed in is a gun fight. The next morning, with the arrival of Miss Hughes, the recovered money is started to the bank with the outlaws in pursuit. But they are eliminated before the cash reaches town. Later the "Mesquiteers," with their good deeds done, ride off.

Joseph Kane directed.

The utility workers' union complaint was filed today with the National Labor Relations Board and the announcement of the filing was made by Joseph Marshall, who is here from New York to adjust labor jurisdictional lines. Thus far his effort has not been successful.

Today's move followed the statement by Pat Casey that negotiations with Ken Thomson, executive secretary of the Screen Actors' Guild, will begin next Tuesday morning. Negotiation petitions have also been received by Casey from stationary engineers, plasterers, wardrobe workers and plumbers, all of whom are represented in the newly formed studio union federation.

WSAN, 500 watts, is the only station in Allentown, and is owned and operated by WSAN, Inc. J. C. Shumberger is president and J. H. Musselman is station manager.

Executives to See "Star"

New York executives and visiting Hollywood personalities are expected to attend this evening's performance of "A Star Is Born," which opens today at the Music Hall. Among those invited are Edward G. Robinson, Joe E. Brown, Gregory Ratoff, Dorothy Parker and Alan Campbell, Spyros and Mrs. Skouras, Charles and Mrs. Skouras, W. G. and Mrs. Van Schmus, Roy and Mrs. Disney, Gus and Mrs. Schaefer, Martin and Mrs. Quigley, Harry and Mrs. Buckley, Joe and Mrs. Vogel, C. C. and Mrs. Moskowitz, Mike and Mrs. Rosenberg, Y. Frank and Mrs. Freeman, Andy and Mrs. Smith, George and Mrs. Skouras, Gus Eyssel, Harry Gold, James Mulvey, Monroe Greenthal, George J. and Mrs. Schaefer and John and Mrs. Nolan.

Renew "Homemaker's Exchange"

"Homemakers Exchange," featuring Eleanor Howe in household advice for the National Ice Advertising, Inc., has been renewed for an additional period of broadcasting, beginning April 27. The program is heard Tuesdays and Thursdays from 11:45 A. M. to 12 noon. Donahue & Coe is the agency.

Para. Air Hour Blooms, Fades In Springtime

"Paramount on Parade," a program conceived as an experiment, will come to an untimely and completely unexpected end following Sunday's broadcast. The reason advanced by Paramount for the temporary termination of the series (it will return in the fall) will probably add many gray hairs to the temples of the broadcasting moguls.

Says Paramount: "Because . . . the radio audience diminishes with the arrival of warm weather, the weekly broadcast will be discontinued after Sunday's program until the Fall."

For many past seasons the major networks and larger independent stations have been endeavoring, via expensive and exhaustive surveys, elaborate promotional pieces, and paid ads in the advertising and business magazines to convince sponsors of radio programs that the radio audience does not diminish in the summer time, that summertime programs pay as large, if not larger dividends, than fall and winter series. These campaigns have been noticeably successful, and network statistics show that the summer radio business this year will reach an all-time peak. Now comes Paramount with a bland and completely naive statement, telling that its program is being discontinued due to the diminishing summertime radio audience.

At Odds with Survey

Paramount's release comes on the heels of the CBS summertime survey compiled for that network by Dr. Daniel Starch, a noted market researcher. The survey disclosed there will be 2,000,000 more radio families in the U. S. in the summer of 1937 than there were last year; that, all told, there will be 34,000,000 radios in the country this summer—25,000,000 radio homes; 4,000,000 extra sets in the home; 5,000,000 radios in automobiles.

"Paramount on Parade" came into being as a result of the agitation on the part of M. P. T. O. A. members against the increasing use of film players and material on the air at hours which were in open conflict with the box-office. Paramount arranged to air the program on a day and at an hour that could not conflict with theatre box-offices in any of the nation's time zones. The medium was NBC's Red network, the day Sunday, and the hour was 9 A.M., Pacific time; 10 A.M. Mountain; 11 A.M. Central; and 12 noon Eastern Standard time.

NBC Will Build in Six Key Localities

1619 Walnut Street, which will house the studios and offices of KYW. The station is owned by Westinghouse Electric, and is an outlet of the Red network. KYW is licensed for 10,000 watts and has applied to the F. C. C. for a power increase to 50,000 watts. The cost is estimated at $600,000. The studios will be ready for occupancy Nov. 1.

NBC's new Washington studios, now nearly completed, will be in operation July 1, and will double the capacity of the plant there. Stations WRC and WMAL will occupy the premises. The cost of the plant, including a new transmitter for WRC, will be about $350,000.

Negotiations have been completed for construction of a new NBC building in Schenectady to house 50,000-watt WGY, owned by General Electric. Work on the studios will begin shortly, the plant to be ready for use Sept. 1. The cost is estimated at $300,000.

Plans for improved facilities at Hollywood, Cleveland and San Francisco are still in a formative stage. It is planned, however, to double the capacity of the present Hollywood studios, and to expand those at San Francisco and Cleveland.

Gilman Heading East For NBC Discussions

HOLLYWOOD, April 21.—Don E. Gilman, vice-president in charge of NBC's western division, leaves today for New York for several weeks' conferences with President Lenox R. Lohr and other eastern executives regarding NBC developments on the Pacific Coast.

"We are confronted with the necessity of enlarging our quarters materially to meet the rapidly increasing demand for programs originating here," he said on the eve of his departure. "With the coming development of television and the need for adequate space to produce television broadcasts, NBC must decide whether to enlarge its present studios or seek a new site elsewhere, in order to provide for future growth and, also, to provide sufficient space to take advantage of all modern studio developments in sound isolation and acoustics."

Will Rogers Program Set for This Sunday

HOLLYWOOD, April 21.—A Will Rogers Memorial broadcast will be aired on Sunday from 5:00 to 5:30 P. M., P.S.T., over CBS. It will feature Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians, Dick Powell, Leslie Howard and a chorus.

The program will close with a talk by Anning S. Prall, head of the F. C. C., who will speak from Washington.

Leonard Lewis Joins World

Leonard Lewis, formerly radio editor of Printers' Ink, has joined the World Broadcasting System.

WHN Will Be Outlet For Pioneer Program

WHN, an increasingly important factor in radio these days, will be the outlet for a new Young and Rubicam show in behalf of the Pioneer Ice Cream Co., a division of the Borden Milk Co. WHN in turn will feed the program to WOR, affording double coverage in the one trading area.

The program, starting May 12 and weekly thereafter, will be heard on both stations from 8 to 8:30 P. M., E.D.S.T. "The Broadway Melody Hour," for some time past a WHN sustaining program, has been selected as vehicle for the ice cream commercial. The series features Jay C. Flippen as "em cee," and the band of Irving Aaronson. Guest talent will be provided for the commercial. The contract is for 52 weeks.

Additionally on WHN today marks the first commercial fed to that station over the new WLW line. The series is for Drums, Inc., and features Arthur Chandler in talks and incidental organ music. The program will be aired Thursdays from 2:30 to 2:45 P. M., E.S.T. It will be fed also to 13 stations of the Colonial network through WAAB, in Boston. The contract, for 13 weeks, was placed through the Winningham agency.

RCA, AT&T Granted Collins Injunction

WILMINGTON, April 21.—A preliminary injunction in the case of RCA and A.T.&T. against Collins Radio Co. of St. Louis was granted in U. S. District Court here today by Judge John P. Nields.

The plaintiffs alleged that Collins infringed on two DeForest patents, No. 1,507,016 and No. 1,507,017, which are known as feedback circuits for use with radio vacuum tubes in creating high frequency oscillating currents for radio transmission. Collins claimed a prior invention and also that the plaintiffs had the chance of election for use of the Armstrong patent and the DeForest patent and that they first elected the Armstrong patent and that later, when the Supreme Court found the DeForest patent to be valid, the plaintiffs elected it and extended their monopoly.

Suit Against RCA Dismissed

In a 12-page opinion, Federal Judge John W. Clancy yesterday dismissed the complaint of John J. Aurynger in his infringement suit against RCA. Aurynger alleged that his patent on a variable condenser had been infringed by the gang condenser used in RCA receiving sets. Judge Clancy ruled that there was no infringement because of a difference in mechanical construction.

Saylor Is Appointed KHJ Publicity Head

LOS ANGELES, April 21.—Charles E. Saylor has been appointed director of publicity of KHJ by Louis A. Weiss, general manager of Mutual.

Saylor for the past 10 years had been head of the advertising and sales departments at J. H. Helmond & Bros., Chicago manufacturers.

of eight major companies participated, that from the seven, a 10 per cent cancellation privilege was obtained, where the program called for one of 20 per cent, and that four of the seven agreed to eliminate the separate score charge. Recalling that all of the companies rejected the proposal for a short form of contract, the bulletin expresses a doubt as to how much exhibitors themselves want one.

At the recent M. P. T. O. A. Miami convention, resolutions were adopted calling for the full accomplishment of the 10-point plan without compromise on any provision. Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. president, is scheduled to begin a two-month trip to lay before exhibitor leaders in all sections of the country a new plan of action for forcing distributor acceptance of the program.

Sees "NRA" Liklihood

The bulletin recognizes the possibility of a new N. R. A. affecting all branches of the industry as a result of the recent upholding of the Wagner Act by the Supreme Court.

Commenting on the passage of the Allied theatre divorce bill in North Dakota, the bulletin says: "It is reported to have cost this faction of exhibitors a lot of money to put this over, but they get exactly nothing in return for their contributions, not even good will."

The bulletin advises exhibitors against hasty action on new season film buys and urges theatres to support the Will Rogers Memorial campaign opening April 30.

Ploenes Named Head Of Akron Exhibitors

AKRON, April 21.—Al Ploenes, manager of the Orpheum here, has been elected president of the Akron Independent M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n. He succeeds Robert Menches, who had headed the group for seven years. Other officers are: Robert Menches, first vice-president; Charles Stalder, second vice-president, and J. G. Deetjen, secretary.

The unit discussed availability dates for subsequent runs houses, with the idea of establishing availability based on admission price. Present availability is based on seating capacity. It was voted to maintain the present policy, which provides an availability of 42 days for all houses, regardless of admission price, excepting only the 10-cent houses. The group went on record as favoring presentation to the city law director of an ordinance to prevent further theatre construction here. The move was prompted by a recent announcement that two de luxe houses are to be erected here this year.

Elman in Indianapolis

CHICAGO, April 21.—Henri Elman will open a branch of his Capitol Film Exchange in Indianapolis, following acquisition of the Monogram franchise in the Indiana territory.

MPTOA Radio Group To Meet Wednesday

The first meeting of the M.P.T.O.A. radio committee is now scheduled for next Wednesday, contingent upon the availability of out-of-town members of the committee on that day. The first meeting had been set for last Tuesday, but was postponed due to the absence from the city of Walter Vincent, committee chairman.

On his return yesterday, Vincent immediately communicated with committee members on the new meeting date. Members are Lewen Pizor, Philadelphia; Arthur Lockwood, Middletown, Conn., and Samuel Pinanski, Boston. Vincent said yesterday that neither major producers' representatives nor radio broadcasters or sponsors would be asked to attend the first meeting of the committee.

Leitstein in Contempt

CAMDEN, April 21.—Herbert Leitstein, secretary to William Fox, was held in criminal contempt of court here yesterday by Federal Judge John B. Avis. Sentence will be imposed later. Leitstein's refusal to open the books of the All-Continent Corp. to the referee in bankruptcy in the hearings on the William Fox bankruptcy was the cause of the order.

Files Amended Complaint

Virgil C. Crites filed an amended complaint in Federal Court yesterday in his suit against Albert Radtke, the Radtke Parents Corp., Warners, the United Research Corp., Leonard Gay and Thomas J. Martin. His first complaint was dismissed by Judge Robert T. Patterson on March 15. Crites claimed that Radtke developed a device for recording and reproducing sound in 1916 and failed to turn over the patents in accordance with an agreement. Crites alleges that the defendant conspired to take the invention and that pursuant to the conspiracy Radtke assigned part of his rights to the patent to Warners and United Research. He asked for an injunction and an accounting of the profits.

Liberty Pictures Enjoined

Federal Judge Robert T. Patterson yesterday granted a permanent injunction to Zona Gale enjoining Liberty Pictures Corp. from using her name and the title of her story, "The Way," in connection with their picture "When Strangers Meet." Both parties consented. Miss Gale alleged that her story was published by the Broadway Magazine in 1908 and that Liberty carried a subtitle on their picture stating that the picture was suggested by her story. The decree provides that no costs are to be assessed against Liberty.

Littlefield of Allied Sells Out to M&P

Paramount Unit Pushes Expansion Program

BOSTON, April 22.—Walter B. Littlefield, vice-president of Independent Exhibitors of New England and prominent for years in national Allied States activities, closed out his theatre holdings today with the disposition of the Eggleston Square, Roxbury, and the Fairmount, Hyde Park, to Mullin & Pinanski interests in the course of an active theatre expansion move by the latter.

As a leading Allied eastern official, Littlefield has been a vigorous opponent for years of the M. & P. Theatre Corp., the Paramount affiliate to whom he sold out. With the closing of the transaction, which comes in the midst of Allied's legislative campaign to halt affiliated circuit expansion through the projecting of state theatre divorce measures, Littlefield retires from theatre business. The Eggleston Square, a 1,200-seat house, has been controlled by the Littlefield family since 1911 when the Eggleston Amusement Co., of which Littlefield has been president since 1921, was

Warners Plan Four Washington Houses

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Warners plan immediate construction of four new theatres in this territory, to cost approximately $2,000,000, it was disclosed today by John J. Payette, general zone manager of Warner Theatres here.

Neighborhood houses will be built in Tenleytown, Bethesda, Silver Springs and Northeast Washington. Each will seat between 1,000 and 1,500, and be equipped with air conditioning apparatus.

Payette called the plan for the four

Predict Time Change Will Reduce Grosses

With Daylight Saving going into effect Sunday morning, local exhibitors anticipate a slump in business for the first week of the time change. Major and independent operators have found this to be the case every year and contend it takes the theatre-going public about a week to get used to the new time.

However, there will be no tendency to date in weak pictures, it was stated.

House of Lords Agrees to 10-Year Quota Extension

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, April 22.—The British House of Lords leaped into the troublesome film situation in this country today, and after long debate agreed to a motion that the quota should be continued for 10 years.

Earlier in the day Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, declared in the House of Commons that the Government had accepted the principal recommendation of the Moyne committee on revision of the Films Act to the effect that the quota should be continued for another 10 years. The Films Act expires in 1938.

Runciman said that he proposed to introduce the necessary legislation before the end of the year, but that further discussions with the branches of the industry concerned with other Moyne recommendations were necessary before such legislation could be drafted.

The House of Lords motion was introduced by Lord Strabolgi, who said, "In the opinion of this House, a flourishing British film industry is of increasing importance. All practical steps should be taken to assist in placing the industry's foundation on a firm basis."

He declared that the 1927 film legislation was a stimulus but not a

Outlook for Radio Probe Held Fading

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Indications that the investigation of the F.C.C. sought by Representative Connery of Massachusetts will have to go over until next session are seen in the failure of the House Rules Committee to give its approval to the probe.

The Connery resolution has been before the committee for a number of weeks and, while it is understood several members are in favor of the inquiry, there is some reluctance to authorize extended investigations which might tend to keep Congress in session over a long period.

City Sale Tax To Apply Only At Exchanges

The city has no intention of collecting the two per cent sales tax on film rentals directly from exhibitors, and will continue its established policy, as applied to other local industries, of making the collections from the vendor, rather than the vendee, it was stated at the city comptroller's office yesterday.

It was explained that in connection with an audit to determine a sales tax assessment for equipment purchases by the Springer & Cocalis circuit some time ago, the city's accountants included film rentals in the checkup and made a direct assessment on the exhibitor in that instance. The procedure, however, was incidental to the

The principal phases of the agreement provide for wage increases up to a maximum of 42 per cent for some employe classifications and for a reduction of seven and one-half hours a week in the working schedule, according to Richard Walsh, I. A. official who represented the union in the

Rockefeller Claim Hit at RKO Hearing

Case Halted for Briefs And Financial Report

Hearings on the RKO plan of reorganization opened yesterday before Special Master George W. Alger with a creditors' attack on the provisions for settlement of the $9,150,000 Rockefeller Center claim against RKO. After a three-hour hearing an adjournment was taken to next Wednesday to permit Alger to study new briefs in connection with the plan and to furnish creditors' attorneys with RKO's financial statements for 1936, which were not available at the time of the filing of the plan last November.

Carlos Israels, attorney for the unsecured creditors' committee, led the objections to the proposals for issuing 500,000 shares of new RKO common stock to Rockefeller Center in settlement of the latter's claim, which is based on the termination of RKO leases on the Music Hall, Center and certain office space in the RKO Bldg. Israels charged that Rockefeller Center is an unsecured creditor and that the settlement constitutes a better treatment for it than that accorded other unsecured creditors under the plan. He asked that the story of the negotiations for settlement of the claim be placed on the record.

No "Trust Busting," Declares Cummings

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, April 22. — No "trust busting" campaign is planned by the Dep't of Justice, but individual cases of violation of the anti-trust laws will be prosecuted, it was declared today by Attorney General Cummings.

The Department has a number of cases under consideration, it was learned, and in the near future may take some of them into court. Several agents have been engaged for a considerable period in studies of complaints involving film distributors, but it could not be learned how far these inquiries have proceeded.

Officials refused to discuss the situation in detail, but pointed to the Attorney General's statement as setting forth the department's policy. Mere

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 22.

TO turn loose a pet Hollywood adjective, Darryl F. Zanuck has created terrific excitement locally with his approach on musicals. That approach should require no explanation and describes itself most adequately in terms of the merchandise the producing head of 20th Century-Fox has banged out, practically at the rate of every other minute or so. But in case doubt may be lurking around corners, the films were such substantial ones as "Sing, Baby, Sing," "Pigskin Parade," "One in a Million," "On the Avenue" and now "Wake Up and Live." . . .

All of them had a definite idea behind them and a freshness in treatment without which banality easily might have ridden the screen with the usual consequences. Zanuck, for all this visitor knows, might not have felt he was taking any chance on Sonja Henie, but even Zanuck, which is akin to bowing from the waist and talking with awed inflections around Hollywood, could not have known what the public was going to do about her and "One in a Million." In "Wake Up and Live," he took Jack Haley, who had made pictures before and for others without making pulses run faster, and converted him by this one picture into a personality whose rise should be persistent and consistent from this point on. . . .

They figure Darryl knows how and he does. Therefore, and in strict accordance with its tradition, Hollywood is hastening to board another winner. Which is another way of observing, substantially bulwarked by the facts, that the studios are out after musicals for next season with a vengeance and a vim that would be commendable, were it not patently short-sighted. Where a studio will have turned out five by the time the current semester is ended, it will next year do eight; that's Metro, for instance. With three this season, Universal proposes taking the death-defying leap with a grand total of nine for '37-'38. In one degree or another, every lot in Hollywood is regimenting itself in similar manner. . . .

Since men as well as mice find their plans kicked around and altered, don't bring us to account if the following forecast does not quite hold as it now stands. You might want to know that we indulged in no surmise for this purpose, held a helluva time trying to make some of the regulation channels understand what we meant by the entertainment season and finally finished up with something that looks like this:

Columbia

This season: "When You're in Love" and perhaps a second on which Oscar Hammerstein, 2nd., is waxing busy. Next: "Intermezzo," starring Grace Moore and probably one other, minimum.

Gaumont British

This season: "Head Over Heels in Love" and "Back Stage." Next: "Gangway."

Grand National

Currently: "The Girl Said No," "Something to Sing About" and "Honolulu Honeymoon." Next year: two, minimum, from Victor Schertzinger.

Imperial

Next season: Eight "outdoor" musicals. These may undergo a change.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

This season: "Born to Dance," "Maytime," "The Great Ziegfeld," "Broadway Melody of 1937" and, probably, "A Day at the Races." Next: "Rosalie," "Firefly," "Girl of the Golden West," "Hats in the Air," "B Before High C," "Johann Strauss," "Great Day" and "Show Shop."

Monogram

Next season: "College Sweetheart" and "Land of the Blue Sky Water."

Paramount

This: "Waikiki Wedding," "Turn off the Moon," "College Holiday," "Big Broadcast of 1937," "Swing High, Swing Low," "Champagne Waltz" and "Mountain Music."

Next: "High, Wide and Handsome," "Double or Nothing," "The Big Broadcast of 1938," a Victor Herbert, "Cuckoo College," a Bing Crosby from Major Prod., "Show Business," "Artists and Models," a Raft musical, and "Sweet Sunday."

RKO

This: "Swingtime," "Shall We Dance?" and "Girl from Paris." Next: One Astaire-Rogers, one Lily Pons, one Nino Martino, "Radio City Revels," "New Faces" and one Ginger Rogers.

20th Century-Fox

This: "Sing, Baby, Sing," "Pigskin Parade," "One in a Million," "On the Avenue" and "Wake Up and Live." Next: "You Can't Have Everything," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Ali Baba Goes to Town," "Sally, Irene and Mary" and "Sing and Be Happy."

United Artists

This: "52nd Street," a Wanger production. Next: "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938" and "Goldwyn Follies."

Universal

This: "Three Smart Girls," "When Love Is Young" and "Top of the Town." Next: "100 Men and a Girl" and three more Deanna Durbins; "Broadway Jamboree," "Four Black Sheep," "Riviera," "Dancing for Love" and "Hippodrome."

Warners

This: "Gold Diggers of 1937," "Ready, Willing and Able," "Stage Struck," "Cain and Mabel," "Sing Me a Love Song," "Melody for Two," "Singing Marine" and "Campus Scandals." Next: "Varsity," starring Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians, a LeRoy musical starring Fernand Gravet and at least as many as on the 1936-37 program.

Confining totals to those producers who are assured first runs by virtue of their own theatres, plus swaps in dates with other circuits, and those others, such as Columbia with the Grace Moores which crack "A" time regularly, as early as this it looks like fifty musicals next season as compared with thirty-nine for all of this. Approximately one each week as the calendar goes, but as competitive production, and thus releases go, several and maybe more in many given weeks. There is to consider, too, many situations where practically every major product plays. The Hoblitzelles, the Wilbys, the Richards, the Mullins and the Pinanskis, to pick on a few at random, thereby are confronted with a glutted market in this one type of attraction. If one of their first runs can escape, another of theirs in the same town, it appears, will not. . . .

Hollywood, it might be safe to venture, knows little or nothing about the master release charts maintained by all circuits who operate as circuits should. It is not known here how every producer's releases for a given week are stacked in the one group and from it conclusions drawn as to what type of picture should play which house. But the men who run the chains do because they have to. When the final dope sheet on '37-'38 reaches them for plotting and planning, they are due for a shock on the musicals equation alone. Not that it will make any difference. You and they should understand the supine indifference which prevails about the goings on east of Pomona is imbedded as firmly this year as it was last or any other year. Hollywood makes 'em and Hollywood ships 'em. And there its job ends. . . .

Pine Has Operation

Means in Favor of Dropping Giveaways

KANSAS CITY, April 22. — Jay Means, operator of the Oak Park and Bagdad, said here yesterday that he would "like to see premiums and giveaways cleaned up," and that he is ready any time to sign an agreement to that effect.

When the I.T.O. met Monday to hear reports from its committee to determine what action independents wanted to take with respect to giveaways, Means and Rube Finkelstein, who operates the Belmont, were the only operators contacted who had not agreed to elimination.

Brandt Protests Dog Racing Bill in N. Y.

Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A. here, has addressed a letter to Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, expressing the organization's opposition to the Hall bill legalizing dog racing in New York State. The measure was passed by the Assembly yesterday and sent to the Senate. A dog racing bill was vetoed last year by Governor Lehman.

In his letter, apparently written before word of the passage of the bill by the House reached him, Brandt asked to be informed of the date for a public hearing on the measure, if one is planned, so that the exhibitor organization may be represented.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Make Way for Tomorrow"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, April 22.—There cannot be much glamour to a picture that has to do with what to do about the old folks. About the only thing there can be is human heart interest that plays upon he tenderest emotions. When a film has that quality many other presumed necessaries can be discounted without fear that the entertainment and commercial value will be hampered. When the picture has heart experience it shows the public is quick to rally to its support and box-office returns are consequently increased. "Make Way for Tomorrow" has heart appeal.

Victor Moore and Beulah Bondi, father and mother, have grown old. There is only one thing to do. They have to go and live with their grown children. Minna Gombell, their daughter, and her husband, Porter Hall, won't have anything to do with them. Miss Bondi goes to live with her son, Thomas Mitchell, and his wife, Fay Bainter. Moore moves in with his daughter, Elizabeth Risdon. The lot of each is unhappy. Miss Bondi, always trying to do the right thing, does the wrong thing. Cantankerous Moore's only friend is Maurice Moscovitch, a philosophical grocer. The old couple know they are to be separated forever. In New York they live over their honeymoon days of 50 years ago. They part knowing their next meeting will be in a happier future life where no one ever grows old.

In capable hands Moore and Miss Bondi become living realities. Expert support is provided by Miss Bainter, Mitchell, Hall, Barbara Head, Moscovitch, Miss Risdon, Miss Gombell and Ray Mayer. Vina Delmar's screenplay, based on the novel by Josephine Lawrence and the play by Helen and Nolan Leary, teems with human drama and humor. Leo McCarey, producer and director, carefully avoided the pitfalls that might have resulted in a tear jerker.

UMPTO in Protest On Contract Sheets

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—Members of the U.M.P.T.O. here protested against buying film numbers instead of definite stories or stars, in a lively meeting today. Calling the contract sheet a variation of the "numbers racket," the protesting members declared that if the legal departments could find grounds, a test case would be instituted against an unspecified company.

The meeting also heard further protest against the sale to non-theatrical accounts by Columbia. Without taking action as a body, the unit advocated that exhibitors pull dates on the company in protest. Universal also was accused of stimulating church accounts, but it was said that the company has indicated it will drop the practice.

Alleging that 20th Century-Fox sold product to a new theatre before construction was started, in a territory that already had several houses, the unit went on record as opposing any movement of exchanges to encourage theatres in highly competitive districts. A committee was named to confer with Edgar Moss, 20th Century-Fox exchange manager, on the case involved.

It was disclosed that 76 exhibitors had signed pledge cards not to use the weekly payment plan on shorts, as part of the unit's drive. The legislative situation was discussed, particularly with regard to a possible renewal of the state amusement tax.

Expect 200 at RKO Sessions on Coast

Approximately 200 of the sales personnel from the field and home office will attend the RKO sales convention which will get under way at the Ambassador, Los Angeles, on June 16. Sales executives at the home office have not yet determined how many days will be set aside for the meetings, but plans are going ahead whereby division and district managers, branch heads and salesmen will attend.

The RKO convention special is expected to leave New York on June 10 and will make several stopovers en route where field men will board the train.

This will be the sixth annual and third international sales meet. Last year, the sessions were held at the Waldorf here with many foreign representatives in attendance. At the time, Leo Spitz promised the men that the 1937-38 convention would be held in California.

SAID THE CIRCUIT BOOKER TO THE MAN JUST ARRIVED FROM CALIFORNIA:

"Tell me, first, what did you see at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios?"

Time out while the Circuit Booker and his friend from California get comfortable!

"I arrived in California the night of the Press Preview of M-G-M's 'CAPTAINS COURAGEOUS' at Grauman's Chinese Theatre. Doubtless you've seen in the trade press many glowing reviews but you cannot really know the power of this picture until you see it on the screen . . . When the lights went up after the Preview a voice choked with tears said 'This is the greatest picture I have ever seen.' The applause in the theatre was deafening. 'CAPTAINS COURAGEOUS' is Big in spectacle and thrill but it is the heart-throb that will bring millions to the box-office!"

Imagine what the Circuit Booker will tell his ad-men about Freddie Bartholomew's touching performance with Spencer Tracy!

"TELL ME, WHAT'S ALL THE SHOOTING ABOUT THIS NEW BOB MONTGOMERY PICTURE 'NIGHT MUST FALL' THAT M-G-M IS ADVERTISING SO MUCH?"

"I was just coming to that. Hunt Stromberg, the producer, invited me to the sneak preview. I saw 'NIGHT MUST FALL' in rough assemblage before it was finally edited. There is a perfect instance of M-G-M using its head in production. They've taken Bob Montgomery boldly out of the type role the public expects —no longer the suave comic—but instead he's got a terrifyingly brilliant part that's going to lift him further as a top draw name. The picture held that audience breathless. It's based on the stage hit and what a show they've made of it. My advice is to get the boys shouting about it. You've got a real opportunity there!"

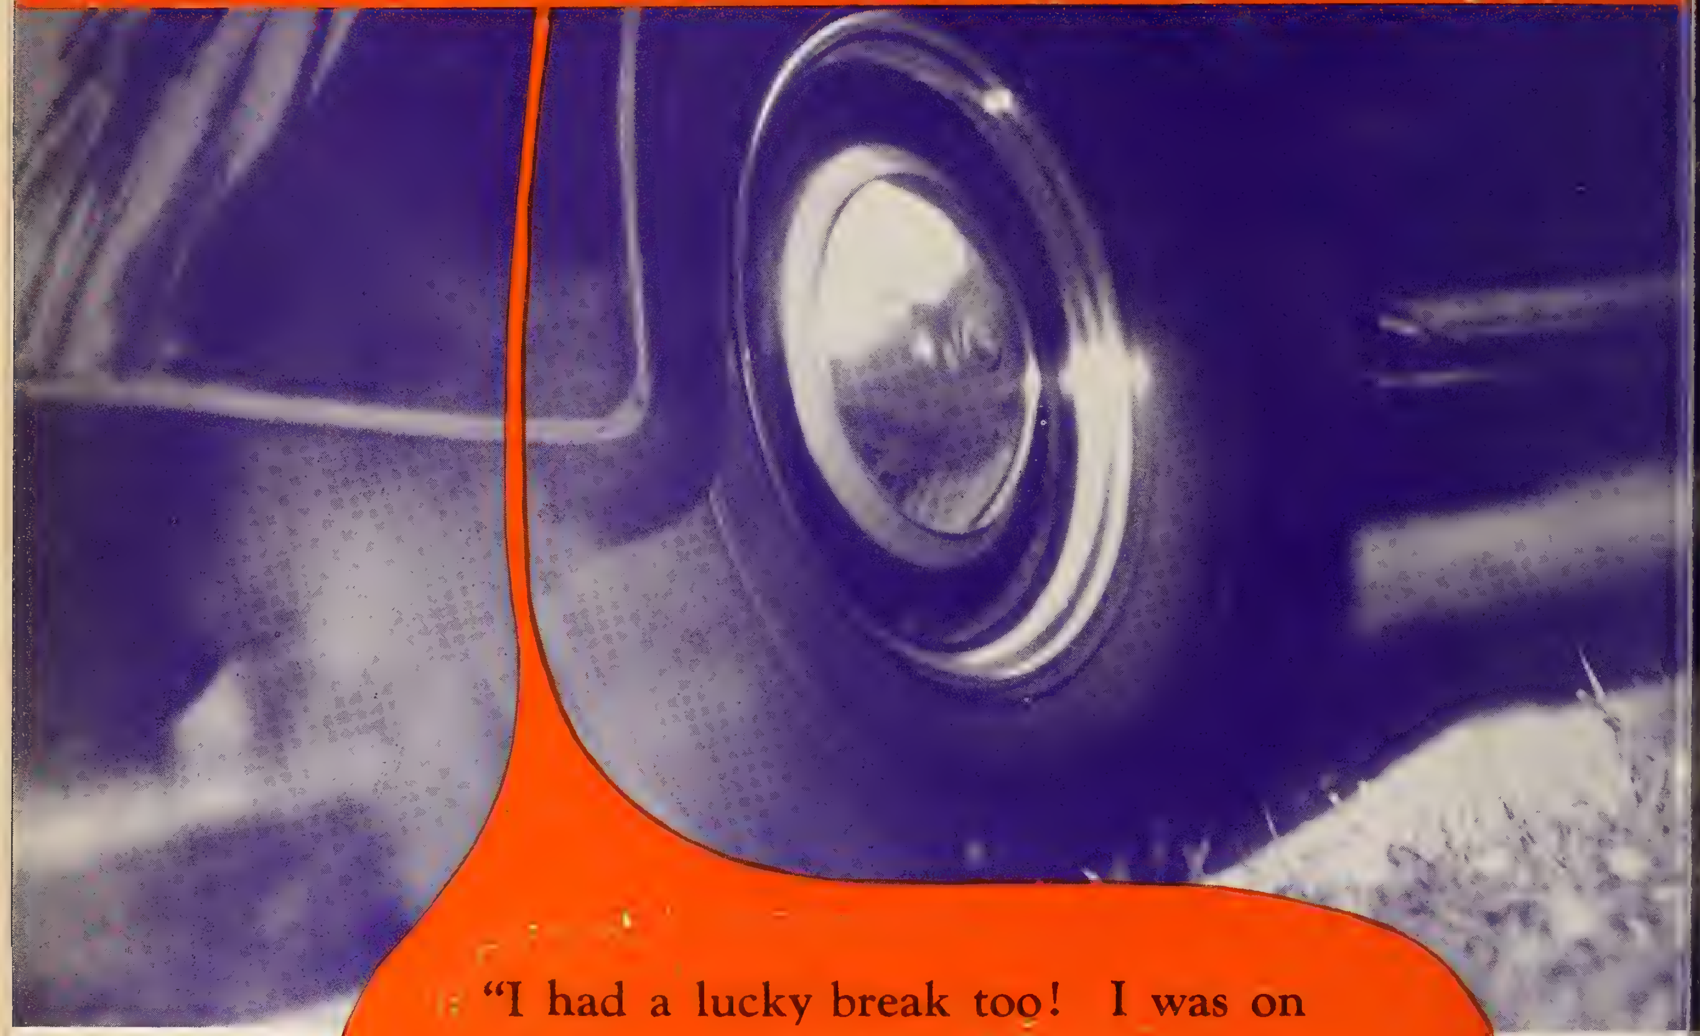
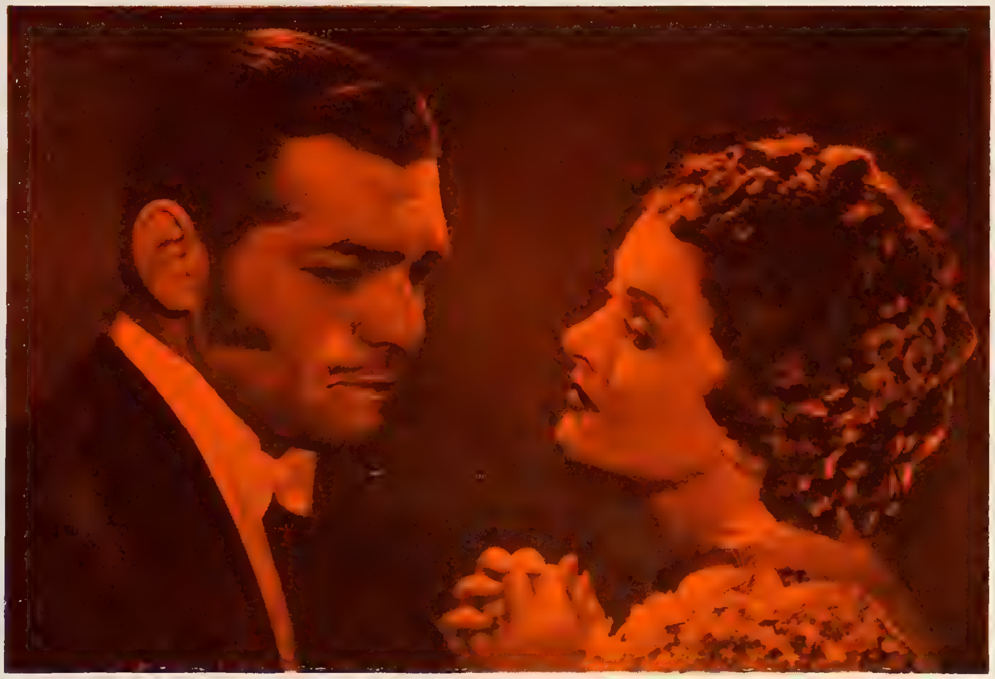
THEY DIDN'T STOP TALKING FOR A MINUTE ON THE WAY TO THEIR HOTEL!



"I had a lucky break too! I was on the M-G-M lot when two producers were running off working prints of big forthcoming films. Let me tell you this—from what John M. Stahl showed me of 'PARNELL' you can bank on this as the biggest sensation of Leo the Lion since 'San Francisco'. CLARK GABLE has a role with all the power of his 'Frisco part and MYRNA LOY makes a beautiful sweetheart for him. Then I saw producer Weingarten's private screening of 'A DAY AT THE RACES' starring the MARX BROTHERS. When I tell you its twice as Big and three times funnier than 'Night At the Opera' you'll know what to expect.

(Hey, let me catch my breath!)

BELOW ARE SCENES DESCRIBED BY THE MAN FROM CALIFORNIA!



"What a thrill when I saw 'PARNELL' in the projection room. It's the biggest sock since 'SAN FRANCISCO.' (Scene shows Clark Gable and Myrna Loy.)

"I also saw a private screening of the eagerly awaited MARX BROS. picture 'A DAY AT THE RACES' and found it terrific!" (Scene shows the howling wall-paper episode.)

"Let me tell you what happened one day when Luise Rainer and Bill Powell were doing a scene from 'Emperor's Candlesticks.'"

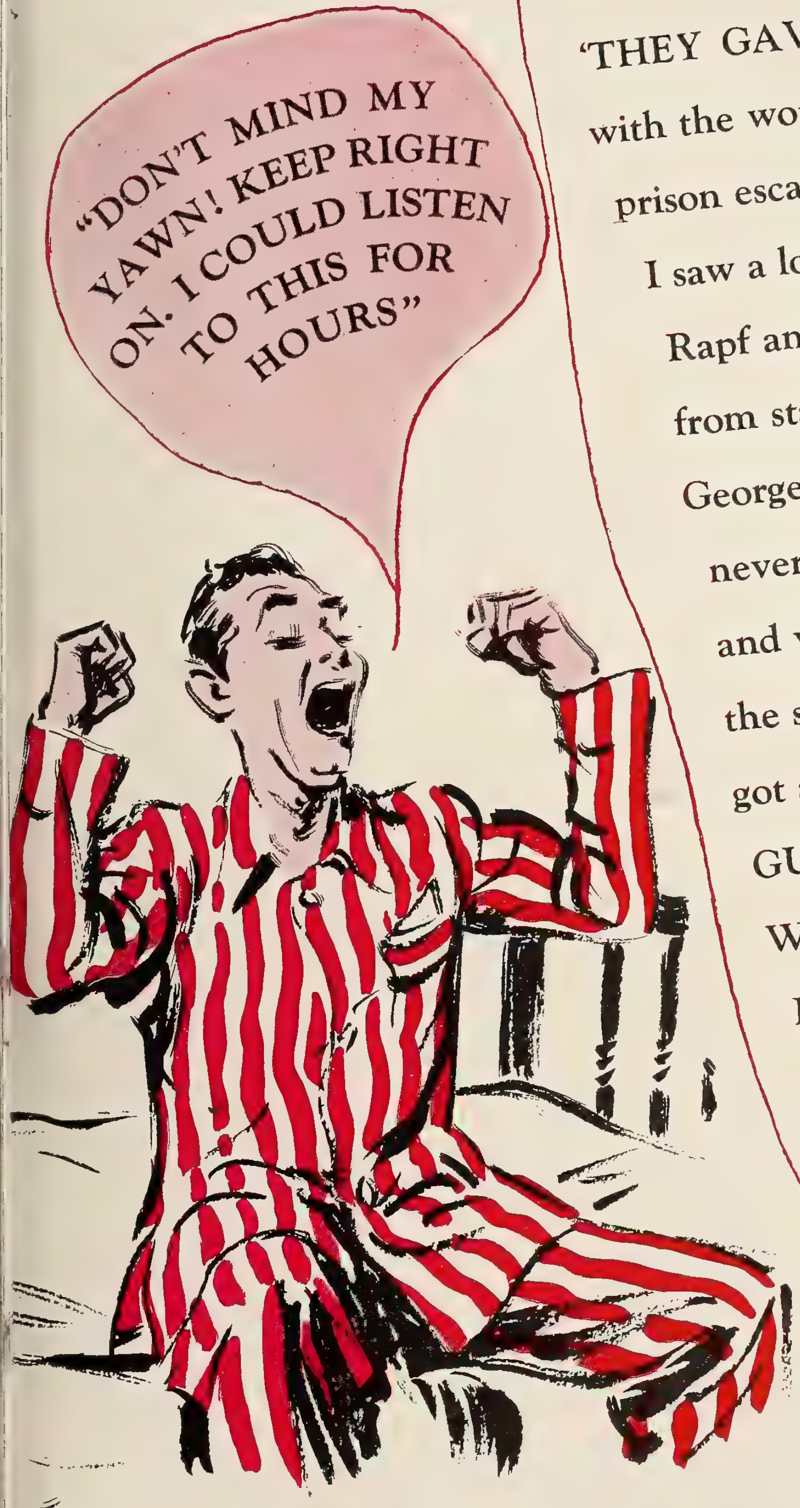
THE MAN FROM CALIFORNIA DESCRIBES A SCENE!

"It was on Stage 19 at the M-G-M Studios and Director George Fitzmaurice was running through a scene from 'THE EMPEROR'S CANDLESTICKS.' I watched Bill Powell and Luise Rainer as they spoke their dramatic lines. It was positively thrilling. Then Director Fitzmaurice took me aside and pridefully said he felt that these two great stars were giving their most inspired romantic performance. This spy story is as exciting as 'Mata Hari,' which Fitzmaurice also directed. Looks to me like 'EMPEROR'S CANDLESTICKS' will be one of biggest sensations of the Spring Season. Seems only yesterday that Bill Powell introduced Rainer in 'Escapade.' Then they co-starred in 'Great Ziegfeld' and now they're together again. A great team!"

Director Fitzmaurice (left) says the stars have never been better!

Picture for yourself this scene on the set of "EMPEROR'S CANDLESTICKS" at the M-G-M Studios!



"DON'T MIND MY YAWN! KEEP RIGHT ON. I COULD LISTEN TO THIS FOR HOURS"

"Sleepy? Okay then just one more. Forgive my enthusiasm but you'd talk in your sleep if you had been out there at M-G-M. And now is the right time for a SLEEPER! Jot down in your memory the picture 'THEY GAVE HIM A GUN! This dramatic story starts with the world war, then goes gangster, with a wow of a prison escape and just brimming with showmanship. I saw a long, unedited version with producer Harry Rapf and believe me I sat on the edge of my chair from start to finish. Spencer Tracy is grand. Gladys George is a real trouper and Franchot Tone has never been better. W. S. Van Dyke is the director and you know that means the tops. This picture has the sock of 'The Big Parade.' Mark my words you've got a great show coming in 'THEY GAVE HIM A GUN." I'd like to tell you about M-G-M's 'BROADWAY MELODY OF 1938' and GARBO'S next Big Romance with Charles Boyer 'BELOVED' —but it would take a week to do justice to them. What a lucky guy you are to have M-G-M product."

AND SO FAR INTO THE NIGHT!

But the Circuit Booker could scarcely wait to get to his office next morning.

"Tell 'em about Bob Montgomery in 'NIGHT MUST FALL'. Unique! Different! Thriller!"

"M-G-M has a flock of BIG ONES coming! Everybody get busy! Ballyhoo The Parade of Hits!"

BUSY! DON'T DISTURB!

"Oh, Boy! 'EMPEROR'S CANDLESTICKS' with Bill Powell and Luise Rainer is a lulu!"

"Start talking it up! 'THEY GAVE HIM A GUN'—the biggest screen thrill since 'Big Parade'."

"Don't let a day pass without a plug for 'A DAY AT THE RACES' Marx Bros."

"Clark Gable will top 'San Francisco' with 'PARNELL'—Myrna Loy's the gal in it!"

"And then comes M-G-M's 'BROADWAY MELODY OF 1938'. Put a flash in the lobby now!"

"Garbo and Boyer in 'BELOVED'! You'll hear plenty about it!"

House of Lords Agrees to 10-Year Quota Extension

complete success, and he pointed to the present crises, where floor space for 58 features is occupied by only 13. That number, he said, would not fill the present quota.

He said it is practically impossible for British producers to get their product into the United States, yet he declared American producers could not make profits without England's market.

"Our industry is under foreign domination and control," he said. "Our quickies are made chiefly by American companies, but are held up to derision in the United States."

He declared he shuddered at the thought of Government control of the industry here, and said he would not trust certain members of the Cabinet in control of films. He urged a trade agreement with the United States, including a 20 per cent British film quota there.

Lord Ponsonby spoke of the "nauseous, vulgar bathos" of American films and their bad influence on the language of children, who have learned to say "Yep."

Several other members echoed Lord Moyne's remark, "We must not allow the industry to fall permanently under foreign domination." The quota was described as the only effective protection.

Lord Templemore, speaking for the Government, said it regarded a flourishing industry as essential and was determined to maintain conditions under which it could expand considerably. He repeated Runciman's statement to the House of Commons, and said the Government accepted Lord Strabolgi's motion.

He said the Government is determined to find means to meet the quickie problem. Strabolgi declared certain persons in the American industry thought only of quick profits and did not mind how they were made, and said it was necessary to have weapons to fight such people.

Columbia Asking Details

Columbia Pictures Corp. will ask Justice Julius Miller in N. Y. Supreme Court today for an order which would require Jack Redmond, the golfer, to supply a bill of particulars in his $50,000 suit against Columbia. Redmond charges that without permission Columbia used a number of scenes of the plaintiff engaged in trick golfing shots in "Golfing Rhythm" and that these scenes were taken from a Fox Movietone reel for which he posed several years ago. The plaintiff would also enjoin Columbia from further distributing "Golfing Rhythm." Columbia asserts that it obtained permission from Fox to use the scene in question.

The defendants, whom the French company also would permanently enjoin from further distribution of "Modern Times" are the Charles Chaplin Film Corp. and United Artists. The plaintiff states that its picture was released in 1931. The conveyor belt scene in "Modern Times" allegedly was taken bodily from the French film.

negotiations. The agreement places the New Jersey plant's wage scales on the same level as those of New York laboratories.

The new wage schedules range from a minimum of $22 for a 40-hour week for apprentices to a maximum of $88 for eye-timing.

The Fort Lee plant was the scene of a strike four weeks ago. The striking faction recently withdrew from a newly formed organization which had applied for a C. I. O. charter with the explanation that they believed their negotiations and chances of recognition were being handicapped by the prospective C. I. O. affiliation. The organized group moved immediately to join the I. A. local and the new contract was closed within 10 days thereafter. Striking employes were returned to their work.

The same local recently closed a one-year agreement with De Luxe Laboratories here. The organizing moves in the laboratory field are regarded as being in line with the I. A.'s declared intention of organizing non-union workers in exhibition, distribution, production and allied industries along vertical lines. The move is known to have considerable official sympathy throughout the industry.

Organizing of New York exchanges is proceeding rapidly under the direction of Local 306 and will be extended by the I. A. to "every exchange in the country," a union official said yesterday.

Philadelphia Union Meets

Philadelphia, April 22.—Exchange employes here met tonight to discuss plans for unionizing. I.A.T.S.E. representatives will address the meeting. Although the exact organizing campaign is not known yet it is believed here that all local exchange workers will be organized in the near future.

Hod Carriers Labor Complaint Is Filed

Pat Casey has agreed to confer with Marshall tomorrow for consideration of the complaint. They will meet in the office of Dr. Towne Nylander, regional director of the board.

On Tuesday Casey will meet with Charles Lessing, representing make-up men, scenic artists and painters. The Actors' Guild meetings start on the same day.

Kenneth Thomson and Aubrey Blair are due here Friday. They are now at Sacramento.

Rockefeller Claim Hit at RKO Hearing

Atlas Corp., proponents of the RKO reorganization plan, in objecting to Israel's request, asserted that the validity of the claim is not at issue. He stated that the claim had been fully litigated before Special Master Thomas D. Thacher and that the only question involved was whether the settlement was one which "a reasonable business man would make."

Rockefeller Center attorneys will refuse to relitigate the claim, Rickaby said. He added, however, that negotiations to settle the objections to the plan of the unsecured creditors' committee are now under way, as well as similar negotiations over the objections of the First National Bank of Cincinnati, trustee under a $3,500,000 indenture issued by the RKO Midwest Corp.

Numerous Consents Filed

Consents to the plan were filed by RCA, which holds $4,893,327 of RKO debentures and 605,731 shares of common stock; by a group of secured creditors representing claims of $3,743,633; a second group representing claims of $1,118,500; Bank of America, N. A., with a secured claim of $481,000; Amerex Corp., a secured claim of $114,000; Van Neck, a secured claim of $35,000; Time, Inc., an unsecured claim of $1,198,000; Roy E. Larsen, an unsecured claim of $150,000; the Stillman Corp., unsecured claim of $95,000, and Mary A. Moulton, unsecured claim of $5,000.

In addition, Rickaby said that he had additional consents from unsecured creditors amounting to $2,500,000, presumably referring to the Atlas Corp.-Lehman Bros. holdings. He said that consents of 48 per cent of the common stock had been received from holders.

Three Objections Registered

In addition to the unsecured creditors' committee and the First National Bank of Cincinnati, objections to the plan were filed by John F. Stover on behalf of holders of 1,234 shares of old RKO Class A stock; by Charles Winkelman and George L. Schein, also representing Class A holders, who allege that RCA's consent to the plan is illegal, and by Edward Hickey, another Class A holder who, among other contentions, alleges that Section 77-B of the Federal Bankruptcy Laws under which RKO is being reorganized, is unconstitutional.

Rickaby reported that secured claims against RKO totaled $12,718,500, and unsecured claims, approximately $17,000,000, including the Rockefeller claim.

A. A. Belser of Price, Waterhouse, the first witness called, testified that RKO's net earnings for 1936 were $2,485,911 after deductions for interest on indebtedness but before deduction for arrears of $1,042,010 unpaid dividends on K-A-O preferred stock. RKO Radio Pictures earned $1,088,631 and RKO Pathe Pictures lost $195,000 after deductions for interest. Interest on Radio Pictures debentures was $763,079 for 1936.

KAO and B. F. Keith Officers Reelected

All officers of the Keith-Albee-Orpheum and B. F. Keith Corp., RKO theatre subsidiaries, were reelected for another year at the annual meeting of the boards of the two companies yesterday. The officers of the two theatre companies are identical.

Officers are Leo Spitz, chairman of the board and president; Malcolm Kingsberg, vice-chairman; Leon Goldberg, treasurer; O. R. McMahon, W. J. Kernan, William Murray and H. E. Newcomb, assistant treasurers; Louis Joffe, Harry M. Pimstein and William F. Whitman, assistant secretaries.

The post of secretary and general counsel which has not been filled since the death of James B. Field last year, remains vacant.

Born" at the Music Hall, which was attended by the group.

"The Woman I Love" ended a week at the same house with approximately $75,000. The current attraction probably will hit $100,000 on the week.

"Thunder in the City" last night replaced "You're in the Army Now," which tallied about $5,000 at the Criterion. Edward G. Robinson, star of "Thunder in the City," appeared in person at the 9 P. M. performance.

The Capitol garnered $25,750 on "Personal Property." "Good Old Soak" opened there yesterday to good business.

"Marked Woman" begins a third week at the Strand tomorrow.

"Courageous" to Be Roadshown by MGM

After a successful tryout at the Locust St., Philadelphia, Loew officials have decided to roadshow "Captains Courageous" throughout the country. Three dates were set yesterday and several more are now being considered.

On May 11, the picture will open at the Astor, replacing "The Good Earth," and at the Erie, San Francisco. On May 16, it will start a two-a-day engagement at the Colonial, Boston.

Bernstein, Schiller to Go South

David Bernstein and Col. E. A. Schiller will leave Sunday for Atlanta to study the southern territory preparatory to inaugurating Loew's checking system in New Orleans, Charlotte, Dallas and Atlanta.

The latest exchange to adopt the checking plan is Philadelphia. It is expected that the southern offices will begin their own checking as soon as the annual M-G-M sales convention winds up on the coast. When these branches adopt the system, it will be in operation in all of the company's offices.

Irwin Transplants

Hollywood, April 22.—Lou Irwin, after all these years along Broadway, plans to make Hollywood his permanent agency headquarters with trips to New York at three-month intervals. He is now having quarters prepared on "The Strip," Sunset Boulevard center for agents.

founded. The Fairmount is an 800-seat house.

Littlefield, a former eastern vice-president of national Allied, was once an independent member of the Boston Film Board of Trade. His withdrawal from theatre operation is expected to result in his retirement from Allied activities. It follows closely upon the contemplated withdrawal from Allied of H. M. Richey, general manager of Allied of Michigan, who stated this week that he was considering "an attractive offer" and would decide on retirement from organization activities in two weeks.

M. & P.'s acquisition of the Littlefield theatres is only one phase of an extensive expansion move on the part of the Paramount affiliate. The circuit recently closed with Edward Rosen for the State at East Milton, and has agreed upon terms for taking over the Waltham, Waltham, from Joe Druker. The Bayside, in Hull, was reopened last Saturday after being taken over from Daniel Murphy. New expansion moves, in addition, are reported to be in work following court approval recently of New England Theatres' purchase of Olympia Theatres' assets for $4,000,000. The purchase added 30 houses to New England's operations under Martin Mullin and Samuel Pinanski.

New first runs are being established throughout the circuit as a corollary to the expansion.

houses an extension of the building program announced in December, 1935. Since that time, four new houses have been added to the circuit, the Penn, Uptown, Sheridan and Calvert, which will be opened May 6. The exact locations of the four houses planned have not yet been set. With the four, the circuit in this territory will comprise 20 houses.

size of an organization, Cummings indicated, cannot be considered as prima facie evidence that it is either a trust or a violator of the anti-trust statutes.

A large number of complaints against distributors are said to have been received in recent months. All have been investigated and there are indications that some have been found sufficiently well based to warrant consideration of action.

Ampa Reservations Grow

Ralph Lund, Ampa secretary, states that 500 reservations for the organization's coming dinner-dance have been sold or "spoken for." He anticipates a record-breaking affair.

Ampa's election of officers will take place at the Hotel Edison next Thursday.

Outlook for Radio Probe Held Fading

are fearful that the session may be prolonged through August unless action is taken to eliminate all but "must" legislation, in view of the situation developed by President Roosevelt's recommendations for reorganization of the Supreme Court. Eleven weeks have elapsed since the President sent his message to Congress, yet the matter has not progressed beyond the committee hearing stage in the Senate.

It is conceded that a number of weeks will be required to get a court bill enacted, if one is successful, and Administration leaders are anxious that the session be concluded as soon thereafter as possible. For this reason, careful scrutiny is being given every proposal which might tend to delay adjournment.

If an investigation of the broadcasting situation were undertaken, it is expected that it would run for a considerable period since a large number of unsuccessful applications for broadcasting privileges would desire to present their case. The question of monopoly and alleged interest of public utilities in radio also would require much time for exploration.

Marconi's Son Will Study NBC Methods

Giulio Marconi, only son of Guglielmo Marconi, father of wireless, will join NBC next Monday to complete his already extensive broadcasting studies.

Giulio, who is 26, arrived in America last week to complete his apprenticeship. He is expected to remain at NBC for the next two or three years. He will spend several weeks in each of the network's various departments before deciding in which branch he wants to specialize.

He has had three years of study in broadcasting in England and Italy. His decision to become affiliated with NBC was influenced by the close friendship between his father and David Sarnoff, RCA president.

WHN Workers Shift Union Affiliations

In a surprise move disbanding the WHN chapter of the Ass'n of Technical Employes, a company union not recognized by the station, the engineers there swung over in a body to the C. I. O.'s American Radio Telegraphers Ass'n yesterday, and demanded a 40-hour week, a salary boost, and an immediate conference on working conditions.

The station's technical staff, all members of the company union, numbers 18 employes. It is understood the vote to swing over to the C. I. O. was unanimous.

Copies of their demands were forwarded to the National Labor Relations Board.

It is reported that the demands

"Drums"

First of WLW's commercial offerings piped to WHN was "Drums," heard yesterday from 2:30 to 2:45 P. M. It was also broadcast, via the WLW line, to the Colonial network stations in New England.

"Drums," a 15-minute program, got off to a particularly bad start hereabouts by offering the longest, windiest, and most insistent commercials heard in quite a spell of listening. Heard on the program were two organ solos, and a vocal number. The balance of the period was devoted to sales spiels. Arthur Chandler, Jr., is featured, in talks. He did little but talk about the sponsor's product.

The award will be presented to the individual who through amateur radio has contributed most usefully to the American people either in research, technical development or operating achievement.

Paley's award was first made public in an address by E. K. Cohan, CBS director of engineers, in 1936 at a central division convention of the American Radio Relay League.

The new KEHE studios comprise the last word in radio facilities. There are seven studios all told, a large "show" studio seating 300 persons; two orchestral studios; two drama studios, an announcers' studio, and a rehearsal studio. A new 5,000 watt high fidelity transmitter has been installed, also.

The opening ceremonies, April 26, will be a closed session of the KEHE staff and CRS officials, culminating in a banquet. Highlight programs to be offered during the dedication include "California Minstrels," "Hollywood Knights," "Captain Dobb's Ship of Joy Music," and others.

Because Thomas will be in Hollywood for the Fox convention the week of Mav 24, Upton Close will return to the series for that period.

Radio Shows Gain in Advertisers' Dollar

While newspapers still continued to get the principal share of the national advertisers' average dollar in 1936, radio has been whittling down the percentage steadily, the A.N.P.A. was informed yesterday by its Bureau of Advertising.

The newspapers part was 44 cents. Magazines received 33.6 cents, and chain broadcasting, 14 cents. In the previous five years, the newspapers averaged approximately 45 cents of every dollar, while radio has risen consistently in this period from 5.3 to 14 cents of every dollar.

In 1936, chain broadcasting increased its revenue by 21.1 per cent over the previous year, or from $167,000,000 to $188,000,000.

Gibbons Is Sued on Flood Radio Script

Floyd Gibbons is named defendant in a $250,000 suit filed in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday by Charles Locke, radio script writer. The plaintiff states that on Jan. 26, last, he arranged with Gibbons to cover the flood scenes at Cincinnati and to write a script on what he witnessed for Gibbons to broadcast the following night.

The broadcast was made and Gibbons allegedly distorted that script, although credit was given the plaintiff for having written it. Gibbons' version of the flood allegedly was "improper and misleading" which damaged the plaintiff's reputation for accuracy as a radio script writer.

Pathe Out of Finance Field For Long Time

Monogram Deal to Keep Laboratory Busy

With a financing and printing deal set with Monogram, Pathe has no plans to finance independent production for "a long time to come," it was learned yesterday. Pathe put up $200,000 on the Monogram deal.

On April 10, a one-year deal with Grand National expired. It is understood Grand National will not enter into another printing deal unless the laboratory finances part of its budget. A deal of this kind is understood to have been offered Pathe and turned down.

Reelections of Pathe officers will be held Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. The Bound Brook plant is said to be working at top speed and the company's financial structure is regarded by executives as being in "good shape."

Officers who will be renamed are O. Henry Briggs, president; Robert M. McKinney, vice-president; Thomas P. Loach, secretary and treasurer, and Dan Frenkel, sales manager.

Anti-War Council Hits Navy Film Aid

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Navy cooperation in the production of films today was attacked by the National Council for Prevention of War as offering opportunity for navy propaganda, expending taxpayers' money for private profit and unfair to professional film actors.

The attack, launched by Albert Benham, film director of the council, was precipitated by an article in a recent issue of the Army and Navy Register, a service periodical, describing how officers of the aircraft carrier Ranger and their wives and

Siegel Named As President For Republic

HOLLYWOOD, April 23.—With Moe Siegel elected president of Republic Pictures, the company today disclosed plans for producing 48 pictures for 1937-'38 release under a new unit production system.

The company's new season program consists of 32 features to be made by six production units, and 16 westerns and serials from two additional production units. The six feature production units are headed by Herman Schlom, Leonard Fields, Joe Krumgold, Bert Clark, Al Levine and Harry Grey.

The new program represents a reduction of 20 pictures from Republic's program for the season just closing. Last year, 32 westerns and serials were announced, as compared with the new season's 16, and 36 features, four in natural color, were scheduled, as compared with the 32 for next season.

Siegel, new president of Republic, has been associated with H. J. Yates, Consolidated Film head, for a number of years, and was formerly treasurer of Consolidated. He has been associated with the Republic studio in a business capacity for some time and has headed the studio since the resignation of Nat Levine from the presidency recently.

B. P. Schulberg Leaving Para. For 'A' Films

Will Complete Schedule For This Year

HOLLYWOOD, April 23.—B. P. Schulberg today broke with Paramount, stating that his releasing arrangement would be terminated upon completion of the present year's schedule. Emphasizing the fact that his action was prompted by a desire to make only A pictures, the former production chief at Paramount today stated:

"With the marked trend away from the so-called B pictures and toward exclusive A product, we are desirous of making fewer and more distinguished films in the future. Under our Paramount contract we were required to produce four A and four B pictures. In the future we will direct our efforts to the making of only A product. We have this year developed Edward Arnold into a positive character star occupying the position formerly held by George Arliss and Charles Laughton. We have brought out John Trent, who is hailed as a new important star. We are to launch O'Brien Heyward, whom we predict will be a new star sensation. With these players as a nucleus we believe we can perfect a small but imposing program of pictures comparable to the best A product in the industry."

The present distribution arrangement began last July, Schulberg said at his independently owned and operated Schulberg Studios. The company will continue to produce its pictures at this plant.

Studio Press Agents Reported Unionizing

HOLLYWOOD, April 23.—It is reported here that moves are under way to unionize studio press agents, one of the relatively few groups not organized at the present time.

The provisions of the recently-passed Wagner Act permit press agents to unionize if they so desire and to discuss wage scales and working hours under the established right of collective bargaining.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 23.

SAMUEL GOLDWYN embarks on what is for him a complete change of pace in "Woman Chases Man." Far removed from such serious vehicles as "Dodsworth," "Come and Get It" and "Beloved Enemy," this is a farce which develops speed and much fun in approximately its first two-thirds and then goes pretty much to pot in its conclusion. As it stands, however, the attraction has much more on its plus than on its minus side, and if it proves anything it demonstrates the inordinate difficulty of keeping a good thing moving its entire way. Other producers have experienced the same trouble.

Charles Winninger is a sort of screwball business man who goes more for gadgets than for sound ideas. His son, Joel McCrea, holds the moneybags through an inheritance and no longer proposes to shell out for his pater's harum scarum promotion. Miriam Hopkins is a graduate architect who barges in on Winninger seeking a job in the development of "Nolan Heights," Winninger's latest brainstorm. The delicate plot thereafter revolves around ways and methods, many of them funny and rib-tickling, of persuading McCrea to advance the necessary $100,000 to launch the scheme.

Leona Maricle provides a minor menace seeking McCrea's fortune on her own account and Erik Rhodes is a foreign conspirator. Miss Hopkins, for the first time in years, is afforded an opportunity to turn comedienne and does well in the sort of role she essayed when Ernst Lubitsch was directing his gilt-edged continental comedies. McCrea plays McCrea very well and Winninger is competently at home. Rhodes, however, does not quite hit it off. The final and too lengthy sequence played out strictly along farce and almost slapstick lines, assembles the principals in and under an expansive tree and gives the branches more of a load to bear than they successfully can carry. John Blystone directed with his usual flair for comedy.

Housamen Leaves to Work on U. A. Units

Crane Housamen of Cecil, Warwick & Cecil, advertising agency, left for Hollywood yesterday to open an office for the handling of special copy for three United Artists' producer accounts, Selznick International, Samuel Goldwyn and Walter Wanger.

While on the coast, Housamen will work on layouts for "Stella Dallas," a Goldwyn picture. He will return in a few weeks, following which several representatives from the local office will be sent out.

Flash Previews

"Thank You, Madame"—A simple story, entertainingly told—plus some excellent singing by Jan Kiepura.

"The Go Getter"—A fast-moving and excellent comedy, being an adaptation of one of Peter B. Kyne's "Cappy Ricks" stories.

These films will be reviewed in full in a coming issue of Motion Picture Daily.

Strausberg Acquires New Rochelle House

Sam Strausberg, Greater New York exhibitor, has closed a deal with Sam Minskoff & Sons, builders, for the new 600-seat theatre which is to be constructed in New Rochelle. The lease is for 21 years at a minimum rental of $300,000 plus a percentage of the gross receipts. The theatre is expected to be opened in October.

Harry Brandt had a deal on with Sam Minskoff for the new New Rochelle theatre which fell through when Loew's took over the Cameo in that city. The project had been offered to a number of independent exhibitors in the local territory who rejected it. Loew's and RKO have a pooling arrangement in the town and the Cameo, a 600-seat house, will become part of it.

The Ward Foundation, sponsored by the Ward Baking Co., also plans a new theatre in New Rochelle. A sign is displayed at one location. An executive of Ward Foundation stated yesterday that negotiations are under way to lease the new project and until that time no information will be available.

Blum Favors $5,000 Penalty on Records

Davilla against the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. of New York and the Brunswick Record Corp. for alleged infringement of the plaintiff's song, "You Made Me Like It, Daddy." Federal Court Judge Alfred C. Coxe granted an interlocutory decree and ordered an accounting of the profits on July 23, 1936.

Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., and the Brunswick Radio Corp. were also named as defendants, but the suit against them was dismissed. Davilla charged that the defendants made phonograph records of his copyrighted song without permission and asked for $27,180 damages.

Denies Buckler Reargument

Federal Court Judge John M. Woolsey yesterday denied the application of Edna Buckler for reargument on her plagiarism suit against Sidney Kingsley, Norman Bel Geddes, Samuel Goldwyn, Random House, Inc., and the 128 E. 37th St. Corp. The suit was dismissed after trial. Her action alleged that Kingsley's "Dead End" was pirated from her play "Money."

The request for reargument was in the form of a personal letter from Miss Buckler to Judge Woolsey who pointed out that he had written a lengthy opinion in the case and said that the only remedy left to the plaintiff was to appeal.

Allied Not to Back Jersey Theatre Bill

Allied of New Jersey is understood to have refused to support the theatre divorcement bill introduced in the legislature recently by Edison Hedges, Atlantic City attorney.

Lee Newbury, president of the local unit, conferred with Hedges early this week in an effort to learn what exhibitors had interested the attorney in introducing the bill.

No names were divulged, it is said, but it was learned that a number of independent exhibitors in Atlantic City and Camden were behind the move. However, Allied is watching the progress of the bill, which is expected to expire in committee.

Expect Defeat for Ohio Tax Increase

Columbus, April 23.—According to present indications in the Ohio legislature, the pending seven per cent increase in the admission tax will not be enacted, and exhibitors are beginning to take a much more optimistic view of the situation.

The House Taxation Committee last week disapproved the one-half cent increase in the gasoline tax with which the admission tax bill was coupled. Observers feel that this is tantamount to defeat of the admission impost.

Senator Keith Lawrence has introduced a resolution for the establishment of a new taxation committee to study the entire tax system, while a bill has been introduced setting up a system of collecting delinquent real and personal taxes, estimated to yield sufficient revenue to care for poor relief, for which the additional taxes were designed.

The legislature is to quit functioning on April 29, and adjourn sine die on May 10, according to present arrangements. Meanwhile, the various interests are putting forth every possible effort to avoid new taxes.

enlisted men took roles in a picture.

The organization has repeatedly attacked the part played by the navy in the making of films as a "stream of propaganda" for increasing armament appropriations.

"The navy's generosity to private business saves a private motion picture company the price of hiring actors," Benham asserted.

"There isn't enough work in the whole film industry to keep hundreds of actors and actresses in Hollywood from actual want. Perhaps scores will apply for every job available. Under the present policy of the navy, the Government is actually depriving professional actors of jobs.

"Incidentally, in view of the mounting taxes for tremendous military budgets, isn't it inconsistent with the plea for a larger and larger navy that the time and services of the officers and enlisted men of the navy can be spared for 'emoting' for the movies? Is it the navy's job to protect our shores from invasion, or to develop a carload of Clark Gables?"

RKO Drive for Theatres Here Is Continuing

Pooling Deals Expected Before New Season

RKO is continuing its drive for additional theatres, including a number of pooling arrangements which are expected to be set before the new season gets under way.

Tentative agreements are understood to have been made whereby the circuit will take over three Westchester houses within the next few weeks. These are in addition to the Parkway, Mt. Vernon, which was acquired recently and plans for building new theatres at Allerton Ave. and White Plains Rd. and at Sound View and Westchester Aves., Bronx.

The pooling deals are said to affect territories outside of the Greater New York area.

Last year, about this time, the circuit added a number of theatres and also made several pooling agreements.

The moves, it was stated, are not designed to fight independents but rather to build up the circuit's first run situations. In all instances where theatres have been acquired, the units have been taken over from unaffiliated exhibitors.

Big Films Keep First Run Grosses Up to $1,716,387

First run grosses held up in 29 key cities last week in spite of the reaction that usually sets in after the Easter rush and the return of children to school after their spring vacations. The total take in 180 first run houses for the week ending April 16-17 was $1,716,387.

This was only $99,463 below the previous week. It was $292,356 below the 1937 high mark of $2,008,743 set up Easter Week.

Some big pictures accounted for the showing. "Maytime," "Top of the Town," "On the Avenue," "Waikiki Wedding," "Personal Property," "Swing High, Swing Low" and "History Is Made at Night" were turning in excellent grosses everywhere. These were exclusive of "The Good Earth" and "Lost Horizon," which were being shown on a roadshow basis and are not counted in the first run tabulations.

Comparative tabulation is listed on page 12.

Question Need of Kansas Censorship

Kansas City, April 25.—Repercussions from the recent action of the Kansas film censor board in deleting from a "March of Time" issue the remarks of Senator Burton K. Wheeler in opposition to the President's court plan, may lead to agitation for the elimination of film censorship in Kansas.

The Journal-Post, declaring the action of the board, which was later rescinded, to have been "thoughtless," poses the proposition: "Kansas may well ask itself whether it needs a state board to say what it can and cannot hear in its motion picture theatres."

The paper goes on to say, "The Kansas board was created to protect

Report 20th-Fox Will Raise Offer on Roxy

That 20th Century-Fox has agreed to alter its offer for the reorganization and leasing of the Roxy was indicated on Saturday by attorneys for Roxy security holders and creditors who stated that "final approvals are being awaited."

The hearing on the Roxy reorganization plan, scheduled to resume today before Special Master Addison Pratt after a one-week adjournment to permit negotiations for an improved offer from 20th Century-Fox, will be postponed until tomorrow to await the expected approvals, it was said. Attorneys declined to disclose what changes would be made in the film company's offer prior to the receipt of approvals.

Circuits Ask For Long Term Product Deals

Some Distributors Not in Favor of Plan

With the new buying season under way, major circuits are making every effort to enter into long term product deals. Arrangements for playing pictures over a period of years will obviate the need of long conferences on sale of product and will eliminate continued discussions through the summer months.

Some of the major distributors are not in favor of the plan, preferring to settle yearly product problems as soon as conventions are over.

Last year National Theatres concluded a three-year arrangement with M-G-M. The distributor also sold three-year deals to a number of Paramount theatre partners. In addition, National closed a two-year pact for Paramount's output last season.

Film buyers for National are now discussing new deals with Warners, United Artists and Columbia. Although the circuit has offered Warners a two-year agreement, Gradwell L. Sears, general sales manager, has not committed himself to an arrangement beyond next season's product so far. However, deliberations are continuing with the hope a two-year pact will be agreed upon. Talks on Universal pictures await the return of James

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 25.

TALES from the Hollywood Hills:

Walter Winchell to Jack Barrymore at The Brown Derby, gallery including Abe Lastfogel, Johnny Hyde, Abe Waxman, "Curley" Harris, Marc Lachmann, Sidney Skolsky and John Steinberg:

The "blessed event" commentator: "Yes, I have two children."

America's leading profile: "What sex?"

W. W.: "A boy and a girl. Walda says she likes me as a movie actor, not as a newspaper man."

J. B.: "Dear me, what a peculiar choice!" . . .

Here, as elsewhere, there are postal zones. From at least one point in Hollywood, local mail clears with a two-cent stamp. Those who insist solemnly this story is true, so help them, are chuckling over the efficiency move inaugurated by an official whose lot is outside the two-cent limit. His order of the day provides for the collection of all mail for shipment to a box within the two penny zone by studio car. Gas consumption alone eats up the rate difference. . . .

"Still with Warners?" your reporter asked Mervyn LeRoy.

"Warners are still with me, you mean," he replied.

This successful director, now a producer with his own setup within that organization, covers a great deal of ground when he says:

"Make pictures for those who walk, not those who ride, and you've got box-office." . . .

Charles Kaufman, a writer now teamed with Paul Yawitz, née a Broadway columnist, on the RKO lot, has recovered from a rat bite encountered on Billy Wilkerson's tennis court, but not from the suspicion it might have been an agent in disguise. . . .

The brazier burned brightly. The brandy exuded a blue flame. The ceremony of the crepe suzette was under way. "Fancy, eh!" said Herman Robbins to Hal Horne. "You know me," answered Hal, "I got to have my *lotkas, Hollywood or not." . . .

These parts embrace a tall and lanky actor who was so unbelievably awkward in his last picture he eventually had his studio officials stopped. They turned reluctant about letting his option slide. They were afraid that what was really rotten acting might represent a new technique.

The town's beauties are wearing colorful, silk handkerchiefs, peasant fashion, to keep their coiffures in order.

This is the one visible sign in Hollywood that the revolution may be on its way. . . .

Gabe Yorke to your wanderer: "What's the matter? You don't look so well today. You look as if you've been dragged through a preview." . . .

Conversation piece:

"That actor! What a ham! The first three days he was terrible. Then he got steadily worse." . . .

Viola Brothers Shore, the writer, insists that for years she has been living in Hollywood with one foot on The Chief. . . .

ITOA Predicts U. S. Circuit Deal Study

The Federal Trade Commission will inquire into the possible effects on the local subsequent run situation of the current Loew's and RKO expansion moves in the metropolitan area, according to the current issue of The Independent, publication of the I. T. O. A.

"Regardless of statements to the contrary," the paper says, "the theatre expansion moves of Loew's and RKO in New York are regarded by independent exhibitors as aimed directly at them and foresee drastic inroads into their business if the expansion goes ahead." The article charges that Loew's objective in expanding and the formulation of its sales and theatre policies "are made purposely with the express view of having an exclusive Loew run on all M-G-M product in New York."

See F. C. C. Aid

"Local exhibitors are not sure what moves they will make to combat the circuit's plans," the article concludes, "but are assured that the Federal Trade Commission will interest itself in the matter."

The publication reports that while the move for the formation of a third national exhibitor organization "has gained momentum, no concerted support has yet made itself evident." It adds that the next step will be to contact independent exhibitor organizations without national affiliations to enlist their support in inaugurating the movement.

Bondy to Hear RKO Claim Issue May 19

Federal Judge William Bondy on petition of the Irving Trust Co., trustees for RKO, on Saturday set May 19 for the hearing on the settlement of claims of the RKO Proctor Corp. and the Security First National Bank of Los Angeles against RKO. The Security claim for $771,000 is to be settled for $350,000.

The claim is based upon a guarantee of a supplemental indenture made by the San Diego Holding Co., Ltd., an RKO subsidiary of the claimants as trustee. This indenture was executed in connection with the transfer in San Diego of office and theatre property known as the Commonwealth Building. The claim of RKO Proctor for $10,431 is to be settled for $10,350 and is based upon income tax refund received by the parent company in 1934 for taxes paid in 1929 and 1930 for the subsidiary.

Authorizes Dividend

Federal Judge Martin T. Manton on Saturday authorized Milton C. Weisman, as receiver of the Fox theatres, to pay five per cent on an interim dividend on the claim of the Lexington Ave. & 59th St. Corp. and the Nandies Realty Corp. and Theatre Builders, Inc., creditors of the Fox theatres whose claims have been adjudicated.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Go Getter"

(Warners)

Hollywood, April 25.—This is excellent entertainment for all. It is fast moving comedy and drama with first rate performances. The intelligent direction is aimed for comedy and emotional reaction. The story is an adaptation from Peter B. Kyne's "Cappy Ricks" stories and moves swiftly with many unusual twists. The names of George Brent, Anita Louise and Charles Winninger should prove good box-office news for showmen in all spots.

The story is somewhat familiar, but incidental situations accentuate the entertaining highlights. Brent emerges from a naval dirigible disaster with a wooden leg. With sheer nerve he forces his way into a job with a lumber company and into the hearts of Charles Winninger, the company owner, and his daughter, Miss Louise. Competitive friction results when he goes over the head of John Eldredge to secure the job. A brief romantic triangle results when Brent engages the interest of Miss Louise away from Eldredge. In routine fashion Brent proves himself a real go-getter by selling lumber no one else could peddle. He thereby attracts Winninger's attention. The climactic break comes when Brent mentions marriage and Winninger backs water on his daughter's intentions. Winninger places obstacles in Brent's way which he overcomes and which finally culminate in his promotion to company manager. Eldredge is dispatched to an oriental location. The impetuous Winninger is still blustering at the fadeout.

The leads turn in splendid performances. Busby Berkeley's direction is well balanced and effective. The Delmer Daves screenplay leaves no dull spots. Arthur Edison's photography is above the average. Well turned supporting parts are given by Joseph Crehan, Gordon Oliver and Eddie Acuff.

Production Code Seal No. 2,934. Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

"Angel's Holiday"

(20th Century-Fox)

Hollywood, April 25.—A spicy bit of laugh entertainment for any bill. Jane Withers delivers her particular brand of comedy in her delightful, pleasing style.

As "Angel," a cute and devilish kid on a holiday, little Miss Withers succeeds in almost wrecking a romance, gets people in jail, makes headlines and rounds up a band of racketeers singlehanded. Things move fast when Ray Walker's disappearing publicity stunt for Sally Blane, a film star, backfires through the efforts of Miss Withers and Robert Kent, a reporter. Kent smears the fake hideout story over the front page. Miss Withers shows her jealousy by stealing unflattering pictures of Kent and Miss Blane before success came and slipping them to the editor. There are the obvious romantic repercussions. The series of comedy situations are climaxed when the town's gangsters headed by Harold Huber move in on Miss Blane and her girl friend, Joan Davis. They hold the girls at Al Lydell's farm and start their shakedown negotiations. Miss Withers and Kent soon arrive and spoil their plans, however. The film has the usual romantic finish.

Miss Withers' imitation of Burns and Allen is a riot. Joan Davis stands out with comedy-dance numbers. Lydell plays the hayseed expertly. The performances of Miss Withers, Kent, Miss Blane, Huber and Frank Jenks are carried off in expert style. James Tinling's direction is workmanlike for its blending of speed and its comedy balance. Frank Fenton's and Lynn Root's screenplay packs plenty of chuckles.

Production Code Seal No. 3,201. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

"Wake Up and Live" is expected to tally $62,000 for the first week at the Roxy. The picture may hold for three weeks.

Because of an agreement between the Hays organization and churches, the theatre could not open before noon yesterday, thereby tapering the take of the previous day.

Running time, 18½ mins. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"The Late Mathias Pascal"

(French M. P. Corp.)

The French version of Luigi Pirandello's novel develops interesting drama. The portrayals and novel story material should be found provocative by foreign enthusiasts. It is superbly acted.

Mathias Pascal is married to the conniving Romilda in Miragno, an Italian town. He is thought to be wealthy by her mother, who soon is aware of his poverty. She becomes irksome and creates tension at their home. Pascal's mother loses her dwindling estate and dies. She is buried in a pauper's grave.

Pascal tires of his predicament and disappears. While traveling to Marseilles he meets an adventurer and the pair go to Monte Carlo. Luck is with Pascal and he makes a "killing" at the tables. Financially secure again, he returns to Italy. He visits his mother's grave one day and learns from a gravedigger that he is believed to be a suicide and is to be buried in a little while. He views "his" funeral procession and observes the hypocricy of his relatives. In disgust he goes to Rome. At a boarding house where a strange assortment of characters live he meets and falls in love with Adrienne. His apprehensions about his identity cause him to return to his home town where he finds his wife, or widow rather, remarried. His return causes consternation and fright which he uses to further his own ends. He compels his brother-in-law to forge new credentials and finally he departs for happiness with Adrienne.

English subtitles will be inserted when the film is released here. The cast includes Pierre Blanchar, Isa Miranda, Robert Le Vigan, Marcel Vallee, Palau, Catherine Fontenay, Sinoel and Margo Lion.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, 90 minutes. "A."

"The Gold Racket"

(Grand National)

A moderately exciting drama that has to do with the breaking up of a gold smuggling ring capitalizing on the high prices the Government is paying for the yellow gold. It unfolds along the time-tried and familiar G-man lines.

Conrad Nagel is assigned to bring in the gang. He gets a lead on a Mexican mine and is soon joined across the border by Eleanor Hunt. Miss Hunt, his colleague, poses in a night spot as an entertainer. She gains the confidence of a member of the gang and soon has enough information to make arrests. The scene switches to the states. Nagel and Miss Hunt establish themselves near the receiving end of the illegal activities, and with a series of routine situations the film ends with the outlaws in the hands of the law.

The supporting cast includes Fuzzy Knight, Frank Milan, Charles Delaney, Warner Richmond, Ed Le Saint and Earl Hackett. Louis J. Gasnier directed.

Production Code Seal No. 3,140. Running time, 65½ minutes. "G."

"Bar Z Bad Men"

(Republic)

From its opening sequences to the final fadeout this western packs action, excitement and movement into a tale of cattle-rustling, murder, and general skullduggery which is solved and avenged in good style by Johnny Mack Brown.

Tom London is changing the brand on Frank LaRue's herd and shifting the animals to graze on Jack Rockwell's pastures when Brown arrives on the scene. Shortly after Rockwell, Brown's partner, is murdered. The evidence points to LaRue. Lois January, his daughter, attempts to shield her father and meets Brown. But Brown senses something strange in London's quick appearance on the scene of the murder and does a little investigating. There follows many brawls and shootings which eventually result in the capture of London and his gang.

Sam Newfield directed. The original story is by James P. Olsen. Bert Longenecker photographed.

Production Code Seal No. 2,913. Running time, 51 minutes. "G."

Lowe Adds Another To Kansas Circuit

Kansas City, April 25.—F. L. Lowe has taken over the Nueva at Stafford, Kan., from E. A. Briles. This brings Lowe's string in Kansas to five. He operates also in Sterling, Hays, Lyons and Lucas. The Nueva is being rebuilt following a bad fire several weeks ago. Brile edits the Stafford newspaper and is a representative in the Legislature.

F. D. Morris plans to open his new 400-seat house at Meade, Kan., this month. Valentine De Temple has purchased the Lee at Lees Summit, Mo., from Wayne Jenkins. Jenkins is remodeling his Peoples at Pleasant Hill, Mo.

Approximately $10,000 is being spent by W. J. Gable and Glen W. Dickinson on the Dickinson in Beloit, Kan., on new seats, cooling system, carpets, drapes, canopy, etc. Gable manages the house and is part owner.

Earl Shutt and W. A. Sams will open their new 850-seat house at Clinton, Mo., about May 15. The partners are spending approximately $40,000 on the theatre. H. Hanson and Elmer Kunz are planning a new spot at Burlingame, Kan., for opening next month.

Editorial Pen Joins Kansas Film Battle

Kansas City, April 25.—Civic pride in Kansas City, Kan., just will not down and, fed by such incendiary editorials as the one which affirms "The interests of Kansas City, Kansas, . . . must be served," it may yet force a rezoning of the territory which would place its two first run houses on an even footing with the first runs of Kansas City, Mo.

The declaration that the city's interests must be served was made in a two-column, first page editorial in the Kansas City Kansan, which warned that the civic ignominy of being a "second run town" would not be tolerated much longer.

Kansas City, Kan., is separated from Kansas City, Mo., only by the Kaw River and an ephemeral state line. Its Electric and Granada, which it contends should rate as first runs, follow the Missouri city's first runs by 28 days. An additional 10 houses which are now third runs, should be advanced to second runs, the Kansans contend.

Portable Gains Fail To Disturb Midwest

Kansas City, April 25.—Theatre men in this section appear to be little concerned over the rapid growth of portable circuits. It is said that at least 15 new circuits of this kind have been opened this spring, raising the total in this exchange area to about 40. This is three times as many as there were two or three years ago.

The circuits appeared during the depression, but the depression is not regarded as the direct cause. Except in rare instances, the towns they serve are not theatre towns and are not likely ever to be. The exceptions are those spots where some adventurous exhibitor has taken a chance and has failed at some past time. The towns have a population of 600 or 700.

A rough estimate indicates that almost 200 small towns and villages are being served by the portable operators.

Circuits Ask For Long Term Product Deals

R. Grainger, general sales manager, from Hollywood.

Loew circuit executives have been holding a series of meetings with United Artists and Paramount sales heads on long term deals. The circuit has 10-year franchises with both distributors which expire this summer. No agreement has been reached on the period of years the new deals will cover, but this angle is expected to be set within the next few weeks.

Last season, Nate J. Blumberg and John J. O'Connor of the RKO circuit completed arrangements with Warners on a four-year pact. This deal was for the distributor's entire lineup in the circuit's Greater New York houses.

Recently, RKO signed the Schine circuit of approximately 80 theatres in New York, Ohio and Kentucky for three years. J. Meyer Schine and George Lynch of the independent circuit have similar arrangements with a number of other film companies.

RKO's metropolitan circuit and Metropolitan Playhouses have 10-year deals with 20th Century-Fox which have some time to run.

March Ticket Tax Hits $1,539,408

lections of $1,255,393, the Bureau reported.

For the first quarter of the current year, collections totaled $4,518,437, against $4,119,924 in the corresponding period in 1936, it was stated. For the first nine months of the current fiscal year a gain of $1,743,819 was shown, receipts being $14,738,614 against $12,994,795 a year ago.

Indications that the bulk of the improved theatre business in March was largely outside the Metropolitan centers are seen in figures for the Broadway district of New York, where total tax collections were but $511,185 compared with $558,620 in February.

Admission tax collections in the third New York district were $448,549 against $476,932 in February, other collections being as follows: Free or reduced rate admissions, $2,939, against $7,552; tickets sold by brokers $13,922 against $14,047; tickets sold by proprietors in excess of established prices, $2,458 against $5,052; permanent use or lease of boxes and seats, $29 against $14; admissions to roof gardens and cabarets, $43,287 against $55,023.

Seek Release Of Talent for Work on Stage depend to a large extent on the availability of modern film theatres, as no new legitimate theatre construction has been undertaken in recent years and few of the existing legitimate houses have either modern acoustical or air conditioning equipment.

In connection with the discussions for facilitating the release of film talent from contracts in order to make them available to the stage during regular periods of the year, the convention is also scheduled to discuss the effect on the stage of picture option contracts.

Other subjects scheduled for discussion include admission scale levels for the road, types of plays suitable for the road, subsidization and dramatic education for aspiring dramatists, methods for increasing play production, play financing, new theatres and improved physical conditions for existing theatres, Governmental financial aid for the stage, how the legitimate theatre may benefit most from the expenditure of WPA funds, the national theatre and other topics.

The American Theatre Council was formed recently by the League of N. Y. Theatres, Actors' Equity Assn., the Dramatists' Guild and labor organizations affiliated with the stage.

Question Need of Kansas Censorship

the morals of Kansans from the supposedly evil designs of Hollywood. It is a long jump from a Mae West bathtub scene to the expression of political opinion, but the board managed to negotiate it.

"Not without reason they detect in it (the censors' action) a viewpoint which might be molded to condone dictatorship, for censorship is the basis of dictatorship."

The Kansas City Star called the reversal of the board's decision a "victory for good sense," and excused the deletion order as "merely a lapse in judgment, rather than any deliberate attempt at political censorship.

"At the same time it would be a mistake to minimize the importance of the principle involved," the paper continued.

The Star noted that the "state organic law provides that 'the liberty of the press shall be inviolate,' while apparently freedom of speech on the screen could be—and was about to be—violated."

Wisconsin Measure Affects Billboards

Favorite program of the CBS network engineers is the recorded show of Arthur Godfrey heard by them over the network each Saturday morning. Networks have a ruling against recorded programs; therefore the above requires explaining. Godfrey conducts recorded programs over WJSV, Washington. However, he is in New York Fridays for the announcing job on the "Professor Quiz" program, and is unable to return to Washington in time for his local program. He therefore broadcasts from the CBS studios in New York. The program is carried over the full CBS line, but is only released over WJSV. The day after the opening day Manager Rodríguez was the recipient of many 'phone calls. The first six he regarded humorously; the next six not so humorously. Reports Big Spot Air Gains

This year has seen a tremendous increase in the amount of spot radio broadcasting, reported Jack Latham, in charge of spot broadcasting at Young and Rubicam, in a talk at the Advertising Club Saturday last.

"The small advertiser is rapidly learning broadcasting is not only for the big fellow," he said, "and the national advertiser is finding out that he can use spots to overcome local situations and do a high powered local sales job in contrast with the more or less institutional advertising used nationally."

the recent floods. Reenactments of the warnings and messages broadcast by the station during the flood crisis will be heard on the program.

Previous winners of the CBS medal, beginning in 1929, have been Sir John C. W. Reith, director general of BBC; Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Amelia Earhart Putnam, Leopold Stokowski, Nino Martini and Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd.

KGB Studio to Be Revamped

San Diego, April 25.—Three months and several thousand dollars will be spent by Don Lee on a complete studio overhaul for KGB.

A major operation will be the construction of an announcers' booth and monitor room in the main studio. The announcers' microphones and turntables at present are in an adjoining room from which only one corner of the studio is visible. This has necessitated a complicated system of hand and light signals, particularly during dramatic skits requiring sound effects. The station at present is airing something like 100 local shows a month. Because of this it will take about three months for painters and carpenters to complete their work without disrupting schedules.

Make Emergency Recording

Los Angeles, April 25.—KHJ's technical forces met an emergency condition very successfully when it was found that the quarter hour allotted to Bryan Field, turf commentator at the Jamaica Racetrack, New York, would have to be signed off before he had concluded his customary foreword anent field, starting positions, breeding and probable chances of each entry, Field's description was recorded and half an hour later, when there were no "previous commitments" to interfere, the transcription was broadcast over the same Mutual coast-to-coast network.

H. B. Humphrey to Be Honored

Boston, April 25.—Henry B. Humphrey, chairman of the board of the H. B. Humphrey Co., will be the guest of the New England Council, American Ass'n of Advertising Agencies at a dinner here May 19, recognizing his 50th anniversary as head of the agency bearing his name. William H. Johns of Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn, New York, will be the toastmaster.

To Broadcast China Flight

San Francisco, April 25.—Carlton E. Morse, "One Man's Family" scripter, who will be a passenger in the China Clipper's first flight to China, April 28, will broadcast a description of the trip after he reaches Hong Kong.

The program will be shortwaved to Point Reyes, 30 miles north of San Francisco, and relayed to one of the NBC coast-to-coast networks. NBC will air Morse again on his return.

Portions of the flight may be incorporated in a new series of radio scripts by Morse.

Increase Thompson Coast Staff

Hollywood, April 25.—The local J. Walter Thompson office staff will be boosted to 35 with this week's arrival of writer-producers to work on national network shows. Dwight Cook, formerly with Time Magazine and the air and picture dramatizations of Time, arrived here recently to work with Shirley Ward on the new Chase and Sanborn show. Richard Mack is due this week to write the Edgar Berger and Charley MacCarthy gag stuff for the same show. Arriving Thursday will be Whitten Badger to work on the Grace Moore-Nash airing.

KMMJ Has Rooster

Clay Center, Neb., April 25.—The only rooster crowing for radio is boasted by Station KMMJ here in "Old Trusty," a White Wyandotte owned and trained by Dent Holcomb, local hatchery manager and announcer for the station's Sunday morning gospel and song service. Holcomb has taught that rooster, which opens the 7:15 morning programs, to crow at his command.

Federal Theatre to Go on KYA

San Francisco, April 25.—Radio and theatre have made a new tieup here, with plans for KYA to broadcast several times weekly from the Alcazar. The skits will be staged especially for radio by members of the Federal Theatre Project, which uses the house for its stage productions.

A special radio studio will be constructed in the theatre basement. Broadcasts will start early in May.

Theatres Will Hear Coronation Program

London, April 17.—Official notice has been issued by the British Broadcasting Corp. that public reproduction by loud speaker of the broadcast of the Coronation will be permitted without restriction, except on the actual route of the procession. Similar permission has been granted by the Earl Marshal and by the Performing Rights Society.

Theatres throughout the country will take full advantage of the opportunity. Practically every establishment in the U. K. will feature the broadcast, which otherwise would keep a large percentage of patrons at home. In the great majority of cases film programs will include one or two of the special patriotic features released at Coronation time.

The news films of the Coronation, which will be flown to hundreds of British theatres the same day, will be the attraction of later performances at practically all large theatres and a great number of them will remain open until 2 or 3 A. M. Permits to stay open until 4 A. M., are being asked for news theatres.

All London West End houses will retain the extended opening hours throughout Coronation week.

Newsreels Complete Coronation Details

London, April 17.—Representatives of the five newsreel companies, meeting in the Pathe offices, completed their plans for cooperation on the Coronation picture.

Of main importance was the decision that it was technically possible to obtain good quality pictures of the ceremony in the Abbey itself, despite the dim light.

The possibility of filming the Abbey ceremony in Technicolor is still being explored, and trial shots have been made during a rehearsal of the ceremony.

Movietone has imported a number of special wide-aperture Technicolor cameras in order to meet the difficult lighting problem, for color, presented in the Abbey, which will not be specially lighted for the Coronation.

Meet Today to Settle Coast Union Problem

Session First of Series on The Situation

By MILT WATT

HOLLYWOOD, April 26. — Tomorrow production and union forces will meet for the purpose of settling the labor rumblings which for the past three years have added a fuzzy tone to the otherwise euphonious film industry sound track. Producers for some time have cautiously observed unionism asserting itself in the cinematic scene, more conscious of the labor child's spectacular growth within the last two weeks than at any former period in the industry's history.

Several days ago the Supreme Court cast the die that shifted the weight of the union-producer scale to the labor side when it ruled favorably on the validity of the Wagner Act. Producers immediately held hurried conferences with their attorneys and discovered that the film business is interstate and not intrastate commerce and came under the terms of the Wagner Act. Simply, this meant that

Technicians in East Form Separate Union

Film technicians employed in eastern laboratories have broken away from the I.A.T.S.E., the A.F.L. affiliate, and have formed a new union, the Film Technicians' Independent Union.

The action was taken Saturday, when at a regular I.A. meeting, certain demands of the technicians were refused by I.A. officials. The new group claims a total of 600 members, which, they contend, amounts to a majority of the technicians working in the eastern plants. At the I.A. meeting the technicians complained to Richard Walsh, vice-president, of undemocratic leadership, and the vote

Monogram Offering 350,000 $1 Shares

Monogram Pictures Corp., through J. A. Sisto & Co., today makes public offering of 350,000 shares of its $1 par value common stock listed in the published prospectus at $3.75 per share. The offering is in line with the company's recently announced policy of expansion.

"Wake Up" Passes Attendance Mark of "The Cockeyed World"

"Wake Up and Live" attracted 38,825 persons who paid $35,700 to the Roxy cashiers over the weekend. The opening hour has been advanced to 10 A.M. from 11 A.M. this week. The attendance figure, according to the management, is a new record and exceeds by 284 the former mark set by "The Cockeyed World" in 1929.

"The Good Earth" in its 12th week at two-a-day prices garnered $11,500. It will bow out of the Astor on May 10 to make way for "Captains Courageous."

"Swing High, Swing Low" and Louis Armstrong and his band on the stage is slated to tally $38,000 for the second week at the Paramount, ending tonight.

The world premiere of "The Prince and the Pauper" will be held at the Strand, May 5.

No Decision on Theatres Abroad, Says H. M. Warner

No decision has been made on setting up Warner show windows in key centers of the world, Harry M. Warner, Sam E. Morris and Joseph Bernhard stated yesterday upon their return from abroad.

"We've been looking and talking, but there is nothing definite," the Warner executives said.

Bernhard emphatically denied Warners were interested in the G. B. circuit. "There is no truth to the reports," he added. Bernhard was away four weeks and limited his trip to London and Paris.

Warner said there was nothing new to report on the trip. However, Morris stated that theatres all over are doing a big business.

"Construction on the new Teddington studios has just been completed," Morris said, "and 20 pictures will be made there next season."

No foreign representatives from abroad will attend the annual sales convention May 10-13 at the Waldorf-Astoria here, he said.

Warner and Morris visited France, Italy, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and England. They were away seven weeks. The return crossing was

ST. PAUL, April 26.—The Minnesota legislature adjourned Saturday night, virtually ending the chance of any action this year on the Allied-sponsored theatre divorcement measure, which has been before the legislature.

Reisman Calls Quota Serious Sales Problem

May Compel Withdrawal From Australia

The increase in number and stringency of quota laws throughout the world was cited as one of the most serious problems of the industry's foreign operations by Phil Reisman, RKO Radio foreign sales head, on his return to New York yesterday from a four months round-the-world trip.

Discussing the New South Wales quota act specifically, Reisman said that if its provisions could not be relaxed, American companies would be forced from the market entirely. He stated, however, that he believes a satisfactory solution can be worked out with the arrival here in the near future of a delegation headed by Frederick Daniell, which the New South Wales government is sending to New York to discuss the act's provisions.

Reisman pointed out that American companies lost approximately $3,500,000 on production activities in England under the quota requirements of that company, and estimated that the same companies would lose approximately $3,000,000 in 1939 if the Australian quota is enforced. The American

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 26.

DAVE SELZNICK is in a quandary and admits it. Strictly a business quandary, the indecision rampaging through his mind these warm and sunshiny Hollywood days is where to take his 1937-'38 distribution. A deal has been discussed with Metro, or rather Metro has broached a deal, using "Gone with the Wind" as a springboard. That much was piped into New York as far back as three weeks ago. Now Selznick takes himself east in a few days accompanied by Jock Whitney, one of his partners, who include Sonny Whitney, a socialite like Jock; Robert Lehman of Lehman Brothers, John Hertz of the same banking firm, Dave's brother, Myron, and Norma Shearer, who holds a sizeable block of Selznick International stock. . . .

Selznick has no quarrel with the United Artists sales machine. It's done a job for him on "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and "The Garden of Allah" and his expectancy is it will be a repeat performance on "A Star Is Born," which, according to infiltration through the mountains, may do as much as $100,000 at the Music Hall in New York this week. He does speculate, however, on the cost of his distribution and refuses to be content that United Artists may reap as much as $700,000 for its share on a Selznick-anticipated $2,700,000 international gross on "Allah." That, Selznick contends, will net more return than he will earn as the producer. . . .

The understanding in these parts is that Selznick, therefore, has been approached on the suggestion that he become a United Artists owner-member which, in turn, suggests Walter Wanger one of these minutes may get the identical thought if he has not already. On such a basis, Selznick would earn whatever profits his pictures may earn, but also get his split of the net of United Artists Distributing Corp. There's the one possibility. Another, your scout learns, toys with the excitement of buying an existing organization. About that Selznick breaks down sufficiently to remark "it is only the shell of an organization now and besides I don't know if I want the headaches of running a large studio and making a lot of pictures each year." A sort of 20th-Century-amalgamation-with-Fox-idea, it is. . . .

The Metro bait, there is reason to credit, sprang out of Al Lichtman's head. Not only would it give Selznick Clark Gable for the Rhett Butler role, but $2,000,000 to make the picture, a percentage of the profits and distribution at twenty per cent. The difference between this extremely low selling cost and the thirty per cent or more which prevails in other directions on a picture like "Gone with the Wind," for which almost as many millions in gross as you have fingers are assumed automatically around the Selznick camp, becomes, even at quick glance, a formidable item of which Dave is fully alive and aware. . . .

The cost of distribution, at a moment when he is endeavoring to determine his future association, causes him to remark about the lack of advance with which he views that one angle of this three-cornered industry. "Not a bit of progress has been made in that direction. Selling costs are brutal insofar as the producer is concerned. It is strange that, in many cases, the man who creates the product without which the distributor would have nothing, gets less for his labor than the machine that sells it. It seems fantastic. I recall my father [Lewis J. Selznick] once had a plan under way with the American Railway Express whereby that company would build central exchanges, handle each film shipment at so much per, but, of course, in no wise interfere with individual company sales enterprise. It would save millions for this industry. Why it has not been, and is not done is something beyond my understanding." . . .

And beyond our own, let us interrupt Selznick's story long enough to interpose. The film delivery services now carry the prints of all companies, dumping the cans with no regard to label beyond its message telling where the consignment goes. In parcel post, railway express and airmail, obviously the procedure is identical. What possible difference what inspectors in whose exchange inspect so long as the job is thorough, is not clear unless it is to preserve pride of extended organization and keep distribution payrolls swollen beyond a necessary point. However. . . .

Making a limited number of pictures a year—Selznick has done only three this season, although "The Prisoner of Zenda" is in work—and at a very fancy negative cost, per each, this aggressive producer who sets the pace in Hollywood preview swagger naturally must be opposed to double features. Unlike the school of thought, concentrated in and about the studios which turn out anywhere from thirty-six to sixty-five each year, Selznick scoffs with a mighty scoff the theory B product helps develop new and raw talent. Listen: "Duals are like giving away a second pair of pants with each suit. Product aimed at the double feature market never has made a star. In fact, the practice of using the same personality as many as five or six times a year, is very apt to ruin that personality." . . .

Keen for biography, last year, Selznick has not changed his mind this. However, and as he puts it, he first wants to see the costume picture slip into the background. Therefore and so far as he is concerned, he will do no more for the time being after completion of the Margaret Mitchell novel and "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer." On the matter of costs, which occasion groans and eyes turned appealingly toward Heaven no sooner are they mentioned, he admits quickly enough that Hollywood is going broke. But talking about it and doing something thereafter continue to be two different things and so, while Selznick realizes the danger, he cannot see what can be done about it. There was a time here about a year ago when certain players were described as members of a charmed circle that earned $150,000 a picture. "Now," quoting Selznick, "the $200,000 division is beginning to assert itself. Labor costs are rising. It's simply up all along the line and there it is." . . .

20th-Fox to Present Changed Roxy Offer

A "slightly changed" offer in connection with the reorganization of the Roxy will be presented by 20th Century-Fox to Special Master Addison S. Pratt today, W. C. Michel, vice-president of 20th Century-Fox, said yesterday.

It is understood that while the altered terms under which 20th Century-Fox would obtain a 20-year lease on the Roxy will represent a slight improvement over the company's original offer, the new proposal makes no provision for Roxy stockholders.

To Honor McCormick

Pittsburgh, April 26.—A. W. McCormick, office manager at 20th Century-Fox who will resign next week to become an exhibitor in Beaver, Pa., will be honored by his associates and friends here at a testimonial dinner in the William Penn Hotel Friday night. The committee includes Al Weiss, William Walker, Tony Stern, Carl Pohe, John McGreevey, Edward Beedle, C. C. Kellenberg and Norman Huhn.

Preview 'Woman Chases'

Simon Fabian yesterday denied he had taken over the New Amsterdam on 42nd St. He said he has had several talks with a broker regarding the site, but the meetings have not advanced further than preliminary stages. If, and when, he does take the house it will not be converted to a film policy, but purely for investment purposes, Fabian asserted.

The Rialto, Cohoes, N. Y., has been acquired by Fabian.

Renowned to Open Office

Renowned Artists is expected to open an eastern office later in the year. The company was formed recently on the coast to make from three to four pictures for U. A. release.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"You Can't Buy Luck"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, April 26.—Many different entertainment ideas have been flung into this and they all jell. A Class B film, it can hold its own with many an A. In the smaller houses it can serve as a program leader. It should bolster almost any program.

What starts out to be the story of a racetrack gambler who believes the good will of everyone will bring him luck turns into a romance and finally becomes a crime melodrama. Skillful adaptation of Martin Mooney's original by himself and Arthur T. Horman and clever direction by Lew Landers as well as convincing acting by the leads and support give the film unique interest. As it unfolds there are colorful glimpses of racetrack action, a circus-vaudeville show in an orphanage, a romance, a murder, conviction, prison escape and a dash of smart detective work that forces a confession from the killer.

While the production may not be strong from the standpoint of name values, the quality of work delivered by Onslow Stevens, Helen Mack, Vinton Haworth, Maxine Jennings, Paul Guilfoyle and Murray Alper is sufficiently worthy to satisfy those who are primarily interested in being entertained. All are convincing.

board to which the annual report of Barney Balaban, president, was submitted but not made public.

The first quarter earnings include approximately $391,000 of dividends from non-consolidated subsidiaries and are computed after all charges, including interest, depreciation, reserves and Federal taxes with the exception of undistributed profits taxes.

The company reported that annual interest charges have been reduced by approximately $850,000 as compared with Dec. 28, 1935, largely through the conversion of preferred stock into common and the exchange of the company's six per cent debentures for new three and one-half per cent debentures. The total annual interest charges on Jan. 2, last, amounted to approximately $1,950,000, contrasting with $2,800,000 on Dec. 28, 1935.

Earnings $1 per Share

There were outstanding as of April 3, last, 155,890 shares of cumulative convertible $100 par value six per cent preferred stock and 597,651 shares of cumulative convertible $10 par value six per cent second preferred stock. After deducting $323,482 of dividends accrued for the quarter on these outstanding preferred shares, the remaining $1,687,518 represents 72 cents a share on the 2,330,449 shares of common outstanding on April 3. Computed on the aggregate of estimated consolidated earnings, amounting to $2,651,000, the earnings would be $1 per common share.

Consolidated earnings for the first quarter of 1936 amounted to $718,921 after applying $800,000 of the special inventory reserve set up out of 1935 earnings.

Paramount's net interest as stockholder in the undistributed earnings for the quarter of partially owned companies totaled $480,000. The quarter's results do not include earnings of Olympia Theatres and subsidiaries which were in receivership during the period. Completion of the reorganization of this theatre company is expected within a few months.

Reisman Calls Quota Serious Sales Problem

companies' profit in Australian is about $3,750,000 annually, he estimated. He asserted that the situation would compel American distributors to withdraw from that market, regardless of their inclinations.

The New South Wales quota, now in its second year, was not enforced against American companies last year, but efforts are now being made by the Government there to apply it. The act imposes a seven and one-half per cent quota this year, graduating to 15 per cent in 1939. It duration is five years. It would require the production of four pictures by RKO this year and from 50 to 70 by all American companies, Reisman said.

He pointed out that other nations throughout the world are considering similar laws, which if enacted would amount to an American subsidy for the film industry of every country in the world. New Zealand, Reisman said, is now discussing the appointment of a commission to regulate film rentals in that country.

Meet Today to Settle Coast Union Problem

production heads were forced to negotiate all along the line.

Bearing in mind that the negotiation stipulations in the Wagner Act do not force film producers to accept and adhere to all demands thrust upon them by unions, observers are now speculating on whether tomorrow's meeting, the first of a series of labor-producer negotiations, will be the deciding factor in labor's long struggle for a strong position in Hollywood or whether it is merely the calm before the storm, presaging a labor situation similar to that which has rocked the big industrial concerns in the country during the past year.

The primary question now is exactly what do the union affiliates of the American Federation of Labor and the Screen Actors' Guild want from the film producers?

I. A. the Pioneer

The I.A.T.S.E. was the first A.F.L. organization to successfully organize the technical branch of the industry. They struck quickly via the location route, forcing producers to use I.A.T.S.E. men on locations and following through with the threat to call out on strike all theatre projectionists.

The Screen Writers' Guild strike fiasco was the next move. They demanded a Guild shop, certain credit stipulations, the abolition of writing for films on speculation and many other similar points. A split in Writers' Guild ranks, following refusal of the producers to be bluffed, resulted in the Guild's end. Subsequently the Screen Playwrights was formed and an harmonious agreement with the producers was reached.

Although the individual demands of the principal labor groups totaling close to 50 now seeking producer recognition will not be known until negotiations get well under way it is obvious that most of them are seeking wage increases and shorter hours.

Actors Seek 100% Shop

The Screen Actors' Guild seeks a 100 per cent Guild Shop and is understood to be angling for working hour regulation and specific salary guarantees for lower bracket players.

Now, after gaining a temporary victory in the matter of obtaining producer recognition for negotiations, another split in union ranks may be a stumbling block for labor. The Studio Utility Employes' Union, with a membership of approximately 500, has forwarded a jurisdictional complaint against the I.A.T.S.E. to the National Labor Relations Board in Washington. Simply, the argument concerns the classification of laborers and grips. Undoubtedly the I.A.T.S.E. is endeavoring to absorb the Studio Utility Workers through this channel and the latter group plans to fight out the jurisdictional battle.

"Federation" a Factor

Meanwhile, as an off-shoot of the recent producer-labor conference in New York at which the Actors' Guild and Painters' and Scenic Artists' group were left out in the cold, a new union federation boasting approximately 16 unions with A.F.L. affiliation, has been formed. The Actors' Guild is a part of this federation.

The story behind this new organization merely tells of a new drive for union strength. Several years ago, painters, paperhangers, scenic artists and makeup artists solidified their strength by combining in one union. Later the salaries of makeup artists graduated to a higher plane than that of their brother crafts and the makeup men drifted, although no definite break in the combine was chronicled on paper. Then in New York, recently, the painters refused to become a part of the basic studio agreement unless the makeup artists were included. Mass meetings on the coast followed and the federation, which includes many other crafts, resulted. The Studio Utility Employes, currently, are on the verge of becoming a part of this federation.

Future union solidity in Hollywood studios is now contingent on the following questions, inasmuch as almost all of the union groups have proved to have the majority of studio employes, thereby becoming eligible for producer negotiation under the Wagner Act.

Labor Cooperation Indicated

In case no agreement with producers is reached and film executives force a showdown, will Actors' Guild members allow a non-union makeup artist to assist in making him up for a scene? Will they put up with "scab" hairdressers? If the new federated union group should throw a picket line around major or independent studios, will I.A.T.S.E. workers refuse to go through the line? The consensus of opinion among union and guild heads is in the affirmative and predicts 100 per cent co-operation from all labor factions.

Meanwhile it is understood that the Los Angeles sheriff's office and city police department are not completely unaware of the acute studio labor situation and have mapped plans to preserve order.

The earlier threat of the C.I.O. to move into studio territory meanwhile has dwindled due to the entrenchment of A.F.L. unions.

An early settlement of the labor situation in Hollywood does not appear likely, as negotiations with the various union locals is being handled individually by the Producers' Ass'n and obviously it will be some time before all of the negotiation dates are calendared.

In the meantime union workers in the studios, from culinary help, plumbers, machinists and stationary engineers, on up the line to the white collar workers, including art directors, publicists and others, are being organized for labor's most powerful thrust at the industry.

Tri-States to Make Double Bills Test

Des Moines, April 26.—Double features vs. single features having become an important question in this territory, the Tri-States Theatre Corp. has decided to conduct a test starting April 29 at the Des Moines and Roosevelt to determine the preference of audiences.

The present policy of the two theatres is a single feature presentation with newsreels and shorts, offering two-hour shows.

During the test a single feature will be shown at the Roosevelt, a suburban house, continuing the present policy. At the downtown Des Moines theatre, the same feature picture will be presented with an additional feature. Ten cents more will be charged for the double feature program.

The policies of the other Tri-States houses will not be changed during this experiment.

Declare Holder Has No Right to Prizes

Denver, April 26.—When the case of Helen Slagle, who sued the Construction Progress Exposition for possession of an automobile, claiming she held the lucky ticket, was taken to the Colorado Supreme Court, the ruling handed down was that holders of "lucky number" admission tickets have no legal right to the gift prizes offered.

The only legal question involved, the court said, was whether there was a complete gift, and it found that "there was no gift, for a gift presupposes an effectual delivery."

B. N. Decision Reserved

Beatrice, Neb., April 26.—District Judge Messmore here on Saturday took under advisement the Nebraska Bank Night test case. The court promised an early decision.

It was indicated by both parties that the case would be taken to the state Supreme Court immediately, regardless of the decision. The single point at issue is the determination of whether a consideration is given for eligibility to win. The Attorney General has contended that the patron's time, the effort at registration for Bank Night and his presence at the theatre constitute a consideration.

Stagehands to Vote on Offer

Members of Stagehands' Local No. 1 will meet shortly to decide on acceptance of the circuits' offer for three six per cent increases in wages. Local 4, which is affiliated with Local 1, has already agreed to the plan and before it becomes effective the second union must accept.

Under the terms of the circuits' proposal, the first six per cent boost will become retroactive to March 1. The second will start Sept. 1 and the third will come due Sept. 1, 1938.

Wins Decision in William Fox Case

All-Continent Corp. as a Fox creditor.

The suit had been brought to remove cloud on the title to certain securities caused by a third party order in proceedings by the Capital Co., also a Fox creditor. Steelman contended he was not liable to Pennsylvania jurisdiction and obtained a stay of proceedings from the Bankruptcy Court which was reversed by the Circuit Court upon appeal by All-Continent. Thereupon, Steelman brought the matter to Washington and obtained a temporary stay from the Supreme Court pending review of the case.

Behind the Pennsylvania suit, it was charged, was alleged fraud in the transfer of securities and other assets by Fox to the Corporation, which it was claimed was the creation of Fox, who supplied all of its capital.

Wins Judgment in Suit

Alexandre D'Arcy failed to appear before Justice William T. Collins in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday in defense of a suit brought against him by Sylvia Sanders and the court directed a judgment of $83,330.61 aginst him. Miss Sanders said she was responsible for D'Arcy's coming to this country a year ago and that she obtained roles for him with Warners. In return the plaintiff alleged she was to act as his manager over a period of 10 years and to receive 25 per cent of his earnings. This agreement allegedly was not kept.

Object to Fox Brooklyn Claim

The Continental Bank & Trust Co. of New York as successor trustee of the Flatbush Ave. & Nevins St. Corp., owners of the Fox Brooklyn office and theatre building, filed objections in Federal Court yesterday to the $2,296,797 claim against the corporation filed by Milton C. Weisman, receiver of Fox Theatres. Continental asserts that under the order issued on April 23 by Judge William Bondy approving the plan of reorganization, Fox Theatres, being an unsecured creditor, is not entitled to participate in the plan.

Griffith Bids Accepted

The $5,000 bid made by Woodson Ogelsey, attorney for D. W. Griffith, for the Mamaroneck real estate owned by D. W. Griffith, Inc., was accepted yesterday by Federal Judge Vincent L. Leibell. Bids of $500 for 21 films and $100 for office equipment, also made on behalf of Griffith, were likewise accepted. The sale was held in Federal Court on April 19. Judge Leibell rejected the offer of Griffith to surrender notes of the corporation in exchange for a general release.

Joseph Gans, receiver for the corcoration, was ordered to seek the instructions of the court concerning a possible action against Griffith and other officers and directors for alleged "unlawful and illegal diversion of assets of D. W. Griffith, Inc." to Frank D. Reynolds, who allegedly acted as "dummy" for Griffith. The real property was sold subject to a $120,000 tax lien and a $29,000 claim of Leewood Shaw, assignee of Griffith. Vigorous objections of Harris W. Klein, who stated he had appraised the property at $250,000 and that he was prepared to bid $50,000 if the Shaw lien was removed, were overruled by Judge Leibell.

World Pictures in Expansion Program

World Pictures Corp., distributor of foreign product, plans a program of 26 features, eight three-reelers and 13 one-reelers for 1937-38, as part of an expansion plan. The company intends to sell on a franchise basis in key cities, and to open theatres in eight key cities.

A deal has been completed with George Kraska, heading Foreign Pictures Corp., to release Kraska's eight films. Irving Shapiro, general manager of World, will visit Europe during the summer to acquire new product. Upon his return, branch offices will be opened.

will attend. Executives will include Sidney R. Kent, president; Walter Hutchinson, in charge of foreign distribution; Frank Harley, manager in England; Stanley S. Crick, manager in Australia; Jason S. Joy; Truman Talley, head of the newsreel, and Les Whelan, assistant to Hutchinson.

Koenig's resignation was unofficially confirmed. It is reliably reported that William Morgan, former manager in Spain for United Artists, who joined the 20th Century-Fox French branch four months ago, and who is considered the right hand man to Benjamin Miggins, general European manager with headquarters here, will replace Koenig.

Exhibitors with whom Koenig has been very popular have expressed themselves as at a loss to understand the resignation. The company's business is said to have shown unusual profit under Koenig's management during the past two years.

Hutchinson arrived this afternoon from London, and Kent is due on Wednesday.

Missouri Sale Tax Advanced in Senate

Kansas City, April 26.—The Missouri Senate Ways and Means Committee has voted out the two per cent sales tax measure passed by the house, with recommendations that it pass. This means the bill very likely will become a law.

Of interest to exhibitors is the amendment allowing retail merchants, which include exhibitors, three per cent for trouble and losses in collecting, if the tax is paid before due date.

New Shows on the Air

Norge Variety Series

The Norge Refrigerator Co. unwound the first recording of its new "Variety" series on WOR yesterday afternoon, from 11:45 to 12 noon. The initial guests were Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit.

The session provided routine air entertainment, Sanderson and Crumit, offering several numbers in their well known style. The irritating Sanderson giggle was much in evidence throughout her song numbers, but we've been told that many listeners are partial to her trick vocal technique. We're not.

A portion of the platter was devoted to a "Kitchen Meeting" department, wherein troublesome household problems, such as how to keep bread from becoming mouldy, how to lift a cake from the baking pan without breaking, etc., were solved by an authority.

"Norge Varieties" will probably perform an efficient selling job for the sponsor, despite its uninspired pattern. It is heard Mondays and Fridays.

That Bulova Story

Revived again is the often-repeated rumor that Arde Bulova, of watch fame, is negotiating for the purchase of WLWL, local station owned by the Paulist Fathers, for the purpose of joining it with his station WOV, and, F.C.C. willing, turning the combined two part-time stations into one full-time unit.

No confirmation of this report could be obtained yesterday. Bulova is the owner of a half-dozen stations, and half-owner of WNEW, New York.

Demonstrates Power Transmission by Air

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—Dr. W. F. G. Swann, director of the Bartol Research Foundation at the Franklin Institute, demonstrated the transmission of electric power by radio before members of the American Philosophical Society meeting here. To demonstrate the progress made during the last year at the institute's laboratories, Dr. Swann lit a small light bulb at one end of the room by "juice" sent from a high-frequency wireless set at the other end of the room, no wires connecting the set and the bulb.

The power required to switch on the lamp was about half a watt. The difficulty with carrying out the experiment on a large scale, he said, was to develop a method to get enough power into the wireless set to broadcast it again in large amounts. As a result, he warned the public not to jump to conclusions about the practical possibility of lighting their homes by radio broadcasts.

NBC Closing 10-Year Deal on WTAM Plant

A 10-year lease with extending options on the new location for WTAM, owned and operated in Cleveland by NBC, is now being drawn up in New York. The station will occupy the first four floors of the Guarantee Title Bldg. shortly before Jan. 1. According to present plans, the name of the new premises will be changed to the NBC Bldg.

The move of WTAM to the new studios is part of the extensive building and expansion plan announced by NBC last week. The cost of the new studios is estimated to be between $250,000 and $300,000.

Seven studios, the largest seating 400 persons, are planned. Engineering equipment and controls will be located in the basement.

WTAM now has an application before the F.C.C. for the erection of a new vertical radiator antenna. The station's power is 50,000 watts.

Advertising Support—right through the Summer!

TODAY as never before, advertisers know that dealer support must be year-'round. If it isn't, sales can languish, dealers lose interest, dominant position in the market can be lost. Competitors can step in and the cash registers ring for somebody else.

By far the great majority of NBC advertisers know this. They keep their dealers' minds off their shelves by running a straight 52-week schedule. People respond to this by the millions—and never more strongly than in summer. They have the money, and the urge to spend it. There's nothing like an NBC Summer Program to swing them to your dealer... to your product.

... 97% of the great NBC Winter Listeners are available, any week in the summer. Less than 3% difference. Even then, at some hours, there are more listeners than in winter!

... 92 out of every 100 adults are at home in any one summer week all summer long. And of those 8 out-of-towners, 5 are in radio-equipped residences. "Radio Goes Where People Go!" (This doesn't even include the 4,500,000 automobile radio sets.)

... An advertiser saves 10% on his annual broadcasting time cost if he runs the 52 weeks. (Over 57% of NBC's advertisers do this—they're smart!)

Para.'s 1936 Net Profit Is $6,012,250

Compares to $3,153,167 Profit for 1935

Consolidated net profit of $6,012,250 was reported by Paramount Pictures yesterday for 1936. The figure includes the application of $2,000,000 of a special inventory reserve of $2,500,000 set up out of 1935 earnings and compares with net profit of $3,153,167 reported for 1935 before the special inventory reserve.

The 1936 net is after all charges including interest, Federal taxes, depreciation, contingency reserves of $632,500, and includes $331,819 and $123,230 representing respectively net capital gains and profit on acquisition of the company's six per cent debentures acquired for sinking fund purposes. Approximately $331,000, representing Paramount's net interest as a stockholder in the combined undistributed earnings for the year of partially owned companies, is not included, nor are the operating results of Olympia Theatres, in receivership.

Cash and marketable securities on Jan. 2, 1937, amounted to $10,782,171, of which $3,158,490 represented balances in Great Britain and Dominions,

Altered Roxy Plan Betters Part of Offer

Stockholders to Get No Benefit, However

Amendments to the proposed plan of reorganization of the Roxy Theatre were presented yesterday to Special Master Addison S. Pratt. The amendments which favor bondholders and noteholders are a result of extended negotiations between W. C. Michel, 20th Century-Fox executive and counsel for the various security holders' protective committees.

No provision for stockholders has been made under the plan or its amendments. First mortgage bondholders are to receive four per cent on their bonds instead of three and a half per cent for the first three years and four per cent thereafter as proposed under the plan before it was amended. Provisions for amortization have been changed to $65,000 annually for the first 10 years and $70,000 thereafter. This represents an increase

Staff of NBC To Operate on Five-Day Week

NBC's announcers, production and sound effects men will be placed on a five-day week as soon as a satisfactory schedule can be worked out and additional personnel trained. They have been operating on a six-day week. All NBC divisions are included.

Commenting on the change, NBC President Lenox R. Lohr stated yesterday: "Because of irregular hours which production men, announcers and sound effects men are frequently called upon to put in in the course of their duties, we feel that the benefits to be derived from two full days of relaxation a week will immeasurably increase the efficiency of these men, and through them the efficiency of NBC in its service to the public and its clients."

Leeway to Be Left for Timely Developments

Hollywood, April 27.—Loew's will announce a minimum of 44 and a maximum of 52 pictures for next season at the annual sales convention which gets under way at the Ambassador, Los Angeles, next week, it was learned following the arrival from New York of Al Lichtman, Howard Dietz, Louis K. Sidney, William R. Ferguson, Eddie Carrier, J. S. MacLeod and Halsey Raines.

The company has more than 100 properties from which to select the schedule. Adhering to a policy adopted some time ago, about half of the titles only will be announced at the sales sessions. This will give the company sufficient leeway to produce new plays and timely stories from time to time.

Among the "A" pictures definitely scheduled will be "Pride and Prejudice" and "Marie Antoinette" with Norma Shearer, "The Return of the Thin Man" with William Powell and Myrna Loy, "Broadway Melody of 1938," "The Foundry," "Girl of the Golden West," "The Firefly" and "Idiot's Delight."

More than 300 sales and home office personnel will arrive here on the Super Chief Sunday to attend the six-day meetings.

In addition to "The Firefly" and "Girl of the Golden West," musicals slated for next season will include "Rosalie," "Hats in the Air," "B Before High C," "Johann Strauss," "Great Day" and "Show Shop."

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 27.

THERE couldn't be a showman in America who wouldn't settle for that and let the rest go by default, if you pressed him hard enough. But he need not be and is not in "Shall We Dance?" Another in a lengthening list of Astaire-Rogers musicals and well up front among the best.

By this time nobody can be seriously concerned with the devious obstacles which keep Fred from winning Ginger until the footage clocks about an hour and forty-eight minutes as this does. The boy-meets-and-gets-the-girl formula in its most naive form again and, of course, prevails. . . .

RKO exhibitors will wait long and patiently for each succeeding member of this series to head their way. They expect Astaire to dance and he does alone several times, once with Harriet Hoctor in one of those marriage-of-ballet-and-jazz conceptions and a couple of times with Miss Rogers. He dances rhythmically and magnificently in a ship's engine room with machinery guiding his tempo and his ballet with Miss Hoctor shows him in a different but not one whit less competent mood. He does a dance with Miss Rogers on skates in a Hollywood idea of Central Park, and while he is constantly at full mastery of his facile legs here Ginger appears uncomfortable and uncertain. . . .

Anyhow Astaire is an American dancer dubbed with a Russian name for professional purposes. He dances ballet and prefers jazz. Miss Rogers represents the modern idea. He meets her, falls in love and finally marries her. While the story is as simple as that, the adaptation by P. J. Wolfson and the screenplay by Allan Scott and Ernest Pagano are ingratiating and light. They added sure fire gags and Edward Everett Horton and Eric Blore play them out. . . .

There is a telephone sequence which finds Blore in jail and trying to get out by explaining to Horton where he is. Hardly new, yet so nonsensically and so expertly done it becomes the big roar of the picture and, after Astaire's taps, is easily the standout bit of the show and another demonstration complete that it is not what you do so much as how you do it. . . .

Astaire has considerable of a solo appearance this time and there is substantially less of Miss Rogers who is to star individually in a couple of pictures this year anyway. Production values are of course what is expected and of Mark Sandrich's direction the observation likewise holds. George Gershwin wrote the music and his brother, Ira, fabricated the lyrics. The score is the major minor effort of the entire enterprise. . . .

"Star Born" Pulls $100,000 for Week

"A Star Is Born" will wind up a first week at the Music Hall tonight with approximately $100,000 for the seven days.

"Wake Up and Live" chalked up another record at the Roxy on Monday when 18,344 persons were admitted to the theatre, making the total admissions for the first four days 97,169 for a gross of $42,500. Not only did the Monday attendance top "The Cockeyed World," but the four-day total also is a new high mark.

The Rivoli last night ended a four-day holdover of "Love from a Stranger" with about $9,500. "Cafe Metropole" will open there today. "A Family Affair" at the Rialto took in close to $6,000.

Delay Boston Ad Jumps

Boston newspapers have indefinitely postponed putting into effect plans for increasing theatre advertising rates by 10 cents an inch. Oscar Doob of Loew's and John Dowd of RKO last week conferred with the business managers of the Boston papers and were successful in getting a delay in rate boosts for a second time.

No U. A.-Renowned Deal Closed as Yet

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—United Artists has closed no distribution deal as yet with Renowned Artists which holds contracts with John Ford, Tay Garnett and Ronald Colman, although it is considered a deal is likely.

Renowned Artists, which, incidentally, may change its name to avoid confusion with United Artists, is understood to be at work rounding out its own organization and arranging financial detail for production.

Ampa to Hold Election

The election of Ampa officers will be held at the organization's meeting tomorrow at the Edison. The executive setup is as follows: Ralph Rolan, president; Paul Lazarus, Jr., vice-president; Paul Benjamin, treasurer; Lester Thompson, secretary. The gathering will be entertained by Bernard Zufall, a mental magician.

Berg Predicts Sellout

Herb Berg, well known fisherman and chairman of the Ampa ticket committee, is predicting a sellout for the annual dance at the New Yorker Saturday night.

Jersey Legislative Moves Please Allied

Allied of New Jersey has accomplished more in Trenton this year than ever before, Sidney E. Samuelson, a director of the unit, told the membership at a meeting yesterday at the Lincoln. Several inimical bills affecting the industry have been warded off, he said, through concerted efforts of the members.

Criticism was voiced by some members of the manner exchanges are handling refunds of the sales tax collected some time ago. A committee will be appointed to go into the matter and report back at a later meeting. The Allied national convention also was discussed.

Next Tuesday a beefsteak dinner will be held by the unit at the Ritz restaurant, Passaic, N. J.

Savannah Tax Passed

SAVANNAH, April 27.—The City Council has passed an ordinance levying a two per cent retail sales tax, effective May 15. The measure exempts only foods sold in grocery stores, ice, water, newspapers and periodicals. However, the new ordinance does not tax amusements which are already taxed under the ordinance adopted last December.

Advance Ascap Bill

LINCOLN, April 27.—The anti-Ascap bill was advanced to third reading by unanimous vote of the unicameral legislature today.

Schaefer, Sam Rinzler, Ed Swazey, Max Fellerman, Don Mesereau, Chester Bahn, Jack Harrower, Terry Ramsaye, A-Mike Vogel, Floyd Stone, Joseph Gallagher, Ben Shylen, Abe Bernstein, Barry Baremore, Pete Harrison, Charles "Chic" Lewis, W. from the previous setup which provided for an increasing schedule with a $65,000 maximum. A new provision has also been inserted which prohibits the new company from declaring dividends except out of earned surplus after creation of a $110,000 annual depreciation reserve. 20th Century-Fox is to have complete control of the reorganized company according to the amended plan with "uncontrolled discretion" to select pictures for exhibition at the Roxy.

Holders of $1,548,000 sinking fund gold notes are to receive 7,740 shares of $3 dividend cumulative preferred non-voting stock. The preferred stock is callable at $102 with the right to participate before the common stock to the extent of $100 per share in the event of liquidation of the new company. The original plan provided for 15,480 shares of Class A stock for the noteholders.

Samuel Kramer, counsel for the stockholders' protective committee, stated that he is continuing negotiations to establish a standing for stockholders.

Current Profit Shows Increase

Audited figures for the 13-week period from Dec. 31, 1936, to April 1, 1937, showed a net profit of $98,484 before deduction for interest depreciation and federal income tax as compared with $30,869 for the 13-week period from Jan. 3 to April 2, 1936. Carlos Israels, counsel for the Pound bondholders' committee, stated that the figures could not be compared because the 1936 period failed to include New Year's week. The Roxy grossed $77,000 for New Year's week in 1937.

Deductions totaled $566,139 against $363,798 for 1936. Operating costs were $261,040 against $145,382 for 1936. Supervisory costs jumped to $46,506 from $23,211. Fanchon & Marco Stage Shows, Inc., entered into a new contract on March 18, but the contract awaits the court's approval.

Presentation of evidence on the proposed plan was concluded yesterday and an adjournment was taken to May 4, when the S.E.C. will render its report to Special Master Pratt and counsel for the various committees will argue their case.

Leon Fleishman, who appraised the Roxy for stockholders, testified yesterday that he valued the theatre as a going concern between $8,000,000 and $8,300,000. He based his estimate on a $60,000 weekly gross with a 70 per cent operating cost.

Schulberg Undecided On New Distribution

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—B. P. Schulberg, who declared last week that he will terminate his distribution arrangement with Paramount at the end of the current season, has not yet determined on a future distribution affiliation, according to Ralph Kohn, Schulberg's partner.

Kohn declared that Schulberg, former Paramount production head, has four more to make for that company and will be occupied on the films until August.

Momand Suit to Be Argued in Boston

Okla., is to be tried in U. S. District Court here. The court has decided in favor of Attorney George S. Ryan's argument that the court should accept jurisdiction in spite of the defendants' contention that it would be more convenient for all concerned to try the case in Oklahoma.

In ruling on the matter the court said: "The plaintiff has the undoubted right under the statute to invoke the jurisdiction of this court and this court is bound to take the case and proceed to judgment. The fact that it may be more convenient for the parties and avoid protracted litigation in this court if this case is tried in Oklahoma are circumstances which do not make the jurisdiction of this court dependent upon the exercise of a discretion."

A hearing on the defendants' request that the Massachusetts court decline to hear the case was held six weeks ago. The ruling of the court is regarded as a precedent.

Columbia Wins a Point

Columbia Pictures Corp. won a point in its defense against a $50,000 suit brought against the company by Jack Redmond, the golfer, yesterday, when Justice Julius Miller in N. Y. Supreme Court directed Redmond to submit a bill of particulars explaining several points in his complaint. The golfer asserts that in its picture "Golfing Rhythm" Columbia showed scenes of the plaintiff making trick shots and that these scenes were shown without the plaintiff's authorization. The scenes in question, it is alleged, were made several years ago for Fox Movietone News. Among the things Columbia would learn from Redmond is whether he had a written contract to make the disputed scenes for Fox.

The contention was that the defendant's film, "Revolt of the Zombies," conflicted with the plaintiff's "White Zombie." The Appellate Division had sustained the judgment.

As CBS Celebrated Ground-Breaking

By JACK BANNER

From Sunset Boulevard in the heart of Hollywood, CBS yesterday broadcast the exercises and entertainment attending the breaking of ground for the network's new $2,000,000 studios in the film capital.

The momentous spade-lifting was performed by Donald W. Thornburgh, vice-president in charge of west coast operations for the network. In his statement of intention and policy Thornburgh stated that CBS was putting forth every effort to further west coast radio and to make Hollywood as productive in radio as it has been in pictures. He said that it was business judgment, not sentiment, that made CBS, like so many other industries, turn its eyes to Hollywood.

The speech-making festivities were opened by Hobart Bosworth, stage and screen veteran, who pointed out that the new broadcasting citadel appropriately enough was locating on the site formerly occupied by the old Christie Studios which long years ago served to establish Hollywood as the film center of the country. As a veteran of 28 years in Hollywood, Bosworth said, he was positive that the new CBS studios would similarly help establish Hollywood as America's great broadcasting as well as radio center.

Hailing the dawn of a newer and bigger radio era in Hollywood were Louella Parsons, "Tiny" Ruffner and Bobby Breen.

Said Miss Parsons: "It is only fitting that the world's two greatest mediums of entertainment come from the one city."

Said production man Ruffner, voicing the viewpoint of the advertising agencies: "This will be just another step in the establishment of Hollywood as the radio capital of the world."

Said youthful Bobby Breen: "Ever since I came to Hollywood, I've wanted to see one of those Hollywood murders. I've just seen one—the murder of the old feud between the motion pictures and radio."

On hand to furnish entertainment at the ceremonies were Al Jolson, Parkyakarkus, Jolly Gillette, Victor Moore, Jack Oakie, Shaw & Lee and Virginia Verrill.

The CBS studios, when completed, will include eight studios and offices in a five-story building.

Coast Crowd Sees Ceremony

HOLLYWOOD, April 27. — More than 1,000 people witnessed the groundbreaking ceremonies of CBS here on the site of the former Christie Studios. Candid cameras were much in evidence. Regular press photographers occupied perches atop a giant steam shovel. It is expected that the studios will be completed in February.

Time Change Upsets Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, April 27.—City council's sudden decision to postpone daylight saving time here for at least a month caused a complete muddle in CKY and CJRC program schedules. Radio editors had not received this week's listings by Friday.

Tuesday the council decided the city would go on daylight saving time April 26. Protests made city fathers decide to wait. In the meantime stations were kept in the air by the indecision. Thursday the council decided no daylight saving for at least a month.

CKY is hardest hit, because of CBC network affiliation.

nouncers and production men have formed a guild, wage and hour concessions for the guild members were obtained from CBS at a meeting yesterday. Four basic demands have been made of CBS by the guild: recognition of the organization as the bargaining agency for CBS announcers and directors; maximum hours of work, minimum salaries and conditions of employment.

KWK Makes St. Louis Tieup

St. Louis, April 27.—The intense rivalry between KMOX and KWK reached a new high the past week when John Conrad, advertising manager and special events director of KWK, which is the local NBC outlet, swung a deal with the Globe-Democrat, the town's only morning paper, for a column of space for the daily exploitation of the station's programs.

This action by KWK checkmates the deal made several weeks ago by James D. Shouse, general manager, and Jerry Hoekstra for KMOX with the St. Louis Star-Times, an afternoon paper.

KSD here is owned and operated by the Pulitzer Publishing Co. which publishes the Post-Dispatch, an afternoon paper. This paper, with the largest circulation in town, devotes two sticks of space for the outstanding programs on KSD and also blackfaces its programs in the regular column that also carries the programs of KMOX, KWK, KFUO, WEW and WIL, the other local radio stations.

WTMV of East St. Louis hasn't been able to break into any of the local newspapers with an announcement of its programs.

Los Angeles, April 27. — The Thomas Lee Artists' Service will establish new headquarters in Hollywood May 1, and will enlarge its scope to include stage and screen talent, as well as radio.

Performers to Read Advertising Lines

A new policy, wherein entertainers, not announcers, will be retained to read the commercials, will be instituted at Benton and Bowles today on the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet "Beauty Box Theatre" and on the Maxwell House "Showboat."

Myrtle Vail, of the "Myrt and Marge" team, will offer the commercial readings on the "Beauty Box Theatre." Gertrude Lawrence will double as guest artist and commercial reader on "Showboat." The regular announcers for the above two programs will merely open and close the programs.

It is expected that this policy will prevail on all Benton and Bowles programs in the future.

WFIL on Four Networks

Philadelphia, April 27.—With the inaugural of Transamerican's new WLW Line program service, WFIL this week added its fourth network affiliation, thereby becoming one of the few stations in America with these facilities. Besides Transamerican, WFIL services Philadelphia with NBC-Blue, Mutual, and in addition, is key station for the regional Quaker State network.

According to Donald Withycomb, general manager, WFIL will schedule the outstanding programs of WLW, WHN and KQV, and in the near future will begin feeding to these stations its own top features. Allied Union to Ask Dismissal of Action

Harry Glover, as president of the Allied M. P. Operators' Union, and others named defendants in an action filed by the Gotham Amusement Corp. and the operators of six other independent houses will ask Justice Ferdinand Pecora in N. Y. Supreme Court today either to dismiss the action or order the plaintiffs to file an amended complaint.

In their present complaint, the plaintiffs ask for a judgment declaring that a contract executed between Allied and the I.T.O.A. on Aug. 21, 1933, be permitted to run to its date of termination, June 30, 1943. They also ask that a contract executed on Sept. 25, 1935, in which Gotham agreed with Allied that the Allied-I.T.O.A. contract should bind them be held enforceable. The plaintiffs further ask that a "purported" agreement drawn on Jan. 30 of this year between the I.T.O.A. and Local 306 be held invalid as it allegedly was not ratified by the I.T.O.A. board of directors. The plaintiffs also ask that the defendants be restrained from inducing or permitting Allied or Local 306 from calling any strikes at theatres operated by the plaintiffs. The defendants other than Allied are Local 306 and the I.T.O.A.

Takes Monogram Branch

Lon T. Fidler has resigned as district manager for Grand National in Denver and Salt Lake City to take over the franchise for Monogram Pictures for both cities. Fidler will remain in Denver as manager and he has named W. W. McKendrick, Grand National manager in Salt Lake City, to manage the office in that city. McKendrick was formerly with Fidler when he was handling independent product, before Grand National started.

Midwest Film Co., in Milwaukee, headed by Charles W. Trampe, has changed its name to Monogram-Midwest Film Co. Monogram offices will be opened in Buffalo this week.

A Minneapolis office also has been opened with Charles Weiner in charge.

No Strike Likely as Casey, Unions Meet the involved detail of placing petitions before production heads killed possibility of an immediate walkout.

Casey met with D. T. Wayne of the Machinists Union in the morning followed by an afternoon session with Ken Thomson, of the Actors' Guild and Walter Redmond, representing the plasterers. The day's sessions concluded with meetings between Casey and W. B. Cullen and R. W. Cole, representing the painters; with Vernon M. Murdock, of the makeup artists, and Charles W. Elrod for the scenic artists. The latter group presented two demands not made public on behalf of the newly-formed federated studio crafts.

Casey announced that the meetings with Thomson and the federated group will be continued in the latter part of the week following presentation of the demands to the producers. No discussion lasted more than a half an hour. Union officials expressed satisfaction with the temporary recognition.

Casey Reticent

Following the meetings Casey stated. "As these demands are matters concerning crafts and producers, demands will not be made public until after the meetings have progressed further toward completion."

Casey will meet tomorrow with R. H. McDowell, corresponding secretary of the Molders International of North America and with F. S. Dunn, business agent for the boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders, Welders and Helpers of America, Inc., also with Herta Reinach of the Picture Players Ass'n.

Thomson held a secret meeting with Dr. Towne Nylander of the Labor Relations Board late today for the reported purpose of learning whether the Wagner Act permits the Actors' Guild to make an agreement with the industry as a single unit rather than with individual studios. It is said that the Guild would prefer this type of agreement.

Looking 'Em Over

"Thank You, Madame"

(American Tobis)

A simple story, entertainingly told, despite a tendency to drag on more than one occasion, this importation from Austria has the voice and presence of Jan Kiepura, European star, as far and away its most outstanding factor. The film was produced by Tobis-Sascha, Austrian branch of Tobis, in Vienna, with the American distribution rights owned by Broadcast Pictures and the physical distribution in the hands of American Tobis.

Kiepura has a splendid voice, and the vehicle affords him plenty of opportunity to use it to advantage. The film's climax and highlight is Kiepura's performance in an opera, which has been effectively presented on the screen. Supporting him are Luli Deste, European star recently brought to this country, whose performance is restrained and capable, and Friedl Czepa, as Kiepura's sweetheart.

Outside of Kiepura's singing, there is comparatively little for the average American audience, unless the dialogue is understood, despite an ample number of English subtitles.

Kiepura, a taxi driver, is in love with the flower girl. Winning a singing contest, he attracts the attention of wealthy Miss Deste, when he is arrested for an automobile accident which she caused. She trains him for society and opera, while the flower girl is left behind in his rise to fame. But following his triumphant debut and a long contract, he realizes his mentor has made him a success only to spite her former husband, an opera star, and he returns to his fiancee.

Carmine Gallone directed from a story by Otto Longhi.

"Redes"
("The Wave")

(Garrison Film)

The brilliant photography of Paul Strand, who also wrote the story and directed the film, and the manner in which it is used to express the mood of the production, is the outstanding factor of this Mexican-produced picture, said to be the first of a series scheduled by the Mexican Government.

It tells an essentially simple story, of the struggle for a livelihood waged by the poor fishermen of Vera Cruz on the Gulf of Mexico, and of their eventually successful fight with their employers for decent compensation for their strenuous work. In that latter phase of the story is a significance reflecting the trend in the present Mexican Government. The workers fight against their oppressors, the bosses, and win, although it costs the life of the workers' leader.

With a minimum of native dialogue, and an intelligent use of subtitles, prepared by John Dos Passos and Leo Hurwitz, the picture tells its story photographically. The cast, composed of native fishermen, perform naturally, and thus effectively.

It is an artistically-produced effort, and is adaptable to showing in those intimate theatres where an audience interested in this type of foreign film may be reached. The accompanying musical score is highly effective as well.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Hittin' the Trail"

(Grand National)

The standby ingredients of westerns, plus the usual rambling, wooden story, should make this film acceptable to its proper audience. It has nothing outstanding to recommend it except some fine outdoor photography.

Tex Ritter is lured into an incredulous horse-trading deal by Earl Dwire. Ritter does this out of gratitude to the villainous Dwire, who has saved him from the local sheriff by vindicating his presence in the district. Of course, Dwire works things for his own advantage, but soon Ritter uncovers the dirty work. There follows the regulation excitement-building sequences and after much hard riding and gunplay the piece comes to its routine climax. The villains are apprehended, Ritter is revealed to be a railroad "advance" man and finally the romantic fadeout.

The narrative is spotted with interesting western music. Jerry Bergh is convincing as the feminine interest. The support includes Tommy Bupp, Snub Pollard and Archie Ricks, all of whom contribute satisfactory performances. R. N. Bradbury directed.

and $141,663 in other foreign countries. The production department inventory amounted to $17,327,619. Total current assets were $32,441,957, with current liabilities of $9,501,547, leaving a net working capital of $22,940,409.

The next fixed assets showed an increase during the year of $3,076,489, from $61,458,756 to $64,535,245. The additions include the acquisition in fee of the Alabama Theatre property in Birmingham, as required under the company's reorganization plan, "and various other properties acquired mainly to round out existing units; also expenditures for restoring and improving existing properties and equipment," the report states.

On Jan. 2 the company held in its treasury $2,376,000 par value of its six per cent debentures, acquired during the year for sinking fund purposes. As of April 1, last, 96,447 shares of six per cent first preferred stock and 42,230 shares of six per cent second preferred had been converted into 713,136 common shares, a total reduction of over $10,000,000 par value of senior shares, the report notes.

During the year additional claims of $530,453 were allowed in the Paramount reorganization proceedings, involving the issuance of $265,226 par value of first preferred stock and $265,226 par value sinking fund debentures. "The general reserve is considered ample for claims still pending and for other adjustments affecting the period prior to Jan. 1, 1935," the report states.

Approximately 100 corporations have been eliminated in the company's policy of simplifying its corporate structure.

Finance Cost Is Handicap, States Korda

Also Sees Financing in England Inadequate

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, April 19.—Alexander Korda of London Film Prod., in an interview printed in the Financial News today, cited insufficient and over-costly finance and distribution costs as the main handicaps of British film production.

Saying that he welcomes the Moyne report on the Films Act in its main aspects, and especially praising the proposal for Government aid through a films commission, Korda said such a body would be valuable in promoting sound finance.

"There may be many millions of pounds invested in the industry of this country," he said, "but there is very little money really put into the production of films. The money put in is very often only for short-term credit. It is obvious that no industry can be built on this basis."

Korda asserted that greater cooperation between producers is another

Mussolini Opens New Studio Outside Rome

ROME, April 28.—Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy today formally inaugurated the new film production center constructed on the outskirts of the city. It is described as a modern film city, with the latest in equipment, and it is the hope of Il Duce that production there will prove serious competition for foreign product.

He frequently has acknowledged his appreciation of the fact that the screen is an important propaganda medium. Most of the equipment in the new studios was imported from the United States. One of the first productions planned was developed by Vittorio Mussolini, Il Duce's son.

Film Stocks Off in Heavy Selling Wave

Declines Not So Sharp As in Some Lines

The entire amusement list gave way before the selling wave which hit the New York Stock Exchange and Curb Exchange yesterday. Losses among the amusements, however, were confined to fractional points for the most part and showed generally better resistance than many of the market leaders.

The selling movement was attributed by brokers to a number of causes, foremost among which appeared to be President Roosevelt's comments on the dangers of stock speculation and his efforts to curb speculation in commodity prices. The recommendation of Attorney General Homer S. Cummings for a revision of the anti-trust laws and a considerable amount of foreign selling were also cited as factors.

Paramount's convertible first preferred lost 12¾ points, closing at 143¼ when the common sold off 1⅝ to close at 20½. The second preferred

Predicts Two Million Half Year RKO Net

McMahon Gives Estimate On Reorganization

Profits of $2,172,771 for RKO for the first six months of 1937 were predicted by Oliver O. McMahon, assistant treasurer, at the hearing yesterday on the proposed plan of reorganization of RKO before Special Master George W. Alger.

William H. Clark, treasurer of RKO Radio Pictures, testified that profits of that company should be $1,071,000 for the first half of 1937. Clark stated that he had predicted the net profit for the quarter ended March 31 would be $290,000 and that the actual figures revealed a profit of $268,337. He expects $781,000 for the remaining three months. Clark revealed that RKO lost $97,000 in 1936 through Radio Films S.A.E. of Spain.

McMahon's testimony indicated RKO had a profit of $1,168,676 for the first quarter as compared with his earlier prediction of $1,022,781. He stated that his estimate for the second three months is a profit of $1,149,990.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 28

HOLLYWOOD'S combination once more of Tyrone Power and Loretta Young, coming on the heels of "Love Is News," is the news in "Cafe Metropole," latest to emerge from the busy 20th Century-Fox factory. It's all Paris this time, and how Power falls into the clutches of suave Adolphe Menjou, who compels him to pass himself off as a Russian prince as a means of exacting sufficient toll from Charles Winninger to replace missing funds before the Metropole auditors discover a shortage of 1,000,000 francs, more or less.

The plot convolutions have Power presumably fall in love with Winninger's daughter, Loretta Young, while Menjou hovers in the background ready to pounce down on the situation and Winninger's money. Naturally your hero really goes for Miss Young and she for him in the large manner, and of course the conclusion sees Love finding its way and Menjou getting his money. He was too pleasant a chap to go to jail anyway, and besides Winninger had plenty of cash to spare.

There is a counter plot furnished by Gregory Ratoff, who is a real prince propelled by that good old reliable, the revolution, into a post of waiter at the Metropole. He has to be bought off and he is, with considerable fun poked at decadent royalty in broad swipes.

It takes more time than benefits the attraction to sink teeth into the story, which stretches pretty thin after a while. Jacques Deval's screenplay, however, is attuned to the lighter mood and ekes out a goodly proportion of comedy as it proceeds to the sum total of results which stamp this a pleasant attraction without creating excitement quivers.

Power advances further with the promise evidenced in his earlier pictures and continues to impress as one of the most likely of Hollywood's new youngster crop. Miss Young is satisfactory without particular distinction. Menjou well nigh walks off with whatever performing honors are around, with Ratoff a close second and Winninger once again not far behind. Helen Westley, stalwart of the Theatre Guild, likewise is an asset and E. H. Griffiths' direction evidences proper recognition of the subject matter.

"Cafe Metropole" would have been strong, if its story had more sinew, but for general consumption it ought to do, and nicely at that.

G. B. Pays Contested Preference Dividend

LONDON, April 19.—Holders of first preference shares in the Gaumont British Corp. have received dividend warrants for the half-year ended March 31. The covering letter from the secretary of the company formally reports the dismissal, by Justice Clauson, of the action to restrain payment of the dividend which was taken by the "Nordon" group of ordinary shareholders.

Payment of the dividend by G. B. indicates that no appeal has been lodged by the Nordon group against the Clauson decision.

G. T. E. Reports Profit

General Theatres Equipment Corp. reports a net profit of $291,464 for the first quarter of the year. The amount is equal to 54 cents a share on 541,161 shares of stock. At the annual meeting M. V. Carroll was elected to succeed the late A. W. Loasby.

Eastman Sales Gain

Eastman Kodak's domestic sales are running more than 15 per cent above the 1936 period, it was reported at a stockholders' meeting. The company is also building a new plant at Kingsport, Tenn. More than $12,000,000 will be spent this year for modernization of production facilities.

Warner Infringement Suit Gets Under Way

Trial of the copyright infringement suit of Albert Bein against Warners started in U. S. District Court yesterday before Judge Henry W. Goddard. Bein alleges that his play, "The Road Out of Hell," later called "Lil' Ol' Boy," was infringed in Warners' "The Mayor of Hell."

Bein testified that he based his play on his experience in a Tennessee reformatory and was requested by Jed Harris, producer, to submit it to Edward Chodorov for revision. "Lil' Ol' Boy" was subsequently produced by John Henry Hammond, Jr., and ran four nights at the Playhouse Theatre. Bein asks for an injunction and an accounting of the profits. The trial will continue today.

Indict Circuit Head For Bank Night Use

SWAINSBORO, GA., April 28.—City Court Solicitor G. L. Smith said yesterday that indictments are on file charging W. M. Karrh, operator of a circuit of Georgia theatres, and L. E. Dunn, manager of the Dixie here, with the operation of a film show on Sunday and running a lottery.

The lottery indictment is in connection with operation of Bank Night, Smith said. The Dixie management asserted that part of the Sunday operating receipts were donated to charity.

The state law, Smith said, prohibits operation of a "week-day business" on Sunday. The Dixie is one of Karrh's circuit.

Press K. C. Game Drive

KANSAS CITY, April 28.—Although the refusal of Rube Finkelstein of the Belmont and Jay Means of the Bagdad and Oak Park to sign an agreement has halted the independents' move to drop giveaways of all kinds here, the independents still are working on the matter. They are seeking a united front on giveaways in order to pave the way for reduction in multiple features and to secure a general increase in local admissions, which are among the lowest in the country.

Game Ban Causes Problem

DES MOINES, April 28.—The outlawing of Bank Night in Illinois has caused complications at the Tri Cities, Rock Island and Moline in Illinois, and Davenport in Iowa.

There are 30 theatres in the three cities whose managers, both Tri-States and independents, belong to a theatre managers' association and have been working together on Bank Night. Now that Moline and Rock Island cannot hold the games, the problem has arisen of how to keep audiences in these cities when Bank Night is being used across the river in Davenport.

Kolbe Keeps Pathe Post

Frank F. Kolbe, chairman of Pathe, continues in that post, it was stated yesterday. Due to a deal closed by his investment firm for the Van Sweringen railroad interests, Kolbe did not accept a reelection of the Pathe post at the annual stockholders and directors meeting Tuesday, but will continue as chairman for the time being.

Robert M. Young, who is associated with Kolbe in the Van Sweringen deal, has been named a director of Pathe.

Governor of Florida Again Hits New Tax

Tallahassee, Fla., April 28.—Governor Cone has reiterated his stand opposing new tax enactments by the Legislature. He insists new taxes should be saved for times of depression or emergency.

The Governor said: "We are having prosperity now. Times are better than they were a year ago. Now's the time we ought to think about cutting taxes instead of putting on new ones."

New taxes, the governor said, particularly a sales tax "will hurt Florida more than all the good you can do with advertising."

Georgia Town Votes For Sunday Pictures

Thomasville, Ga., April 28.—Sunday films and baseball won by a vote of 368 to 31 in balloting on the issue here yesterday. Church members boycotted the election, leaving the decision technically in the hands of 399 voters out of a qualified total of 2,200.

The City Council had called the election for guidance in the handling of the amusement situation. Church leaders insisted that Sunday films and baseball are clearly violations of state law, and asked their congregations to refrain from participation in the voting. In view of the small vote cast, the action of the City Council is uncertain.

the Atlas Corp. for a settlement of differences over the plan's treatment of general creditors. Wilfred J. Merrill, who acted as consultant for the Atlas Corp., proponents of the plan, testified that he regarded the plan as fair. He said that interest payments could be met by the new company and that the picture division could meet the obligations of the plan by itself. Merrill stated that he regarded the Rockefeller settlement as a practical one because it would avoid lengthy litigation and because Rockefeller Center had agreed to take stock in payment of its claim. Orpheum Circuit, Inc., presents no problems which will affect the reorganization, according to Merrill.

New Consents Listed

H. C. Rickaby, attorney for Atlas, stated that 45 per cent of the stock and 75 per cent of the securities had filed consent to the plan. New consents filed at yesterday's hearing included Atlas, holding 263,493 shares of common stock; Goldman, Sachs, holding 15,143 shares of common stock; Leo Spitz, RKO president, holding 15,143 shares of common stock; Lehman Bros., holding 267,733 shares of common stock; Empire Corp., holding 9,250 shares of common stock; Werthern & Co., holding 6,057 shares of common stock, and Heidelbach, Applebaum & Co., holding 1,211 shares of common stock. The American Co., whose claim against RKO amounts to $1,857,425, also filed consent to the plan, as did Edward G. Platt, A. E. Liepold and Elmer Samick, whose claims total approximately $750,000; Rose Koplar whose claim amounts to $5,993, and George Armsby, whose claim amounts to $162,995.

Rickaby stated that a total of $4,059,639 of unsecured claims have consented to the plan exclusive of the Rockefeller claim, which is being settled at approximately $9,000,000. The hearings were adjourned until next Monday.

To Roadshow Two

Hollywood, April 26.—After viewing footage on "Souls at Sea" and "High, Wide and Handsome" Neil F. Agnew, general sales manager for Paramount, and Robert Gillham, publicity and advertising head, decided to roadshow both.

The first will go out June 1 and the second July 1. These will be the first Paramount roadshows in five years.

Claim Success for Phila. Union Drive

Philadelphia, April 28.—It is claimed that the newly organized union of exchange employes here will have virtually 100 per cent affiliation among the 300 eligible employes by the time of the second meeting of the group on Friday at the Broadwood Hotel.

As a result of last week's membership drive, 120 shippers, inspectors, bookers and clerks formed Local 7B of the Exchange, Employes' Union, an affiliate of the I.A.T.S.E.

Union Argument Delayed

Argument on a motion made by the Allied M. P. Operators' Union and others asking that the suit brought against it by the Gotham Amusement Corp. and operators of six other independent New York houses either be dismissed or the plaintiffs required to file an amended complaint was adjourned yesterday until May 3. The argument was to have come up before Justice Ferdinand Pecora in N. Y. Supreme Court.

In their present complaint, the plaintiffs seek a judgment declaring that contract involving themselves, Allied and the I. T. O. A. executed several years remain effective until the scheduled date of expiration—June 30, 1943. The plaintiffs also argue that the agreement entered into last January by the I. T. O. A. and Local 306 is invalid because it was not ratified by the I. T. O. A. board of directors.

Casey, Producers Meet Tonight

Hollywood, April 28.—Presentation of union demands to producers will be made tomorrow night when Pat Casey meets with production heads. The labor front is placid as it awaits developments growing out of the conference.

Molders and actors met with Casey today but presented no new demands. The molders will present a petition later in the week. The actors were seeking clarification of the Wagner Act provisions. Meetings with a boilermakers' group and with the federated crafts have been put over until tomorrow when the costumers' union will also begin negotiations.

Decision on the dispute between utility workers and the I. A. T. S. E. has not yet been received from the National Labor Relations Board at Washington to which it was referred.

K. C. Union Fight Looms

Kansas City, April 28.—Observers here believe that a fight between the C.I.O. and the I.A.T.S.E. is impending, although the I.A. is thought to have the edge thus far in a drive for the organization of exchange employes.

Twentieth-Fox Paris Meetings Are Opened

Whalen, foreign advertising and publicity manager.

An address by Col. Joy described some of the company's latest productions including "Charlie Chan at the Olympics," "Cafe Metropole," "Slave Ship," "Wee Willie Winkie," "You Can't Have Everything" and "Ali Baba." It was stressed that the foreign market is favorable to the reception of these films.

Talley stated that $250,000 would be spent on filming the Coronation in Technicolor.

Sidney R. Kent, president, arrived here yesterday but did not attend today's session.

Ernest Koenig, manager in France, did not attend the meeting and is not listed on the programme, facts which seem to confirm the recent reports that he has resigned. However, no official statement on this subject has been issued.

French 40-Hour Week To Include Theatres

Paris, April 19.—The 40-hour week law, which has been extended to include several branches of the French film industry, will be made effective in theatre operation as well. The matter is at the moment in the hands of an arbitration body, since after several meetings the Cinema Exhibitors' Ass'n failed to reach an agreement on the application of the law.

It is expected that the decision will make the 40-hour week applicable to all theatre employes, including projectionists, ushers, cashiers and others. For the large houses, the law will be a small problem, since they have always operated with two shifts, but the small houses with few employes are faced with a serious situation. The only solution apparent now is for the small houses to close one day each week.

Plan No Restriction On U. S. Technicians

London April 19.—Asked to refuse permits for American technicians to assist in filming the Coronation, Ernest Brown, for the Ministry of Labor, in the House of Commons said the issue of permits would "depend entirely on the merits of each case." Only one request had been received so far in regard to the Coronation, for a Technicolor expert, he stated.

The questioner asserted that 200 competent British technicians were out of work, but Sir Percy Harris stated that other countries would shut out British technicians if England shut out theirs.

Approve Edward Picture

Toronto, April 28.—Formal announcement has been made by the Canadian Government that the sound film of the unveiling of the Canadian Memorial at Vimy Ridge in France by the former King Edward will be released by the Government without deletions which had been previously considered because of the abdication of the British ruler. This special release, titled "Salute to Valor," will not be seen by the public, however, until after the Coronation of King George VI to avoid any possible embarrassment.

Intermountain Sets Improvement Plans

SALT LAKE CITY, April 28.—A general program calling for improvements and the addition of new equipment in a number of the houses of Intermountain Theatres, Inc., is contemplated, according to Harry David, vice-president and general manager, who attended the recent meeting of Paramount theatre partners in Miami.

"Business in eastern cities has shown a steady climb, which augurs well for the western area," David said. Definite plans have been set for the remodeling and expansion of the circuit's general offices here at a cost of $10,000.

More Art Gone Wrong

Minneapolis, April 28.—Famous singers and musicians should not appear in films "beneath their talents," according to the terms of a protest voted by the North Central Music Educators' Conference here.

Some of the members of the conference reported they had attended pictures in which the real talents of singers and musicians "had been largely overlooked or inappropriately employed." The conference also "regretted" the apparent acquiesence of fine artists in "the cheap and unworthy use of their talents."

A committee appointed by the B. C. Theatre Ass'n. to study public reaction to double and single bills has brought in no progress report as yet. The concensus of opinion among managers is that single bills cannot stand up in Vancouver during the summer.

Change Show After Juvenile Sit-Down

PITTSBURGH, April 28.—As a result of the sit-down strike staged a week ago by 500 youngsters, the Enright in East Liberty will make considerable alterations in the children's shows it has been presenting every Saturday morning for the last three years under the sponsorship of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

When groups from the Parent Teachers Ass'n protested that the children were going to the theatre at 9:30 A. M., sitting through the selected juvenile films and then remaining until 3 P. M. to see the regular bill, the manager, George Bronson, agreed to ask the children to leave at noon. He did a week ago but a minor riot resulted and the youngsters refused to leave. They held their ground for an hour and finally Bronson was forced to go ahead with the regular performance.

In the future the children's show will begin at 11 A. M. and last only an hour, including a few shorts and an amateur stage show and community singing. The regular show will go on promptly at noon and the youngsters will be permitted to remain.

WOR Stand on Commercials Bars Program

Marking the beginning of a drive to compel sponsors to exercise restraint in determining the length of their commercial readings, WOR last Tuesday refused to allow the A. N. Smallwood Co. to broadcast its scheduled 15-minute musical program, "Cabin in the Pines" when the sponsor refused to cut down the length of the commercials for the program. WOR met the emergency by substituting a transcribed sustaining program.

The move marked one of those extremely rare instances wherein a sponsor has been told to go, and substantiates an article which appeared in Motion Picture Daily some months ago, wherein it was stated that the networks and important independent stations were preparing to crack down on sponsors whose programs did not meet with a high standard of entertainment and whose commercials were unduly strident or lengthy.

Less than Half Entertainment

"Cabin in the Pines" began its stay on WOR April 27, and is heard Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7:30 to 7:45 P. M., and Sundays from 10:30 to 11 P. M., E.D.S.T. A. N. Smallwood Co. is a real estate development firm. The program is produced by Jay Lewis and Associates.

WOR charges the script for last Tuesday's show contained commercials which required eight minutes to read. The station held to the opinion that eight minutes of commercials on a 15-minute program was unreasonable, and sought to prevail on Jay Lewis and Associates to cut the commercials. The agency was unable to see WOR's viewpoint, and accordingly the station refused to allow the program to be broadcast.

A call at Jay Lewis and Associates elicited the information that the program would be broadcast tonight, as scheduled.

Finance Cost Is Handicap, States Korda

vital need of the industry if existing conditions are to be improved.

His comment on the American market for British films is that, while accent, story defects, and the control of key theatres by American producers are all adverse factors, "the American market is getting better and better from the British film's point of view and, in my opinion, we could establish ourselves in a modest but well-paying way." To do so, he suggests, British interests must revise their selling methods. "There has never been a concentrated effort to use all the many means of propaganda and publicity which are such an overwhelming feature of American life. Also, the distribution of British films has never been properly organized in America. When an attempt has been made, it has been proved too costly." London Films, he says, obtains 50 per cent of its revenue out of England.

The present slump in British production, says Korda, is largely due to the fact that many films were made by people who "became film producers without any qualifications whatsoever save that they could promote finance for the making of the pictures." Their failure was due to "amateur administration and inexperience coupled with the most unwise form of financing, where the short-term loans often cost them 12 to 15 per cent per annum."

General Radio-Film Meeting Wanted by MPTO Conferees

A general meeting of exhibitor representatives with producing company and radio broadcasting officials was recommended by the M.P.T.O.A. film-radio committee at its initial meeting here yesterday. Preparations for sending out invitations to attend the meeting will be made at once, Walter Vincent, committee chairman, said.

The general purpose of the meeting will be to attempt to devise means by which film stars and material to be used on radio programs can be regulated to lessen the possibility of injurious effects from such broadcasts on theatres, stars and pictures, it was said.

Invitations to attend the meeting, which will be sought for an early date, will go out to representatives of exhibitor organizations, home office and studio executives of the larger producing companies and to officials of the principal networks.

The committee meeting yesterday was attended by Lewen Pizor of Philadelphia, Arthur Lockwood of Middletown, Conn., and Samuel Pinanski of Boston, in addition to Vincent. The consensus of opinion of the committee members was that unregulated use of film talent and material on radio programs was potentially injurious to theatre pictures and to the stars themselves.

The committee's statement said that "the discussion brought forth a unanimity of opinion that the function of

Sound Service Hit by IATSE Midwest Drive

Projectionists Bar Erpi, RCA Men from Booths

Erpi and RCA Photophone service men have been locked out of all theatres in the Chicago, Cleveland and Kansas City territories with the opening of an I.A.T.S.E. drive to force unionization of all service men, it was learned here yesterday. More than 500 theatres have had equipment servicing shut off as a result.

The lockouts have been accomplished through the refusal of I.A. projectionists to admit service men to the booths. The supply of replacement parts has not been shut off and equipment repairs are still possible, apparently, but only when done by the exhibitor and at his own risk.

Many of the service men in the affected areas are union men, which would indicate that the lockouts are designed more to force unionizing in unorganized territories elsewhere, than to gain recognition for the union in the three cities selected thus far for the lockouts.

Officials of Erpi and RCA here said that no demands had been presented yet by the union and declared that until they had been no course of action could be determined. They said that no complaints or evidence of dissatisfaction were apparent among their workers, the bulk of whom receive $65 per week and traveling expenses.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 29.

IN the first place "Kid Galahad" is a rattling good story with bounce, excitement and melodrama. In the second place Warners recognized all three and put them on the screen in this well-knit, well-acted and well-directed yarn of the squared ring and a couple of racketeers who have made fortunes in it.

You find Edward G. Robinson as one of the strong arm boys and Humphrey Bogart as his perennial enemy. The spoils are Wayne Morris, former bellhop with a slow brain, but a lot on the hoof and a sledgehammer for a right.

Robinson wasn't a bad sort of guy. He had a mother and his sister was reared in a convent. He kept them on a farm and far from the maddening crowd of pugs and muggs. That is, until Morris, his new protege, lands there because he has floored Bogart with one to the chin, and nobody floors Bogart and lives. There the stalwart meets Jane Bryan, the sister, and they fall in love. Another thread in the "meller" entangles Bette Davis. She is Robinson's girl and a pretty loyal kid, but if she falls for the dim-witted and handsome pugilist she can't help herself any more than the fighter can help loving the other girl.

A fight in a night club develops. Tabloids print pictures. Robinson then learns about his slugging protege and his sister. He starts going through the roof and never stops. Plotting revenge at his own expense, he deliberately signs for a heavyweight title bout with Bogart's champ. Morris is not ready for it, but that shaves no slivers with Robinson. He bets against his own scrapper. Bogart hears about it and places his own odds accordingly, at the same time warning that Robinson won't be around if a double X is pulled.

For most of the bout Robinson instructs Morris along lines that mean his slaughter. Then Miss Davis, who loves Morris, and Miss Bryan, who also loves Morris, get under Robinson's skin. He switches his tactics and his boy wins. Bogart starts to make good his promise and in a dressing room shooting fray he and Robinson bump each other off. There is a lovers' happy finish of the kind Grad Sears goes for.

"Kid Galahad" holds and it grips and it's played in knockdown fashion—no pun intended—for all its worth under Michael Curtiz's showmanship direction. The excitement of the boxing ring is present and plenty of it. Robinson, in the sort of part long familiar, is biting and pungent. Bogart is the swellest kind of menace. Miss Davis, as the losing woman, is incisive and touching. Harry Carey, as the trainer, etches out a place. Miss Bryan is properly appealing as the pure in love. The whole show is wound up neatly and tuned down cleverly to the exact level of the masses. They ought to go for it without hesitation.

Sabath Asks Control Of Bondholder Moves

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Representative Adolph J. Sabath, who headed the special Congress committee which probed film and theatre reorganizations, said today he intended to press for enactment of a law to name conservators to control bondholders' committees in bankruptcies.

Sabath said he did not care whether the Judiciary Committee reported his bill or some other bill, but that he would insist a bill be reported. Otherwise, he said, he would press for continuance of his special probing committee.

To Ask Examination In Brandt's Action

Brandt Theatres, Inc., Times Square Theatre Corp. and the operators of 32 other neighborhood houses in Manhattan and the Bronx will ask Justice Alfred Frankenthaler in N. Y. Supreme Court today for permission to examine before trial Loew's, Inc., through Charles Moskowitz, assistant treasurer. Loew's and others have been named defendants in a suit in which the plaintiffs would permanently enjoin Loew's from continuing the operation of a five and two-day weekly split in exhibition.

The other defendants are M-G-M, Paramount, Columbia, Universal, United Artists Corp. Trial of the action is scheduled for June. Harry Brandt, president of Brandt Theatres, stated in an affidavit filed in court that for many years prior to January last Loew houses maintained an exhibition policy predicated on a weekly split of three and four days. Relying on that policy, the affidavit continues, the plaintffs agreed to show the pictures of the defendant companies subsequent to their exhibition in neighborhood Loew houses. He claims the Loew operation on a five and two-day split has damaged the plaintiffs seriously.

Orders Lab. Suit Details

Federal Judge Robert T. Patterson yesterday ordered the plaintiff and defendant to file bills of particulars in the $500,000 damage suit brought by the Du-Art Film Laboratories, Inc., and Arthur Gottlieb against Consolidated Films Industries, Inc. Du-Art alleges that it entered into an exclusive contract in June, 1934, with U Film Laboratories, Inc., a subsidiary of Universal, to develop film and that Consolidated induced Universal to breach the contract in December, 1934. Consolidated asks $20,000 on a counter claim on the ground that it made a prior contract with Universal in 1929 and that Du-Art interfered by offering to develop film at a half-cent less per foot.

Permits Century Appeal

Federal Judge Robert T. Patterson yesterday allowed Century Prod., Inc., Samuel Cummins, Empire Laboratories, Inc., Richard Fiedler, Cravath Wells and the Bob-Ed Theatre Corp. to appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals from an April 21 in favor of Frederick Beck Patterson, who alleged that the defendant used portions of his film, "Shooting Big Game with a Camera" in their picture, "The Jungle Killer."

Impatient Film Fan Takes Poke at Usher with a Tilt to His Nose

If you're a movie fan you'll sympathize with [illegible]. Especially if you've ever waited behind the tape in the lobby of a theater for what seemed ages while an usher with a superior manner looked down his nose and assured you there were no seats.

[illegible], who is 42 and lives at 17 W. 135th St., gave way to his inhibitions in the lobby of the Roxy Theater last night, according to police.

Usher Isadore Blackman was keeping a cursory eye on the tape when [illegible] asked him how long it would be before seats would be available. The usher assured him "there were no seats." Soon [illegible] inquired again.

"In just a moment," said the usher. And then, according to the police, [illegible] saw red, and all his pent-up bitterness was released in one wild gesture. He broke through the tape with a yell of rage and punched the usher on his up-tilted nose.

[illegible] appeared in Night Court later with a discolored right eye. He denied striking the usher, and told Magistrate Anthony F. Burke that Blackmann had assaulted him as he "was patiently waiting in line for a seat."'

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Thirteenth Chair"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, April 29.—This one presents no new twists in routine mystery melodrama, but it embodies the necessary eerie thrills and comedy relief elements to please the patrons. The film is ably cast and directed to fill average program qualifications. The only departure from formula is the India background.

The plot opens with Lewis Stone, a Scotland Yard investigator, probing a murder. As usual, suspicion is thrown upon at least 10 people. The investigation temporarily intrudes on the romantic aspirations of Madge Evans and Thomas Beck. The central person in the sleuthing in Dame May Whitty, who holds a seance which results in Henry Daniell's death. The ensuing investigation subsequently involves the already mentioned quartet, Elissa Landi, Janet Beecher, Ralph Forbes, Holmes Herbert, Heather Thatcher, Charles Trowbridge and others. Miss Whitty and Miss Evans eventually are revealed as mother and daughter. Ultimately Miss Whitty discards her spiritualism and disposes of the murderer. The audience apparently has discovered the culprit long before the fadeout, however.

All the performances are adequate. George B. Seitz' direction cleverly balances the story's ingredients. Marion Parsonnet's screen adaptation of Bayard Veiller's play moves swiftly and holds attention. Dame May Whitty gives an outstanding performance.

Production Code Seal No. 3,290. Running time, 68 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"The Frame Up"

(Columbia)

This is precisely the kind of active and lively screen fare that is to be expected when the film credits list D. Ross Lederman as director and Harold Shumate as the author of the screenplay. The story by Richard E. Wormser tells of the attempt on the part of a gang of racetrack gamblers to frame a race by running in a ringer for a stolen horse, and the finally successful battle of the track detective force to stop them.

En route there is plenty of the sort of excitement that will please the youngsters and a few oldsters. The film is satisfactory fare for the second half of a dual program.

Paul Kelly is the chief of track detectives and Jacqueline Wells his secretary and fiancee, who is kidnapped as a means of forcing Kelly to listen to reason on his planned breaking up of the gamblers' game. He is compelled to acquiesce in order to protect the girl's life, but fast thinking and faster police work, with an automobile chase or two thrown in for good measure, brings the end of the gang and the romance at the film's conclusion.

Production Code Seal No. 3,099. Running time, 56 minutes. "G."

"Rootin', Tootin' Rhythm"

(Republic)

The pursuit of cattle rustlers by Gene Autry and Smiley Burnette serves as the story thread in this western. The chase involves a number of diverting musical sequences in which the cast partakes when the hunt lags. By and large it is exciting, humorous and entertaining stuff.

Autry and Burnette masquerade as a pair of dangerous outlaws in order to trail the stolen stock. Their wanderings bring them to Armida, Ann Pendleton and Monte Blue, neighboring ranchers. It is soon revealed that Blue is in league with the cattle thieves. The situation gets tense when Autry and Burnette are shown up, but with the arrival of Hal Taliaferro, Autry's partner, the culprits are apprehended. For the proper romantic finish, Autry rescues Armida and Miss Pendleton who are trapped in a runaway coach. The story material is well developed and replete with action.

The cast includes Charles King, Max Hoffman, Jr., Frankie Marvin, Nina Campana and Charles Mayer. Mack V. Wright directed.

Production Code Seal No. 3,249. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Hear Americans in French Bill Query

Paris, April 29.—The Cinema Commission of the French Parliament yesterday heard American film representatives present their views of the American screen, in the course of hearings to gather information for a new French film bill. The measure is expected to be drafted at the conclusion of the hearings of the fact finding commission.

Yesterday the group heard Harold L. Smith, Paris representative of the M.P.P.D.A., declare that American films are extremely moral, since they invariably picture the triumph of the forces of law and order. He said American companies had invested more than $10,000,000 in France for studios employing hundreds of Frenchmen, and pointed out that the French industry benefited to the extent of $10,000 for every American film released in this country.

IATSE Union Drive Continuing in K.C.

Kansas City, April 29.—The I.A.T.S.E. is continuing its drive to "obligate" as many as possible of the approximately 300 exchange workers here following "obligation" of and payment of dues by about 110 last Tuesday evening. This number did no include bookers or front office employes, and final organization, election of officers, issuance of a charter, etc., was delayed until May 4, in order to give the union time to bring in representatives of the two missing groups to line up enough more to make a "majority" of film row workers. Front office employees were being contacted this week by Ray Gandy, a projectionist, member of the operators' union.

Patrillo Challenges C.I.O.

Chicago, April 29.—James Patrillo, president of the Chicago Musicians' Union, long an air-tight A.F. L. unit, today challenged the C.I.O., stating that if it carried out its threat to seek Chicago recruits they would not "get as far as the depot here." Patrillo, virtually a dictator in the music field here, is an outspoken enemy of John L. Lewis.

Discuss Details for N. E. Theatre Shifts

Details in connection with the reorganization of Olympia Theatres are being worked out in conferences here with John Ford of Maine & New Hampshire Theatres, Martin Mullin and Samuel Pinanski of New England Theatres and Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount theatre head.

New England's bid of $4,000,000 for Olympia's assets was given court approval in Boston recently. The fact that Olympia owns 50 per cent of Maine & New Hampshire creates a situation which makes possible several pooling and other cooperative arrangements between the latter and the New England circuit. The current conferences concern deals of this kind.

Expectations are that the reorganization of Olympia will be completed during June.

Reich Warns U. S. Firm

Berlin, April 29.—The union of German theatre owners today threatened to break off business relations with "an American film company which produced an anti-German atrocity film." It was stipulated the film must be withdrawn by June 1. It was said here to have been shown in some American churches.

It is assumed here that the alleged "anti-German" film referred to by the German theatre owners is "Modern Christian German Martyrs," which was shown recently at the Riverside Church in New York, and which is sponsored by the American Committee for Christian German Refugees. The name of the producer of the film could not be learned last night, but it is understood that no major American company produced it.

Report Korda Will Seek U.S. Finance

The reason for Churchill's presence could not be learned but there was some indication that there might be a political implication, in view of Korda's recent statements to the press on the lack of sufficient financing in England for production and his support of the Moyne recommendation for a Government film commission.

British Trade Talk Suspended for Time

It is understood further that the negotiations thus far have broken down, with all the groups represented again making individual statements, and the K. R. S. and the Board of Trade expressing a purely American view.

the radio and that of the motion picture is so greatly at variance that a meeting of producers, exhibitors and broadcasting executives might be fruitful of an understanding and an agreement that would be beneficial to all concerned."

20th-Fox to Check Scripts

HOLLYWOOD, April 29. — Lew Schreiber today was authorized to review all radio scripts and engagement agreements of 20th Century-Fox contract artists for radio appearances.

In the past some players' contracts have stipulated that all radio performances must first be approved by the studio. In the future, however, all broadcasts must first receive the "production okay" of Schreiber.

The move of 20th Century-Fox is not so much censorship as it is a desire to derive the fullest benefit from radio exploitation without delaying production. The nature of the Schreiber post is identical with that of Ruby Cowen employed by Paramount for essentially the same purpose.

Radio Credited with Cigarette Sale Gain

The Standard Commercial Tobacco Co., controllers of the Axton-Fischer Tobacco Co. reports that sales in eastern states of Twenty Grand cigarettes in the first quarter of this year are 100 per cent greater than in the parallel period of 1936. The sales boost is attributed to advertising, with radio playing an important part in the increase. The McCann Erickson agency handles Twenty Grand for radio.

"THE NECESSARY FOREWORD

IMPORTANCE OF A FAMILY TREE. The balance of this foreword is for those who (soundly enough) insist on knowing the complete 'family-tree' of any figures which apply to them for recognition. Nothing could be fairer than that. Figures which do not carry their credentials with them, ready for inspection at all times, are like a man who claims he is a Count—and then, somehow, neglects to tell you what he is a Count of. He may be charming. And persuasive. But how can you tell whether he is an authentic Count until you know his name; and (if the matter be important) have traced his family-tree to its roots in the Almanac da Gotha. Family-trees of statistics are of even more importance. The man, after all, can be judged alone. But figures cannot stand alone. They take their only value from their source; from the unbroken lines of their descent. There is no middle ground for figures. Either they are blue-blooded aristocrats . . . or they are worthless. So, this necessary foreword. It traces in detail, the 'family-tree' of the totals in this book: where they came from, how they have been tested, and how they relate to other known and relevant data. "

This is from the foreword of RADIO IN 1937, just published by the COLUMBIA BROADCASTING SYSTEM. This study presents detailed and current information on radio ownership and listening habits for all cities of 2,500 population and over in the United States. based on the general question of what the student of public opinion and, more particularly, the leader of public opinion should know about the specific agencies of communication.

Quigley's lecture dealt principally with a discussion of the following motion picture trends as affecting public opinion:

1. The efforts on the part of special interests to make the films specifically a pleader of special interests.

2. Efforts on the part of pressure groups of various classifications to compel exhibition in theatres of subjects regarded as suitable to their purposes or, on the contrary, to prevent exhibition of subjects held to be undesirable.

3. The Legion of Decency is typical of an organization of public opinion under responsible direction.

4. The rising tide of nationalism as affecting international distribution of motion pictures and influencing and limiting the international exchange of ideas through the film.

Painters, Make-up Men, Scenic Artists Out; Actors May Follow

HOLLYWOOD, April 30.—A general strike of painters, scenic artists and makeup men was called here at six o'clock tonight and 2,500 workers walked out as a result of the producers' refusal to recognize their union.

Immediately following the move of the labor groups, the Screen Actors' Guild called a meeting to decide what course members would follow in the controversy. It is reported that Robert Montgomery, president of the Guild, has communicated with British Actors' Equity in London telling of the imminence of a general strike and that he has received assurances from the English group that it will support any action taken by the guild.

Hollywood, April 30.—Lionel Barrymore was presented an engraved gold watch by Louis B. Mayer, upon the actor's three anniversaries—his 59th birthday, his 54th year as an actor and 27th year in pictures. An impromptu party was arranged on the set of his current film, "Saratoga."

Barrymore, who made his stage debut at the age of five, with his father, Maurice, entered pictures in 1910.

Tri-States Reports Success of Singles

OMAHA, April 30.—Great success has followed reversion to single features for at least part of each week in Tri-States houses in four cities of this territory, according to District Manager Evert R. Cummings.

In each case the return to singles has been accompanied by a slight increase in admission prices, and this, too, has worked out successfully, Cummings said.

At Tri-States' "A" houses in Fairbury, Hastings and Grand Island, Neb., single feature programs are played the first three and last two days of each week. At Tri-States' Sioux City "A" house, the Orpheum,

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 30.

FANCHON, the sister end of Fanchon and Marco, who have been producing stage units up and down the land for years, marks her debut as a film producer for Paramount in "Turn Off the Moon," strictly a musical based on a story by Mildred Harrington. In story content it is as shy as rain during California's dry season, which, natives will insist, is very shy indeed.

Eleanore Whitney, cute, personable and nimble on her feet, is a dancer who can't make managers or agents listen. Johnny Downs, pleasant and good looking, is a song-plugger in Charlie Ruggles' department store which operates by horoscopes and the heavenly bodies. Quickly enough, the boy falls for the girl and so the story comes to an abrupt and hasty conclusion.

Grafted on for no reason at all, except to provide a vaudeville show in which Ben Blue again goes through his funny dance flops, Romo Vincent impersonates Charles Laughton and Phil Harris, who specializes in dance music and master of ceremonying, has an opportunity to do both. Practically anywhere in its footage "Turn Off the Moon" could be called to a complete halt. That's the way it is deliberately concocted along stage unit lines subscribed to as faithfully by Fanchon as if she were producing this with her brother Marco.

Gags are plentiful. Some are good and some labored in this attraction which is hardly suitable for top playing time and yet is not exactly a second feature. It hovers a bit uncertainly between first and second class with decided but not complete emphasis on the latter. As such, it probably will prove acceptable enough for theatres where audiences take their fun as they get it without proving hypercritical or critical at all.

Two More Theatres To Be Started Soon

Theatre building activity continues at a lively pace in the local territory. Within the next few months two new houses will be added to the area.

Ground will be broken today for a new 800-seat theatre at New Dorp, Staten Island. The Mo-Dorp Realty Corp., of which Louis Moses is an associate, will build the structure. A new theatre is now under construction at Belvedere, N. J. Squire D. O. Atkinson has an interest in the project.

Report WB Starting Wide B.N. in Phila.

PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—Though not confirmed, it was learned on good authority today that Warners will add Bank Nights in 20 spots of their circuit, in each case matching similar competition from independent houses. Twelve theatres are on the Philadelphia suburban Warner list for the idea, while houses in Reading, Westchester, Palmyra (Pa.), Gettysburg and Hanover also will use the idea.

Retraction Demanded

Twentieth Century-Fox has demanded of the Independent Exhibitors, Inc., of Boston, a retraction of the resolution passed at a recent business meeting which condemned what was termed "blatant and obvious advertising of General Motors products" in the film "Wake Up and Live." The demand for retraction took the form of a letter from Felix A. Jenkins, legal chief of the company, to Arthur K. Howard, business manager of the Boston organization.

"Dance" in Chicago $5,000 Opening Day

"Shall We Dance," the latest Astaire-Rogers musical, opened Thursday at the Chicago Palace to $5,000 business on the day. According to RKO executives this is double the average opening day's take. The picture will run indefinitely. "Swing Time," the last Astaire-Rogers musical, played six weeks at the house.

Isadore Rappaport opened the picture yesterday at the Hippodrome, Baltimore. Next week it will begin engagements in out-of-town RKO theatres. "Shall We Dance" will follow "A Star Is Born" at the Music Hall and then will be dated in the circuit's metropolitan houses.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Hollywood Cowboy"

(Hirliman-RKO)

Hollywood, April 30.—This film manages to be more entertaining than the title indicates. The story laughs at itself throughout, and is productive of good comedy without detracting from the rough and tumble routine which includes an airplane chase, racketeer hijacking, range riding and the usual share of gun-toting.

The film looks like a good bet for the neighborhood houses, and should do better than the usual western. The story concerns the cowboy film star, George O'Brien, who finishes a film on a western location where the ranchers are striking. Charles Middleton and a gang of city racketeers are cashing in on the protection racket in the same spot.

O'Brien meets Joe Caits, a refugee from a front page marital row, who seeks seclusion. As the two start on a vacation trip through the mountains incognito they encounter Middleton's men using strong-arm tactics on Cecilia Parker, niece of Maude Eburne, wealthy cattle rancher. The pair land on the ranch and in the thick of the strike-racketeer warfare. Frank Milan, wealthy dude rancher, almost gets in the way of the Parker-O'Brien romance, but the latter meets every situation and corners the racketeers in an airplane chase.

Caits and Miss Eburne steal the show, with Miss Parker and O'Brien giving good performances. Ewing Scott's direction is good. Dan Jarrett collaborated with Scott on the original screenplay. Frank B. Good's photography is outstanding.

Production Code Seal No. 3,317. Running time, 64 minutes. "G."

Ohio Tax Increase Is Believed Beaten

Columbus, April 30.—Film men throughout the state are jubilant over the latest turn in legislative affairs, which, it is confidently believed, sounds the death knell of the proposed seven per cent increase in the admission tax.

The House Taxation Committee, which had the measure under consideration a week ago, but took no action, now has permanently disbanded after having indefinitely postponed action on all pending measures. This, it is pointed out, is virtually equivalent to defeat of the admission tax bill.

Assembly Bill No. 2,996, dealing with dog racing in the state of New York, has been recalled from the Governor by the Assembly Desk and is slated to be redelivered shortly to Governor Lehman. Exhibitor interests have asked for a conference with Governor Lehman to discuss the bill before signing. Circuit officials would not comment yesterday on the action of the Assembly Desk.

single features are used the first four days and duals the last three. At the Princess, Tri-States' "B" first run in Sioux City, the dual programs have been retained.

After several attempts at returning to single features in Omaha, Cummings has given it up. Recently "Maytime" was put into the Omaha as a single feature, but business was so poor opening night and so many phone call complaints came in that another feature was added two days later. Cummings believes that more success will be found in returning to single features in the smaller cities.

Yvon Delbos, French Foreign Minister, today presented Legion of Honor ribbons to Truman Talley, head of Fox Movietone News, and Walter J. Hutchinson, in charge of foreign sales. A press reception for Kent was held today. Talley declared that the reel is all set for the Coronation, with 28 camera positions arranged and 175 men working on sound track. The first black and white prints will go to 40 countries, Talley said, to be followed by two to four reels in Technicolor.

"Seventh Heaven" was screened for the convention delegates this morning.

Appeal from British Censor Still Denied

London, April 22.—Geoffrey Lloyd, Under Secretary for the Home Office, who announced in the House of Commons that an advisory committee would shortly be set up to consider amendment of the Cinematograph Act (1909), also stated, in reply to a question, that the Home Secretary was not prepared to consider amending the act to give producers the right of appeal from decisions of the British Board of Film Censors to the Home Office.

At present there is a right of appeal to local licensing authorities, entailing separate action in each district. The 1909 Act should not be confused with the Films Act (1927). It is concerned with the licensing of theatres from the point of view of public safety, and incidentally confers the right of censorship on local authorities, who delegate it to the B.B.F.C., but are compelled by law to hear appeals against B.B.F.C. decisions.

Kansas City, April 30.—About 40 branch managers, salesmen and bookers from M-G-M exchanges in this city, Dallas, Memphis, St. Louis, New Orleans, Omaha, Oklahoma City and Des Moines boarded the M-G-M convention special when it arrived here at 8:15 tonight.

When the train pulled out more than 200 persons were Los Angeles bound to attend the three-day sales meetings.

Five on at Albuquerque

Albuquerque, April 30.—M-G-M's convention train will stop here tomorrow afternoon to pick up five of the company's sales force who are there from Denver.

Start Conferences Sunday

Los Angeles, April 30.—When the M-G-M convention delegates arrive here Sunday morning and check in at the Ambassador Hotel there will be two preliminary meetings in the afternoon.

District and branch managers will convene to go over the current season's activities while office managers and bookers will hold a special session of their own.

A preview screening is planned for Sunday night. The first business meeting will officially get under way Monday morning.

Wolf Leaves by Plane

Morris Wolf, Boston branch manager of M-G-M, left by plane last night for the coast. He was at the train to see the eastern delegation off Thursday, but held up his departure until yesterday.

Coast Arrangements Complete for Meet

Mayer and studio bigwigs will officially meet and extend a welcome at Pasadena at 10:50 and escort the conventionites to hotel headquarters.

It is a full decade since the company held its sales parley here. As usual, product will be announced for the new season and sales policies formulated. Metro studio publicity men under the direction of Howard Strickling have been busy for several weeks arranging details which will provide crowded minutes between arrival time and departure of the special at 11:30 next Friday morning.

District and branch managers, salesmen, office managers and head bookers total 194. Exploiteers total 26. Canada is sending eight. The New York home office group runs to 29 and miscellaneous representatives five, totaling 262.

Jungle Notes from Leo

Aboard the M-G-M Convention Special, April 30.—Bill Rodgers, generalissimo of the sales force, managed to swap stories with all of the boys on the way out. When one of his men told him an unusual gag, Bill chirped: "Let's sell it on percentage."

Sam Shirley, Chicago district manager, is among the missing. In fact, he's the only member of the field sales force absent. Shirley has been ill for some time and had been advised against the trip by his doctors. However, he's recuperating nicely at his home.

Joe Vogel, who is the only Loew theatre representative present, says he may not return with the conventionites. He may be delayed at the studio for a day or so and plans to stop over at Kansas City to look over Loew's State. He hasn't seen the theatre since it was built and he feels guilty about it.

Arthur Loew and his foreign contingent are not among those present. Loew is holding a sales contest of his own and the winners, 36 in all, will visit him at the home office, which is one form of a convention.

Billy Ferguson will be shy two exploiteers. Omar Kenyon recently resigned as Omaha district exploitation head and Oscar Kantner of San Francisco also has left the company. Kenyon has gone into exhibition, while Katner has been replaced by Ernest Van Pelt.

Eddie Saunders, in recalling all the wives who saw their husbands off at Grand Central, called it a "film widows' convention." Si Seadler missed his Dodo, but his son and friends were there to bid him goodbye. He even had his picture taken with them on the observation car.

Bill Scully, eastern district manager, found the ride a happy breathing spell. Within the past few weeks he has been spending considerable time as chairman for the Will Rogers Memorial Fund and has chalked up 600 theatres in the Greater New York territory as supporting the drive.

Ernie Morrell, transportation head, did a swell job handling the physical arrangements for the entire sales force.

Jack Byrne, New Haven branch manager, has the boys all steamed up over the speech he plans to make about Abraham Lincoln. He tried it last year and came pretty close to reciting the Gettysburg Address.

Ralph Pielow has joined the benedicts' ranks since the last sales meeting. His wife is the former Marigold Ball, who was fan contact for the M-G-M home office.

Si Seadler, editor of the daily paper on the train, calls it a "museum piece." "Why?" one of the salesmen asked him. "Because I have to collect a lot of odd items."

Alan F. Cummings, who has been assisting Col. E. A. Schiller on the adoption of M-G-M's own checker system in exchanges, had a hard time trying to convince a foursome of pinochle players the other day that his presence had nothing to do with clocking points. Incidentally, Schiller was scheduled to leave New York this weekend with David Bernstein on a survey of southern exchanges where the checking system will be inaugurated.

Although he isn't on the train and will be unable to attend the convention, James A. FitzPatrick told one of the sales executives before he sailed for England that he will recommend holding the next sales session on a sea-going liner. So when the men arrive in Los Angeles, they are expecting to hear from FitzPatrick by cable.

Incidentally, no women are on the train. Four office managers and head bookers will meet the conventioneers in Los Angeles. Among them are Miss Ryan, Buffalo office manager, and Mrs. T. Hasbrook of Portland.

Nebraska Houses Sold

Omaha, April 30. — Three Nebraska theatres have changed hands.

Central States has purchased the Cass at Plattsmouth from N. F. Westerlund. This makes Central States' 14th Nebraska house.

C. W. Johnson, owner of the Friend at Friend, has acquired the Filmore at Exeter, from W. O. Sherwood, while Ed Panowicz has taken over the Electric at Arcadia from Don Meyers.

Stockholm Grosses Gain

Stockholm, April 20.—All amusements in this Swedish city had an aggregate gross in 1936 of approximately 16,000,000 Swedish crowns, which compares with about 14,000,000 crowns in 1935. The total of amusement tax collections last year was 2,348,000 crowns. Film houses accounted for the greatest part of the total, 10,319,000 film admissions having been sold during the year.

Big "Lancer" Budget Set

Hollywood, April 30.—Darryl F. Zanuck will give "Lancer Spy" a $1,000,000 budget and has postponed production on the film until May 15 to ready the script. Germaine Aussey will star with Peter Lorre, George Sanders, Virginia Fields and Sig Rumann completing the cast. Gregory Ratoff will direct.

Courshon Out of G. C. S.

Chicago, April 30.—Aaron Courshon has severed his connection with the G. C. S. circuit and has sold his interest in the organization to Mort D. Goldberg and a group headed by I. B. Perlman, an attorney.

Extend Imperial Deal

H. C. Bissell and C. T. Linehan, franchise holders for Imperial product in northern Ohio, extended their franchise from three to five years prior to their return to their headquarters in Cleveland yesterday.

Call Chicago Talks To End Union Fight

by the lockouts are left in a precarious position. Apparently, any serious breakdown of sound equipment would force the closing of theatres if the union's lockout orders were to be enforced to the letter. I. A. projectionists in the three cities have been instructed to refuse service men admittance to the booths, with exhibitors being left to their own devices, apparently, in the event of a breakdown.

Both Erpi and RCA Photophone will send representatives to the Chicago meeting, and circuits and independents with houses affected by the lockouts are also expected to be represented. Circuits involved include Loew's, Warners, RKO, Paramount and Fox Midwest.

A guess was hazarded here yesterday that a jurisdictional dispute between the I. A. T. S. E. and the I. B. E. W. either may have brought about the lockouts or will evolve from the I. A.'s current organizing drive in the service men's field. Many of the service men are members of the I. B. E. W. The I. A. long has claimed exclusive jurisdiction over the projection booth and at present is in the midst of a vertical organizing drive in theatres, exchanges, most of the studio labor classifications and groups allied with the industry.

Equipment companies state that no evidences of dissatisfaction among service men, a comparatively highly paid classification, have been brought to their attention.

Chicago Union Drive Set

Chicago, April 30.—It is understood on good authority here that the I.A.T.S.E. and the operators' union are about to start a widespread union organization drive. The Chicago Theatrical Stagehands' Protective Ass'n, I.A. affiliate, is moving to unionize ushers, box-office employes, exchange and laboratory workers and other groups.

The move is seen as an effort to check the inroads of the C.I.O. It is further understood that George Browne, I.A. president, plans a new setup for lower paid classes, such as ushers, who would get Class B membership.

Fox Midwest Has 101 Of 125 Houses Open

Fox Midwest is now operating 101 of the 125 theatre properties owned by the circuit, Elmer C. Rhoden, operating head, stated yesterday. The circuit now owns 100 per cent of the Tower and Downtown, two first runs in Kansas City. Last Fall, Fox Midwest purchased a half interest in the houses from William Reinke and two months ago bought the other 50 per cent.

Business in the midwest has not been so good in the past few months, Rhoden said, but the outlook is good. He will remain in New York until Monday conferring with Spyros and Charles Skouras.

Dickinson on Tour

Arthur Dickinson of the M.P.P.D.A. will leave Monday on an extended tour of exchanges in the middle west and southwest in connection with fire prevention consultations.

New Talent Bureau On Coast Operating

HOLLYWOOD, April 30.—The first move on the part of Transamerican Broadcasting and Television Artists' Bureau since establishing an exclusive radio talent bureau here, following incorporation this week, gets under way Sunday when Don Becker planes to New York with six radio shows on film and wax. The programs to be sold include a Lionel Atwill dramatization of "Lawrence of Arabia," a Both Tarkington radio story and three comedy scripts.

Actual operation of the talent bureau, which will handle writers as well as players and prepare finished shows for sponsor consumption, will start in two weeks, it was stated by Martin Gosch, vice-president in charge of the local office and radio director for Warners. Headquarters will be confined to the Warner lot until organization of the bureau is completed. John L. Clark heads the company.

Equipped for all phases of radio production, the T. B. T. bureau is now making deals with Hollywood talent agencies on a split commission basis. Tentative deals with four or five agencies have already been completed.

Gosch stated there was no intent to annex extra commissions from the agencies other than were rightfully earned and that the bureau was formed after a year's survey which showed the definite need for a radio talent organization equipped to handle programs and talent. Whether the agencies cooperate with the new bureau in the matter of talent will be up to these organizations and in no way will they be forced to deal with T. B. T., Gosch said.

Holds Hotel Liable For Reproductions

Ruling that a hotel is liable for reception of a copyrighted song over its master radio, Federal Judge John M. Woolsey awarded a judgment of $250 damages and costs to the Society of European Stage Authors & Composers, Inc., against the New York Hotel Statler Corp.

The complaint charged that the copyrighted song, "As We Part," was broadcast over WJZ without permission and that the defendants sent the song to individual receiving sets in the rooms of the Hotel Pennsylvania over its master radio. The Society contended that this reproduction was a public performance for profit.

F. T. C. Issues Order On Radio Sets Sale

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The Federal Trade Commission tonight disclosed the issuance of an order prohibiting unfair methods of competition in the sale of radio sets and parts by a number of manufacturers and dealers in New York, Philadelphia and Washington.

The order requires the respondents to cease representing in any way, through use of trade names or marks of which they are not the owners, and without the permission of the lawful owners, that their radio products are those manufactured, sold, endorsed or licensed by a number of well known concerns, including Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., and its subsidiary, Brunswick Radio Corp., RCA, General Electric and others.

Guest Program to WSPD

"It Can Be Done," the program headed by Edgar Guest and a dramatic cast for the Household Finance Co., has added WSPD, Toledo, to its repertory of NBC-Blue stations. Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn, Chicago office, handles the account.

Fifty-three Per Cent of NBC March Programs Start in East

Fifty-three per cent of all programs heard on NBC networks originated outside of New York during the month of March, 1937, as against 48 per cent in 1936, it is revealed in figures compiled by NBC's statistical department. Despite the sharp gain made by Hollywood, however, New York supplied almost twice as many program hours to the networks as any other point. Comparative figures on the four leading program sources:

	March, 1936	March, 1937
New York	696 hours	676 hours
Chicago	387 "	320 "
San Francisco	354 "	351 "
Hollywood	104 "	47 "

Fifty-three per cent of the sponsored program time in March, 1937, was filled from the Eastern division stations; 25 per cent from the Central division, and slightly more than 21 per cent from the Western division. Thirty-three per cent of total network time was sponsored.

Equity Plans Drive to Get Radio Talent

spokesman. The reports of organizing efforts in the past were greeted with spirited challenges by network officials who declared they would resist the unionizing of radio talent to the utmost.

Equity's present decision to carry organizing into the radio professional field stems directly from the recent Supreme Court decision upholding the Wagner Act in connection with the Associated Press test case. With the press wire service held to be engaged in interstate commerce, Equity's attorneys have offered opinions that the decision applies equally to radio.

Equity officials declined to disclose the organization's plans as to method or exact time for the start of its radio unionizing drive. It was learned, however, that a basic form of contract for all radio talent, such as is now in use in the theatre, will be insisted upon in the event Equity's excursion into radio meets with success. Among the contract's provisions will be pay for rehearsals, broadcasts and re-broadcasts for the west coast.

See Radio a Membership Source

Equity also regards radio organizing as an instrument by which it can strengthen further its Hollywood standing. With an increasing number of film personalities being engaged for broadcasts, and with Hollywood rapidly gaining in importance as a point of program origin, Equity sees a large part of its radio union affiliate's membership being drawn from studio ranks. With the existing close cooperation between Equity and the Screen Actors' Guild, the latter organization, obviously, would also be benefitted by the establishment of an Equity radio union. Film stars would have to be members of one or the other, it is indicated, in order to appear on the air.

NBC to Start WSPD With Hour Program

A full-hour program May 2, from 10:30 to 11:30 P. M., E.D.S.T., on the NBC-Blue network, will serve to usher WSPD, Toledo, into the NBC family of stations as a member of the basic Blue network. The program will originate in three different cities, New York, Toledo and Chicago.

The talent from New York will comprise Jean Sablon, Maida Severn and Norman Cloutier's orchestra. From Toledo Mayor Roy C. Stark and John H. Ryan, WSPD station manager and vice-president, will be heard in talks, with entertainment by Reggie Childs' orchestra. Roy Shields' orchestra and a vocal group will be heard from Chicago.

To Attend Soviet Ad Meet

Russel Pierce, publicity director of Cecil, Warwick and Legler, will sail May 8 for Russia, where he will attend the Soviet Union's first "All Union Advertising Exhibition." He will be accompanied by Richard R. Hudler, of "News-Week."

Unions Break With Results Now Awaited

Opening of Studios to Show Strike Extent

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—The walkout of 3,000 studio painters, scenic artists and makeup artists early yesterday morning, under the direction of Charles Lessing, marked a definite break between the Federation of M. P. Crafts and the I.A.T.S.E. The Federation claims 14,000 studio workers.

The remaining unions in the Federation did not strike, and it is anticipated that the real test will come tomorrow, when it will be determined whether the picket lines set up yesterday morning will be honored by the crafts.

Federation spokesmen charged the I. A. with approaching craft members with an offer to join the I. A. and continue at work, and called the I. A. a producer organization.

Pat Casey, producer union contact, had told Lessing he was willing to recognize the Federation as the proper agent for negotiations on wages and hours, but thought it unfair to make a decision regarding a union shop until producers discovered exactly what wages and hours were demanded. Lessing had insisted on a union shop for the entire Federation.

Lessing made no prediction relative to strike decisions of other crafts.

Seattle Workers in Unionization Drive

SEATTLE, May 2.—More than 70 employes on Film Row here have been unionized during the last few weeks, and an intensive campaign to organize theatre ushers and doormen will be inaugurated this week.

Handling the organization of the theatre and film exchange employes is O. M. Jacobsen, traveling representative of the I.A.T.S.E. He is assisted by Charles Crickmore, president of the stage employes' local; Richard Crist, president of the projectionists' local; and Basil Gray, business agent for the stage employes.

Picket Strike

Pickets of Local 802 of the mucians' union at the Coliseum went on a strike at 4 P. M. the other day. The men, who get $2 a day, weren't paid off on time and so walked off the job.

ColumbiaDean Denies Acting On Allied Law

Knew Nothing of Theatre Divorce Bill, He Says

Recently printed assertions that the dean of the School of Law of Columbia University had "declared" that Allied States' theatre divorce legislation "is constitutional and should be upheld by the U. S. Supreme Court" were flatly repudiated yesterday and branded as "an absolute misstatement of fact" by Dean Young B. Smith at Kent Hall, Columbia.

The assertions were circulated widely among independent exhibitors, particularly Allied States members. The circumstances surrounding the unauthorized use of the Columbia Law School dean's position are a subject of inquiry now by Dean Smith, he said. It is known that the Columbia official was especially aggravated over the linking of his office with solicitations for funds with which to finance the Allied legislative campaign and with

Warners to Extend Philadelphia Games

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—With 12 Warner houses here now playing Bango and Bonus Night, Ted Schlanger yesterday completed plans for instituting Bank Night in 13 theatres starting May 18. In addition four out-of-town houses in the circuit will adopt the same game.

The move follows plans announced recently that Warners would compete with games in all spots where independents are using giveaways.

M-G-M POLICY TO BE HELD FLEXIBLE

Rodgers Will So Inform Delegates to Sales Meet on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, May 2. — M-G-M's sales policy next season will be flexible, as it has been for the current season, William F. Rodgers, general sales manager, will tell convention delegates when he announces the company's new lineup of 44-52 pictures.

Each situation will be studied individually and allocations will be based upon returns during the past two years. This policy during the current year has resulted in the largest domestic gross in the history of the company.

It is expected that terms in some of the percentage groups will be tipped slightly. This is due to the large sums of money to be invested in the big pictures planned for 1937-38.

Among the outstanding attractions scheduled are "Idiot's Delight," "The Firefly," "Pride and Prejudice," "Marie Antoinette," "The Return of the Thin Man," "The Foundry," "Girl of the Golden West," "Rosalie," "Hats in the Air," "Johann Strauss," "Show Shop," "Great Day" and "B Before High C."

Hal Roach will concentrate on eight musicals for next season. He has lined up a number of music writers and stars for the series. In addition he

Columbia to Have 58 for Next Season

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—Columbia's lineup for next season will call for 58 features, of which 16 will be westerns, 126 shorts and four serials of 15 chapters each. The program is virtually the same as the current season with the exception of the 60 reels of serials which Louis Weiss is producing for the company.

Abe Montague, general sales manager, is due Wednesday from New Orleans where he is holding a district meeting of the southern branches.

Several important circuit deals are understood to have been closed for the 1937-38 product.

Rube Jackter, who is with Montague in New Orleans, will leave there Sunday night for New York where he is due next Tuesday.

Delay Action on Wis. Theatre Bill

MADISON, Wis., May 2.—The Assembly Committee on Commerce and Manufacturers has voted indefinite postponement for the Hall bill, which would prohibit producers from operating theatres, following a hearing on the measure here.

Appearing against the bill was B. J. Miller, representing the Warner and Fox circuits, while Mrs. J. E. Hansen of the Wisconsin Council of the Parent-Teachers Ass'n.; Herbert L. Mount and Ray Tesch, both of Milwaukee, and representing the Independent Theatres Protective Ass'n. of Wisconsin, spoke for the bill.

"Wake Up" Seen by 197,735 in 8 Days

Approximately 197,735 persons attended the Roxy during the first eight days of "Wake Up and Live." This is nine per cent above any picture for the same number of days in the past five years.

On the opening day of the second week, the take was almost as great as the first day.

Majors Seek Spots For Five Roadshows

Roadshows are coming into their own again with five major companies now seeking theatres for two-a-day engagements.

Loew's, which is following "The Good Earth" with "Captains Courageous," has already dated the new picture in six spots and is now trying to line up theatres which showed the film version of Pearl Buck's book throughout the country. In a number of situations roadshow houses cannot

Pittsburgh's Flood Cost Total $15,000

Pittsburgh, May 2.—A total of about $15,000 in damages was suffered by five downtown theatres, the Penn, Stanley, Alvin, Fulton and Barry in last week's flood here. The rivers fortunately stopped at 35 feet.

While the physical effects were slight, most of the cost to management was in the form of labor. Every theatre was manned for days by extra crews stripping basements and getting ready for all emergencies. Johnstown, Pa., and Wheeling, W. Va., also had slight losses from the high waters.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, May 2.

TALES from the Hollywood Hills:

This continues to be the land where credits rule the roost. It is part of the system and, more often than not, numerical prowess outruns creative and actual prowess on the theory bouncing through the producer mind that talent must be good; otherwise, how could it have gotten that much work and that many credits? Unsung and very important, therefore, and by this calculation, is Harry Brand. This explains why:

In Joe Schenck's lavish and far flung office suite at 20th Century-Fox where gray and the moderne motif join hands, his desk Telematic, which clears inter-office communications, has a series of calls. In the upper row, New York rates first; Brand, second; Darryl F. Zanuck, third, and Bill Goetz, fourth.

Fun is fun. Hollywood knows it and the walls of Brand's own office demonstrate it. There, world celebrities adorn his picture frames.

"To Harry from Otto" [H. Kahn]

"To H. B. with affectionate regards, J. P. Morgan."

"Sincerely, Henry Ford."

Benito Mussolini with "Saluta, Benito."

Calvin Coolidge with "To H——. C. C."

General Pershing: "To Harry, my best always."

Ramsay MacDonald: "To my dear friend, Harry."

To the left, Brand and Cosgrave of Ireland caught by the same lens. It is the one authentic picture of the collection. . . .

Paramount's well-advertised slogan, "If it's a Paramount picture, it's the best show in town," found its funniest parallel in the mythical Miracle Pictures with its equally mythical takeoff slogan, "If it's a good picture, it's a Miracle." Hollywood today includes Sam Katzman, who produces as Victory Pictures. You're supposed to fill in the blackout on your own. . . .

The Metro influence:

Now that "The Thin Man" has been followed by "After the Thin Man" and 20th Century-Fox is doing "Thin Ice," talk is around of a sequel to the first Sonja Henie feature. To be called "After the Thin Ice." . . .

Fan magazines are included in the campaign, and considerable photographic material has gone out to newspapers who are said to have requested it because of the detailed pictures of Coronation procedure. Over 2,000 stores have been tied in on the exploitation, Warners claim.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Last Night"

(Amkino)

The waves of ecstacy which apparently filled the majority of the critics of New York's daily papers when they viewed this latest importation from Soviet Russia cannot be echoed here. Granted that it is one of the better pictures to come from the Government-controlled studios of Russia, it is nevertheless so heavily biased in the direction of revolutionary propaganda that it ceases to be good entertainment and takes on the aspect of studied glorification of the revolution.

The scene is set in Moscow on the night of Nov. 6, 1917, the eve of the so-called October revolution, the date being governed by the old Russian calendar. It recounts the story of two families, one of poor workers, the other of a wealthy manufacturer. Seen is the the rising of the workers in Moscow, the almost romantic interlude which develops between the young son of the worker and the daughter of the manufacturer, at a school dance immediately before the fighting, and the sacrifice of the various members of the worker's family before their final victory, led by the sole surviving masculine member of the family, while his elderly mother cheers wildly in support.

There are several active and reasonably impressive scenes of the fighting between the White and Red forces, and one or two of the performances are worthy of mention, but on the whole the film is not sufficiently extraordinary to warrant playing in any situations except where the Russian sympathies run high. Yuri Resiman directed.

Overseas Previews

"The Gang Show"

(Herbert Wilcox)

London, April 20.—"The Gang Show" is a transcription and variation of the annual review staged by Boy Scout organizations in England under the direction of Ralph Reader. The stage show, largely due to the enthusiasm of its amateur players, plus the considerable talent they revealed, has been a very big success. The film retains the happy-go-lucky atmosphere, adds something of a story continuity and a love interest that gives Reader a leading part to play.

The plot interest is based on the fact that a troop of Scouts, threatened with the loss of their meeting place, decide to run a stage show to raise funds for the rent. "Skipper," their leader, has been trying to sell himself as a singer or producer to all the agents and theatrical managers in London. His only success has been to find a future wife in an agent's secretary. Because the girl has been left in charge of a theatre while her employer is in Paris, the Scouts' "Gang Show" displaces "Faust" as the attraction. When the big boss returns the box-office consoles him for his secretary's duplicity, and makes the Skipper's reputation.

Some catchy numbers, skits of stage acts by the boys, dancing and spectacles are the ingredients. It has tieup possibilities with Scout organizations, which American exhibitors will be able to evaluate more exactly when Reader, and a print, arrives in the United States, where he aims to do something at the big Scout Jamboree in Washington.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G." ALLAN

Short Subjects

"Hollywood Party"

(M-G-M)

Elissa Landi plays hostess to many film folk at one of those parties that make delightful and refreshing entertainment. There are dances by a snappy chorus, singing, comedy, beautiful Technicolor compositions and high jinks by Charlie Chase. Anna May Wong models the latest from China and Leon Errol mixes a King Edward cocktail that proves disastrous. A lot of pleasant diverting material is condensed into the two reels. Production Code Seal No. 2,492. Running time, 21 mins. "G."

"Stranger Than Fiction No. 34"

(Universal)

This is the usual collection of interesting oddities. The reel is made up of seven clips including a Gypsy wedding, a pet rooster that serves as a doll for a child, breeding silk worms in New York and a cat-saving police dog. Production Code Seal No. 01,-304. Running time, 8½ minutes. "G."

"Twilight on the Trail"

(Paramount)

Louise Massey and her brothers serve as an effective background for the rendition of the title song. It is one of those bouncing ball numbers. A cowboy artist draws some animated cartoons illustrating "tall stories," which provide pleasant comedy. Production Code Seal No. 01,221. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Pathe Topics No. 6"

(Radio)

Amusing stuff by Walter Walters, the ventriloquist, and his dummies, and comment on ski technique by Percy Olton, an expert on the literary side. The last sequence is devoted to scenes of the John Harvard's birthplace in London. It is an interesting series of glimpses of the places frequented by leading lights of British letters. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

Myers Suit Naming 20th-Fox Dismissed

Seattle, May 2.—The $250,000 damage action against 20th Century-Fox and executives of Evergreen State Amusement Co. brought by Lieut.-Gov. Victor A. Meyers three weeks ago has been dismissed with prejudice here by Presiding Judge Hugh C. Todd.

The dismissal order was presented by Clarence R. Innis, attorney, who said the "with prejudice" provision meant that the action could not be commenced again against any of the defendants by Meyers. The suit was instituted originally as a result of remarks made in "Thanks a Million" with reference to a former band leader, now officiating as a lieutenant-governor.

is expected to announce 12 Our Gang comedies. James A. FitzPatrick's plans call for 12 TravelTalks and Pete Smith will continue his series of novelties. With the Harman-Ising contract expiring this season, Fred Quimby, short subject general manager, has arranged for a new group of 13 color cartoons. There will also be 104 issues of News of the Day.

Louis B. Mayer, Roach, Al Lichtman and a number of other studio and home office executives who came here in advance and greeted the convention special on its arrival at Pasadena. W. S. Van Dyke, one of the company's top line directors, was on the train, having left with the New York contingent.

Preliminary meetings between branch and district managers and bookers and office managers were held today with home office executivs.

The first business session will get under way tomorrow for the 250 delegates representing every branch of the company but the foreign force. After opening addresses and an outline of the three-day meetings, the men will adjourn for luncheon at the Culver City studio. The afternoon will be spent inspecting the studio. This is the first time in 10 years that the entire sales force has been here.

Product Data Wednesday

A preview screening is slated for tomorrow night at the Ambassador Hotel, where the meetings will take place. Tuesday will find an all-inclusive business program with a screening at night. Wednesday's schedule will be pretty much the same. The big feature of the day will be an announcement of the product by Rodgers and a resume of percentage terms and flat rentals.

Thursday will be recreation day, with each man free to go where he chooses. Friday will find the men starting the homeward trek with Ernest Morrell in charge of arrangements.

Michael Balcon, supervisor for M-G-M production in England, under Ben Goetz, will meet the sales force for the first time. He has been here several weeks studying production angles for British production.

Denies Theatre Reports

Although reports have been current that Loew's has been negotiating for a Times Square theatre in addition to several neighborhood sites, an executive of the company has denied any deals are on for new houses other than the structure that is being built at Fenton Ave. and Boston Road in the Bronx.

To Get Film Equipment

Boston, May 2.—Permanent film equipment may be installed in the Shubert during the early part of the summer. Temporary equipment is now in the legitimate house which has been leased by Columbia for the roadshowing of "Lost Horizon." The Shubert is usually closed during the summer.

Jungle Notes from Leo

Hollywood, May 2.—Jack Byrne, New Haven, vied with Bill Scully, New York, for sartorial honors. Jack works for Bill, but that didn't make much difference. However, Jack challenged Bill to a game of handball, while Bill wanted to play it out on a golf green. The score's pretty much even since the boys cannot seem to make up their minds on a mutual sport.

Ed Churchill and Lynn Farnol of Donahue & Coe, advertising agency, were planning to go along with the boys, but had to cancel the last minute.

Bill Rodgers' first crack when he sees Sheriff George Hickey, western district manager, will be that he can attend the convention only with an M-G-M badge, all others having been ruled out. Ever since Hickey was deputized, he's been meaning to do a lot of things—but never has.

Leopold Friedman wired Bill Rodgers: "Sorry I can't be with you. I've got to keep the home fires burning."

Charlie Moskowitz has yet to be heard from. Joe Vogel has been trying to make up an alibi, but it's no soap.

Harry Worden, salesman at the Boston exchange, is mourning the loss of his mother. Harry was to have joined the convention train out of New York, but stayed over to attend the funeral. Morris Wolf, branch manager for the Bay City, left by plane Friday night and will meet the delegates at the hotel.

Woody S. Van Dyke confesses he doesn't know what his next picture will be for M-G-M. He says he's having a swell time with the M-G-M conventionites, particularly Joe Vogel, who has been giving him an earful on theatre grosses.

Much of the secret huddling of the past few days is a secret no longer. Joe Vogel confesses he's been talking about "Captains Courageous," which has been dated in five situations in addition to Philadelphia, where it is now rounding out a second week at the Locust. The new dates are Erlanger, Chicago May 9; Astor, New York, May 11; Carthay Circle, Los Angeles, May 12; Colonial, Boston, May 16; and Gary, San Francisco, May 17. The last date had originally been set for May 11.

Bob Lynch feels mighty proud of Philadelphia, where he is district manager. He points with pride to the city's growing importance. The reason, he says, is that instead of home office executives opening the first test roadshow engagement of "Captains Courageous" in Boston, as has been the practice, Al Lichtman and Bill Rodgers picked the Locust in his town.

Rudy Berger, Washington exchange manager, can't wait until he returns for the Variety golf tournament May 21 at Indian Springs, just outside of Washington. Last year he copped second prize and this year he's out to beat Joe Morgan, former partner in the Crandall circuit.

Nicholas M. Schenck, who is represented at the convention by Al Lichtman, is enjoying the Miami climate so much he has extended his stay another week. He is now due to return to New York the week of May 10.

Jack Bowen, New York branch manager, talked a good game of golf on the way out. He recommends playing on Sam Cocalis' special course at Deal, N. J.

Jack Goetz to Sail

Jack Goetz, vice-president of Du Art Labs., will sail tomorrow night on the Queen Mary for a six-week business and pleasure trip. He will be accompanied by his wife and will visit London, Belgium, Paris and Budapest.

Robbins Will Divide Time in Three Spots

Jack Robbins, head of Robbins Music Co., in which Loew's is interested, will divide his time between Hollywood, New York and London in the future.

With Loew's holding 51 per cent of the stock in his company and Robbins maintaining the two per cent control vote, the head of the music company will spend five months a year in Hollywood, five months in New York and two months in London.

Robbins is giving up his home in Hollywood and soon will sail for London to establish a music unit for M-G-M's British production company. He is now working on "I Married an Angel," the Deer Wiman show which M-G-M has acquired for the screen. Rogers and Hart are doing the music score with Robbins' company publishing the music. He is also working with George Marshall on the Pan American Exposition Revue which will open at the Dallas fair June 14. Sammy Fain and Irving Cahal are writing the music. A 2,000-seat theatre is being built for the show, which will run one hour. Among the leading bands which will appear in the show are Rudy Vallee, Ted Fio Rito and Benny Goodman. Chester Hale is directing the chorus with Leon Leonidoff and Jo Melziener in charge of art work.

Majors Seek Spots For Five Roadshows

be secured for weeks because of legitimate show tours.

Columbia has been showing "Lost Horizon" in numerous cities and is still looking around for additional dates. Having recently extended its lease on the Globe until May 26, Columbia is said to have an option on the Broadway house which runs indefinitely. Executives of the company have already approached Harry Brandt with a view to holding the picture through the summer.

Brandt is undecided whether to keep the Globe as a two-a-day showplace after "Lost Horizon" bows out. He has had offers from Paramount, 20th Century-Fox and Universal. The Central, a first run also operated by Brandt, is adjacent to the Globe, but cannot be converted into a two-a-day because of film commitments.

Universal has "The Road Back," which it plans to show twice daily on Broadway. Paramount has "Souls at Sea" and "High, Wide and Handsome," while 20th Century-Fox is now figuring on a $2 top for "Slave Ship."

Tri-States Planning Remodeling Program

Sioux City, Ia., May 2.—An intensive remodeling program which will affect every one of Tri-States' Sioux City houses except the Orpheum, largest of the group, has been revealed by District Manager Evert R. Cummings at Omaha.

Total expenditure will approximate $50,000, with between $15,000 and $20,000 being spent on the Iowa. New seats will be installed in the Princess and Hipp, the Rialto's cooling plant will be modernized and the Granda will get a new front.

Busy Six-Day Schedule Set By M-G-M Men

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—A tentative program has been set up for the six days M-G-M delegates will be in town for the annual sales convention.

Today: Preliminary meetings of district and branch managers and office managers and bookers in the afternoon.

Monday: At 9:30 in the morning, William F. Rodgers will call the first business session to order in the Fiesta Room of the Ambassador Hotel. He will preside at this session. Luncheon recess will be called at 11:45, when delegates will go to the studio for luncheon and a general inspection which will continue all afternoon. In the evening, dinner will be held in the French Room of the Ambassador, following which "They Gave Him a Gun," which Harry Rapf produced, will be screened at the Carthay Circle as a combination convention and regular press preview. Many studio luminaries will turn out in force.

Tuesday: Morning and afternoon sessions are slated. Dinner is again set for the French Room and a preview of a second film will follow. The name of the picture hasn't been set as yet.

Wednesday: Morning and afternoon sessions with Rodgers expected to list product and details of sales policy. This will be the last business day. In the evening, all visitors will be the guests of Hal Roach at a barbecue and rodeo.

Thursday: Recreation day with delegates on their own. The sales force will have a choice of fishing, golfing, swimming or a trip to Catalina. The big social function of the convention is slated for the evening at the studios with a complete parade of players promised. Indications are the festivities will run far into the night and early morning.

Friday: At 11:30 A. M., Leo's lions will set forth from the Ambassador to board the special train at Pasadena at 12:30 P. M. The homeward trip will begin.

RKO Men Fly West

New Game Insurance Started in Indiana

TERRE HAUTE, May 2.—Bank Night operators here are beginning to be disturbed over an insurance plan which was recently established. With the insurance plan allowed to operate, charges of "politics" are heard.

Recently an organization was formed here to engage in various forms of entertainment, incorporated under the name of Skeeters, Inc. Later the corporation started selling tickets to potential winners of theatre Bank Night, to insure them of the full amount of the prize offered in event their name was drawn and they were not present. The tickets were sold at 15 cents whereas it would cost 25 cents to deposit an attendance card at the theatre, or 35 cents for evening attendance.

urgings to exhibitors as voters to prevail upon their state legislators to befriend the theatre divorce measures.

The discovery that the use of the Dean's office in connection with the Allied legislation was unauthorized followed upon a request by MOTION PICTURE DAILY for a copy of the supposed opinion on the constitutionality of the measures.

"I never submitted such an opinion," Dean Smith declared with obvious indignation. "I know nothing of the so-called theatre divorce legislation and had not even heard of it until a few days ago when my attention was called to a published statement that I had pronounced it constitutional. That is an absolute misstatement of fact. I have asked for copies of the publications involved and am inquiring into the unauthorized use of this office in connection with this legislation."

Doubts Law School Statement

Asked if it could be possible that the statement referred to an opinion of the faculty of the Columbia Law School, Dean Smith declared that it was unlikely that a faculty opinion would be given without his knowledge.

"I am sure that it does not represent the opinion of either the faculty or the Law School," he said. "However, it is possible that the substance of the measure was presented to the legislative drafting department for criticism or suggestions and that an opinion on its constitutionality may have emanated from that department.

Doubt as to the constitutionality of the theatre divorce legislation was expressed by C. E. Brase, assistant attorney general of North Dakota, in an opinion submitted to the Governor of that state in March. North Dakota is the only state in which the legislation has been enacted.

Rift Reported

Reports of discord between Mutual and the network's Philadelphia station, WFIL, were current over the weekend, and the probability is that the station will pull away from Mutual in the near future.

The rift came to a head during the recent broadcast of the Penn relays, which WFIL fed to Mutual. The station held that Mutual should pay the line charges involved. Mutual disagreed.

New Shows On the Air

"Hollywood Hotel"

"Hollywood Hotel" Friday night featured a galaxy of greats, including Frederic March, Janet Gaynor, Mae Robson and Adolph Menjou—but the honors for the best performance of the evening (and the best performance of the year, too, in our estimation) belongs to Gracie Fields, the English comedienne, who captivated with a superb performance. Rated on her one appearance, British critic Hannen Swaffer was conservative when he wrote that of the seven greatest artists on the Continent, Gracie was a greater artist than the combined lot.

In a delicious, Lancashire-sprinkled accent Gracie sang a hilarious, naughty (for radio) song about a rich blighter who meant no good by his Nell. The title is "I Never Cried So Much in All My Life." We never laughed so much.

Gracie is the highest priced actress on the screen. If she ever desires to do so, she can easily become the highest priced actress in radio. No matter how high the price, we recommend her to a sponsor.

The aforementioned galaxy of greats offered re-enactments of scenes from their latest picture, "A Star Is Born." The picture episodes were effective, although rather sketchy. Too sketchy, we thought, to be the box-office lure they were intended to be.

"Getting Ahead"

Dale Carnegie's new series, "Getting Ahead," heard on WOR Fridays, is a mild little program, with text loaded with copy book maxims for success. However, we thoroughly enjoyed the author's inspirational talk, and predict his series will be well liked by the listeners.

Fear, said Carnegie, defeats more men than any other thing in the world, and he urged listeners not to be afraid, no matter what their lot, no matter how discouraging their outlook. The one quality possessed by all men, said, Carnegie, was that of courage.

Listeners with problems on how to get ahead in business were invited to write to Carnegie.

The program is sponsored by the Emigrant Saving Bank in New York, and is heard Fridays, 8:30 to 8:45 P. M., E. D. S. T., on WOR.

Shearer Post Is Confirmed By L. B. Mayer

Convention Guests Told Of Long Contract

Hollywood, May 3.—Louis B. Mayer today confirmed Motion Picture Daily's exclusive story of April 5 that Norma Shearer had signed a new long-term pact at a studio luncheon for visiting sales force. Mayer's statement came toward the middle of the function attended by the entire visiting delegation as well as the complete roster of associate producers and professional talent with the exception of Greta Garbo, Jeanette MacDonald, Nelson Eddy and Robert Taylor.

Beyond mere confirmation of the deal Mayer announced nothing but the arrangement provides for two pictures annually for three years at a reported $150,000 per picture. It makes Miss Shearer a member of the Mayer company in which the late Irving Thalberg was a partner with Mayer and J. Robert Rubin and includes the settlement of her equities in the Thalberg-produced pictures payable in

RKO to Have 54 Features For 1937-'38

Shorts Total Will Equal Current Season

RKO will have 54 features and the same number of shorts for 1937-38 as released this season, Jules Levy, general sales manager, stated. Included in the feature lineup will be six George O'Brien outdoor films to be produced by Condor Pictures.

For the current season, KRO announced the same number of features, 88 shorts and 104 releases of Pathe News.

The annual sales convention, which will run five days, opens June 16 at the Ambassador, Los Angeles. More than 200 delegates from the field and home office will attend.

Plans are understood to be under way at the studio for the production of 11 musicals next season. At least two will star Fred Astaire.

Shine Will Submit New Plan for RKO

David Shine, representing 125,000 shares of RKO common stock, yesterday told Special Master George W. Alger that he will present a new plan of reorganization for the company before the close of the hearings. Special Master Alger is holding hearings on the plan of reorganization for RKO proposed by the Atlas Corp.

Wilfred Merrill and N. Peter Rathvon of the Atlas Corp. were the only witnesses yesterday. Merrill stated that Keith-Albee-Orpheum would be able to pay accumulated dividends on its preferred stock in 1938 and that some of the larger stockholders did not desire a dividend because income taxes would run too high.

Discussion yesterday again centered

Labor Peace Now Possible, Casey States

Actor-Producer Demands Can Be Met, He Says

Hollywood, May 3.—Indicating the possible settlement of the actor-producer problems without a strike, Pat Casey, this afternoon said, "On the basis of information I have relative to the actors' demands, I see no reason why a perfectly fair and just understanding will not be reached."

Two committees of three, representing the Guild and producers will resume negotiations Wednesday. Despite numerous questions to work out, both factions realize the obligations and responsibilities to the industry and will approach the meeting with open minds, Casey said. It is now evident to observers that, with the exception of one or two studios, companies anticipating a possible strike situation have passed their heavy production peaks and are now going into a natural slowdown. Casey revealed that several studios even saw fit to lay off employees due to the production slack in the last couple of days.

Costumers presented their demands to producers Monday afternoon and action is pending. Casey indicated that lack of strike strength was causing an unsuccessful walkout, pointing

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, May 3.

TWO-THIRDS into Los Angeles and away from the celluloid boulevards is one of Hollywood's most fascinating studios. It boasts of no large sound stages with their overhead flies and their entangling electrical cables. It has no miles of walks, but it has its occasional flower beds. It has no starring list under contract and yet it has. By comparison with its huge neighbors further along on the way to the beaches, its 540 employes total pretty small potatoes. Included in its assets are pencils and drawing boards, inks and Metronomes, ideas and how to execute them. It is the Disney studio, home of Mickey and Minnie, of Donald Duck, the Three Little Pigs and the Silly Symphonies, and it is completely intriguing. . . .

Walt was there, busy in the projection room and either unmindful of or courteous over an appearance thirty minutes behind the designated hour. "I'm glad you came," was his pleasant greeting. We were glad we did at the outset and convinced thoroughly so by the time we left some time later. The tour which followed was the "A" tour. In and out of the animators' quarters—there are fifty animators, if not fifty rooms—we went, Disney explaining the scientific, as well as entertainment, fidelity by which the ideas behind each little story are toyed with, drawn and brought into being; how the dialogue is fitted in and how the music is backgrounded. . . .

From pencil sketches where the animators' ingenuity and spirit of fun so outstandingly evidenced in Disney's output find expression, the average of 15,000 drawings required for each nine minutes of theatre time is duplicated on celluloid as a following step leading to the camera. They must be re-drawn and colors applied, after the colors are determined. There are strips of background over which the camera roams in traveling shots used in regulation feature work. With infinite care, closeups are plotted, frame by frame through automatic controls on the camera. . . .

It's fun, Disney admits, but it's also frequently a long series of headaches. What the characters reflect stems to the conception behind them. Yet, amenable to inkwell and brush, the Disney rascals do not always stay in line. Unlike the temperament displayed by their flesh-and-blood confreres, their temperament often takes the form of inanimatedly looking up and back at their creators as if to remark their performance is lousy and they know it, if their animators do not. Therefore, it is not uncommon for Mickey, Minnie and Donald to find deposit on the cutting room floor. Just like Robert, Greta and Wally. Louis B. Mayer keeps his people in line and so does Disney. . . .

Over the road from his main studio, is an annex. In it, Disney runs an art school, membership one hundred and fifty and in the roster newspaper cartoonists, students who think they have promise and frequently have. A day course prevails and one at night for groups like commercial artists who have the desire for better jobs and no daylight time in which to prepare for them. These novitiates never hang around long. Disney says he can tell quickly if they have what he needs. Those who evidence possibilities are pushed along; those who have not make room for others and the waiting list is long. Those qualifying do fill-in jobs and secondary work. If and when they ripen, they become animators. . . .

Polishing off his final United Artists release, the studio is in the full flushes of its opening endeavors for RKO. In his first year of the new association, Disney plans eighteen releases, not held to any clearly defined series but a mixture of Mickeys, Symphonies and Ducks; Donald is to blossom as full star in his own right anyway and that ought to be of widespread interest to his limitless followers. Walt himself spends his time these days, as usual, perspiring over the stories which his writers fashion and, artists which they are not, insist upon pointing up with crude sketches vaguely reported to be the despair of the animators who know how. . . .

Disney's other major activity revolves around his long-awaited feature, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." Eighteen months in work and much of it remade to meet advanced technique, his investment already is $550,000 with more to go. "It's a hell of a gamble," is how he puts it and philosophically, "but life's that way." The unit system, not exclusive on the lots where humans play it out, functions on this feature cartoon as it does on each of the regular releases. The work is well along now with a November release date through RKO no longer regarded as too remote by the producer. Yet, Disney will not hurry. He figures he has too much at stake to rush into release until his own mind assures him the 300,000 to 400,000 drawings blending into the completed whole tell their story. . . .

Unless our ears tricked us, only one of the staff encountered as we traveled from room to room and from building to building referred to Walt as Mr. Disney. It is a marker of the sort of camaraderie which prevails in his establishment. A full-blown drawing of Snow White as one of the animators would like to see her and does on his office wall, but which the public will not, is another of the kind of good-natured and normal reaction found around the plant. She is a lovely girl. We sought to find out more about her, but asked no questions. Walt would have given her address as the first convenient inkpot. . . .

Kelly in from Coast Praises New Product

Arthur W. Kelly, U. A. foreign executive, returned yesterday from a two-week visit to the studios with glowing reports on pictures in production. He said Walter Wanger has seven more days' work on "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938," which is being photographed in the latest three dimension Technicolor. He also stated "Prisoner of Zenda" probably will be released in nine reels. Samuel Goldwyn, Kelly added, has built two enormous sets for "Dead End." For the east river sequence, 35 feet of ground had to be excavated, he said. A 135-foot tower has been built by Goldwyn for the hurricane sequence in "Hurricane."

Walter Wanger Sets Six

Hollywood, May 3. — Walter Wanger has set his six pictures for U. A. release next season after completing "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938." They are "52nd Street," "Personal History," "Wuthering Heights," "Desert Intrigue," "Summer Lightning" and "Arabian Nights."

Wanger has one of the largest stock companies with 50 players under contract exclusive of directors and writers. Pat Paterson, Alan Baxter and Tim Holt are definitely scheduled for stardom, the latter having already been loaned out to Samuel Goldwyn for "Stella Dallas."

Among directors under contract are Fritz Lang, John Ford, Tay Garnett, Anton Litvak, Frank Borzage, Harold Young and Irving Cummings.

"Star Born" in 16 Holdovers

"A Star Is Born" will be held for a second week in 16 of the 22 situations where the picture is now playing, it was stated at the U. A. home office yesterday. Of the six remaining towns, four have never held a picture for a second week.

Among the cities holding over the film are Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Philadelphia, San Diego, Los Angeles, Utica, Columbus, Nashville, New Haven, Springfield and Worcester, Mass.

Shine Will Submit New Plan for RKO

around the proposed settlement of the Rockefeller Center claim. It was revealed that the Rockefeller interests were reluctant to relinquish control of the Music Hall because it was doubted that RKO could furnish the proper standard of pictures. Rathvon pointed out that three major considerations were involved in the Rockefeller Center claim settlement. They were the claim as allowed by Special Master Thomas B. Thacher, the office space in Rockefeller Center and the operation of the Music Hall. It was felt by all parties concerned, according to Rathvon, that the best method of dealing with the problem was to incorporate it in the plan of reorganization for RKO. Rathvon revealed that Time, Inc., was interested in the proceedings and was considering the submission of a plan itself. The present plan did not come into existence until Nelson Rockefeller and Floyd Odlum entered the picture.

Alger Asks Caution

Alger stated that he would require not only expert testimony, but also actual figures to prove that the proposed leases on the Music Hall and Center are desirable ones.

Rathvon expressed confidence in the earning power of the Center and stated that RKO is planning several picture deals for that theatre. In setting up the plan, however, no attempt was made to figure profits from either the Music Hall or the Center. If any develop, they will be so much additional income according to Rathvon. The most important innovations in RKO are the obtaining of Leo Spitz for the presidency of the company and the hiring of Sam Briskin to head production on the coast, he said. Cross examination of the witnesses failed to alter their testimony. Rathvon admitted that the market value of the new debentures will probably be less than par, but expects them to rise later. Proponents of the plan are expected to conclude their case on May 12, the next hearing date.

RKO Boston Shifts Scale

Boston, May 3.—A new price scale has been put into effect at the RKO Boston, coincident with the policy shift at the first run to double features without vaudeville. Evening prices have been dropped from 75 cents to 55 cents top, with the balcony now being given a special price, 40 cents. Until 2 P.M., admissions are 25 cents instead of 55. Until 5 P.M., the auditorium is 40 and the balcony still 25 cents.

Small Hope Held for Roxy's Stockholders holders," from whom the debtor company received $3,750,000. Counsel for the Class A stockholders is still negotiating with proponents of the plan and 20th Century-Fox, which receives a 20-year lease on the Roxy under the reorganization plan, for a participation.

The plan, with the recent amendments offered by 20th Century-Fox, is described in the report as "more favorable now than in its original form." Winter states that the total cost of the property to the new company will be $4,834,688, including new cash, bonds and stock. He estimated the present value of the property at $3,639,846. Estimating depreciation at three per cent, instead of the two per cent used on the Roxy's books, Winter figures the net depreciated cost on the property up to April 1, last, at $6,672,093. Depreciation cost on equipment originally valued at $1,057,560, is figured at 10 per cent per year, giving the present equipment a valuation of $32,246, according to the report.

Commenting on future prospects for the Roxy, the report points out that Howard S. Cullman, trustee, has estimated 1937 earnings at $300,000, while interest charges and depreciation for the year will amount to $536,364. Winter's own estimate, on the basis of an average of $5,600 per week for the last 32 weeks, is only $274,495 for 1937. All estimates are contingent upon ability to obtain a supply of good pictures.

The report was requested by Federal Judge Francis C. Caffey and is the first instance of the S. E. C. being called upon for a reorganization service of this kind by a Federal court.

Cut Brooklyn Para. Levy

A reduction of $1,730,000 on the assessed valuation of the Brooklyn Paramount property as made by the Tax Dep't, was granted yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Steinbrink. The department had assessed the property at $4,800,000. In granting the reduction, which was sought by Allied Owners Corp., owners of the property, Justice Steinbrink declared that "the property is overimproved" and pointed out that while the theatre occupies two-thirds of the building, it yields less than one-third of the total income derived from the property.

Bein Charges Denied

Edward Chodorov, who wrote the film script for "Mayor of Hell," yesterday denied the charge of plagiarism made by Albert Bein. Bein is suing Warners in U. S. District Court for an alleged infringement of his copyrighted play, "Lil' Ol' Boy." Islan Auster, who wrote the script, "Junior Republic" upon which Chodorov alleges he based the picture, also testified for the defense. Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard will view the picture at a special showing today in an effort to determine whether an infringement occurred. The trial is expected to be concluded today.

Again Delay Allied Case

For the second time yesterday, argument on the motion of the Allied M. P. Operators' Union and others asking dismissal of a suit brought by the Gotham Amusement Corp. and operators of six other independent local houses was adjourned; this time until tomorrow when the matter will be heard by Justice Aaron J. Levy in N. Y. Supreme Court. The plaintiffs ask that the contract involving themselves, Allied and the I.T.O.A. executed several years ago be declared effective until June 30, 1943, the original expiration date of the contract.

Paris Labor Holiday Affects Film Houses

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, May 3.—Theatres were seriously affected here Saturday evening, as Paris celebrated May 1 as Labor Day and a national holiday for the first time. Bus, subway and taxi service was discontinued after 8 P.M. All state theatres were closed all day and film houses giving continuous performances were open only after 4 P.M.

Potential patrons who do not own automobiles had no way of reaching the first run theatres in the center of Paris, on the Champs Elysees and other main streets. There were no newspapers published.

In Grand National Post

SALT LAKE CITY, May 3.—Irving Jacobs, former district manager for G.B., has been named to a similar post for Grand National, with headquarters here. W .W. McKendrick, former Grand National local manager, has resigned to become branch manager here for Monogram.

To Reopen in Worcester

WORCESTER, May 3.—Loew's will reopen the Plaza, dark for the past three years, on Wednesday, with a split week first and second run policy. Harry F. Shaw, division manager, and Erle Wright, publicity head, will officiate at the opening.

No Laughter

Berlin, May 3.—The latest foible in the German film situation is the attitude of the German press, which, presumably inspired by the Government, has begun to take sharply to task film patrons who laugh at pathetic or tragic sequences in new German films.

Virtually all German films now are produced under the supervision of the Nazi Government.

"Wake Up" 2d Week Chicago Top, $18,000

CHICAGO, May 3.—The second week of "Wake Up and Live" at the Roosevelt was the outstanding business in Loop theatres last week, which in most instances was very dull. Grossing $18,000, $7,000 above average the picture was more than holding its own and looks good for a run of several weeks in the Loop.

Two other holdovers did well also. "Waikiki Wedding," in a second week at the Garrick after three big weeks at the Roosevelt, continued to do better than average business. "Seventh Heaven," in a second week, was satisfactory at the Apollo. "Doctor's Diary" at the State-Lake and "Fifty Roads To Town" at the Oriental were above the normal gross also.

Business elsewhere was poor. Unsettled weather throughout the week and competition from circuses, baseball and the opening of golf courses hurt somewhat.

Total first run buiness was $117,600. Average is $118,000.

Labor Peace Now Possible, Casey States

out that the projectionists' picketing campaign has been carried on in New York for the past three years yet theatres continue to do unprecedented business. Casey hit at coercion charges hurled at the I. A. T. S. E. by the union federation, stating emphatically that I. A. T. S. E. is not a company union. There is no stoppage of producer-union's basic agreement, Casey said.

Reports that F. M. P. C. had filed a formal protest with the Central Labor Board are denied by a board spokesman. Despite the fact that the strike is now on for several days, Casey says, he still is waiting for a statement outlining individual grievances or wages and working demands.

No Theatre Pickets

Picketing campaigns against theatres running films from companies under strike failed to materialize today. Charles Lessing stated that candid camera fans were adding to the excellent union file of those going through picket lines and would be used in the future.

A series of federation committee meetings to select picket captains, etc., is scheduled Monday and Tuesday. The Labor Board expects Washington action on the S. U. E. complaint against I. A. T. S. E. during the day.

Heavier picketing by the Federation was resumed today but failed to hold up production on 34 features now working on major lots, according to an early announcement from Casey's office. Casey expressed gratification for the Actors' Guild decision to defer a walkout vote for a week and stated this morning that a checkup of all lots indicated that production is continuing as usual.

Studios announced pictures working as follows: Paramount 10, Warners six, M-G-M five, Universal one, RKO four, Columbia three, United Artists four, Roach one and Selznick one.

Union spokesmen predicted that all branches of studio art departments will be on strike by midnight Monday. Meanwhile the feeling is tense between I. A. T. S. E. and the Federation due to the reported I. A. T. S. E. move to disorganize strikers through membership offerings.

See Carpenter Peace Monday

The carpenters' stand in the strike is scheduled to be settled at a meeting Monday. Casey conferred with the costumers local and a conference is expected to settle whether the costumers join the Federation or negotiate independently.

Whether the strike had direct effect on sets in delaying production could not be determined today. Heavy Police details patroled the studios. Pickets wore F. M. P. C. arm-bands signifying federation membership. Their activities were carried on without trouble although an unconfirmed report stated that there had been some trouble between pickets and police at the 20th Century-Fox studio.

All the unions parties to the studio basic agreement—I.A.T.S.E., Musicians, I.B.E.W., Carpenters and Joiners, Teamsters and Cauffeurs—are working. The unions out are all members of the Federated Motion Picture Crafts—stationary engineers, plumbers, molders, culinary help, utility employes, machinists, boilermakers, painters, scenic artists and makeup artists. An attempt is being made, it is understood, to work out a compromise so that these unions will come under the basic agreement.

Actors' Guild Uses Situation

The Screen Actors' Guild, which has been seeking a closed shop for some time, is using the present situation to press its demands not only for a closed shop, but also for abolition of the call bureau as it pertains to day players speaking lines, for $25 travel time, payment by producers for fittings, abolition of "weather permitting" calls, time and one-half for overtime, contracts with definite time of work to be stated, access to Central Casting Bureau records to permit guild members to ascertain whether non-guild members are being employed, one hour for lunch in an eight-hour day and no blacklisting by Central Casting or producers.

Phila. Union Elects

Philadelphia, May 3.—William Gabriel, M-G-M booker, has been elected president of Local 7 of the Exchange Union. Other officers are: James Keating, U.A., vice-president; Mollie Cohen, M-G-M, secretary. Practically all those eligible locally are claimed to have joined the union, the membership now numbering 220. The status of bookers has not yet been set, but it is believed that will be settled shortly. Demands are now being formulated and are expected to be presented within two weeks.

To Present Demands

New Haven, May 3.—Managers of local exchange offices will submit an unrevealed wage scale presented by the local A. F. of L. union of exchange employes, to their home offices, following a conference with a committee of three union members and William Barry, business manager, and Harry Feldman of the I. A. T. S. E.

Start Hartford Drive

Hartford, May 3.—The unionization of janitors, ushers and doormen under the A. F. of L. is under way here to ward off threats of C.I.O. activity. Several meetings have been held, but no formal organization plans have been announced.

I. A. in Chicago Meet

Chicago, May 3.—Equipment company and theatre executives met with I. A. T. S. E. officials today to discuss unionization. The meeting will probably last two or three days. The first session started this afternoon.

Kuykendall Delays His National Tour

Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president has been forced to delay the start of his proposed two-month tour of 13 key cities to marshal exhibitor support for his organization's trade practice program, it was stated at M.P.P.D.A. headquarters here yesterday. His plans at the moment are said to be indefinite.

Kuykendall is at his home in Columbus, Miss., recuperating from a recent illness. It was indicated that, in addition, he is not anxious to start a westward trip while the legislative situation in Washington, as it affects theatres, remains unsettled. The apparent reference was to the Administration's financial program and the possibility of legislation to re-establish trade practice codes.

Loew Takes Dyckman Here on September 1

Loew's will take over the Dyckman, in upper Manhattan, from Sol Silver on Sept. 1, it was learned yesterday. Several other deals are in negotiation and are expected to be closed by circuit executives shortly, it was stated. All are in the local territory.

The Cameo, New Rochelle, recently acquired by Loew's, has been pooled with RKO, which has been jointly operating its two houses in that city with Loew's for the past 10 years.

Thompson Due Today

Harlan Thompson, producer, and Russell Crouse and Howard Lindsey, writers, are due today on the Santa Paula. During the voyage from the coast they completed the script for Paramount's "The Big Broadcast of 1938." Thompson will use the Astoria studio for the shooting of the scene featuring Kirsten Flagstad, Norwegian Wagnerian soprano.

"Earth" at $9,900 In 13th Week Here

"The Good Earth" tallied $9,900 in its 13th week at the Astor. The picture bows out next Monday night to make way for "Captains Courageous."

"Lost Horizon" garnered about $10,000 last week at the Globe. Columbia's lease runs until May 26 and indications are the option on the house may be picked up for another four weeks.

The first three days of the second week of "Wake Up and Live" at the Roxy were good for $29,000. It is being held a third week.

At the Music Hall, "A Star Is Born" grossed $68,100 for the first four days of the second week. This is $300 less than the same days of the initial week. W. G. Van Schmus is holding the film a third stanza, which will make the fifth picture to be held by the theatre for 21 days. U. A. executives, however, are hopeful the attraction will go over to a fourth week. At the Aldine, Philadelphia, where the picture opened Saturday, the day's take was $4,400 for the 1,400-seat house. The management was forced to give 108 refunds.

The Strand garnered about $12,000 on the third week of "Marked Woman." Tomorrow a formal opening will be held for "The Prince and the Pauper."

"Make Way for Tomorrow," a Paramount picture, will open at the Criterion on Saturday. The theatre may be taken over by Paramount for two-a-day showings of "Souls at Sea" and "High, Wide and Handsome."

Move to Reconsider Chicago Bank Night

Chicago, May 3.—Steps to reopen the question of Bank Night legality were taken in State Supreme Court and Municipal Court here today. A rehearing was asked in Supreme Court by B. & K. attorneys and in Municipal Court Chief Justice Sonsteby continued until June 9 the motion for new trials in the cases of 46 theatres whose managers were fined for operating bank night.

Censor Law Unconstitutional

Jacksonville, May 3. — Ordering the release of Samuel Cummings, against whom four charges had been filed in connection with the alleged showing of the unapproved film "Ecstasy," Judge Worth W. Trammell of the Circuit Court of Dade County (Miami) ruled in Miami Saturday that the Florida law providing for censorship by the national board of review is unconstitutional.

The state law makes it a misdemeanor to exhibit a picture not approved by the national board of review. Judge Trammell held the state law was unconstitutional because it delegated legislative authority to an unofficial board in another state whose duties were not fixed by law. The jurist held also that other Florida legislation provides amply for prohibiting the showing of immoral or indecent films. It is anticipated that an immediate appeal would be taken.

Gillham Heading East

Hollywood, May 3.—Robert M. Gillham leaves for New York tonight by train having screened forthcoming Paramount product during his stay here. He will return for the company's sales convention early in June.

SUPREX CARBONS

HELP MAKE YOUR THEATRE Safe

Recently published records show that a major factor contributing to accidents in motion picture theatres is the low visibility experienced by patrons entering the darkened interior from the brilliant light of the street. Darkened interiors are necessary when the level of screen illumination is low, but SUPREX CARBONS provide an intensity of screen illumination which permits supplementary lighting adequate for comfortable vision from the moment of entrance.

Shearer Post Is Confirmed By L. B. Mayer

three equal sums added to each of the first three films produced.

Likewise nothing was said about the producing auspices on her first effort but the producer is expected to be Hunt Stromberg and the first picture "Pride and Prejudice."

On huge Stage 5, tastefully decorated in blue with 35-foot silver trees, 100 guests were entertained. Confetti knee high showered down on busses which brought the sales force from a perfunctory morning session at the Ambassador. Union waiters earlier had refused to pass picket lines outside the gates and, while those served probably did not know it, the waiters who handled the service were recruited from the ranks of truck drivers and longshoremen and had been put up in the plant over night to avoid any interruption in the extensive preparations. Virtually all contract players were present and took bows.

Miss Shearer an Honor Guest

Flanking Mayer on the immediate right were Miss Shearer and Al Lichtman and on his left Joan Crawford and William F. Rodgers. Spotlights picked up each individual as introduced while Edward Ward and the studio's recording orchestra furnished music and Frank Whitbeck acted as master of ceremonies from a loudspeaker which rang through the stage. Also introduced was Metro's directorial roster embracing George Seitz, George Fitzmaurice, Edward Sloman, Sam Wood, Jack Conway, W. S. VanDyke, Clarence Brown, John Stahl, Dorothy Arzner, Richard Thorpe, Robert Z. Leonard and Ed Marin. Collectively they took a smiling bow.

The company's divisional and district sales heads were included on a long L-shaped dais. A rising silent tribute was paid to Marcus Loew, founder of the company, described by Mayer as a "Christly human being," also to the late Irving Thalberg and Felix Feist.

Montgomery a "Good Friend"

Where significance might reasonably have been read into it or not, some thought it interesting at least that Mayer described Robert Montgomery, president of Screen Actors' Guild which is reaching for a closed shop, as his "good friend." Gay bunting and flags well nigh blanketed the studio.

Entertainment following the luncheon was climaxed when a great curtain rolled up to disclose the spectacular skyscraper set of "Broadway Melody of 1937." Suzanne, for whom Metro holds greatest hope as a singer, was introduced as were Igor, formerly Charles Gorin; Judy Garland and her Clark Gable chorus, Betty Jaynes, who possesses unusual quality of voice, and, as a finale, Sophie Tucker, onetime described as "last of the Red Hot Mamas." The new company song, "Roar, Leo, Roar" topped and concluded the affair after which the delegates made inspection of sound stages.

Addresses were made today by Lichtman, Charles E. Stern, Charles Kessnich, Sam Shurman, George Hickey, Jack Flynn, William Scully, Harris Wolfberg and Robert Lynch. These talks were in addition to addresses by Tom Connors, E. M. Saunders and Alan Cummings on various phases of sales handling and Round Table discussions on shorts with Fred Quinmby, Pete Smith, Robert Benchley and Hal Roach.

Howard Dietz spoke on promotion, Si Seadler on advertising, William Ferguson on exploitation and Barrett Kiesling on good will.

Sam Shirley, district manager, headquarters in Chicago, and Jack Flynn, district manager, headquarters in Detroit, were winners in Metro's annual billings competition and today were presented two weeks' salary by William F. Rodgers. Portland, Buffalo, Salt Lake and Cleveland exchange managers, office managers, bookers and salesmen also were awarded two weeks' salary each as winning exchanges in this competition. Special awards for merit, signalized by a lion's head pin with a bar including one star, went to Burton Bishop, Charlotte manager, for the best branch results and to Louis Amacher, Portland manager, and Maurice Saffle, Salt Lake manager, for ending their drives with only one unsold possibility in their territories.

The same award was given 13 salesmen for having sold 100 percent their possibilities before March 1. They were Henry Rosenblatt, Boston; Phil Bobys, Washington; Clarence Pippin, Philadelphia; Milton Jacobs, Cincinnati; Jack Sogg, Cleveland; Lewis Ingram, Atlanta; Truly Wildman, Kansas City; Joseph Warren, Portland; David McElhinney and C. W. Boulet, Salt Lake; L. S. Hulling, San Francisco; E. J. Lipson, Milwaukee, and Edwin Brauer, Cleveland.

Conventionites regathered for dinner in the French room at the Ambassador and later repaired to the Carthay Circle for a showing of "They Gave Him a Gun."

On Tuesday there will be morning and afternoon sessions at which time as much detail of the new season's program as the company proposes to divulge will be given. In the evening a private showing of "Parnell" in rough form is planned with no outsiders scheduled to be present.

Jungle Notes from Leo

Los Angeles, May 3.—While the preponderance of Leo men hit the city in the M-G-M special over the Santa Fe system from the east, the coast offices, which is to say San Francisco, Seattle and Portland, journeyed in over the Southern Pacific and to a different terminal at 9 A.M., Sunday morning. These delegates included I. Furman, manager; E. C. Mix, L. S. Hulling and S. Schuster, salesmen; T. Aspell, Jr., office manager, and H. Schmidt, first booker from San Francisco; L. Wingham, manager; B. W. Rucker and M. Rubenfeld, salesmen; J. Comer, office manager, and H. Blatt, first booker from Seattle, and Louis Amacher, manager; J. T. Warren, salesman; Miss T. I. Hasbrook, office manager, and A. S. McCarl, Jr., first booker from Portland.

The Los Angeles boys merely took to their cars to reach the Ambassador.

Bill Ferguson has been roaming the hotel at large, fixing displays and banners of welcome for the conventionites. The Metro trade mark surrounds the tower of the Ambassador. The well-known Neon sign which flanks the front of the hotel and is familiar to hurrying motorists along Wilshire Boulevard has its welcome sign. The transportation booth at the entrance to the hotel is marked with an M-G-M directional sign for information of the visitors and, over the room clerk's desk is another welcome in case anyone gets an idea this is some other company's convention.

The topflight studio group which met the special at Pasadena included Louis B. Mayer, Sam Katz, E. J. Mannix, Hunt Stromberg, Harry Rapf, Bill Koenig, Bernie Hyman, Benny Thau, Larry Weingarten, Joe Cohn, Louis D. ("Buddy") Lighton, Jack Cummings, Norman Krasna, Joe Mankiewicz, John Emerson, J. K. McGuiness, William Anthony McGuire, Edgar Selwyn, and Eddie Chodorov. Or in other words, virtually the entire production roster.

The train ran as an advance section of The Chief and arrived at practically all points ahead of the regular Santa Fe schedule.

Not an all male get-together by any means, although the feminine charm is confined to a handful. The women delegates include M. Ryan office manager at Buffalo; E. Frank, first booker at Chicago; H. Anderson, first booker at Omaha and T. I. Hasbrook, office manager at Portland.

George Hickey, western district manager popularly known as "The Sheriff" met the train 10 minutes late. His story was he had been compelled to follow a Chinese laundry wagon and managed to do 10 blocks in 25 minutes.

There are three cocktail lounges in the 10 block area.

No confirmation yet of the report Si Seadler will again wear Lucien Hubbard's 10-gallon Stetson. Hollywood still remembers Si's recent visit when he was mistaken by a member of the paying public for a rich rancher at the preview of "Captains Courageous."

Barrett Kiesling, member of Howard Strickling's publicity crew, is the point of contact with the press. He has set up quarters at the Ambassador, equipped with typewriters and their adjuncts to make it convenient for newspapermen covering the meetings.

Jack Flynn, whose prowess as a consumer of beer out of cans or anything else handy is widely known, confined himself to milk on the journey. He insisted he was in training. As a matter of fact, it was his doctor who placed him there.

To Ernest Morrell, in charge of transportation, will come the end-of-the-convention grief. His is the responsibility of seeing to it that the boys make the special when it pulls out for the east Friday.

At Pasadena, there was much ceremony with camera, still and motion picture. Louis B. Mayer delivered a speech of welcome and a welcoming key to the city was handed out. Actually.

A special convention house organ was published in time to clamber aboard the special at Barstow. It gave the gang their first idea of the arrangements made on their behalf.

Bob Lynch of Philadelphia refused to pose for the cameras. It might have been because he needed a shave. Excuse for not shaving: "My wife forgot to pack razor blades."

Garbo Continuance Granted

LOS ANGELES, May 3.—M-G-M filed a request in court here today asking a continuance in the Greta Garbo loan trial instituted recently by David Schratter. The judge overruled an opposing motion.

from Havana and Miami in his new yacht.

The decision to bring the complete executive personnel in sales and distribution to the convention was taken as a result of the exceptionally fine business being done by the company "and pictures in general," Schenck said. The company's expansion program included the recent purchase of 100 acres adjoining the studio and the setting of a $4,000,000 plan of improvements.

Sidney R. Kent, president, and John D. Clark, general sales manager, will head the contingent which will travel by special train from New York. Welcoming and addressing the convention delegates will be William Goetz, Sol M. Wurtzel, Jason S. Joy, besides Schenck and Darryl F. Zanuck.

Foreign representatives will be headed by Walter J. Hutchinson, and will include: R. Sutton Dawes, London, British sales director; S. S. Crick and Charles Munro, Australia; Dell Goodman, Far East manager; W. W. Sullivan, of Giodano; A. Paucker and T. Isdahl, Jr.; European sales managers.

Dinner Ends Paris Meet

PARIS, May 3.—The 20th Century-Fox European sales convention ended here Saturday with a dinner at the Hotel George V, where the four-day meeting was held. The morning was occupied with a screening of "Under the Red Robe," produced by Robert Kane, head of World Pictures, 20th Century-Fox English producing company.

The meeting was presided over by Sidney R. Kent, president, and included sales executives from practically all countries of Europe as well as from England and the Near East. Several of the executives, including Kent and Truman Talley, head of Fox Movietone News, plan to go from here to London for the Coronation next week.

Reveals Lens Method

The production of unbreakable optical lenses for cameras, spectacles and other purposes on a mass production basis is claimed as possible by a new invention perfected in England and introduced here by its co-inventor, Peter Koch de Gooreynd of London. The lenses are made from transparent plastic, and the new development involves a moulding process by which it is claimed 1,500 units per hour may be turned out.

M-G-M Men Welcomed With Speeches

Rodgers and Al Lichtman welcome them to the company's sales convention, on their arrival on Sunday morning, bound for the Ambassador in Los Angeles. At the right Mayer, Metro production chief, extends a hearty hello to Charles Kessnick, southern division sales manager. On the platform in the picture above are the official welcomers. . . .

New Shows On the Air

"Hollywood Whispers"

George Fischer's "Hollywood Whispers," a cheer evoker on the west coast for the past five years, blossomed forth as a network feature (Mutual) Saturday evening, with exciting results. One thing about those entrepreneurs of intimacy . . . they simply cannot be taken lackadaisically.

Lashing out at producers who permit voice dubbing in their pictures, Fischer demanded the practice be abolished as unfair to the performer and public. Fischer cited the case of radio singer Buddy Clark who voice dubbed for Jack Haley in "Wake Up and Live," and warned producers he'd expose all similar subterfuges on his program.

Having thus dramatically asserted his might and righteousness, Fischer offered a ream of choice Hollywood chit-chat, concluding with a tale of a near fight between George Brent and one of the Mdivani's in a Hollywood night club. In a film revue, "Cafe Metropole" was rated at 3½ cheers by Fischer. Gene Raymond was the guest on hand and the subject of an interview.

"Hollywood Whispers" is offered Saturdays at 10:50 P.M., E.D.S.T. on Mutual. It's a sustainer, but should be sponsored soon.

"Surprise Party"

The Willys-Overland "Surprise Party," comprising the music of Kay Kyser's band and the Kyser troupe of vocalists, is first rate entertainment. It is under a cloud, however, in that the style of entertainment is too reminiscent of the pattern created by Fred Waring and made famous by his Pennsylvanians. Another fault—a more serious one—is the perennial one of over-long commercials.

The first indictment is easily overlooked and condoned. As someone once said, it is better to listen to an excellent carbon copy than to listen to a deadly original. Over-long commercials, however, are not so easily forgiven. "Surprise Party" is too excellent a program to need an over-dose of front office handling. The entertainment provided by the Kyser gang will do a much better selling job than a book of commercial blurbs, if the sponsor will only give the "gang" a chance. The advice, we know, is academic, but good.

"Surprise Party" is heard Sundays from 10 to 10:30 P. M., E.D.S.T., and is sponsored by the Willys-Overland Motor Co. The network is Mutual's.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Immediate consideration of the resolution for an investigation of the film industry introduced by Representative Hobbs of Alabama was today recommended to the House Rules Committee by the Judiciary Committee.

Primary targets of the investigations, which would be conducted by the Judiciary Committee, would be the Hays office, with a view to determining its purposes and accomplishments and the extent to which members have cooperated through the organization to suppress competition; the members of the M.P.P.D.A., to

Labor Council Has Studio Peace Plan

HOLLYWOOD, May 4.—The Central Labor Council stepped into the union-producer fray here today with a peace plan which may bring the present situation to a quick head. The council action followed the F. M. P. C. appeal asking the council to order a boycott of all theatres throughout the United States showing films from companies affected by the strike.

The labor council committee, comprised of J. W. Buzzell, Chris Leahmann, Elmer Lots and Nate Saper, immediately presented the peace plan to Pat Casey who stated:

"The proposal intended to provide ways and means for ending the present labor dispute in the studios was presented this afternoon by the committee. I shall submit the proposition to the producers tomorrow. If all parties find the terms satisfactory I feel justified in asserting that the strike will be called off. In justice to all concerned I will not make public the suggested peace plan until the produ-

No mention was made of the number of pictures and titles for Greta Garbo and Norma Shearer in the announcement. Studio and home office story executives are now busy trying to line up Garbo's first for next season. She has just completed "Madame Walewska," second and last for the 1936-'37 season. Miss Shearer is understood to be considering "Pride and Prejudice" and "Marie Antoinette." Although it was planned to make "Marie Antoinette" first, it is understood "Pride and Prejudice" will be started shortly with Hunt Stromberg as the producer.

U. A. Meeting to Be On the Coast May 15

Hollywood, May 4.—United Artists will hold its annual meeting here May 15. Alexander Korda will attend. He is now en route on the Ile de France and will come to the coast immediately.

Mary Pickford, who is now in the east, also will attend. The switch from New York to Hollywood was considered practical because Samuel Goldwyn is busy on production, Charlie Chaplin doesn't want to make a trip east, and Douglas Fairbanks is living here. The change eliminates Dr. A. H. Giannini's ocean trip.

U. A. Sales Increase

Sales quotas were passed by all United Artists branches during the 14 weeks of the George Schaefer sales drive, according to A. W. Smith, Jr., general sales manager. He said that cash receipts during the final weeks exceeded by 40 per cent the biggest previous week in the company's history.

"Day" Follows "Night"

"Call It a Day," a Warner picture, has been booked into the Capitol, starting tomorrow. It follows "Night Must Fall."

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Hollywood, May 4.

FOR a couple of reels we remained rooted to our seat at the Carthay Circle. Grimly and relentlessly Director W. S. Van Dyke was painting the horrible business of converting a man into an instrument of death and teaching him the cruelty of mastering the bayonet. He was showing how Franchot Tone, country boy drafted during the war, sickened and wanted to desert, and then, after they gave him a gun in France, became inflamed with a fierce desire to kill. He was showing how Spencer Tracy, ex-carnival barker, became Tone's pal and took the tussle for granted, all the time confusedly and inwardly rebelling at the false gods which sent one man to shoot down another.

This was the opening Metro conceived for "They Gave Him a Gun" and the promise was for the most exciting experience of this Hollywood sojourn. Then Tone was wounded and Tracy sought him out in a front line Hospital. There he met Gladys George, who nursed Tone to health and there she and Tracy fell in love. It was here something happened and the astonishingly different pace which characterized all which followed, except the closing scene, set in. It was here our grip on our chair relaxed. The story has Tracy returning to the front to be reported dead subsequently. Miss George and Tone pledge themselves and the war chapter ends.

In America Tone becomes a racketeer, Miss George is his wife, and Tracy is touring in the sticks with his own circus. He learns of Tone's racket, accuses Miss George of complicity and urges her to get out. Thus she actually finds out the truth, turns Tone over to the police on the theory he must square his debt to society. Eventually he agrees, declares his guilt in court and starts his journey up the river. Miss George takes refuge from Tone's mob with Tracy's circus. Taunted by his jailmates, Tone makes a break and seeks to take flight with his wife.

Tone, now desperate, threatens to shoot Tracy who shames him out of it. The gathering police descend as Tone again apparently determines to return to prison. However, he instead makes a break and is mowed down, thereby deliberately removing himself from the scene and paving the way for Tracy and Miss George.

To a detective who was their sergeant during the war Tracy turns to end the picture on a bitterly dramatic note with "they gave him medals in France for using a gun. Why don't you pin one on him now?"

Between its sock opening and its forceful concluding shot "They Gave Him a Gun" is so unevenly paced and so variable in content that it becomes difficult to reconcile the entire film to one direction. Tracy is excellent throughout. Tone is indifferent in the middle passages and splendid when the hounds of the law come snapping at his heels. Miss George is not fortunately cast and suffers further under treatment which definitely diverts sympathy from her to other channels. Likewise, believability is strained by a very sketchy development of the love thread. The novel by William Boyce Cowan had a brilliant dramatic idea behind it, but the screenplay by Cyril Hume, Richard Baibaum and Maurice Rapf subdued or lost it. The opportunity was here for a work of genuine and pronounced force. It is the more regrettable that it fails to come off.

Committee Studies Copyright Changes

Washington, May 4. — Copyright legislation today was taken up by the Senate Patents Committee, members of which indicated that hearings would be called, possibly late this month, following the disposition of other legislation now pending.

At a meeting today, the committee discussed the three copyright bills introduced, respectively, by Senators Duffy of Wisconsin, Sheppard of Texas and Guffy of Pennsylvania.

Building Two More Drive-In Theatres

Boston, May 4.—The Drive-In Theatre Corp., is building two new drive-in theatres, one at Soldiers' Field in Cambridge and the other at the turnpike in Rayham, near Taunton. The theatres will cost approximately $40,000 apiece and will each accommodate between 350 and 400 automobiles.

Thomas DiMaura, head of the corporation, is supervising the physical construction while P. Edward Comi has charge of the purchase and installation of equipment.

Gloria Swanson has been signed by Columbia for the lead in "The Second Mrs. Draper."

Papers Are Filed in Connie Bennett Suit

Papers in a $62,500 damage action brought by Constance Bennett against Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur have been served here, it was learned yesterday.

In a complaint drawn by her attorneys, Schwartz & Frohlich, Miss Bennett, who is known as one of Hollywood's smartest business women, asserts that in Dec., 1935, she entered into an agreement with Hecht and MacArthur whereby the two were to write an original screenplay for her which would be ready to go into production by June 1, 1936, when she would be available for outside pictures. At the time of the agreement, she made a $2,500 down payment to the writers, she states, and was to pay an additional $47,500 in three equal installments as portions of the screenplay were completed and submitted to her. On her return from a European trip in May, 1936, she states, she was unable to communicate with the writers, who are numbered among New York's better known practical jokers, and who, Miss Bennett charges, never delivered the promised screenplay.

Stating that under her contract with 20th Century-Fox at the time she never received less than $60,000 per picture, Miss Bennett asserts that the failure of the defendants to deliver the screenplay prevented her from starring in another picture in which she could have earned $60,000. She asks damages in that amount and return of the $2,500 down payment.

Dr. Frenke Sues Universal

Los Angeles, May 4.—Dr. Eugene Frenke today filed suit in Superior Court here against Universal Pictures Co., Inc., for $153,424 charging breach of contract.

The complaint charged violation of a contract signed May 12, 1934 in which Frenke agreed to share the expense of a film titled "Life Begins" and also share in the profits. The contract called for distribution through Universal facilities but Frenke states that he was forced to distribute the film through his own limited channels.

Frenke asks $100,000 which he estimates the picture would make on Universal release, also an additional sum of $45,000 which he claims was spent on the film and $8,000 salary.

J. J. Lieberman represented Frenke.

Sues Paramount on Film

The National Police Gazette Corp. filed suit in U. S. District Court yesterday against Paramount, claiming the defendant's picture "Klondike Annie" contains scenes showing Mae West reading the Police Gazette and that by reason of the defendant's alleged illegal and unlawful act in showing the Police Gazette the complainant's property is being rapidly destroyed. An injunction and an accounting of profits was asked.

Postpones Korda Trial

Federal Judge John W. Clancy yesterday ordered that the trial of the action of Francis Hackett against Alexander Korda, London Film Prod. and United Artists Corp. be postponed until January, 1938. study the uniform contract, withholding of product from independents, allocation of product to controlled theatres, unreasonable zoning and protection, block booking and blind selling, and acquisition of independent houses; and producer-owned theatres, to determine whether attempts are made to regulate admissions of independents by limitations in contracts and unreasonable delay in furnishing pictures to low admission houses.

The inquiry would also go into the relations between producers and distributors and the manufacturers of reproducing equipment, the principal music-publishing houses and the manufacturers of trailers.

The resolution calls upon the committee to report fully "as to any changes in the anti-trust laws, the copyright laws, the laws against using the mails to defraud, and any new measures which may be necessary or desirable to cure any abuses which may be found to exist in the organization, financing and practices of the motion picture industry."

Looking 'Em Over

"Michael O'Halloran"

(Republic)

In "Michael O'Halloran" audiences are again offered the heavily sentimental Gene Stratton Porter story. It is in modern dress. The cast features Wynne Gibson, Sidney Blackmer, Warren Hull, Hope Manning and the child actor who plays the title role, Jackie Moran. It is one of those films that will find proper reception where patrons are not too discriminating.

Miss Gibson is the neglecting mother who makes scandalous tabloid headlines. Blackmer is the patient husband who starts proceedings for custody of their children. Young Moran is the orphan whose baby sister is paralyzed and who brings the pair together through making Miss Gibson realize her erring ways. Hull plays the philanthropist doctor who restores Charlene Wyatt, Moran's sister, to health. While treating her, he also develops a romance with Miss Gibson's sister Hope Manning.

There are plenty of children in the cast. The support has well picked types; it includes Robert Greig, Helen Lowell, Vera Gordon, Pierre Watkin, Guy Usher and Bodil Rosing, all of whom are competent. Karl Brown directed.

Production Code Seal No. 3,248. Running time, 68 minutes. "G."

"Internes Can't Take Money," reviewed on April 8, opens this morning at the Paramount.

"The Prince and the Pauper," which will be previewed at the Strand tonight, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on April 7. "Night Must Fall," at the Capitol, "Wake Up and Live" at the Roxy and "A Star is Born" at the Music Hall are holdovers.

company. Standard profit is estimated from an average of the returns for the years 1933, '34 and '35.

On an increase of six per cent over this figure no tax will be levied. On an increase of six to 10 per cent, 20 per cent tax will be levied; on 10 to 15 per cent, 25 per cent; over 15 per cent, 33⅓ per cent. Alternatively the tax may be levied on the amount by which profits exceed six per cent on the total issued capital of the company. It is believed that the British subsidiaries of many American concerns are today making much bigger profits than in the three "standard years."

Hoyts Expanding Its Australian Circuit

Hoyts Theatres is now in the process of an expansion program which provides for at least 30 additional theatres in Australia, Charles Munro, managing director of the 20th Century-Fox subsidiary, stated yesterday.

Hoyts now operates more than 100 houses in the suburbs with 64 in New Zealand, he said. These theatres are not part of the General Theatres pool with greater Union Theatres, controlled by Stuart Doyle. General, Munro explained, operates only in the key centers.

Munro plans to leave for the coast about May 20, following conferences here with Walter J. Hutchinson, 20th Century-Fox foreign head, who is due from abroad within the next two weeks. While here he is looking for acts for the Australian circuit.

Doyle Building in London

London, April 28.—Stuart Doyle, head of Greater Union Theatres in Australia, has revealed details of the big entertainment centre which he plans near Piccadilly Circus.

Two theatres, a restaurant, shops and a six-floor office block are embodied in the plans of the London Theatre Centre, Ltd., in which Doyle is associated with Harry Lane, designer of the similar State Building in Sydney, Australia. The larger of the two houses, to seat 1,500, will be known as the Regent. The smaller, the Rex, will seat 550 and specialize in unusual films.

Odeon Buys E. G. Control

London, May 4.—Odeon Theatres has acquired a controlling interest in Entertainments and General Investments Corp., Ltd., which controls the County Cinema Circuit. Several of the E. & G. directors have resigned and Oscar Deutsch has joined the board.

The deal creates a circuit of more than 250 theatres, for the most part in non-competitive situations. The majority were built during the last three years. C. J. Donada has received a new long term contract as managing director of the County circuit, and Ralph S. Bromhead is under long contract as general manager. All theatres in the group will be managed and booked with the closest possible co-operation.

It is believed that Maurice Silverstone, United Artists head here, had considerable to do with the conclusion of the arrangement, which was first planned with a United Artists tieup two years ago. The deal creates a circuit which is definitely in competition with the theatre holdings of Gaumont British and John Maxwell.

Korda Leaving Today

London, May 4.—Alexander Korda will leave tomorrow for New York. and is due there May 11. He will bring with him prints of "Knights Without Armor," "Storm in a Teacup" and "Farewell Again." He will attend the United Artists regional sales convention in New York June 14.

London Signs Donat

London, May 4.—Robert Donat has been signed by London Films.

20th-Fox in Offer To Roxy's Holders

of a letter from W. C. Michel, executive vice-president of 20th Century-Fox, to Samuel Kramer, counsel for the stockholders' protective committee, stated that although there was no equity for stockholders, "we thought it would be a generous thing on our part to pay something." Class A stockholders paid between $30 and $40 a share at the time of the original issue.

The offer was made to speed the final confirmation of the plan by eliminating the possibility of extended litigation through appeal to the higher court, but leaves the stockholders free to continue their efforts to have an equity declared for them before Special Master Pratt and Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey.

The offer provides that it must be accepted within six months after final approval of the plan by Judge Caffey. It is made only to stockholders who purchased their shares before May 18, 1932, the date of the receivership, and does not provide for holders of more than 150 shares. This is made on a "purely voluntary" basis by 20th Century-Fox and without any "present obligations" to do so.

Subject to Pratt's Approval

Kramer stated that "limited and unsatisfactory as the offer is," the committee would not pursue any appeal from the final decision of Judge Caffey. Special Master Pratt presented a letter received from Michel which stated that the recent improvements to the plan which were agreed to by 20th Century-Fox would not be binding unless a favorable report on the plan is rendered by Pratt before May 15 and final approval is given by Judge Caffey before July 1.

An unexpected complication arose at the hearing when Carlos Israels, counsel for the Pound bondholders' committee, proponents of the plan, stated that he would oppose payment of administration expenses of the equity receiver, Harry G. Koch, which amounts to $18,560.

Laughton may appear opposite Miss Shearer in "Marie Antoinette" as soon as he completes film obligations in England. Garbo is expected to appear in two next season.

One of the big productions from the standpoint of advance preparation and technical detail will be "Kim," from the Rudyard Kipling story. While there is no intimation that this will be a roadshow, the policy of the company is not to make decisions on two-a-day pictures until they are in the final stages of production. For the current year, M-G-M had four roadshows, namely, "The Great Ziegfeld," "Romeo and Juliet," "The Good Earth" and "Captains Courageous." With roadshows coming back strongly, it is not unlikely that the company will have the same number on the 1937-'38 schedule as it had this season.

Product Is Itemized

The partial program, as announced, is as follows:

"Kim," by Rudyard Kipling, co-starring Freddie Bartholomew and Robert Taylor.

"Tell It to the Marines," in which Jean Harlow, Robert Taylor and Spencer Tracy are to be co-starred.

"Rosalie" will be a musical play by William Anthony McGuire and Guy Bolton with Eleanor Powell and Nelson Eddy co-starred.

"Three Comrades," by Erich Maria Remarque, in which Robert Taylor, Spencer Tracy and James Stewart will appear.

"Girl of the Golden West," based on David Belasco's stage play with Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy.

"Idiot's Delight," Pulitzer prize play by Robert E. Sherwood will star Clark Gable, as will "The Great Canadian," story of a hockey player.

In "Spring Tide," play by J. B. Priestley and George Billam will appear Jean Harlow, Robert Taylor and Wallace Beery.

"The Firefly," musical opera by Otto Harbach and Rudolf Friml, will co-star Jeanette MacDonald and Allan Jones.

William Powell and Myrna Loy will be co-starred in "The Return of the Thin Man," written for them by Dashiel Hammett. They will also appear in the Ferenc Molnar comedy, "Great Love."

"Spanish Omelet" and "Wedding Dress" will star Robert Montgomery.

"Stand Up and Fight" is a Wallace Beery starring vehicle.

"Test Pilot," an aviation story by Lt. Comm. Frank Wead, will have Clark Gable and Spencer Tracy as stars.

"The Best Dressed Woman in Paris" is an individual Jean Harlow vehicle.

Joan Crawford will be starred in "Lola Montez," adapted from T. Everett Harre's "The Heavenly Sinner."

"Hats in the Air," a musical by Dwight Taylor with Eleanor Powell in the starring role.

"Merry Christmas" by Norman Krasna is an individual Luise Rainer picture.

As the season gets under way, titles and casts will be filled in along side of contract numbers. The list of 46 titles from which studio executives will round out the program covers many properties included in last year's summary. The list follows:

"The American Flaggs," by Kathleen Norris.

In checking over the 1936-'37 announcement, Freddie Bartholomew was listed in "Kim." Robert Taylor is an addition to the cast on the new program. Gable was scheduled to appear in "Great Canadian" and "No Hero." These titles are again mentioned without casts as possibilities. While the official announcement does not mention Miss Shearer for "Pride and Prejudice" and "Marie Antoinette," the star was slated to appear in these pictures with Laughton in the latter picture. Miss Shearer has not made any pictures since "Romeo and Juliet" but now that she has decided to resume her film career, it is believed she will go through with her original plans.

Jungle Notes from Leo

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—It's "One Take" SAUNDERS now. EDDIE, who, of course, is western district manager, turned song leader for the benefit of the newsreel and led the pack in warbling, loudly if nothing else, "California, Here I Come."

"WILLIE" RODGERS, formally known as WILLIAM F., is now a big shot in the Navajo tribe, as well as in M-G-M. At Albuquerque, the special was met by a band of Indians and, to the music of a Mexican band, RODGERS was made a chief and bedecked with one of the usual elaborate head dresses, feathers and the like. He also was christened with an Indian name, translated loosely as "Young - Man - Not - Afraid - of - Exhibitors."

Impressed, but not too much by the Hollywood beauty brigade turned out as convention greeters, ED BECK, exploiteer out of the Salt Lake City office, immediately went into a defense of and a boost for his home town girls. His claim is Salt Lake possesses more comeliness per acre than Los Angeles avocados. The movement to swing the convention next year to Salt Lake is gaining impetus.

FRANK DREW is Metro's Cleveland manager. He is also a cousin, on his mother's side, of LIONEL and JOHN BARRYMORE and proposes looking them up while here. DREW is the convention's expert in "hearts," which is not what you might think, but a card game.

There is a CARL LIND here. He is a salesman out of Salt Lake and maintains he is in now wise related to his namesake, the eminent bartender in that competitive city to the north, San Francisco.

SID SCHUSTER, San Francisco salesman, meandered from the crowd at the station on the hunt for a sandwich. In place of that, he ended in a Pasadena souvenir shop and returned with a flock of postcards to mail home. So early, too.

The radio influence. BILL ("Dusty Storm") ZOELLNER and that group vaguely identified as "The Convention Crooners" held their own Community Sing until daybreak each A.M. JIMMIE ("Prohibition") BRIENT from New Orleans way, lost his voice at 2 A.M. one morning and was compelled to resort to piano pounding. Which is literal. He did it by foot.

One of the Pullman cars happened to be named "Louis Pasteur." HOWARD DIETZ, SI SEADLER and HOWARD STRICKLING plan a protest.

The solitary straw hat in the aggregation belongs to LOUIS INGRAM, Atlanta salesman, which may mean he believes all he has read and heard about the local climate. In Cincinnati, he created a sort of furore by station-parading, wearing the hat on his head and bedroom slippers in the usual place.

KEN RENAUD, who normally exploits out of Seattle, brought with him two raincoats, one umbrella and a pair of goloshes to be greeted by the hottest day of the spring. Thereafter, he parked the entire ensemble at the station, put on a sport shirt and proceeded to acquire a quick sunburn.

CHARLIE KESSNICH, Southern district manager, is hiding behind a newly developed mustache. His own boys are in cahoots to maintain close scrutiny to the end Kessnich does not fall for the screen test gag and decide to remain here.

HYPPOLITE ARATA—that's his name, so help him—is experiencing three new sensations. The New Orleans booker is on (1) his first train journey, (2) his first convention and (3) his first visit away from his home town.

While the gang generally is properly appreciative of the lens, ELDON BRIWA is not. He avoided the lovelies on the theory a shot might be printed and caught by his frau in New Orleans.

NICK ("Slow Sleeper") LLOYD, one of the Quaker City contingent, maintains the only thing which stopped him from getting enough winks on the way out was the others who get up early.

FRANK JELLENKO, one of the New Orleans gang, thinks he set future fashions with a hot blue polo shirt and made straight for the camera battery.

Lichtman Hits Selling Films At Low Prices

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Al Lichtman, who delivered the opening address today at the M-G-M convention, criticised the selling of pictures at rates not in keeping with the excellence of the product.

"Good motion pictures," said Lichtman, "are being sold too cheaply by the theatres of America. The cost of picture entertainment has not kept pace with the rise of other prices and the rise of wages. Prior to 1930, the average price at a major theatre was 75 cents. Today the price for an evening show is averaged at 40 cents. There is no question but that there is a definite trend on the part of theatres toward higher prices throughout the United States. This is a healthy situation."

The afternoon session was featured by a number of speakers who discussed various subjects. The delegates heard Howard Dietz, Si Seadler, Joe Vogel, Barrett Kiesling, W. R. Ferguson, Alan Cummings and Robert Benchley.

Variety Men Are Named

PITTSBURGH, May 4.—Five national Variety Club representatives have been elected as follows:

LiBeau of Paramount, Kansas City, to represent Des Moines, Omaha, St. Louis and Kansas City; Jack Flynn of M-G-M, Detroit, for Detroit and Buffalo; Harry Goldstein of Paramount, Cleveland, to handle Pittsburgh, Columbus, Cincinnati and Dayton; Marc Wolf of Theatre Managers, Inc., Indianapolis, for Indianapolis, Milwaukee and Minneapolis; Bob O'Donnell of Interstate Circuit, Dallas, for Dallas.

He Trapped Himself

Los Angeles, May 4.—Billy Ferguson, who sends lions and chimps around to trade paper editors' offices and scares stenographers, had a pre-convention experience here as exploitation-wise as any of his own stunts.

Practicing on the Ambassador golf course the other day, he made a drive which sent his ball into a gold fish bowl, smashed the bowl and killed the fish.

The hotel management levied $10 for the bowl.

U. S. Aid to French Is Cited by Smith

Paris, May 4.—The aid which American film interests have given to French producers and the work for Frenchmen provided by the handling of American films were stressed by Harold Smith, representative in Paris of the M. P. P. D. A., in his address before the French Parliamentary Cinema Commission. It is expected that new film legislation in France will result from the study of the situation by the commission.

Smith spoke as the representative of the eight major American distributors.

the awards and what they mean to picture exploitation and said that interest in them had been growing during the past four years.

The winners were brought here by United Airlines plane by Vogel. He said that the interest of studio executives took the trip out of the prize junket class. The winners are being entertained on a full week schedule of receptions at the various studios, views of productions in work, screenings and other diversions, including a barbecue at the Hal Roach ranch with the M-G-M conventioneers.

breakdowns. The lockout will continue to apply against routine inspections.

One of the reasons for the adjournment of the meeting is believed to be the inability of L. W. Conrow, head of Erpi's maintenance operations, to attend the sessions after becoming ill here.

The lockout of service men by the I.A. is in force in Cleveland and St. Louis, as well as here.

I.A. Not Felt in Kansas City

Kansas City, May 4. — The I.A.T.S.E. move to force unionization of Erpi and RCA service men by refusing non-union men admittance to booths has not reached this section as yet.

As soon as word is received, it is indicated, the union will set up a maintenance department for servicing theatres affected, which will be composed of projectionists who have been "studying service and repair of sound equipment the past two years." Obviously the I.A.T.S.E. has been preparing for the unionization move for at least two years.

Add Moviegoer Tours

With the June issue, Loew's Moviegoer will add Richmond, Newark and Wilmington to the circulation list. It is also probable that the publication will be circulated in Boston and Providence.

Identified

Los Angeles, May 4.—The Metro press quarters were a madhouse Sunday, captioning the myriads of photographs shot on the train, at Pasadena and practically everywhere else between that city and the Ambassador.

Barrett Kiesling, press contact for the occasion, was trying to identify a group of three. He spotted the two end men and was puzzled over the one in the middle.

"If it's the one in the middle, he must be an exhibitor," remarked Red Kann.

Televising of Coronation Is Medium's Test

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, April 26.—The television broadcast of the Coronation procession will be by far the most ambitious transmission yet attempted by the British Broadcasting Corp. It is being carefully planned as a demonstration of the possibility of direct news transmission and both in length and in technical details will be ahead of anything previously regarded as possible.

The two outstanding points of the transmission are that it will reproduce the entire two-mile procession passing a given point and that it will be transmitted without the use of an intermediate film. It will therefore be a working model of television as it will be in the perfected state; the instantaneous transmission of an event at the moment of its occurrence. Three Emitron cameras will be used. Frederick Grisewood, chief announcer of the B. B. C., will deliver a running commentary.

Distant and closeup crowd shots are also planned by the B. B. C. as part of a program which will last one hour and will be seen by owners of television receivers in 1/160th of a second after the event. The cost will be about $100,000. Announcement of the program has caused a small boom in the sale of television receiving sets in London.

Several Title Plans Under Consideration

Several recommendations for altering the present provisions governing the length of time during which title registrations remain in effect are under consideration by the M.P.P.D.A. title registration committee, it was stated yesterday. No action has been taken by the committee on any proposal as yet, however, and none is expected for some time to come.

The proposals for new regulations result from some dissatisfaction with the recent change which releases titles two years after being registered. Prior to that change, rights to registered titles could be retained almost indefinitely by their registrants. The new proposals which have been submitted to the committee would extend title rights of registrants to three or four years.

Any change in the present registration provisions approved by the committee would have to be submitted to the M.P.P.D.A. board for confirmation before being placed in effect.

cers have had an opportunity to study it."

Machinists and molders meanwhile applied for negotiation meetings with Casey which are set for Wednesday. The F. M. P. C. explained that the crafts' application for a hearing did not indicate a split in union ranks but merely signified the crafts' wish to present the union shop demand. Some violence was reported at various studios when workers tried to pass through picket lines.

Late today a letter from Ce Soir, French magazine, asked the F. M. P. C. to transmit a message from the Federal Section of the French film industry workers who are members of the French Federation of Labor, to workers in the local industry. The message read: "We are following with close attention your splendid movement for better working conditions and wish you complete success. Fraternal greetings from Federal Section."

French Paper Answered

In answering the letter to Ce Soir F. M. P. C. stated, "The Federation is organized for the purpose of uniting in one single group all workers in Hollywood in production of pictures and comprises over 10,000 members in 11 unions of all categories, fighting for the purpose of being recognized by employers." The letter said that the Federation was forced to go on strike as a last resort because of "bad faith and lack of cooperation" from employers. It expressed confidence in the French organization and suggested that it could aid in winning the strike by refusing to project American pictures in France and by refraining from going to a cinema where they are shown. The letter was signed by Charles Lessing, executive secretary of the Federation.

British Units Still at Odds On Quota Plan

CEA Opposes Cost Basis As Deciding Factor

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, May 5.—The conferees representing the Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors) and the Film Group of the Federation of British Industries have approved use of a minimum cost principle as the determining factor in the application of the quota. The Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n, however, is in favor of the quality clause as recommended in the Moyne committee report on revision of the Films Act, which expires next year.

The decisions reached are expected to be published in the joint statement which will be approved and issued following the final meeting of the representatives of the three major British film groups, which have been holding meetings at intervals for some weeks, to determine the industry's attitude toward the Moyne recommendations.

Variations of the minimum cost basis of quota determination are supported by the F. B. I. and the K.
